Unemployment Office Move Here Dependent on Rental Figure

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Belleville officials are hoping, but the proposed transfer of the regional headquarters of the Unemployment Insurance Commission from Toronto to Belleville has not been definitely confirmed.

Today an advertisement appeared in the Toronto Globe and Mail calling tenders for build — lease proposals for the provision of accommodation for the regional office in Belleville.

But whether or not the regional office comes to Belleville is a matter of economics and will depend on the rental figure for which the Department can get the required accommodation.

Mr. A. A. Stevens, regional director for the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Toronto, told The Intelligencer today that from studies it was felt that Belleville would be a good location for regional headquarters.

If rental-lease bids received for the necessary accommodation were satisfactory, Mr. Stevens said the recommendation would be to move to Belleville.

"From the standpoint of administration and training, the Belleville location would be good," Mr. Stevens said, "but if the move is not economically feasible, then there would be no point."

Mr. Stevens said the federal treasury board had authorized the department of public works to call tenders for the build-lease proposals.

From New York where he is spending the next two weeks as a federal government committee member to the United Nations, Mr. Les Grills, M.P. for Hastings, said he was delighted to learn that tenders for the Unemployment Insurance Commission building in Belleville had been called.

He said if the Toronto office of the UIC was transferred to Belleville, the new job opportunities would be wonderful for the area.

Gil McDermott, director of public relations for the Ontario regional office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, said their requirement would be for a building of between 60,000 and 70,000 square feet to provide office accommodation for about 300 permanent staff.

The regional office is now located in Toronto and one of the reasons for the proposed move to Belleville would be to effect a saving in administration costs.

"We don't deal with the public so the actual location of our office is not too im-

Ambulance Attendants Rush to Aid Shooting Victims

Bullets Fell Trenton Trio

Boy, 12, Races For Aid

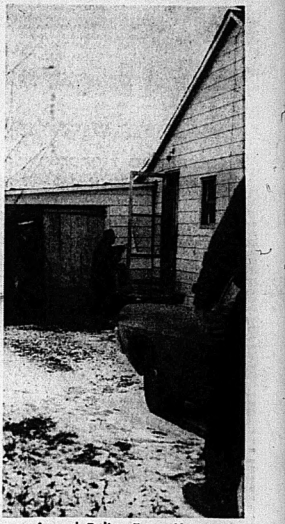
By BOB AVERY and HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporters

TRENTON — Police late today were still probing details of an early-morning shooting here that saw three people cut down by gunfire.

A man, a mother, and her daughter were rushed to hospital in serious condition after armed police ringed a small frame home on the Wooler road.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Nellie Curlette, 47, her daughter, Grace Montroy, 18 and Wayne Montroy, 21, of Orangeville.

Details are still vague on the incident which saw police enter the home with guns drawn after Mrs. Curlette's 12 year-old son, Roger, fled to a nearby school for help.



Stewart Burns, caretaker of North Trenton Public School about 100 yards from the house said the boy came into the school about 8 a.m.

"He was half-crying when he came running in," said Mr. Burns. "I asked him what the trouble was and he told me."

As a result Mr. Burns first phoned the boy's home and spoke to Mrs. Curlette. He asked her if anything was wrong.

"She said she didn't know, but she thought it would be all

Kingston Mother Gets New Kidney

KINGSTON (CP) — Rhoda Leggett, 33, mother of three children, received the kidney of Allan J. Paton, 33, of Toronto Monday in a three-hour operation at Kingston General Hospital.

Paton, a hotel waiter, died in a weekend traffic accident.

Mrs. Leggett, who was reported in satisfactory condition, has lived with an artificial kidney since her kidney was removed a year ago.

Russian Ship Hunts Polar Sea Snakes

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian whaling ship is hunting sea monsters in the Antarctic, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

It said that light brown "snakes," about three feet thick and 50 feet long, were spotted by a helicopter crew from the antarctic whaling fleet in the Indian sector, Tass said.

One was seen making convulsive movements near the surface on the water and another was spotted nearby.

Tass quoted specialists at the Moscow Institute of Oceanography as saying the "snakes" might be the tentacles of giant octopuses or huge seaweed—but we exclude the possibility of some marine animals unknown to man."

Heart Recipient Chokes

MONTREAL (CP) — Gaetan Paris, Canada's longest surviving heart transplant patient, died at his home Saturday—but apparently not of heart trouble.

Dr. Gilles Lepage, one of the Montreal Heart Institute surgeons who performed Mr. Paris' operation, said a preliminary autopsy report indicated death was due to asphyxiation.

Mr. Paris, 49, an electrical designer from nearby Laval, will be buried Wednesday.

Dr. Lepage told a news conference Sunday that Mr. Paris had been "very active during the past few days." But Mr. Paris had complained of loss of appetite and nausea Saturday.

"Around 3:30 p.m., he vomited twice, and at 4:45 p.m., during further vomiting efforts, he experienced acute respiratory distress with cyanosis (blue discoloration) and was dead a few seconds later."

Dr. Lepage said that although exact cause of death was not known, the preliminary report indicated it was thought on by "asphyxia following the aspiration into the lungs of gastric contents."

There was "no indication that death resulted from a heart attack" and the autopsy report showed no signs of rejection or infection.

Private Talks Started

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats have begun private meetings in Paris looking toward the opening soon of the expanded Vietnam peace conference, informed sources said today.

The preliminary U.S.-North Vietnamese discussions are being held in anticipation that the South Vietnamese delegation will arrive later this week. The American and North Vietnamese representatives are reported working on arrangements for a preliminary procedural meeting attended by representatives of the four groups who will sit at the conference: The United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong.

This session would work out the time, place and at least minimum procedures for the formal opening of the conference.

One of the tracks would deal primarily with the military situation and ways to scale down the fighting. The United States would be deeply involved in this bargaining which could produce limited agreements at an early stage.

The other track would involve political affairs in South Vietnam, would be handled mainly by the Vietnamese and would probably move at a close pace for months.

No Record!

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, sporty in turquoise turtleneck sweater and jacket, tried for a record official kickoff in Saturday's Grey Cup game. He didn't come close.

Mr. Trudeau, who had practiced kicking on the back lawn of the prime ministerial residence in Ottawa, booted a low, hard one only five yards into group of photographers crouched in front of him with cameras poised.

He was trying to beat the mark of 40 yards for official kickoffs held by Lord Alexander, former governor-general.

However, Mr. Trudeau's kick was no worse than most of the official kickoffs

Coed Fraternity ?

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The Greek-letter fraternity, one of the last bastions of the university man, has fallen prey to a mini-skirted invasion.

Armed with curtains for the windows, 20 Stanford University coeds have moved into the once all-male Lambda Nu fraternity house.

"This is the only coeducational fraternity that I know of in the world," said Christopher Murlas, house president.

The fraternity brothers have installed full-length mirrors and additional cosmetic shelves in the girls' bathroom, and added skim milk to the menu.

In the return, they have been treated to coed-cooked meals, coed-loaned shirts, coed-sewed buttons — and, of course, the company of the 20 coeds selected by lot from more than 100 applications.

Turbo Trains Ready

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways announced today that its turbine-powered trains will begin operations between Montreal and Toronto Thursday, Dec. 12.

According to Harry Fast, manager of the Rideau area of the CNR, the new turbo train will have virtually no effect on Belleville passenger travel, because the train will not be stopping at Belleville and Brockville, and because of faster curve speeds, it will cut one hour off of the Rapido schedule.

Israel Pounds Jordan In Retaliatory Attack

AMMAN, Jordan (CP) — Israel pounded Jordan with air strikes, commando raids and artillery barrages Sunday and early today, a Jordanian military spokesman said. The Jordanians said at least four persons were killed.

Admitting only a raid by land change, an Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv said commandos cut a highway and railway between Jordan's capital and its only port of Aqaba Sunday by blowing up two bridges 40 miles inside the Arab country.

The Jordanian spokesman said Israeli jets bombed a convoy of trucks on a desert highway Sunday, destroying six. During the night, he continued, jets returned to bomb the village of Kfar Yuba in northern Jordan, killing two soldiers and wounding a third.

The spokesman said helicopters brought the Israeli commandos who blew up 100-foot road and rail bridges on the highway between Amman and the port of Aqaba.

He said two civilians were killed and four were injured, and the helicopters took the commandos out before Jordanian troops arrived.

The Israeli spokesman said the raid was in retaliation for at least 50 Arab sabotage attacks from Jordan since Nov. 15, when King Hussein and the sabotage groups were reported to have reached an agreement restraining the saboteurs.

UIC Office

Officials Enthused by Move

The possible establishment of Ontario regional headquarters of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Belleville was hailed as what could be this morning "the major economic development in Belleville in 15 years."

Ray Brown, city industrial commissioner made the statement following the announcement that tender proposals are being called for a 60,000 to 70,000 square foot office building in Belleville.

About 300 people are expected to be employed at the UIC headquarters when it reaches full operation here.

"With an employee payroll in excess of $1 million a year, quite a bit of commerce will develop in the city," Mr. Brown said

According to the industrial commissioner, "as a estimate, about 150 new jobs in service occupations will be generated by the new government office here.

"Each UIC employee will create a need for about one half a service job in the community," he said. "The decision to move the UIC headquarters here pays a great compliment to our citizens."

"This is a tremendous boost for Belleville," agreed O. F. Bradley of the Chamber of Commerce.

"The UIC headquarters is better for the city than an industry of equal size because it imposes no drain on the tax payer," he added. "This institution will cost the community nothing, but we will reap real benefits."

Mr. Bradley said he understood about 60 per cent of the employees would be women. Although several of these people would be moved to the city from present headquarters in Toronto, many more may be recruited from the Belleville labor force.

H. W. Karn, director of Canada Manpower here, refused to comment on the situation, pending an official government announcement.

J. B. Corke, president of the Downtown Businessmen's Association, envisions no great upsurge in employment in downtown retail stores.

"I'm cheered by news," he said. "This will be a help to the community, and I can see a substantial increase in the sums spent in stores."

However, Mr. Corke believes any new jobs generated by the UIC employees will not be in the downtown area.

Bert Kenny, planning director of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, said it would be "ridiculous for him to comment at this time on the announcement.

"I can't estimate now the influence UIC headquarters might have on community planning," he said.

D. C. Stirling, superintendent of Bay of Quinte District high schools, foresees no great problem in accommodating UIC employees' children in the schools.

"We'll look after them, we always have," he said.

Mr. Stirling said from 200 to 400 children might accompany 300 new employees into a community. He has yet to receive estimates of the number expected to move with UIC personnel.

"We make revisions in time tables or accommodation will be necessary immediately," he predicted.

Voting Action

The advance-poll was light in Trenton on Saturday. Here a gentleman waits his turn at the ballot. Voters throughout Hastings County will elect members to the new regional school boards before the polls close at eight o'clock tonight.

portant," Mr. McDermott told The Intelligencer. "We deal only with administration, logistics and training."

However, in anticipation of the regional UIC office being moved to Belleville Mr. McDermott has been in the city since September.

He said that 10 different localities had been considered for the proposed regional office.

He could not say whether the new accommodation would be a one or two storey building. Neither did he have information regarding possible location.

"It will all depend on what land the builder may have available," Mr. McDermott said.

Construction of a building in Belleville would depend on the price, he said.

Mr. McDermott said the new regional headquarters for the UIC would have no bearing on the local area office which moved to Kingston this year. This office will remain in Kingston.

right," recalled Mr. Burns. "I assumed from that, that everything was not alright and I phoned the police."

"In the meantime, a neighbor told reporters she saw a woman rush out the back door of the house and fall to the ground.

Police arrived and under their protection, Rushnell Armbrust men carried the woman from the driveway and rushed her to hospital.

Officers armed with rifles and tear gas surrounded the house as Chief Robert Easterford and Detective Sidney Vickers marched in the back door.

Mrs. Aubrey Barr, R.R. 4, Trenton, a sister of Mrs. Curlette, said the Montroy's had been married about five months. Mrs. Montroy had been living with her mother at 75 Wooler Road for the past week, believed Mrs. Barr.

Mrs. Curlette has two other children living at home — Eddie, 16, and Anna May, 14. Both children had already left for high school when the incident occurred.

Mrs. Barr believed Roger had been sent on errand to a nearby store. When he returned she said Mrs. Curlette shouted at him not to come into the house.

Mrs. Curlette was transferred to Kingston General Hospital about three hours after the shooting, said Dr. W. A. L. McDonald. He reported all three in critical condition.

Belleville Taxi Firms Increase Rates Dec. 4

Belleville taxi firms have bowed to the inevitable and announced new increased taxi rates to go into effect on Wednesday, December 4.

In a half-page advertisement in The Intelligencer on Saturday, the new rates — the first in 10 years were announced. The reason for the increase was given as increased operational costs.

At the same time tariff rate boundaries have been changed with the city to be divided into five different zones.

Under the present rates the single passenger rate within one zone has been 55 cents. Under the new rates the fare will be 75 cents with an additional 25 cents for the crossing of each internal boundary.

Local taxi firms are opposed to the installation of taxi meters in Belleville, claiming that due to frequent traffic tie-ups during rush hour periods, meters just would not work in Belleville.

Sixty Calls A Minute

Phone calls are coming in at the rate of about 60 an hour in the office of the city clerk at the city hall.

According to Mrs. Alva Reynolds, one of the secretaries, taking the phone calls, "99 per cent of them" are asking where to vote.

She said that the number of phone calls was about normal for an election.

An ad which appeared in the Intelligencer Friday explained to voters what polling sub-divisions they were in, but failed to show the boundaries of the sub-divisions.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said this morning, city hall was "under no obligation to put a map in the newspaper for an election."

According to Mr. Scott, if voters want to know where to vote they can call the various deputies who will know the answer.

He said the polling boundaries change, but this is a normal thing every election. He said a lot of new — in one area is the city to another and forget it was ... to go and vote.

The city clerk's office will be opened until eight o'clock tonight when the polls close, but "this isn't any sudden change."

According to the mayor, the office is opened this way for every election.

Centenarian Honored On 100th Birthday

VENNACHAR — Veronacha's "Aunt Nettie", Her son, Alberta Gregg, was 100 years old last Thursday, November 21, and messages of congratulation came to her from far and near, and people visited her from early morning until evening. Some were from as far away as London, Ottawa, and Shawville, Que.

A telegram came from Buckingham Palace from Queen Elizabeth II. Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau telephoned her during the day. Messages came from Robert Stanfield, from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind; from many of her former pupils, and from other notable people.

Her life has not been an easy one. Born in Kingston and orphaned when an infant, she was adopted by her uncle James Stalker of Plevna, and when that home was broken up by death, went to Vennachar at 16 to work for her living. Here she met and married Robert Gregg, sod Vennachar has been her home ever since. Her education was obtained in Plevna, and in Kingston where she was sent by her uncle and aunt.

Mrs. Gregg had four children, two of them surviving. Her son Charles lost his life at Vimy Ridge and her daughter, Golda Belle Barr, died about 16 years ago. She makes her home now in Vennachar with her son Francis and his wife. Mrs. J. S. Martin of Kingston, and Mrs. Rosenblath of Vennachar and Mrs. Marie Duke of Kingston. Also there were her great - grandchildren Norma and John Harvey of Napanee, Richard and Roy Rosenblath of Vennachar and Jacqueline (Jackie) Hamilton of London.

Messages of some form came from all other surviving members of her family, There were many gifts, including flowers, but the greatest gift, she said, was the gift of love and affection brought by each visitor or sent in some form.

Maestro Is Pop Fan

Karel Ancerl, 60-year-old Czech conductor who will take over the Toronto Symphony Orchestra next September, likes pop music as well as the classics. He's seen in his suburbian Toronto home listening to a Bob Dylan record with son Ivan, 20, who introduced his father to such modern sounds as those made by the Rolling Stones and Beatles. "It's stupid to call this new music rubbish.," Ancerl says. "It's extremely interesting, and vital in the development of youth mentality." (CP Photo)

Shopping A Problem

Older Persons Have Difficulty

"Those who plan to assist an aging person or couple at Christmas time find it difficult to decide just what to do," said Mrs. Seymour Bochenek, volunteer director of the Christmas Exchange.

Mrs. Bochenek outlined the difficulties which older persons face daily in ... food and other necessities.

"The older person," she said, "is not used to shopping in the modern supermarket, and some of these people continue to find it a terrifying experience."

"Although some stores make special efforts to meet the needs of the older person living alone, there are some whose merchandising is definitely oriented to the family of four to six.

"How often have you seen a package of just one pork chop at the meat counter? The grower doesn't produce small heads of lettuce to can help it, and even tomatoes come in tubs of four."

Mrs. Bochenek explained that the person often tends to do one of three things — shopping at a corner store which is a little more expensive, buying larger quantities than needed at a supermarket and buying those foods that are automatically small in quantity thus ensuring an unbalanced diet.

"Whatever the choice, it is an expensive one," said Mrs. Bochenek.

The Christmas exchange, she said, cannot solve the problems facing older persons the year round, but can point out the necessity for knowing what cooking and refrigeration facilities they have available, before preparing a Christmas food hamper.

"For those with only a single hot plate, a small chicken can be pre-cooked. On the other hand, if refrigeration is also limited, tinned ham is a reasonable and a seasonable alternative."

According to Mrs. Bochenek, many older couples prefer to have their Christmas dinner at home in familiar surroundings.

"Christmas is a personal and a family occasion and one must consider the preferences of the aging couple before suggesting the alternative of dinner at a restaurant or with strangers."

The Christmas exchange's 1968 pamphlet has a number of helpful suggestions for families and groups who plan to assist a family at Christmas time. Copies may be obtained by phoning 962-9531 anytime.

IN MEMORIAM

HENRICKS — In loving memory of our loving brother and uncle Joel Frederick, accidentally killed Dec. 3, 1967, age 18.
We think of him in silence,
We speak of him in vain,
There's not one hour's sorrow,
But his picture on the wall,
No one knows the pain we have you,
In our memory you are near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always.
Sadly missed by Mom and Dad.

HENRICKS — In loving remembrance of our dear son Joel accidentally killed Dec. 2, 1967, age 18.
The little knew when we woke that morn,
The sorrow the day would bring,
For the call was sudden,
The shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
One heart and heart your has passed,
Since our great sorrow fell,
What it meant to lose you,
No one will ever tell,
You rode on one last farewell,
Nor even said goodbye,
You were gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why,
The broke our hearts to lose you,
But you didn't go alone,
For part of us went with you,
The day God took you home.
Sadly missed by Mom and Dad.

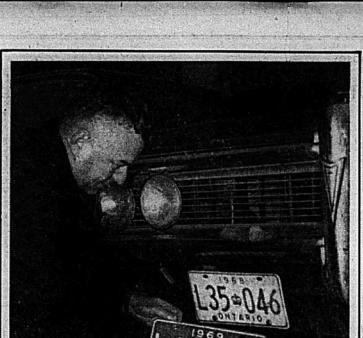
ISOC Report Still Not Ready

PICTON (Staff) — It will be at least two weeks before the recommendations made by the Prince Edward Interim School Organization Committee will be made public.

One of the committee members Danford McCrae admitted at a meeting Wednesday night that "we are a little slow."

At the meeting many of the recommendations were discussed and written down. Another committee member Jim Ploneer said that the biggest problems were in the transportation and finance areas.



Chairman of the Prince Edward ISOC committee Malcolm Dulmage released a statement yesterday indicating the board's intentions in regards to the forthcoming ISOC report and recommendations.

"Owing to the quantity of statistical information accumulated over the past 18 months, which the ISOC committee has been reviewing, a master copy of the committee's deliberations and suggestions will not be released until the incoming board of education's inaugural meeting."

"Until this information is recopied in tabloid we prefer to withhold it from the public at this time," he stated.

However Mr. Dulmage did say that some of the recommendations that will be made will be very different from those made by other committees in other counties.

"It should be a very interesting report," he finished.

Morley Pascoe, Wright Ave., was one of the first in line this morning as 1969 auto licence plates went on sale at the Front Street licence bureau.

Licence Costs Increase

Auto licence plates for 1969 will cost an additional five to 10 dollars, but the inflationary trend apparently doesn't affect a few early birds who waited in line as the new markers went on sale in Belleville today.

Licence issuer George Olsen said that at least 15 motorists were waiting to purchase their new markers when they went on sale this morning.

For the motorists who haven't heard the bad news, 1969 markers for an eight cylinder car will cost $35 — up $10 from last year. Six cylinder car licences will cost $27.50 — an increase of $7.50 and four cylinder autos will cost $20 — up $5 from last year.

There will be no extension from the customary Feb. 28th deadline for use of 1968 plates. This year's bus and truck licences will expire on March 31.

Schools Should Adapt To Student: Teachers

The adage, "The schools should adapt to the student, not the student to the school" is the broad statement which will shape future educational policy in Ontario.

This and other topics of interest to teachers and the public were discussed at length during the annual dinner meeting of the newly-formed Quinte Technical Teachers' Association Nov. 27 at Belleville Armories.

The guest speaker, D. E. Loney, assistant superintendent of the curriculum branch of the department of education stressed the importance of technological education in modern society.

Mr. Loney compared technical knowledge and technique to the hub of a wheel, with co-related subjects, such as mathematics, science, design, geography even religion, forming the spokes. Only through refinitation of the importance of technology in the scheme of things could a well-rounded education be provided for students.

The Hall-Dennis report is already being implemented in many schools in the province, although, as yet, only in a limited sense, the teachers were told.

Living and Learning, has definitely not been adopted as official department of education policy, but it is almost certain that part, if not all, of the reports' recommendations will be used in formulating educational guide-lines in the near future.

With the introduction of the credit system in the ungraded school whole new concepts emerge for schools — resource centres open 24 hours a day and computerized, and individual time-tables.

The speaker was asked if the department of education intended to "phase itself out of the picture" and leave everything up to the new boards. Mr. Loney replied that this will not be the case, and the department hopes to assume a leadership role in providing guide-lines and information for the assistance of the county boards.

The next meeting of the technical teachers' association is scheduled for Feb. 19 at the Ontario School for the Deaf, and it is hoped that all teachers interested in furthering technological education will attend.

McFarland Staff Signs Agreement

PICTON (Staff) — The H. J. McFarland Construction Company has now been unionized it was announced yesterday.

After many months of negotiations an agreement has been signed between H. J. McFarland and the International Labor's Union Local 247.

The agreement will cover McFarland employees in Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Leeds and Grenville counties.

The announcement came from union official J. G. Moulton yesterday.

"This agreement will be beneficial to our community and also to the employees of the company. We trust this will result in good relations," he stated.

For the past four years the same union had a contract with the McFarland Company operations in the Ottawa area.

Voting Light In Belleville

Voters go to the polls today to elect a 16 - member Hastings County Board of Education and a 14 member combined counties separate school board.

Voting in Belleville until noon today was described as "very light" by Adam Stalker, returning officer for the city.

In contrast, he said voting in the advance polls Friday and Saturday was "moderate".

A veteran city political observer defined "very light" voting as a turn-out of about 15 to 20 per cent of the electors.

Although the temperature was mild, a light drizzle this morning might have discouraged voters.

Despite the furor that erupted a year ago when creation of county-wide boards was announced, interest in the election of trustees is low across the province.

In York, near Toronto, the vote is expected to be only 10 to 15 per cent of those eligible.

Belleville property owners are being asked to vote on the feasibility of a community centre-area, and all eligible voters can express their opinion on an extension of the mayor and council's term of office to three years for one term only.

Elections for reeves and municipal councillors are also taking place in some centres in the county.

Voting hours across the province are from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. tonight.

$1,200 Damage In Accident

If you're a boater at this time of year you really have to keep your eyes open to avoid a collision with automobiles.

Dry land was no safe place for a boat Saturday when a car came into collision with it at the corner of Victoria Avenue and Lodge Drive.

According to police a vehicle driven by [illegible] Dashwood, of Ameliasburg came into collision with the parked boat which rammed into a parked vehicle ahead of it.

Damage to the two cars amounted to an estimated $300.

A Name That Means "A GREAT DEAL"

How can we explain the sudden popularity of Seagram's 5 Star?

Easy.

Easy tasting. Easy to look at. Easily the best value among Canadian whiskies. And when you think it has Seagram name on it, no wonder so many are happily switching to 5 Star. Now that we've explained it, get the proof. That's the real easy part.

CMHA Jubilee

The Canadian Mental Health Association, on the occasion of its golden jubilee, has issued an interesting book of essays.

Entitled "Probings,"-itself a reflection of the continuing search for truth that marks the healthy mind, the book contains contributions by a wide range of Canadian writers and others prominent in the artistic life of the country. They include Pierre Berton, Arnold Edinborough, Claude Ryan, artist Harold Town, artist-photographer Roloff Beny and many others. There are also contributions by Prime Minister Trudeau and Lord Thomson of Fleet.

And in an age when communication — talking it out — is playing such an important part in the maintenance of mental health and satisfactory human relationships, the introductory essay has a touch of irony.

"The worst thing that can happen to an organization," the essay notes, "is that it loses contact with the people it was set up to help in the first place." Indeed, perish the thought — in this era when to exorcise the spectres of the subconscious is to indulge in talk, and more talk, group therapy and so on. In any event, the association notes it is satisfied with its public image and has kept pace with contemporary thinking in the field of mental health.

"Fifty years ago when it was inaugurated," the writer points out, " 'mental health' was a dirty word. It is very hard to believe, here and now in 1968, that the very idea of helping someone with severe problems of a disordered mind was an advanced concept. We should be aware today of similar concepts before they take us by surprise."

Rather than the usual chronicle of facts and statistics, "Probings" will go down as a valuable contribution to the literary art of our day. Not least about its concept is the book's simplicity of design and printing. The Mental Health Association is to be commended for this fine publication, not to mention the work it has performed in half-a-century of service to Canadians whose greatest need, if the truth be known, is more warmth, compassion and simple joy.

Safe-Driving Week

Every week should be a safe driving week — but this is the week in particular which traditionally is designated as such. And it helps save lives, as statistics show.

In December last year 146 people lost their lives in traffic accidents in Ontario. The average number of deaths was 36.5 per week, but the number dropped during Safe-Driving Week to 28.

Here are some of the principles of safe or defensive driving, as outlined by the provincial department of transport. Remember them not only this week, but every week: Keep both hands firmly on the wheel, and both eyes on the road; Never tailgate; on wet, snowy or icy roads, reduce speed well below posted speed limits; always signal intentions well in advance; slow down before entering curves; be alert for oncoming cars — they often cross the centre line; never pass on hills or curves — on straightaways pass only when positive the way is clear; do not drive under the influence of alcohol; keep the car in good operating condition; always fasten seat belts and lock car doors.

Summing up, the department's recommendation is to drive defensively, be ready for the unexpected, know what to do to avoid an accident.

Close To Mental Collapse

British Journalist A Pawn in the Hands of Peking Regime

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The public outcry against the detention in China of Reuters news agency correspondent Anthony Grey has reached such a pitch in Britain that the government has reacted to the extent of saying it is trying to do everything possible to get his release.

But while Britain states it will bring pressure to bear on Peking, the sad and pitiful element is that the public is well aware there is little Britain can do. Mere words and protests do not seem to have much impact on the Communist Chinese administration and any hint of gunboat diplomacy may merely bring a ripple of laughter from Chinese lips.

It appears evident that if Grey is to be released, it will be done on Chinese terms. And while there have been unconfirmed reports of what China wants, the demands are by no means certain or limited.

At first it appeared that Grey, 30, had been grabbed and detained as a reprisal for the arrest in Hong Kong of eight Chinese journalists found guilty of engaging in riots. These have served their terms and have been released. But Grey, an innocent bystander in a cruel Oriental chess game, is still imprisoned in a room in his Peking house under circumstances which suggest his mind is nearing the breaking point.

There have been reports China now wants a further 13 Chinese journalists and associates released from Hong Kong prison sentences. The view among Hong Kong authorities is that premature release will merely encourage the Chinese to foment more riots that would take the lives of many persons.

By the time these latter prisoners are freed, Grey may be a broken man. He has been under detention for 16 months. Other persons in other prisons get a chance to work and study. Grey's reading material has been rigidly controlled. When he recently was seen by British diplomats, they found him in a high state of mental tension. Those who know the situation say Grey may collapse at any time.

While the British roar may merely bring a yawn in Peking, the view in London is that world opinion—and more particularly the influence of Canada and Pakistan—may have more impact. Pakistan has close relations with Peking and the fact that Canada does some trade with China and may be considering the possibility of diplomatic recognition is seen in London as the kind of leverage that may be worth emphasis.

Realism would suggest, however, that in the end China will get its way. China has the habit of ignoring world opinion. It appears likely that the greater pressure will finally have to be switched to Hong Kong to release Chinese prisoners or undertake other actions that would please Peking.

Otherwise Grey's mind and his life may become just another symbol of the current inadequacy and impotency of civilized diplomacy.

Make me a child again just for tonight!"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 2, 1948.

Customs returns for the month of October were approximately $200,000 greater than the same period for last year, according to figures released today by Customs Collector Lt. Col. E. A. Geen. Returns for the month were $905,406.62 as compared with $707,671.81 for the same period last year.

In keeping with the current trend for many of the smaller factories in the district to cease operation, the Glen cheese factory east of Ivanhoe in Huntingdon township will not operate next year.

At a meeting of the Belleville and District Rotary Exchange held at City Hall, it was unanimously decided to move the present offices to the Chamber of Commerce. Freeman Burrows will now be in charge of the office and all plans and specifications of building projects will be on file in this office for the use of members only.

December 2, 1938.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Edgar Maybee, Grove St., celebrated the 55th anniversary of their wedding yesterday and received the congratulations and good wishes of many friends.

Phyllis Mills of Shannonville left yesterday for Ottawa where she will enroll in the Dominion Provincial Youth Training School of educational courses sponsored by the Dominion Government.

40 YEARS AGO

At a meeting of the Dominion Dairy Conference in Ottawa Mackenzie Robertson of this city was named one of the representatives of the National Dairy Council from the province of Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Fox of Sockeldol, Sidney township, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding on Nov. 27. Many guests were present to extend congratulations and express good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Fox.

The Ban is Lifted: Cakes iced with sugar will be here for Christmas! Puffed rice will also make its appearance again. Cake makers here have received notice from Ottawa lifting the ban.

Sartorial Dilemma

St. Catharines Standard

In the less than 60 days of decisions facing U.S. President-elect Nixon before he assumes office on January 20, one question of some delicacy is whether or not to wear formal attire — cutaway and topper — in the oath-taking ceremony and inaugural parade through Washington. Though it is hardly a momentous matter it has its awkward side if he wishes to follow custom because four years ago President Johnson ignored precedent by taking the oath in a black business suit and donning a homburg for the parade.

Should Republican Mr. Nixon cut out the cutaway and opt for a business suit, some people will think it me-too-ism on an example set by a Democrat. On the other hand, if he turns out in full rig and Mr. Johnson who made do with less, sticks to everyday rig, they will look an odd pair. And if Mr. Johnson reverts to cutaway and topper, he may risk being thought a sartorial turncoat. The circumstances call for a carefully tailored solution, but what?

Fluoridation Shows What It Can Do

Brockville Recorder and Times

Brockville people who have been using fluoridated water supplies for more than a decade will be interested in the recent findings of an Ohio research group. The group was studying the effects of fluoridated water on children.

In 1955, when the city started to add fluoride to the water, the average DMF (decayed, missing or filled teeth) was 6.1 teeth per child. Today, sticks to everyday rig, they will look an odd pair. And if Mr. Johnson reverts to cutaway and topper, he may risk being thought a sartorial turncoat. The circumstances call for a carefully tailored solution, but what?

Algonquin Project

Where Commercialism Threatens

Kingston Whig-Standard

According to R. B. Loughlan, manager of the Ontario Forest Industries Association, logging is a necessary form of forest management. "Without it there will be chaos, a wilderness slum" he told a Toronto audience recently. This is a prime example of the arrogant "logic" used by many Canadians to justify what has become a degrading, de-naturalizing invasion of nature resulting in polluted rivers and lakes, decimated wildlife species and the commercial exploitation of our parks.

It is significant that Mr. Loughlan was commenting on the Ontario Department of Land and Forests master plan for logging operations in Algonquin Park. The plan calls for extensive zoning of the park's 2,910 square miles, no logging in July or August and the establishment of primitive zones where no machines can be used. It is encouraging to see that the Government is meeting stiff resistence from members of the Algonquin Wildlife League. These people want more primitive land and would like to see the gradual phasing out of all commercialism in the park.

Those who have been urging the creation of more wilderness areas and the protection from commercial invasion of those now in existence cannot afford to slacken in their efforts. Canada is already paying too high a price for policies based on short-term economic objectives and political expediency.

Movies' Deteriorating Image

Windsor Star

Movies are better than ever — was the slogan adopted by the movie-making industry when television began to cut into the entertainment field, especially at the box office.

But at a glance over today's entertainment pages in the daily newspapers and the movie listings one would question the slogan. Not only is the slogan questionable as far as intent is concerned, but the calibre of movies leaves something to be desired if one is searching for good family entertainment.

Most of today's movies are classified as adult entertainment or admission is restricted to persons 18 years of age or over. Sex, violence and bloodshed are the order of the day for modern movie makers.

Even comedy has to be filled with sex and suggestive scenes before being a hit. The era of slap-stick comedy and cartoons enjoyable for all has vanished.

While the picture-making industry is apparently thriving at the box office, the type of movie being offered too often is not suitable for family viewing.

Priorities

Richard Needham in the Globe and Mail

Reading the newspapers, I learn that there is great poverty in Canada, that the Indians are living in squalor, that there is a severe shortage of housing, and that the Federal Government is paying $150,000 for a second-hand submarine from the United States.

If the Communists or big industrial interests are behind the fluoridation, as the opponents of it claim, they still have a long way to go before completely stifling the fluids of the nation. . .or isn't 23 years a sufficient test?

The Hippies

An Eccentric Cult

Letter to The Windsor Star

Is it not an extremely obvious fact that these so called "Flower Children" are actually mentally and emotionally disturbed and definitely in need of some type of help and discipline.

Even a person who is only half educated realizes that our society sets standards and to for or from these standards is an average, stereotype individual in every generation and there are those who are inclined to think one can stray from that average. When these limits are exceeded by any individual they are definitely classed as either an eccentric, a freak or just plain mentally ill. Which category is society going to choose for the hippies?

We must wake up and bring this acute social problem under proper control. We must set up clinics to deal with these disturbed misfits before the monster is created that will destroy us.

I do think I am being too severe, contemplate this aspect for a moment. LSD and other hallucinatory drugs are very likely to produce idiots, cripples and deformed creatures in the future. And the cause. So say the experts and their latest scientific experiments. There is good evidence that these drugs, after extended use will turn even the strongest physical and mental specimen into a vegetable by the time he or she is 30 years or so. This is the weird, unknown aspect of it all which nobody will understand until it is too late. How it can be ignored remains the biggest mystery of all.

M.S.C.

Are They Necessary?

It's a good question, that one Don Mazankowski (PC --Vegreville) asked in the Commons recently about the 26 rooms the prime minister's office has reserved in Claridge's Hotel in London for a Commonwealth conference in January.

Mr. Mazankowski's question simply was this, why the need for such "extraordinary accommodation," particularly in view of the government's alleged cutbacks in spending.

The question is reported to have gone unanswered, and not for the first time. The Alberta MP should keep trying until he gets an answer. Does the prime minister require a retinue of perhaps 25 persons, as this hotel booking suggests?

Minority Stimulus Is Gone

Poor Attendance Marks Commons Sittings

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Majority government has revived the Commons T-to-T club.

T-to-T refers to MPs who attend Commons sittings Tuesday to Thursday and stay home for long weekends running from Friday to Monday, inclusive.

MPs of all parties conceded that the membership of the T-to-T club hasn't been stronger since the mid-1950s, just before the 1956 pipeline debate.

Commons attendance has held up well during the last decade because of the proliferation of minority governments elected in 1957, 1962, 1963 and 1965.

In the years of the huge Conservative majority from 1958 to 1962, attendance was good because then prime minister Diefenbaker insisted on it.

With the advent of Prime Minister Trudeau's majority government, there is little prospect of the Liberals being beaten in a Commons vote. This prospect had overshadowed previous governments from 1962.

MPs say another reason for poor attendance is the weekly air-travel pass to home ridings.

One MP said: "Before the free weekly ticket, Maritimers and Westerners couldn't get home for weekends and they stuck around Ottawa. Now we can't depend on them any more to hold up attendance on Mondays and Fridays."

It is not unusual now for attendance in the House on Monday and Friday to be no more than 50 or 60, including five or six of the 28 cabinet ministers. There is only one vacancy in the 264-member chamber.

Commons committees seldom meet on these days because many would fail to reach a quorum.

Even on Tuesdays and Thursdays, the chief committee days, attendance has been falling.

The 36-member Commons defence committee, for instance, finished its January sitting this week with only five members present though the quorum is 16.

On the same day in the Commons, attendance for a special debate on the Nigerian civil war slumped at times to only 21, one above the quorum.

Wednesday morning is the time set aside for the meetings of party caucuses. The Commons does not sit Wednesday evening.

Some MPs are suggesting that the Commons cancel most of its Wednesday afternoon sittings to provide more time for committee sessions.

The Comflons Thursday sitting this week was cancelled for just this purpose as an experiment.

So much work is being given committees—spending appropriations of all departments and nearly all legislation—that business for the Commons itself is tending to run dry.

Some MPs say this may result in even poorer Commons attendance.

Tack Shop Opens

A new shop of particular interest to local horse lovers and to race horse enthusiasts has opened in Belleville this weekend.

It is a new tack shop on lower Front Street in the former War Surplus Store with race horse owners Cliff Howie and George Thomas as proprietors, and is a move on their part to establish the sport they love as a full time occupation.

In addition to saddles, halters, bridles, blankets and other outfitting paraphernalia, the shop will carry a line of smokes, soft drinks and magazines.

The two tack shop co-partners are died-in-the-wool race horse enthusiasts who in the past two years have seen their 11-year-old pacer Leo Law take on the best at Ontario's major tracks and come home as something more than a frequent winner.

Their horse was ruled the "horse of the year" at the Belleville track and this year has been racing regularly at Greenwood, Mohawk and at Garden City tracks.

The success of their pacer is all the more remarkable in that when he was purchased two years ago from Joe Hogan of Wolfe Island, the horse was considered to have had his day at the track.

Since then, with Al Wadell of Toronto as driver and trainer, the Belleville pacer has surpassed even the hopes of his owners.

A.N.A.F. Weekly News

The last general meeting of 1968 will be held Dec. 12. As it is also nomination night for the 1969 executive it is important that as many members as possible turn out.

A member must either be present or notify the president in writing if he is willing to stand for election.

Some members have not turned in the necessary information for the Children's Christmas Party and the president asks that this be turned in right away.

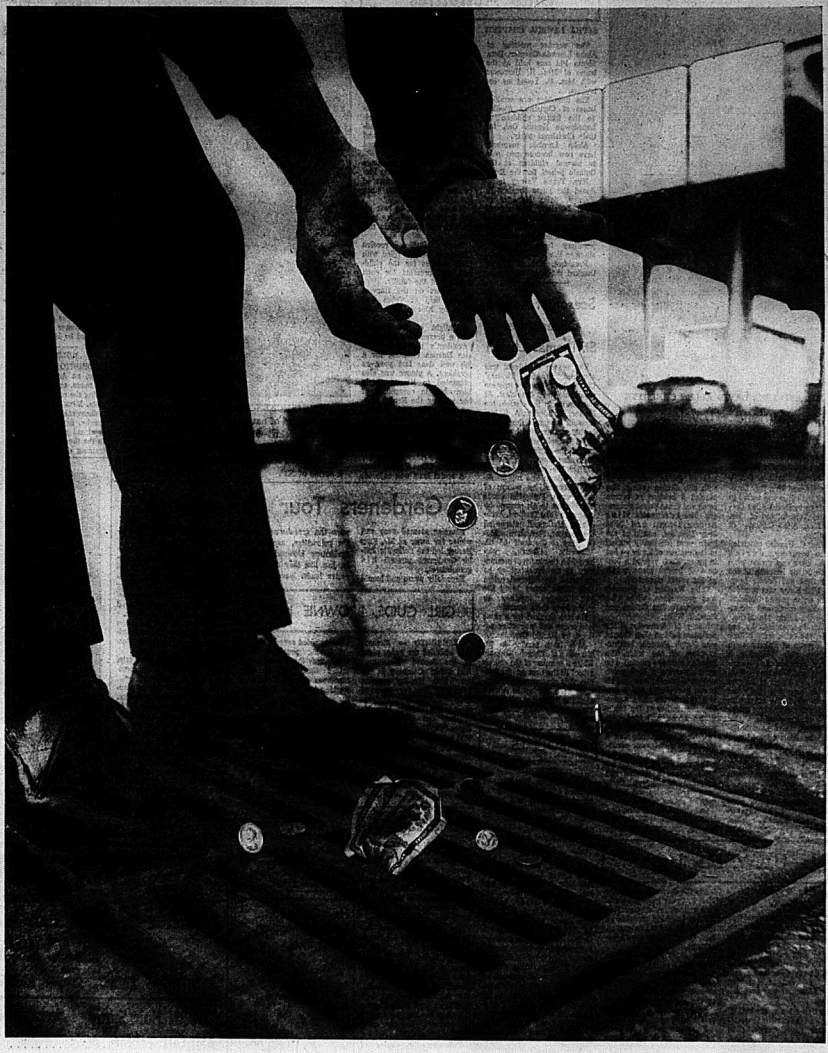
The new membership board is coming right along. Dues are being accepted now. Your names will be inscribed on the name plate ready for posting.

District Forester Appointed

TWEED—A. Peacock, with the department of lands and forests at Chapleau in Northern Ontario, has been appointed as district forester at Tweed with his new duties to commence at the first of the new year.

Mr. Peacock succeeds Norman Patrick who was transferred to head office a month ago after three years as district forester at Tweed. For the past month Bert Dunn has been acting district forester.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES



13th BELLEVILLE CUBS

Last week the Cubs of the 13th Belleville Cub Pack Holy Rosary treated their fathers to a turkey dinner at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Harold Lyons, Akela, and his wife Barbara and son Mark, Dick Bashall and son Mark sat at the head table along with new chairman Gerry Halpin, his two sons Regan and Ross, Mrs. Rita Halpin of the Mothers' Auxiliary and Father George of Holy Rosary Parish.

Following the dinner a presentation was made to Harold Lyons and to Tim Gauthier for his father who was unable to attend.

Good mileage is many things. Like spark plugs.

Just one misfiring spark plug could cut your mileage by 10%. That means you could waste a gallon in every tankful. For every 500 miles you drive, you could be paying for 50 miles more than you should.

Find a mileage expert

Find a Shell dealer. Mileage is his business.

Let him check your spark plugs regularly. If he recommends a change, new Shell/Champion plugs can be installed while you wait. (You'll soon recover the cost of the plugs with the gasoline you save.)

And be sure to ask him for a free copy of 32 Secrets.

It's a book of tips on how to go as far as possible on every gallon of gasoline. When everything is right with your car and your driving habits, then Super Shell can really show off.

Super Shell for good mileage

Super Shell has five ingredients for good mileage.

(1) Platformate contains extra-energy petroleum molecules.

(2) TCP works to keep spark plugs from misfiring.

(3) Butane helps you start quickly. And the quicker you start, the less gasoline you waste before you get going.

(4) A detergent fights deposits that can build up inside the carburetor. These deposits hurt your mileage.

(5) Mixed Pentanes help your engine warm up quickly to prevent misfiring, bucking, coughing and wasted fuel. In any weather.

It's for people who want to go farther.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID ALLEN CURLETTE

Curlette – Loveless

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Belleville was the setting for the November 23rd wedding ceremony when Rae Ann Norma Loveless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Loveless of Belleville was united in marriage to David Allen Curlette of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Curlette of Cannifton.

Father C. Gazeley officiated at the ceremony, during which, altar boy duties were performed by brothers of the bride Bert and Lennie Loveless. Phil Kirby who presided at the organ played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mr. Mann.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Paloma satin in A-line style featuring a scooped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves enhanced with an insert of Belgian lace. A sweeping cathedral train to match the dress with an insert of Belgian lace extended from the shoulders. Her headdress was of re-embroidered lace petals adorned with seed pearls which was caught to a four-tier silk illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses interspersed with stephanotis and fern.

Mrs. Leah Wardley of Bancroft as matron of honor wore an Empire styled gown featuring a golden shade silk velvet bodice with crepe A-line skirt accented with a panel falling from a self bow at back of the dress. The empire waistline was outlined with a band of velvet ribbon. Her headdress was of golden velvet loops with silk illusion veiling. She carried a bouquet of bronze poms and green velvet streamers. The bridesmaids Miss Barbara Latham and Miss Judy Loveless, cousin of the bride were identically attired to the matron of honor — but in green. Each carried a bouquet of bronze poms with golden velvet streamers.

Master of ceremonies at the reception held in Club Canara was Ralph Patrick, brother-in-law of the bride. The bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a light green two-piece dress suit with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Assisting, the mother of the bridegroom chose a golden two-piece suit with gold brocade hat, black accessories and a corsage of pale green carnations.

For the wedding trip, the bride donned a tailored suit in green and brown fleck, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

U.C.W. Meeting

UNIT 1, FRANKFORD U.C.W.

Unit one of the Frankford U.C.W. met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Morrow. The meeting was opened with music rendered by Mrs. Morrow. President Mrs. Pyear welcomed everyone and read an inspiring poem. Business was then discussed.

On December 3, the U.C.W. will hold a Christmas social meeting, for all women of the church community to attend. Mrs. J. Beach and Mrs. R. Osterhout conducted the worship services. Mrs. Osterhout led in the devotions, and later Mrs. J. Pyear gave the scripture reading. Mrs. Osterhout brought inspiring thoughts on the theme, and led in prayer. Mrs. C. Partington gave a vocal solo.

The Bible study, on "the prophets" was led by Mrs. J. Beach. An open discussion followed on the theme. Mrs. Morrow gave a vote of thanks to the ladies responsible for the program. Mrs. Pyear led in a closing prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. W. Morrow and assisted by Mrs. J. Pyear and Mrs. W. Sanderson.

ALPHA LAMBDA CHAPTER

The regular meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi was held at the home of Mrs. R. Burrowes with Mrs. C. Young as co-hostess.

The members are sending boxes of Christmas goodies to the Indian children at Lansdowne House, Ont. for their Christmas party.

Alpha Lambda members have now become pen pals to several children at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Mrs. Frank Varney introduced the guest speaker R. Fargey, Sales Manager of Avon Jewellery who showed a film and gave a most interesting and informative talk on the production of jewellery from the rough stage to the finished product.

Season of Advent Observed at St. Thomas Church

The season of Advent was observed in St. Thomas' Church by a most corporate communion and breakfast. At the service in the church, the Rector, Archdeacon A. S. McConnell, who was the celebrant, was assisted by Canon J. V. Temple with the reading of the Epistle by Lieut. Alexander Rosh.

After the service some 70 men sat down to a full breakfast prepared by women of the Church. Following words of welcome to all present by chairman John Trafford, Archdeacon McConnell introduced the speaker, Rev. James McGillivrey of the staff of St. Michael's Church who brought a fine touch of ecumenicity to the breakfast as he discussed the different church that might either bring the two Churches together or might keep them apart.

He was thanked for a most interesting and instructive address by Harold Arnold.

At a later service in St. Thomas's Church, Jimmie White a member of the church school lit the first Advent candle. This observance will continue each Sunday in Advent until the lighting of the Christmas candle on Christmas morning.

SOCIALS

AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mitts of Ivanhoe will be "At Home" to friends, relatives and neighbors on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, December 7 from 2 to 4 and 8 to 10 p.m.

Previous to the marriage of Mrs. David A. Curlette (nee Rae Ann Loveless) she was honored at a bathroom and linen shower with hostess Barb Latham and at a kitchen shower with hostess Mrs. L. Wardley and co-hostess G. Messer. The bride was also honored at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Faye Kline and Miss Brenda Begley, when co-workers of the Bell Telephone attended. A gift was also presented by the girls of the Bell Telephone. The bride's mother entertained at a dinner party in honor of the bride and bridegroom, and the bridegroom's parents entertained the bridal party following rehearsal.

KINETTE CLUB

The November meeting of the Kinette Club of Belleville was held at the Queen's Hotel on Monday evening which was opened by president Lois Akey.

Seventeen members were in attendance, with four prospective Kinettes, Mrs. Charles MacLean, Mrs. Ken Candler, Mrs. Tom Harkness and Mrs. Bob Rochon introduced to the club.

Two inter club meetings one in Tweed and one in Picton were well represented by the Belleville Club since the last meeting.

It was decided to look after seven families, registered with the CNIB again this year.

These families receive Christmas baskets filled with food, candies for the children, and presents for each member of the family.

A report on the Harvest Dance, held at Tobes was given by Kinette May Jackson.

Highlight of the evening was a presentation of a past president's plaque to Kinette Deanna Canning, for a job well done last year as president. A plaque was also presented to Kinette Gayle Burroughs in recognition of her winning the Ernest Robert trophy for best editorial in the Kinette Clubs in District Six which consists of about 13 clubs.

A social hour was enjoyed.

Gardeners Tour Greenhouse

Summer seemed near and winter far away as Mr. Sian Barden led the Belleville Junior Gardeners through his greenhouses.

Especially warm and humid were the greenhouses where the poinsettias, azaleas and cyclamens bloomed profusely, just like they do in their native lands. Novelty plants, attracted the Junior members.

In a greenhouse, one can garden all year round. The temperature was lower in the greenhouse where the chrysanthemums thrived. Duplicating nature is the key to the greenhouse growers success and Mr. Barber does just that.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

DESERONTO — Mothers who attended the badge night of the Lions Hall Monday evening must have been very proud of their daughters' achievements, and Captain Mrs. M. Morden and her assistant, Joyce VanVlack also shared that pride.

Badge winners were: Patti Bongaard, Terri Lee Brownlng, Georgina Bruce, Maurena Cassidy, Beverley Coles, Bonnie Hutchison, Nancy Peets, and Nora Witkowski. Each were awarded several badges.

Following presentation of the badges the Guides entertained their mothers with humorous skits, while Guides working toward their Hostess badges prepared refreshments.

The table was attractive, with blue and gold colors stressed. The centre of 'mums in those colors was afterwards presented to Mrs. Joyce VanVlack, division commissioner, by Nora Witkowski, together with the thanks of the company. Bonnie Hutchison thanked the mothers.

Women's Institutes

CHAPMAN - TWEED W.I.

TWEED — The November meeting of the Chapman-Tweed Women's Institute, was held at the home of Mrs. Clarke Bonter of Tweed, with 20 members and one guest present.

The president, asked for new leaders for the 4-H Homemaking Club.

Mrs. Isobel Martin read some of the historic entries from the Tweedsmuir History Books, after seeing the books. The members realized how much work went into gathering the information concerning the pioneers and the early days of the district.

Following the closing of the meeting, the group enjoyed a social half hour.

CHARTER GRANTED

Home and School Association News

QUEN MARY SCHOOL

More words have been written and spoken about education in the past month than in previous years. One place where words were spoken was at the November 27 meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association. Robert Horwood, assistant superintendent of schools, used the Hall - Dennis report as the basis of his talk. Three Queen Mary teachers (Mrs. G. Anderson, Miss M. Cameron and Mr. B. Butcher) acted as moderators when the members were broken into three groups for a question period.

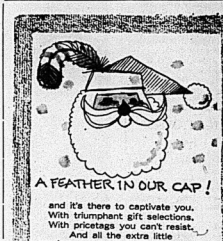
BAYVIEW — HARRY J. CLARKE

"A Search for Learning" was the title of a film shown at the November meeting of the Bayview - Harry J. Clarke Home and School Association.

This film shows an actual classroom in action, and gives an insight in the new attitudes in learning, as discussed in the Hall-Dennis Report.



After viewing the film, members divided into smaller groups for discussion of various questions this film brought to mind.

President Bruce Gerow conducted the business meeting. The possibility of having two separate Associations, one for Bayview School and one for Harry J. Clarke School, will be discussed at the next meeting, which will be held in January.

ROLES CLASH

TORONTO (CP) — Susan Lego, an American psychiatric nurse, says nurses are fulfilling the role of group therapists. Miss Lego, studying for a doctorate at New York University, says nursing training is aimed at the opposite role to the therapist and thus is a training obstacle.

Ann Landers

Freeloader Finally Ordered Out of House

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Everyone who reads your column sees himself sooner or later. My story was so similar to the woman who got stuck with her husband's cousin that my friends insist I wrote that letter. I didn't, but I could have. Here's how my husband solved the problem.

ANN LANDERS

The same week I came home from the hospital with a new baby, my husband's cousin Orrin came to visit. He ate like there was no tomorrow, smoked his head off and stayed till noon — on the couch! All the raw. Every morning my husband had to go to the living room and cover Orrin up before I got out of bed. Our "guest" didn't have a dime in his name so of course he couldn't pay for anything, including his own dry-cleaning. We tried to get him a job but no job was good enough.

When Orrin began to order me around like I was his personal maid, my husband said, "That does it." He packed Orrin's suitcase and told him to catch a ride on the road. That was two years ago and we haven't seen or heard from him since, which suits us fine. — MRS. A. OF ILLINOIS.

DEAR MRS. A. OF ILL.: I've said it before and I'll say it again. It takes two to create a situation such as you describe — a freeloader who will take all he can get and a gutless wonder who will tolerate it. If your husband had not thrown the bum out he'd still be with you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm celebrating today. I haven't had a drop of alcohol for six months. But don't congratulate me yet. Wait until I tell you what a year to tell my story. Please print it for other women who might recognize themselves and do something about it.

Two years ago I fell into the habit of fixing myself a martini to get a lift before my husband came home to dinner. Sometimes he'd be late and I'd have two martinis. When he arrived I'd fix him a Scotch and have another myself. After dinner I'd go back to the martini pitcher to see if there was anything left.

Mornings were horrible. I needed something to get me going so I put gin in a rubbing alcohol bottle and kept it next to the mouthwash in the medicine cabinet. By noon I needed another belt. Pretty soon I was sipping all day.

One night my husband came home and found me passed out on the sofa. There was no dinner and the children were running loose in the neighborhood. He laid down the law — either I stop drinking or else. I made resolutions but I never kept. He gave me chance after chance. Finally he saw a lawyer about a divorce. The lawyer suggested A.A. and joint counseling. We both agreed and it worked like a charm. I feel confident that I will never drink another drop. It's like a miracle. What I did others can do. Tell them. — SPOKANE.

DEAR SPOKANE: Write to me six months from today. I'd like to know you've made it through the year.

Alouette Club Anniversary

Last Saturday evening members of the Alouette Club of Belleville and district gathered in Trenton to celebrate the Club's tenth anniversary.

About 260 members and friends were present for the happy event which marked ten years of pleasure and progress since the club's inception the afternoon of July 21, 1958 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Germain Pilon in Belleville. Others attending this first meeting were Mrs. Azelie Berube, Mrs. Irene Bisnard, Mrs. Roger Meloche, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Mercier and Messrs. Ludger Briand and Ben Richard. The purpose of this meeting was to found a social club for French-Canadians in the Belleville area.

At the annual dinner held in Trenton a number of the founders were present. The evening started with a social hour and during this interval two photo albums concerning events of the past ten years prepared by Mesdames J. Briand and J. Pilon were viewed by those present.

Bernard Gagnier, president of the club presided at the head table and introduced the guests of honor Mrs. Azelie Berube from St. Andre, Quebec (one of the founders) Mr. and Mrs. James Hull-quist Sr., Mr. and Mrs. J. A. C. Berube; Mr. and Mrs. Ludger Briand; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Van de Ven, Brantford, Germain Pilon; Mr. and Mrs. Andre Mercier, Denis Gagnier, and Alderman Art Keegan representing Mayor J. R. Scott on behalf of the City of Belleville. One of the founders Mrs. G. Pilon was unable to attend due to illness.

Grace was said in French by J. A. C. Berube, past president of the club, while Alderman Keegan repeated it in English. A tasty meal was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the group. Two past presidents were unable to attend but sent congratulations and best wishes. A letter was also received from the office of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau with regrets at not being able to attend and hoped he could visit the Club at a later date.

On behalf of the Mayor, of the City, the gracious reply was addressed by Alderman Keegan who expressed pleasure at being present and wished the club continued success.

An anniversary cake to mark the event, a gift from Mrs. J. Briand and Mrs. J. Pilon and decorated by Mrs. C. Lagace was served. The evening continued with dancing to the music by the Herby's Four, and concluded by a sing-song led by George Morin of Montreal.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Rose Hamel, Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Cecile Bedard.

4-H Homemaking Girls Hold Achievement Day

The Achievement Day for the 4-H Homemaking girls in North Hastings County was held on Saturday, November 30, 1968 at the Centre Hastings Secondary School, Madoc.

The clubs participated in the Achievement Day program were: Bannockburn, Chapman Chums, Cooper-Remington, Willing Workers; Eldorado Applejacks, Harta-Riggs Homemakers, Moira-Thurlow Perky Peaches, Lake St. Peter Lively Lemons, Mayooosh II Banana Bunnies, Mayooosh II Lemon Tangerines, Monteagle Apple Blossoms, Queensboro I, Queensboro II Banana Belles.

The girls registered by 10 a.m. and spent the rest of the morning answering three questionnaires: one on breakfast planning, one on menu building and a general quiz on subject matter taken throughout the project "Featuring Fruit".

During the afternoon each club presented an exhibit or a skit or demonstration on topics varying from "dried fruit" to "A Club Girl's Breakfast".

The visiting home economist, Mrs. Phyllis James gave a few suggestions as to how the exhibits and skits might be improved if presented again.

Mrs. Warren Hill, president of the Hastings North District Women's Institutes presented County and Provincial honor awards to girls completing 6 and 12 4-Homemaking Club Projects.

County honors were presented to: Shirley Blackburn, Eldorado; Ann Tuinman, Ivanhoe and provincial honors were presented to: Elaine Carleton, Chapman.

Certificates of Achievement were presented to each girl completing a second project and sterling silver spoons to each club member and leader successfully completing this project.

In closing the program, County Home Economist, Mrs Mary MacEachern, invited all the girls to take part in the winter project "Needlecraft".

Successful Living

Family Life Seems Constant Tug-of-war

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I don't know how to cope with my husband. He thinks his place in marriage is to provide a home, food, material things. He forgets there's more to life than that for us. He also says the man is the boss of his home. I feel everything should be discussed and a mutual agreement arrived at. I get very angry if I want to do something or go somewhere and he says No; and nothing short of leaving for good will change his mind.

We have three girls. My husband says I don't look after them properly; he also says I'm a poor housekeeper, and not very smart (no brains). The only thing I do which he likes is budget themoney. He gets mad if I go out in the afternoon and phones daily to see if I'm home.

I started selling cosmetics a month ago and he wants me to quit because I'm not home enough. I don't; I'll be in the evenings often. I enjoy it and my sister looks after the two small children while the oldest is in kindergarten.

He says I think more of my friends (customers) thanhers, than of him. I try to put him first but do like to be able to do some of the things that interest me too. I like to do things the whole family can do but he says the children are too young to do anything with. — Picked On.

Dear Picked On: It sounds like a tug of war. He wants to be absolute boss; you want to be consulted. He wants you home; you want some variety. He objects to your family; you value their friendship.

A pity you didn't know some of these things before you married him. What an excellent idea for Preparation for Marriage courses!

In some homes one or other partner is the recognized boss and both are happy with the arrangement. In others there is complete mutual responsibility. And there are numberless variations in between.

The important thing is to arrive at what is right for you. If you can't ever get him to talking it over mood, do please try what marriage counselling can do.

Dear Doris: I was the maid of honor for my sister's wedding, so my parents and everyone else think that she should be my matron of honor. But my sister and I drifted apart in the past years: we have had many disagreements, although recently we have been closer.

During that time of unfriendliness I promised my sister-in-law (who has been my best friend since grade seven) that she could be my matron of honor. She was so proud!

Should I have my sister-in-law and hurt my sister or should I have my sister and hurt my sister-in-law? — Not Wanting A Family Fight.

Dear Not Wanting: Have them both: one as matron of honor, the other as maid of honor. It is often done and a maid of honor may be either married or single.

You can't break your promise to a long-time best friend, and I'm all for avoiding a family upset whenever one can.

Dear Doris: I have been advised to take an egg-useful of a certain tonic wine each day for my health. I have always been afraid of alcoholic drinks for who knows who will become an alcoholic in time?

Do you believe there is danger of becoming a craving for alcohol, providing I don't increase the amount? — Nervous.

Dear Nervous: My authority says categorically no. Also suggest that if you find the dosage is affecting you in any unwelcome way, you should drop it and report to your doctor.

Doris cannot begin to answer all your queitions in the column. To make sure of your reply, remember to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lemon Sauce for Pudding

By MARY MOORE

Our young cooks and new brides preparing their first Christmas dinner will welcome these three sauces to pour over their steamed puddings when Christmas day arrives. On November 13th I published the give them to you in my column for the 1968 Christmas pudding. Make your own selection.

CLEAR LEMON SAUCE

Mix together well in a saucepan 2 tablespoons cornstarch, two-thirds cup brown sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Stir in 1¼ cups boiling water and cook, stirring, until thickened and boiling. Remove from heat and stir in ½ cup lemon juice and 2 tablespoons butter. Serve hot.

HARD SAUCE (this must be made in advance.)

Beat until pale and light ½ cup butter. Add ¼ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups unsifted icing sugar, ¼ to ½ teaspoon almond flavoring and, if desired 1 tablespoon brandy or rum and beat until light and airy and smooth as velvet. Pile on attractive small shallow serving dish, peaking up the top with a fork tip. Sprinkle with nutmeg. If desired, and chill until hard. Wonderful on Christmas Pudding given here on November 13th.

RICH PUDDING SAUCE

NOTE: This calls for only three ingredients and may be made at the last minute.

Over low heat combine ¾ cup sugar and ¾ cup butter and when butter is melted add sugar is dissolved add 6 tablespoons 10 per cent (cereal) cream. Heat to just before boiling and serve in sauceboat.

NOTE: This is the sauce we served over the 1968 Christmas Pudding when we did our testing last month.

Church Groups

MOUNT PLEASANT
RAWDON MESSENGERS

On Sunday morning, the Messenger group convened in the Mount Pleasant Church Hall, under the direction of leader Mrs. Raymond McConnell.

Plans were made for a Christmas party on Saturday evening, December 7. Kenneth Sharp acted as president and Jill McAdam was in charge of roll call with 35 members in attendance. The devotional was given by Mrs. G. Joslin; those assisting were Chris Bailey, Dale Harry and Kathy Sharpe.

Mrs. Norman Harry and Mrs. McConnell were in charge of the two study books. The program consisted of a trio by Gail Merrick, Isabel Hoard and Suzie Morgan. Readings were given by Kim Graff, David Hubel and Debbie David. Piano solos were rendered by Suzette Morgan and Isabel Hoard.

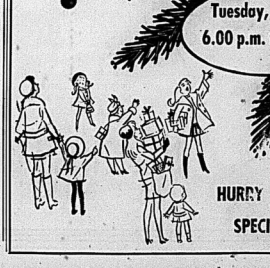
Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON



Father: "I'm telling you all now that we're going to cut down on Christmas spending this year. I'm tired of having a lot of bills to pay in January."

Son: (aside) "He says that every year."

You can control Christmas expenditure better if you set a definite limit early, before shopping has begun, and if you have some concrete plans. A general scolding about expenses leaves everyone confused.

Father: "This has been an expensive year and we can't afford more than $10. for each of you to spend on Christmas gifts."

Mother: "I will help you make some gifts if you wish."

The story of a living legend

Gordie Howe

No. 9

By Jim Vipond

His tremendous will to win "Power"—and with good reason. Gordie Howe is still the driving force behind the Detroit Red Wings' attack after twenty-two seasons in the National Hockey League.

This is the amazing story of the man behind the famous "number nine" on the unforgettable athlete who sets a new record every time he plays the game. Written with candour by one of Canada's leading sportswriters, this official biography tells of Howe's boyhood in Saskatchewan, his arrival in the big leagues and the development of his career with the Detroit team. Family of Four Adrift 13 Hours in Atlantic in Lifejackets

MIAMI (AP) — A shipwrecked family of four was rescued from choppy seas Saturday after spending the night tied together, afloat in lifejackets on the Atlantic Ocean under attack by stinging sea creatures.

As they bobbed in four-foot waves for more than 13 hours the 219-foot U.S. Coast Guard cutter Dilligence passed within 150 yards on a search pattern but failed to see them in the darkness.

All were flown to Miami by helicopter and taken by ambulance to Jackson Memorial Hospital where their conditions were reported satisfactory. They were treated for immersion, severe exposure and the stings from the Portuguese men-of-war, pink and blue jellyfish whose tentacles can paralyse a fish and injure or kill a human.

The cutter Dilligence found the survivors, James C. Jones, 30, his wife Robie, 29, Larry Jones, 14, and Raymond Jones, 11. The oldest boy was identified as Jones' son from a previous marriage which ended in divorce while the young boy was identified as Mrs. Jones' son from a previous marriage.

The four were plucked from the ocean 27 miles off Islamorada, a fishing resort not far from Marathon, their home port.

"Well, this makes everything!"

Russia Seeks to Win France

PARIS (AP) — The Soviet Union is moving to counteract an improvement in United States-French relations by pursuing President de Gaulle about its military aims in the Mediterranean and by offering increased economic co-operation, diplomatic sources reported Saturday.

The move is timed in part to France's financial troubles.

Virtually without publicity, the Soviet Union showed its intentions Friday by granting a contract to a subsidiary of the French electronics manufacturer, Compagnie des Compteurs, for a space simulator.

The terms were not disclosed, but the delivery date—within a year—indicated the Russians were anxious to make a gesture that would be quickly felt, even if on a limited scale.

Soviet-French relations, once vigorously promoted by de Gaulle as a basis for creating a "European Europe from the Atlantic to the Urals," have been in decline since the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in August.

This, the presence of Soviet warships in the Mediterranean, and France's monetary troubles have pushed France closer to the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that de Gaulle virtually abandoned two years ago.

One diplomatic informant said the Russians are concerned about a shift, even if slight, from France's middle road between the two power blocs.

The way the Soviet Union hopes to counteract it, according to this diplomat's reading, is to reassure France about the move into the Mediterranean while making room at home for more French exports.

Twice in 10 days, Soviet Ambassador Valerian Zorin went at his own request to see de Gaulle. One meeting was understood to have dealt with economic questions and the other with the Mediterranean issue.

A report that could not be checked said Zorin presented the argument that the Soviet presence in the Mediterranean was no more surprising on analysis than that of the United States 6th Fleet.

Sunday Tabloid Issued in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Sunday Sun, a tabloid newspaper aimed primarily at the western suburbs of Toronto, started publication Sunday.

The tabloid is published by Inland Publishing Co. Ltd., owned by Toronto Telegram, which tried unsuccessfully to start a Sunday newspaper in 1957. The company already publishes eight weeklies from an offset printing plant in nearby Bramalea.

The newspaper had an initial press run of 40,000 copies for its primary coverage area of Etobicoke, Mississauga, Oakville, Brampton and Bramalea.

The first edition of 40 pages sold for 15 cents and featured weekend news and sports with world news from United Press International. Roy Argyle is editor and publisher.

When The Telegram started publication of a Sunday edition March 17, 1957, Kelso Roberts, then attorney-general of Ontario, started prosecution against the newspaper under the Lord's Day Act.

There were protests by The Telegram, The Globe and Mail, The Star, the CBC and Toronto radio station CKEY. As a result representatives of broadcasters with Sunday news operations were included in the prosecution.

The Telegram discontinued publication of The Sunday Telegram July 28, 1957 before the legal fight was settled. It blamed high publishing costs, disappointing circulation and advertising response.

When publication halted, all charges stood adjourned in magistrate's court pending disposition by the Supreme Court of Canada of an appeal by the CBC. The publicly-owned broadcasting corporation contended it was not subject to the federal Lord's Day Act, a contention subsequently upheld by the court.

As far as counsel involved could recall, the case against the other organizations was allowed to lapse.

'Silly' Delegates Blamed by Rusk For Wrong Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk said Sunday "some silly members of some other delegation" are responsible for reporting that he said a Soviet move against Yugoslavia, Rumania or Austria would constitute a threat to Western defence.

Rusk was reported to have made the comment at a meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization ministers in Brussels last month.

"Some silly members of some other delegation gave this information out to the press . . . and they got it wrong," the U.S. delegate said Sunday. He did not identify the delegation.

Arrow Hidden By Avro?

TORONTO (CP) — None of the ill-fated Avro Arrows escaped a 1959 federal order to scrap the supersonic interceptor aircraft, says Dr. David M. Baird, director of the National Museum of Science and Technology.

Dr. Baird was commenting on reports published Saturday that one of the Arrows, built by the now-defunct A. V. Roe Co. of Canada, may be hidden in a government establishment.

The $500,000,000 project to build the Arrows was scrapped on the grounds that inter-continental ballistic missiles made the aircraft obsolete.

Rumors have persisted since then that one aircraft may have remained intact. Five Arrows were built and six more were being assembled when the project was ordered terminated, forcing the layoff of 14,000 workers.

"I only wish the rumor were true," Dr. Baird said Sunday. "We don't know of any surviving Arrows, but they were magnificent aircraft. We'd give our eye teeth to have one."

He said there may be enough surviving pieces of the Arrow scattered around the country to build a whole plane but none of the interceptors survived the cutting torches.

Why So Glum?

A happy Fran't Clair, coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders, has a cheerful word for his winning quarterback Russ Jackson in the Ottawa dressing room after their Grey Cup win in Toronto Saturday. Jackson slumped dejectedly after the game with the release of tension. Ottawa defeated Calgary Stampeders 24-21.

Washington Gallop Proves Fatal To Game Stamps

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Vic Washington, the rookie who began the season as a defensive backfielder, Saturday broke a Grey Cup rushing record and led Ottawa Rough Riders to a 24-21 victory over Calgary Stampeders in the Canadian Football League classic.

Washington broke the game open in the fourth quarter, when Calgary was leading 14-11.

The Calgary defence hesitated and Washington was away. Tackles Moe Racine and flanker Whit Tucker threw key blocks and Washington beat safety Jerry Keeling at mid-field as he went 79 yards for the touchdown.

The longest previous run from scrimmage was 74 yards by Garney Henley of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the 1962 Fog bowl game.

Washington's running, which led to his selection by sports writers and broadcasters as the game's most valuable player, kept the crowd of 32,655 roaring in 35-degree temperatures.

In a losing cause, split end Terry Evanshen equalled the record for the most touchdown passes caught in a Grey Cup game. His two scoring catches moved him into company with Red O'Quinn, former Montreal Alouettes star and now general manager at Ottawa; Hal Patterson of Montreal, Roy Howell of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Tucker. Only Tucker is still active.

Calgary quarterback Peter Liske performed in his last game in Canada, having played out his option to seek a football future in the United States. He got Calgary's other touchdown and Larry Robinson converted all three.

Jackson, Washington and end Margene Adkins got Ottawa touchdowns. Kicker Don Sutherin, leading scorer in the Eastern Conference this year, missed three field goals in the first quarter but connected on his fourth attempt early in the second. He also converted the Jackson and Adkins touchdowns.

The other Ottawa point came

when Wayne Giardino, two-way back from Peterborough, Ont., blocked a Ron Stewart punt and deflected it into the end zone. Calgary's Ted Woods fell on the ball to concede the single and save a touchdown.

Ottawa's single off the blocked punt was the only scoring play of the first quarter. Riders stretched the lead to 4-0 early in the second when Sutherin hit on his 27-yard attempt.

Previously, Sutherin had missed a 41-yarder set up when defensive half Gene Gaines recovered a Rudy Linterman fumble. Sutherin missed a 29-yarder, then one of 44 yards before finding the range on the first sequence of the second quarter.

Calgary led 14-4 at halftime and 14-11 at the end of the third quarter.

A rare penalty for intentionally grounding the ball was called against Liske during the second quarter and stalled a Calgary drive that had begun with a Wayne Harris recovery of a Bo Scott fumble.

Later in the second quarter, penalties to Ottawa maintained Calgary scoring marches.

Billy Cooper was called for pass interference on Gerry Shaw and the ball was placed on the Calgary 37. Liske continued to throw complete to Shaw and halfback Bob McCarthy. Then Joe Poirier was called for pass interference in the end zone and the ball was placed on the Ottawa one-yard line. Liske kept for the touchdown at 8:32.

Later in the quarter, an off-side penalty to Ottawa put Calgary on the Riders' 48. Three players later Evanshen beat Bill Van Burkleo deep in the end zone for a 21-yard touchdown pass.

The breaks went the other way as the third quarter opened. Stewart, trying to punt on third down, was hammered near centre field.

Jackson ran for 14 to the Calgary 41, sent Washington for six yards on a pitch-out and Scott for three into the line. Ottawa gambled on third down and Washington made it by inches.

Jackson hit Washington for 16 yards to the Calgary 15, then kept for eight over right tackle. Scott hulled to the three, then to the one where Granny Liggins and Don Luzzi piled him up. Jackson pivoted into the end zone at 8:36.

The first sequence of the fourth quarter featured the bounce-play touchdown of 79 yards by Washington. Sutherin missed the convert.

Robinson, like Sutherin finding the ball hard to kick on the greasy field, was short on a 42-yard field goal attempt which would have tied the game 17-17.

'C'mon Stamps'

Among the most vociferous Calgary Stampeder fans in the Stamps' 24-21 Grey Cup loss to Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday were the official Calgary cheerleaders' group, led most capably by this leather-lunged miss.

Grey Cup Box Score

TORONTO (CP) — Following is a brief summary of scoring plays in the Grey Cup football game Saturday between Calgary Stampeders and Ottawa Rough Riders.

First Quarter

Ottawa scored at 11:32 when Wayne Giardino blocked a Calgary punt at the Stampeders' 20 and the ball rolled into the Calgary end zone. Ted Woods fell on it for Calgary giving the Rough Riders a single.

Ottawa 1 Calgary 0

Second Quarter

Ottawa went ahead 4-0 at 1:13 when Don Sutherin was good on a 27-yard field goal.

Calgary quarterback Peter Liske dove over at 8:32 after Ottawa was called for pass interference in the end zone to give the Stampeders the ball on the one. Larry Robinson converted.

Ottawa 4 Calgary 14

Third Quarter

Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson kept his club on the ground in a march that started mid-centre field and went over himself from the one at 8:36. Sutherin converted.

Ottawa 11 Calgary 14

Fourth Quarter

Vic Washington of Ottawa dropped a pitch-out to the left, picked it up and ran down the sidelines 79 yards to score at 56 seconds, shaking off Robinson at centre field. Sutherin's convert attempt was blocked.

Margene Adkins hauled in a 40-yard Jackson pass on the Calgary 30 and ran in to score at 9:39 after shaking off Jerry Keeling at 15. Sutherin converted.

Evanshen scored at 13:26 when he took a two-yard pass from Liske. The score was set up by Dick Suderman's recovery of an Ottawa fumble by Bo Scott at the Ottawa 13. Robinson converted.

Ottawa 24 Calgary 21

Vic's 'Argo Bounce' Draws Clair's Praise

TORONTO (CP) — Almost to a man, Ottawa Rough Riders picked Vic Washington's 79-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter as the turning point in their 24-21 win over Calgary Stampeders in the Grey Cup game Saturday.

The rookie halfback picked as the outstanding player in the see-saw battle, fumbled a pitch-out from quarterback Russ Jackson, recovered the ball on the first bounce and sped downfield to give Riders a 17-14 edge.

Washington said he wasn't sure whether he trapped the ball before it hit the ground or whether he got it on the bounce.

"All I know is that the Calgary players froze on the play and that gave me an opening. I got a good block from tackle Moe Racine and then flanker Whit Tucker gave me a clear field with another good block."

Coach Frank Clair said the Washington run made the big difference.

"Washington played a great game," said Clair.

Beginning of Calgary's End

Rider Fans Yell "We Want Vic"

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite appeals on radio asking them to stay away, thousands of Ottawa fans jammed the airport here Sunday to welcome Ottawa Rough Riders.

The city is holding a dinner for the team today and fans were requested to attend it rather than greet the team on their noon arrival from Toronto.

Players had a hard time squeezing their way through an estimated 3,000 fans to pick up their luggage and get aboard a bus to bring them uptown.

Fans roared cheers as they recognized each Rider. Midway through the arrivals, they began to chant "we want (Vic) Washington."

And when the speedy halfback stepped into the airport, he was given a tremendous ovation, Washington's 79-yard touchdown run helped to lead in his selection as the outstanding player of the game by football writers.

The crowd leaving the airport after the home-coming created a two-hour traffic jam.

New Geoffrion Checking Formula Prompts Pair of Wins by Blueshirts

By SCOTT BUTTON

Coach Bernie Geoffrion of New York Rangers decided recently that he needed more enthusiastic checking from forward lines on his National Hockey League team.

So he put rookie centre Walt Tkaczuk between veteran wingers Ron Stewart and Rod Fleming and told them to concentrate on defensive hockey. The new line might have disobeyed his orders slightly, but it is unlikely Geoffrion will complain.

Tkaczuk and Stewart ignored their defensive duties long enough Sunday night to score one goal each and help the Rangers defeat the sinking Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1. Fleming chipped in with two assists and Tkaczuk added one.

In other games Sunday, the Canadiens downed Chicago Black Hawks 3-1, Boston Bruins blanked Minnesota North Stars 4-0, Philadelphia Flyers and Detroit Red Wings played to a 3-3 tie and Pittsburgh Penguins and Oakland Seals finished in a 4-4 deadlock.

Saturday, the Rangers trounced Boston 4-1, Minnesota and Toronto tied 3-3, St. Louis Blues blanked Philadelphia 1-0 and Pittsburgh defeated Los Angeles Kings 4-2.

Tkaczuk, a graduate of Kitchener Rangers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, wasted little time disobeying Geoffrion's orders. He circled the Toronto net and slapped a backhand shot past Toronto goaltender Bruce Gamble after only 34 seconds of Sunday's game.

Tkaczuk also scored the first goal in the Rangers' triumph Saturday.

Stewart put the Rangers ahead 2-0 at 7:07 of the second period when he connected on Fleming's rebound.

Jean Ratelle picked up the other Ranger tally. Murray Oliver scored for Toronto, winless in its last five starts.

Third-period goals by Bobby Rousseau, his second of the game, and Jean Beliveau propelled the Canadiens past the Black Hawks to the dismay of 16,666 at Chicago.

Rousseau broke up a 1-1 tie at 3:48 of the final period and Beliveau scored into an empty net at 19:45.

Bobby Hull scored the Chicago goal, his 16th of the season. He is the leading scorer in the NHL with 39 points—six more than runner-up Beliveau.

Goaltender Gerry Cheevers earned his first shutout of the season for Boston to keep the Bruins within two points of Montreal. Cheevers made 27 saves in helping to extend Minnesota's winless streak to seven games.

The one point earned by the tie moved the Penguins, occupants of the Western Division cellar for most of the season, into a fifth-place tie with Philadelphia—two points back of second-place Los Angeles.

Rookie Jim Johnson collected his seventh goal of the season midway through the final period to help Philadelphia tie Detroit and break a five-game losing streak.

Chargers Win To Remain In Western Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Hadl and Lance Alworth are keeping San Diego's game of catch-up alive in the American Football League stretch race.

Hadl fired five touchdown passes—four of them to the elusive Alworth—as the Chargers bombed Denver Broncos 47-23 Sunday and remained in the thick of the three-way Western Division title chase.

San Diego, 9-3, trails co-leaders Oakland and Kansas City by one game with two weeks to go in the regular season. The Raiders and Chiefs were idle Sunday after winning U.S. Thanksgiving Day games Thursday to stay in a first-place deadlock.

New York Jets, who clinched the Eastern Division crown when Kansas City failed in the second-place Houston Oilers 24-10 Thursday, trimmed Miami Dolphins 35-17 as Babe Parilli tossed three touchdown passes in the fourth quarter—two of them to Don Maynard in a 42-second burst.

Boston Patriots snapped a five - game losing streak by whipping Cincinnati Bengals 33-14 in Sunday's other game. Oakland Raiders edged Buffalo Bills 13-10 Thursday.

Hadl hit Alworth with three early scoring passes, one of them a 79-yard strike, then flipped two more to Gary Garrison and Alworth after the Broncos cut a 31-3 deficit to 31-23 early in the third quarter.

The slim Jet flanker pulled in a 34-yard scoring pass from Joe Namath in the first half and scored on 41- and 15-yard Parilli payoff pitches in the final quarter as New York erased the Dolphins' 17-14 lead.

He finished the game with an 11-year total of 9,332 yards, compared with Berry's 9,275 in 13 seasons with Baltimore Colts.

Rookie Tom Sherman tossed three touchdown passes, hitting Jim Whalen for 11 and 21 yards and Gino Cappelletti for 18, to lead the Patriots past Cincinnati.

The Bengals' Paul Robinson gained 78 yards in 20 carries and needs 10 more in his last game to become the second rookie in AFL history to hit the 1,000 mark. Cookie Gilchrist picked up more than 1,000 yards in his 1962 debut with Buffalo.

Good - - But Not Good Enough

Terry Evanshen of the Calgary Stampeders catches Peter Liske's second-quarter pass in the end zone to give the Stamps a 14-4 lead in Saturday's Grey Cup in Toronto. Chasing Evanshen in vain is Ottawa's Bill Van Burkleo. The Calgary jubilation was short-lived, however, as the Rough Riders came back to win the game and the Grey Cup 24-21.

Galloping Colts Still Wary Of Rushing Rams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Colts know better than to rest on past accomplishments. And Greene Bay Packers are learning.

Last year the Colts ran up a 11-0-2 record only to blow their division title to Los Angeles by losing to the once-beaten Rams in the last game of the season.

With that reminder, the Colts are cautious now with their 11-2 mark and half game lead over the Rams in the Coastal Division of the National Football League, despite a 44-0 rout of Atlanta Falcons Sunday for their third shutout in five weeks.

"Nothing we've done so far will mean anything unless we win the last one," was the way defensive tackle Fred Miller put it.

That last one is in two weeks against the Rams, who kept pace with a 31-3 romp at Minnesota.

Coach Don Kelly, the NFL's leading rusher and scorer, scored four touchdowns against New York in Cleveland's seventh straight victory.

Washington Redskins 29-20 last Thursday, climbed the Capitol Division title when Cleveland Browns eliminated New York Giants 45-10. At the same time the Browns all but wrapped up the Century Division. With two games left, they hold a 1½-game lead over St. Louis Cardinals, 20-10 winners over Pittsburgh Steelers.

In Thursday's other game, Philadelphia beat Detroit Lions 12-0 on Sam Baker's four field goals for its first victory of the season.

Baltimore's Earl Morrall completed 17 of 23 passes for 231 yards and two touchdowns to help crush Atlanta.

Roman Gabriel and Wendell Tucker took care of the offensive, teaming for three scoring passes, as the Rams downed Minnesota.

Overtime Woes

Sport Briefs

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Indianapolis 500 winner Bobby Unser capped his greatest auto racing year with a record police finish in the Rex Mays 300 Sunday that brought him the United States Auto Club's national driving championship for 1968.

Gus Johnson came off the bench in the National Basketball Association Sunday night and scored 20 points as Baltimore Bullets whipped Chicago Bulls 110-100 for a 3½-game lead over idle Boston in the Eastern Division. Elsewhere, Los Angeles beat Milwaukee 119-112 and San Diego tripped San Francisco 118-116. Saturday night, it was Atlanta 128, Cincinnati 109, New York 127, Detroit 108, Boston 117, Philadelphia 113 in overtime, Chicago 100 Phoenix 96, and Milwaukee 107 San Francisco 101. Elgin Baylor scored 34 points to help the Lakers top Milwaukee. Johnny Egan added 27 points.

Mo-Hawks Lose Early Bulge

ORILLIA (Special) — Belleville Mo-Hawks succumbed to a third period surge by Orillia Terriers and dropped a 5-4 overtime decision in OHA Senior "A" action here last night.

Right winger Moe Galand broke the game up after only 52 seconds of overtime within he combined with Grant Moore and Gary Milroy to beat Belleville's Larry Holmes.

Four third-period goals by the Terriers wiped out Belleville's four goal margin established in the first period.

George Westfall started the comeback at the 4.45 mark of the final period. Gary Milroy brought the Terriers another step closer at 8.06 when he cashed in a passing play with Grant Moore and Moe Galand.

Defenceman Greg Marchen started the locals off on the right foot with a goal at the 12.07 mark of the first period.

Twenty - nine seconds later Al Ferguson scored his first goal as a Mo-Hawk with assists going to linemate Andy Teeple and defenceman Ed Marineau.

Centre George Godson made it 3-0 at the 18.33 mark when he gathered in a pass from playing-coach Davey Jones and beat Gerry McNamara in the Orillia nets.

Jones made it 4-0 just 11 seconds later when he finished off a play with linemates George Godson and Ron Riley.

The Terriers outshot the Mo - Hawks 37-30 on the night in a game in which only 3 penalties were handed out, two going to Orillia and one to Belleville.

The 32-year-old right winger scored three goals Sunday as Flyers downed Collingwood Kings 8-3 before 2,605 fans in Barrie. The win enabled Barrie to stay five points ahead of Galt Hornets.

Forhan's three goals gave him 20 for the season, the first league player to reach that mark.

Next league games are Tuesday when Barrie visits Woodstock. Galt plays at Kingston and Orillia at Collingwood.

Galand's goal in overtime climaxed an Orillia drive that started in the third period after they were behind 4-0.

Kingston Juniors Ruin Weekend For Morrisons

It was Pony Night In Kingston Saturday and the Frontenacs had the horses for the second night in a row as they routed the Belleville Morrisons 9-4 in a Junior "B" hockey game.

On Pony Night in Belleville Friday the Frontenacs dumped the locals 8-3. The pair of weekend losses leaves the Morrisons in the cellar of the tenman Junior "B" league with 7 points in 11 games.

The locals outshot Kingston 33-11 in the first period and led 3-2 as Dennis McCormick netted a pair of goals and Ron Fuller added another. Scott Nicholson and Ron Baker replied for the Frontenacs.

Kingston fired 19 shots at Belleville goalkeeper Paul Hopkins in the second period and scored three times to take a 5-3 lead.

John McConnell scored a power-play goal for the Morrisons at the 11.57 mark of the third period to narrow the count to 5-4.

Kingston outshot Belleville 52-34 and drew 7 penalties to 5 for the locals.

Coming into the weekend Belleville was tied for fifth spot with Kingston, each team having won 3 games, lost 5 and tied one.

The locals have the week off and a chance to regroup for next Sunday's game here against the powerful Oshawa Cruhmen.

City's Minor Teams Win Their Fair Share

Local minor hockey all-star teams split six games over the weekend. In league play, Kinsmen Bantams downed Trenton 4-3. In exhibition games with Peterborough, Food City Novices dropped a 6-4 decision, Smith Pontiac Juvenile No. 1's, 5-2, Kinsmen Bantams triumphed 4-1, Blake Kerr's Imperial Midgets suffered a 5-3 setback and Western Tire Juveniles won 1-3.

Peter Crawford tallied both goals as Smith Fuels Peewees went down to defeat while Russ Harrington with two, and Andy Ricketts and Larry Kirby with singles paced Kinsmen Bantams to their 4-1 victory.

Meagher scored a pair and James a single goal as the Midgets dropped a 5-3 decision to Peterborough.

Before you move in . . . know the facts about insurance
Fact 1: Fire insurance alone on home and contents is not enough. Your home could be destroyed by windstorm, explosion or other hazard.
Fact 2: Theft coverage of your possessions, at home and away, should be included.
Fact 3: A lawsuit judgment against you could cost you everything you own. You need liability insurance.
Fact 4: You get all this and more in one Homeowners policy . . . with one low premium!

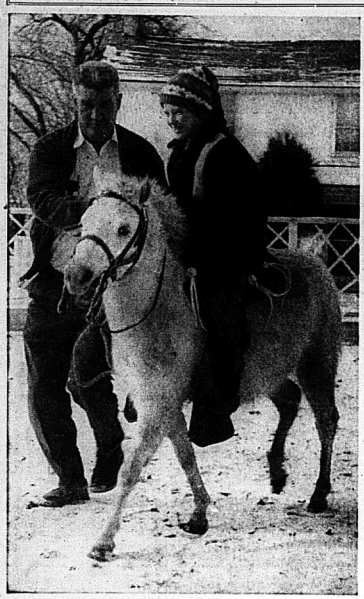
Perry Como Starts Action

TV Programming Set for Pre-Christmas Period

NEW YORK (AP) — Special programs move front and centre in television programming in this pre-Christmas period and they will be coming thicker and faster as the holiday approaches.

For openers, there was Sunday night's variety special starring Ann - Margret, followed by Perry Como in his only special program of the year.

Ann-Margaret's CBS hour was a visual treat. The attractive young performer sang, danced and occasionally clowned amid some exciting acts. She was surrounded in most of the musical numbers by a talented group of male dancers.



The program was based on her nightclub act, but room was made to permit almost cameo appearances by Danny Thomas, who sang a song, and Jack Benny, who had a single gag. Bob Hope did a song-and-dance number with the star.

The most effective portion of the show as a kidding treatment of the lavish film musical of the depression days.

Less effective were sequences shot in Ann-Margaret's native Sweden as she roamed through the countryside singing an old folk song.

Then came the Como show—a warm, easy and thoroughly professional hour in which Como wandered around smiling and singing and helping make his guest stars look good.

There was a funny sketch with Don Adams playing an insanely jealous husband to Carol Burnett's weary housewife—a long the lines of the sketches Jackie Gleason and Audrey Meadows used to pull off so well. And there was, of course, a lot of pleasant singing that ranged from A Bicycle Built for Two to Little Green Apples.

First Ride

Adkins' Reception Grey Cup Insurance

Jackson moved the game out of reach when he hit Adkins on a 70-yard pass-and-run touchdown play at 9:59.

Ottawa's hammering defensive play and lack of time combined to wreck the Western Grey Cup hopes from there but Calgary went down fighting.

Liske, working from his own 30, hit McCarthy for 18, Evanshen for 21 and Gerry Watson for 12. Gaines was called for interference on McCarthy at the nine.

Liske fired to Evanshen in the end zone but Van Burkleo stepped in front to intercept.

With 2:22 oh the clock, Scott fumbled at the line and Dick Suderman recovered. Liske hit McCarthy at the six for 19 yards. End Herm Harrison took a pass to the two, then Liske missed Shaw.

On third down Liske hit Evanshen for a touchdown at 13:35.

Stampeders had one gasp left. On the kick-off they popped the ball short hoping to recover, but Ottawa came up with it. Later, Calgary head coach Jerry Williams complained his men had to push referee Paul Dojack of Regina out of the way as they went after the on-side kick.

TO HONOR THOMSON

CBC has produced a film of the life, career and mysterious death of painter Tom Thomson.

Sweaters No. 10 and 12—belonging to Keeling and Stewart—were stolen from the locker room. Keeling wore No. 21 and Stewart 21.

Later, the phone from the spotters on the stadium roof to the Calgary bench went out of order.

When Russ Jackson accepted the Grey Cup from Prime Minister Trudeau after the game, it marked the sixth time in 11 tries that the 39-year-old trophy had gone to the capital.

Calgary has won once, in 1948. That triumph erupted into a spontaneous celebration which set the pattern for every Grey Cup week since.

The Stamps returned in 1949 but were beaten by Montreal Alouettes.

The victory was especially long in coming for Ottawa general manager O'Quinn who has been associated with five Grey Cup games, three of them as a player with the Alouettes.

In his hotel suite, the cup sat as a centre piece amid the wreckage of a champagne and hors d'oeuvres feast. A newspaper headlined "Ottawa Wins 24-21" tilted on the mantlepiece.

Tax Reduction Deadline

FOR TENANTS AND LANDLORDS

Dec. 31

Virtually all home-owners and tenants in Ontario are entitled to benefit this year from a reduction in residential property tax.

Tenants of all eligible apartments and houses are to receive the tax reduction allowance from their landlords on or before December 31, 1968.

The landlord has received the reduction in property tax from his municipality. He or his agent is required by law to pass on the full amount of the reduction that applies to each tenant who is eligible.

A tenant who has moved during the year should advise his former landlord of his present address.

This new system was established in 1968 by the Ontario Government in order to ease the burden of municipal and school taxes. The Province, in effect, is paying part of the property taxes for each eligible house and apartment.

TAX REDUCTION NOTICE

Full Information is contained in the free pamphlet "TAX REDUCTION NOTICE" which is available at your Municipal Office or by writing the Municipal Subsidies Branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs, 801 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE — LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following sanitary sewer, complete with private drain connections where required by individual owners, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation at large as follows:

Street	From	To	Estimated Cost	Corporation's Share	Owner's Share	Estimated Cost Per Foot Frontage	Estimated Annual Payment Per Foot Frontage	Estimated Rate Per Service Connection	Estimated Annual Payment Per Service Connection
S. Church	St. Paul Street	C.P.R. Tracks	$5,300.00	$657.58	$4,642.42	$3.08	$0.34	$333.33	$36.60

50 ft. X $3.08 — $154.00
If paid over a period of 15 years at 7% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. X $0.34 — $17.00

2. The Special Assessment is to be paid in fifteen equal annual instalments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work and any owner may within twenty-one (21) days after the first publication of this Notice file with the Clerk of the Municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objection to the said work will be considered.

Quebec Separatists Supported

Montreal Conference Condemns U. S. Action in Vietnam

MONTREAL (CP) — The Hemispheric Conference to End the Vietnam War wound up Sunday with condemnations of imperialism and U.S. action in Vietnam.

The conference also supported "the struggle of Quebec against American imperialism as manifested through Canadian colonialism."

The closing session was marked by a demonstration in which several persons burned what they said were their U.S. draft cards, a man who identified himself as a U.S. army veteran burned what he called his identity card and an unidentified Puerto Rican set what he called his U.S. passport on fire.

The conference, which demanded an immediate cessation of the war and U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, also witnessed its third disruption.

A group calling itself the "anti-imperialist caucus" attempted to introduce a motion to censure the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. But its advance to the rostrum was headed off by Black Panthers and militant white radicals.

On Friday, white militants interrupted a session by calling for inclusion of imperialism as well as the Vietnam war as a conference topic.

Later Friday, the California-based Black Panthers forced their way to the rostrum and pandemonium broke loose for about 15 minutes.

Conference organizers announced Saturday the program had been revised to include protests against all forms of "American imperialism."

The four-day conference involved 1,000 delegates from "about 25 countries," organizers said. There were 1,000 from the U.S., 400 from Quebec, 270 from the rest of Canada, 60 from Latin America and a number of persons representing North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front.

South Vietnam was not invited and a five-member Russian delegation was refused visas to attend the privately-organized conference.

An external affairs spokesman in Ottawa said last Thursday the government would have had no objection to private Soviet citizens attending, but the Russians had proposed an official delegation that would have promoted the official policy of the Soviet Union.

A resolution Sunday said U.S. imperialism is "reaching the point of desperation" and "must depend on the aid of opportunists who pretend to oppose it but in reality support it."

Among the "opportunists" were the Soviets who had "crushed the Czechoslovak people and who are in open collusion with the U.S."

The Soviet Union had "unfortunately" become "an imperialist power."

Human Rights Conference

Youth Dissatisfaction Serious: Humphrey

OTTAWA (CP) — The general dissatisfaction of youth with the way things are is Canada's most serious problem in the area of human rights, chairman John Humphrey said Sunday night at the National Conference on Human Rights.

Prof. Humphrey, who teaches law at McGill University, Montreal, said there are three major human rights issues in Canada.

The others are poverty and the treatment of minorities, he said.

Some 600 people, including many in the younger age group, attended the opening session of the three-day conference at the Chateau Laurier Hotel.

Registration continues today.

The conference has been organized by a private group, the Canadian Commission for the International Year for Human Rights, with financial help from the federal government. This year marks the 20th anniversary of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights.

Prof. Humphrey told the conference he applauds a rebellious spirit in the young so long as it is allied with a sense of responsibility. But this kind of alliance seemed to be rare.

Unless teachers and leaders of Canadian society discover how to pass on "our great traditions of freedom" to the young generation of today, and convince them that there is such a thing as human rights, "we will soon be faced with a situation in this country unlike anything that we have faced before."

State Secretary Gerard Pelletier told the conference that the government will soon take steps to give all immigrants equal status. This was taken as an indication that British subjects will lose the preferential treatment they now enjoy.

Robert Stanbury (L—York-Scarborough), Mr. Pelletier's parliamentary secretary, has introduced a private member's bill in the House of Commons that would wipe out the special status of British subjects who are not Canadian citizens.

Mr. Pelletier said the government will soon give details of new citizenship legislation in a parliamentary whitepaper.

Prof. Humphrey said the young people's revolt against something they identify as The System was healthy.

"The system needs to be changed, and it will be," he asserted.

But it was one thing to advocate change and work to bring it about; it was quite another to advocate anarchy and mob power for its own sake.

The objective of revolt must be "the betterment of the human condition," he said.

Louisiana Acadians Fight To Keep Language Alive

DELCAMBRE, La. (AP) — Two hundred years ago the British forced the French-speaking Acadians out of Nova Scotia.

Today their descendants are fighting to keep their language alive in southern Louisiana. They are promoting their heritage at home and looking to French-speaking Quebec for help.

If the effort fails, what is now a "native foreign language" probably will die. For the French language is fading under the pressure of mobility, English-language media and education policies.

The foreign language became a stigma, but the weight of that stigma is lifting.

The concern about the fading language found its way into the state legislature last summer. Along with legislation creating a council to develop French in Louisiana, a law was passed making French mandatory in elementary and secondary schools.

The university held a six-week course that was attended by southern Louisiana teachers who spoke the local French.

The hope of the over-all education program is that French-speaking teachers now in the classroom can be trained in a short time as elementary French-language instructors.

Among the council's goals is an exchange program with Quebec, which the province's premier, Jean-Jacques Bertrand, says would like closer ties with French-speaking Louisiana.

Your Car

Rattles Sometimes Impossible to Locate

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes: "About six months ago I spent just over $4,000 on a new car and recently an annoying rattle developed. On four different occasions the dealer has unsuccessfully attempted to remedy this intermittent rattle. A service salesman drove with me for ten miles but unfortunately the noise didn't occur during this run and he tells me that unless he actually hears it it is next to impossible to locate the repair. True enough, they have tried. I stood by when the car was placed on a hoist and two mechanics spent over an hour checking and tightening various things. In desperation, I asked the mechanic at my service station to check it and after playing around for an hour and charging me two dollars, the rattle persisted. Why should I have to pay when there was no remedy and if the mechanics can't locate a simple rattle, what good will they be when something serious happens?"

I fully appreciate that one of the main reasons for investing in a new car is to avoid at least for a reasonable time all forms of mechanical problems including elusive rattles. However, as an ex-garage operator I must mention that many a dedicated well - trained mechanics, after spending hours probing in vain for an elusive rattle, shares the same frustrations as the customer. Even after much time and effort when he does locate and correct the problem, rarely would he dare charge for the full time spent on the job.

In other areas such as legal or medical, win or lose, most people fully expect to pay for services rendered, but when it comes to rattles many garagemen are resigned to the fact that regardless of time spent locating the problem, only a token charge should be made, and in the event of failure the cost of research must be absorbed personally. When operating my own shop I was sometimes dragged through you-know-what attempting to locate intermittent rattles, squeaks, vibrations, groans, whines, whistles, grinds, clunks, to mention only a few of the many descriptions given by motorists to define a noise which, too often, in their opinion should be located and eliminated in minutes.

I recall one occasion where my best mechanic and myself spent a total of five hours searching in vain for a "clunking" sound that happened only occasionally when turning left on rough roads, and although everything was given by motorists to define a noise which, too often, in their opinion should be located and eliminated in minutes.

I recall one occasion where my best mechanic and myself spent a total of five hours searching in vain for a "clunking" sound that happened only occasionally when turning left on rough roads, and although everything was given by motorists to define a noise which, too often, in their opinion should be located and eliminated in minutes.

As in all fields of endeavor, the auto repair business has its share of questionable mechanics and, too, there are many conscientious, dedicated mechanics. To condemn a mechanic who has really tried but failed to pin-point an offbeat noise is grossly unfair.

Only a most unreasonable patient would denounce his doctor for failure to diagnose his aches and pains on the first visit. It is high time that we all face the fact that problems with modern automobiles also can on occasion prove baffling and during these times a mechanic appreciates a little common courtesy and understanding.

NOTE: Letters from readers with car problems are most welcome, but please include: Year and model, number of cylinders, mileage, standard or automatic transmission, power equipment, brief outline of previous repairs and a self addressed envelope.

Canada Should Develop Closer Ties Says Pepin

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean-Luc Pepin, federal minister of industry and commerce, says Canada should develop "real" political, commercial and cultural ties with nations of the South American continent before thinking of joining the Organization of American States.

Back from a month-long trade mission to Latin America, Mr. Pepin and Canada must first prepare for itself a place within the OAS "to ensure it plays a role Canadians would like to see their country play in such an organization."

Mr. Pepin was guest speaker on the Sunday night Radio-Canada public affairs television program Deux Plus Un.

He said Canada would have to start "practically from the bottom" in developing ties with Latin America.

Out of an annual average total export figure of $13.4,000,000, Canada exported only $330,000,000 to Latin American countries and imported only $450,000,000 from them.

Canada could export building materials used in the construction of airports, subways, airplanes and certain types of mining and forestry equipment.

Canada also could promote trade with Latin American nations by providing monetary credits repayable over periods of 20 or 25 years.

Chicago Bloodshed During Democratic Convention Called Mindless 'Police Riot' Under Obscene Provocation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bloodshed in the streets of Chicago during the Democratic national convention last August was a "police riot" that erupted in the face of obscene and violent harassment by anti-war protestors, says a special report to a presidential commission.

The report, so earthy that the government printing office refused to print it without deletion of an obscene four-letter word that appears 82 times, said police violence was mindless, unrestrained and indiscriminate.

It warned that it could happen again if guilty officers are not punished.

Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, who commissioned his own television documentary to defend his police, praised the bulk of the report but expressed "some reservations" about the section characterizing the violence as a "police riot."

"My only basic criticism is the summary which, if used alone, would mislead the public and be a disservice to those who prepared the report," Daley said Sunday. "Over-all it is an excellent study.

The Chicago mayor said the bulk of the Chicago police force reacted with responsibility during the five August nights of disorder in darkened parks and downtown streets. He said some policemen have been suspended for their part in the violence and still others face dismissal.

David Dellinger, a leader of the anti-war protestors, said the report had "some gratifying aspects." But he insisted it "overemphasizes the provocations on the part of the demonstrators."

Dellinger is among five top figures in the Chicago disorders under subpoena to testify as the House of Representatives subcommittee on un-American activities resumes its hearings today on the convention clashes.

The report was compiled by a special group of the president's commission on violence and made public Sunday.

Daniel Walker, a prominent Chicago corporation lawyer, headed the 90-man force that drew up the report under a contract with the violence commission headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president.

Police Got Out of Control, Beat Innocent Bystanders

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission report quotes a high-ranking but unidentified Chicago police commander as admitting Chicago policemen "got out of control" on the night of the nomination of Hubert Humphrey for president, a Wednesday.

It added: "This same commander appears in one of the most vivid scenes of the entire week, trying desperately to keep individual policemen from beating demonstrators as he screams: 'For Christ's sake, stop it!' "

In the blur of the battle, even the final number of injured remains uncertain in the report.

It counts 192 policemen hurt.

On the other side, 101 demonstrators needed hospital treatment and the protesters' own medical teams estimated more than 1,000 others were treated for tear gas or injuries.

The report said some police struck down innocent bystanders and peaceful protesters as well as taunting anti-war antagonists.

"To be sure, demonstrators threw things at policemen and at police cars," the report said, "but the weight of violence was overwhelming on the side of the police."

More than 10,000 demonstrators—actually outnumbered by the police force and the Illinois National Guard—converged on Chicago.

The report said the demonstrators showered police with obscenity, with beer cans, with chunks of concrete and ping pong balls studded with nails. One policeman was offered a sandwich filled with excrement, others were targets for sacks of human waste, the report said.

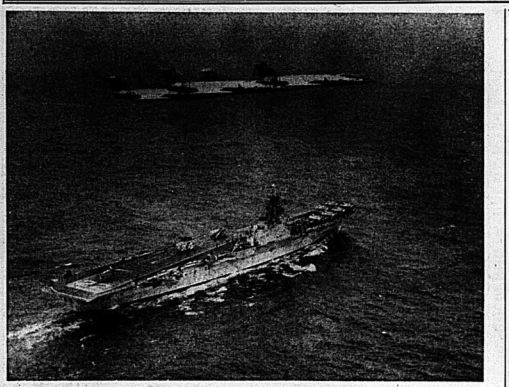
The response, said the report, "was unrestrained and indiscriminate police violence."

"That violence was made all the more shocking by the fact that it was often inflicted upon persons who had broken no law, disobeyed no order, made no threat."

Given the anxiety of the city, its leaders and its policy understood, but not condoned." cal guests and the "exceedingly provocative circumstances" that developed, the report says the loss of control and discipline "can perhaps be un-

Government Office Refuses To Publish Uncensored Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government printing office declined to publish the bulky report on violence in Chicago during the Democratic national convention unless it could censor the obscenities from it.



Permission was refused.

A spokesman for the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence said he expects commercial publishers to have paperback copies of the report on U.S. news-stands before the end of the week.

Journalists Deliberately Beaten As Punishment for Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police pummelled, arrested and attacked news media personnel without reason during the street violence at the Democratic convention, says a report to the president's commission on violence.

"News reports of events did seem to the police to be anti-Chicago and anti-police," the report says. "But was the response appropriate to the provocation?"

De Gaulle Likely to Continue Policy of Aid to French Canada

PARIS (CP) — The rise of new leaders in Canada and France's economic troubles have created some uncertainty here about the future of Franco-Canadian relations.

But the consensus seems to be that, barring any possible domestic upheaval in France, President de Gaulle will remain firmly attached to a policy of help for French Canada.

Renewed student unrest in at least one Paris-area university and the numbers of police seen in city streets underline the sombre state of mind prevailing amid current conditions of austerity and rising prices.

Officials and observers say the aid expenditure is unlikely to be slashed as part of government economizing and Gaullist representatives, though distracted by domestic French troubles, now are helping with preparations for the expected January visit by Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec.

Non-Quebec sources do not believe that Bertrand yet enjoys the same personal ties with the general as were forged by the late premier, Daniel Johnson.

And there was no word up to this last weekend about how closely arrangements for the Bertrand visit would resemble the red carpet treatment which only death prevented Johnson from receiving in Paris.

Nevertheless, the Quebec delegation-general here continues to radiate confidence in a continuation of its high standing with the French.

The delegation-general, with a staff of 41, is preparing for expansion into the immigration and tourist fields, though co-operation with federal officials is expected in the matter of immigrants.

Government-sponsored delegations, ranging from youths to engineers, continue to stream into France from Quebec.

But there also are signs of intensified federal interest in the French scene now that a French-speaking Canadian is prime minister of Canada.

The Canadian embassy, more accessible than previously to fact-hunting journalists, awaits the arrival later this month of new ambassador Paul Beaulieu.

He is an unknown quantity among the French except as a literary critic whose published studies could boost his standing among the highly-literate Parisians.

Considerable interest already has been reported among specialized Frenchmen in a newly-launched federal effort to find personnel here for some public-service jobs in Canada.

To criticism that the effort might mean depriving Canadians of job opportunities, advocates of the recruiting argue that foreigners are awarded only those posts for which qualified applicants are unavailable in Canada.

And the supporters also suggest that the French program could bring the ratio of French-speaking to English-speaking officials recruited outside Canada more into line with bilingual principles—and possibly Prime Minister Trudeau's vision of what a future Canada should be.

Further initiatives by Ottawa aimed at capitalizing on the increase of French interest in Canada are expected in 1969.

This interest—attributed to Expo 67 and, ironically, de Gaulle's 1967 visit—is not restricted to officials.

Last week, Ouest France, one of the largest French newspapers outside Paris, held forth colorfully on what it called the "cowboy" test of life in Western Canada.

Saturday, Le Monde of Paris praised the latest book by Quebec novelist Marie-Claire Blais after devoting a long article the previous day to television in Montreal.

Firestone "TOWN & COUNTRY"

ICE GRIPS

Take the dice out of driving on ice.

You never know what's going to happen when you drive on ice. You might slip. You might slide. You might never get where you're going.
But all that's changed with Firestone "Town & Country" Ice Grip tires. Dozens of tungsten carbide steel studs protrude from the tread. They pierce through ice and hard-packed snow. You stop quicker — up to 50% faster. You accelerate smoothly, steadily, positively. And you get where you're going. We guarantee it!

The price is good news, too. It costs only a very few dollars more to equip your new Firestone "Town & Country" tires with ice grip studs. Or, for extra traction on ice at really low cost, you can have studs installed in new Firestone Tractionaire, or "Town & Country" Retread winter tires.
Are they worth it? Think about the last time you drove on ice. And see us now. Before the ice arrives.

Guaranteed to go, or we pay the tow!

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the automatic clock invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock are gone in your happy chances are that a home somewhere in this area would love to use it.

Started With Picnic

LUNENBURG, N. S. (CP) — The Nova Scotia Fisheries Exhibition and Fisherfolk Reunion started out as an annual picnic for fishermen and their wives from this south shore community in 1916. Local businessmen, realizing the importance of the industry to the town, began displaying their wares in 1929.

To Your Good Health

Slimming Surgery of Little Value

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told by a doctor that intestinal bypass surgery was possible for weight loss. I need desperately to lose 200 pounds. For 10 years I've been on all kinds of diets and to hundreds of doctors; also hypnotists and quacks. Life isn't worth living in my present state. Tell me about this operation and where I can find a doctor close by to perform it. — C. A. W.

Such surgery is possible but you've got to understand its values and its weaknesses before there is any point in considering it.

It involves "short-circuiting" a large part of the digestive tract. Food passes through without much of the nutrition being absorbed.

Large amounts of weight have been lost by such patients — they eat and lose weight. But it is a complicated process, and since the patient does not absorb various necessary minerals close watch has to be kept to replace these necessities artificially.

In a word, the patient has to be in a hospital where constant laboratory tests can be carried on. Liver and other organs must be studied to see that they do not fail. And in time another operation must be performed to restore the digestive tract to its original condition.

The great disappointment in this procedure is that too many patients don't learn anything from the whole expensive undertaking. They come to eat the same way they always did — and they get fat again.

The type of patient who can be genuinely helped is the one who recognizes the underlying implications: that the "short-circuiting proves that he can lose weight if he will reduce the amount he eats. Whether you don't eat the food in the first place or achieve the same result by not digesting it doesn't matter.

The patient has to accept the fact that his overweight is not "because of my glands," not "because everything I eat turns to fat." Deprive him of enough food, and, like anyone else, he will lose weight.

Some doctors — include me among them — believe that this procedure - seldom - does any lasting good unless the patient has psychiatric help in discovering why he has been eating more than he needs. Compulsive eating, like any other neurosis, usually can be helped only when the patient gains some understanding of why he does it.

If you have, as you say, been to "hundreds" of doctors, you must not have stayed with any one of them long enough to get to the root of your problem. You should consider that.

With 200 pounds to lose, you need expert help. Discuss this bypass surgery with your doctor if you wish — but if he is conscientious you that it is possible for you to lose weight anyway, you won't need this complicated treatment. And if you can't be convinced, the operation won't do you any lasting good anyway.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 16, still chews bubble gum and it shames me. I have been after her to give up gum and take up cigarettes, but she says no. How can I convince her that gum is bad for her? — Mrs. E. M.

Girls her own age (or may be a boy!) will laugh her out of the bubble gum soon enough. She's a smart girl to refuse your urging to start cigarettes. It's a lot easier never to start smoking than to go through the turmoil of trying to quit later on. Where, for pity's sake, have you been in recent years, not to know the dangers of cigarette smoking?

Note to R.A.B.: No, that old saw that "masturbation will cause acne" has no scientific basis whatever.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hairy Debate Plagues Baseball Managers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Baseball's general managers, gathered behind closed doors today at one of the first sessions of the annual winter meetings, may be looking for a graceful way to cut off a hairy debate.

The issue arose a couple of months ago when American League general managers, meeting in Colorado Springs, Colo., recommended a ban on mustaches, beards and extreme sideburns.

"Our concern," said Ed Short of Chicago White Sox, "was to keep the proper image of major league players before young fans especially."

"I don't mind the length so much," said Minnesota's Calvin Griffith, "but we're not going to have bushy sideburns."

The players quickly banded together to protest before it came mandatory to trim their sideburns.

Said Minnesota Twins' pitcher Dave Boswell: "As long as I'm clean and neat and wash with soap, what does it matter?"

Art Shamsky of New York Mets added: "When does it stop being a sideburn and become a beard?"

There seems little doubt that rules will be passed banning mustaches and beards. But some yardstick apparently will have to be found to regulate sideburns.

The general managers also were expected to propose methods of bringing relief to baseball's hitters in this era of the pitcher.

But the first order of business on the day was the annual draft, with such former stars such as Dick Radatz, John Wyatt, Bob Chance and Dave Nicholson among players eligible.

Also available were top young prospects such as pitcher Joe Hoerner, who had a 13-6 record for St. Louis' Arkansas farm club, and infielder Carmen Fanzone, who hit 270 with Boston's Pittsfield farm club.

The 20 established clubs draft first, with the four new expansion teams—Montreal, Kansas City, San Diego and Seattle—following in that order after the others were finished.

Touchdown Run Unanimous Turning Point

TORONTO (CP) — Almost to a man, Ottawa Rough Riders picked Vic Washington's 79-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter as the turning point in their 24-21 win over Calgary Stampeders in the Grey Cup game Saturday.

The rookie halfback picked as the outstanding player in the see-saw battle, fumbled a pitch-out from quarterback Russ Jackson, recovered the ball on the first bounce and sped downfield to give Riders a 17-14 edge. Washington said he wasn't sure whether he trapped the ball before it hit the ground or whether he got it on a bounce.

"All I know is that the Calgary players froze on the play and that gave me an opening. I got a good block from (tackle Moe) Racine and then (flanker) Ron Stewart opened up a clear field with another good block."

Coach Frank Clair said the Washington run made the big difference.

"Washington played a great game," said Clair.

"He's my choice as the Player of the Year. And I'm not taking anything away from Bill Symons."

Symons was the pick of football writers for the countrywide award.

Don Sutherin, Ottawa's field-goal specialist who led the Eastern Football Conference in scoring this season, was wide on three attempts for field goals. He later kicked a 27-yarder and two converts.

"I couldn't practise kicking until Friday," said Sutherin. "In Ottawa the field was frozen; in Toronto we had mud."

Adkins was the first to break the news to Washington that he was named the Player of the Game and had won a car.

Somebody asked Washington how it felt to be "the greatest player in Canadian football."

"I'm not," retorted Washington. "And I wouldn't have one as far as I did all year without great blocking."

In the Calgary dressing room, the angry muttering of coach Jerry Williams was all that could be heard for five quiet minutes after the game.

yard pass to Margene Adkins for the final Ottawa touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

"I thought we hit as well as they did," said flanker Gerry Shaw. "I feel we outplayed them most of the way."

"It was their speed that killed us and they got truckloads of half-time lead.

"I thought it was my imagination," punter Ron Stewart said of Ken Lehmann's charge through the middle of the line.

"I sidestepped him, but there were two others coming in."

Stewart decided to run with the ball but was short of a first down and Ottawa moved quickly for a touchdown.

Williams said Calgary played exceptionally well. Asked if Ottawa played well, he replied:

"Certainly . . . they beat us didn't they?"

NHL Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks and his closest rival for the leadership in National Hockey League scoring, Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens, each picked up goals Sunday night.

Hull's goal, his 16th of the season, came in a 3-1 loss to Montreal and left him with 29 points. Beliveau has 33 points on 13 goals and 20 assists.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings added an assist Sunday in a 3-3 tie against Philadelphia Flyers and held on to third place with 31 points on 11 goals and 20 assists.

Pearson Urges Nations to Put International Community First

LONDON (CP) — Lester B. Pearson said Sunday he hoped nations will subordinate individual freedoms within an international community in the interests of world peace and progress.

While it will be difficult, he said, he believes it feasible for narrow, intense national loyalties to be reconciled with the wider loyalty of his concept.

"The establishment of our international rule of law cannot depend on force," he added. "We have to do it by agreement; we have to do it step by step through international institutions.

"And we have years, perhaps, not centuries, in which to succeed, and only the tentative first steps have already been taken."

The former Canadian prime minister and 1957 Nobel Peace Prize winner spoke on BB radio in the third of six half-hour speeches he is giving on Peace in the Family of Man. The series is the annual Reith Lectures, named after Lord Reith, former BBC director-general.

Pearson spoke on the topic "The United States of the World." He said political nationalism—the absolute sovereignty of the nation state—is the "strongest obstacle in the way of building world order."

He said: "The problem today is not the creation of new free states, but subordinating the sovereign freedom of all states to the necessity of peace, security and progress."

It would be infinitely harder to achieve than the welding of the American states. But the need was infinitely greater.

Discussing Canadian history, Pearson said:

"From my own Canadian experience, I believe that cultural and social differences inside sovereign states, as well as cultural influences on them from outside, can and should strengthen rather than weaken a political society in our modern world. . . .

"Political unity, in other words, does not have to mean either cultural or social uniformity. . . .

"National societies meet a deep need in people's hearts and minds. It's very difficult to become passionate about something that includes everything. So we have to find a way to reconcile the narrower, intense loyalty with the wider loyalty. I think it can be done."

School Board Elections Feature Today's Voting

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Election of 66 new division and district school boards across Ontario today overshadows mayoralty and council elections in many centres.

The new boards will be named under legislation that will, by the end of 1969, give Ontario 76 public school boards compared with 964 when amalgamation plans were announced a year ago. The number of separate school boards is being reduced to about 80 from 482.

Boards to Take office Jan. 1

For two-year terms will be elected for 38 administrative counties in southern Ontario and 28 districts in Northern Ontario.

A board of education election also is being held in Hamilton, but boards are not being elected in Metropolitan Toronto, London, Windsor and in the Ottawa-Carleton metropolitan area to be established Jan. 1.

An estimated 10,000 school trustee posts will be wiped out by the change, with much competition in some areas for the 1,200 remaining seats.

Separate school supporters will elect some members to new county-size boards for high school purposes, but will elect their own boards for separate elementary schools.

There is no election for mayor, council or board of control this year in Toronto, Ottawa, London and Windsor. Hamilton elects council and board of control.

Elections for mayor and council are being held in Brantford, Cornwall, Kingston, Niagara Falls, Oshawa, Peterborough, Renfrew, St. Catharines, St. Thomas, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie, Welland and Woodstock, as well as in a long list of towns.

Mayor Victor Copps of Hamilton and Mayor A. C. McIsaac of Orillia won election by acclamation. Orillia will be electing a city rather than town council for the first time. Former mayor Isabel Post is running for a seat on the light and power commission.

Votes on fluoridation of water supplies are scheduled in Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie, and the towns of Ajax and Petrolia. Hamilton's water supply is already fluoridated.

In Peterborough, voters will be asked whether the city should enter a franchise agreement for public transportation. Welland will vote on a proposal to subsidize bus lines.

A referendum will be held in St. Catharines on whether the city should have a ward system. Peterborough returns to a ward system in this election after being 50 years without it.

Uniform voting hours for school boards, as Ontario law are from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Guelph Students Fight Compulsory Union Fees

GUELPH (CP) — Twenty-one students resigned Saturday from the students union council at the University of Guelph, protesting compulsory payment of union fees.

The students, in a letter to university officials, said they would refuse to pay the fees collected by the administration.

Dr. W. C. Winegard, university president, said one of the conditions of registration in the past has been the payment of student fees.

However, he said the university would seek legal advice on the agreement between the union council and the university governing fees.

The students claim the agreement does not make it compulsory for a student to belong to the union in order to remain in university.

Last month, the 5,000-member student body voted to reject the council's membership in the Canadian Union of Students.

The aim of the new system of boards is to provide equality of educational opportunity for children across the province. Bigger boards are expected to be able to hire more professionals and specialists and save money on administration.

Each new district will elect 14 to 20 trustees, the number depending on population. But population determines only the total number of trustees—representation is based on farm and residential assessment rather than population.

Strictly Personal
Views on U.S. Election

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Since practically everyone, in and out of print, has been second-guessing the US election for the last month, at the urging of numerous readers I'm happy to set down my random reflections on that event: both parties tried to commit suicide, and nearly succeeded, due to the closeness of the vote.

If the Democrats had nominated Humphrey, he would have beaten Nixon overwhelmingly.

If the Democrats had nominated Rockefeller, he would have beaten Humphrey overwhelmingly.

It was not Humphrey's "spurt" in the last two weeks that brought him within a percentage point of Nixon, but simply the continued exposure of Nixon; another week or 10 days, and Humphrey might have won.

If the Democratic ticket had been reversed, with Muskie on top, the Democrats might have won; at a party I attended before the election, it which guess were equally divided in party affiliation, a rare event among Democrats. Humphrey, Agnew and Muskie for President gave a large majority to Muskie — even among the Republicans present.

The problem facing both parties now is that the only truly enthusiastic voters were those for Wallace.

It is probably better for the nation that Nixon was elected than Humphrey, for social realities will force Nixon to do pretty much the same things Humphrey would have done, but Nixon will encounter less bitterness and opposition than Humphrey should have.

The proto-fascist movement began by Wallace is certain to grow, unless our No. 1 domestic problem — the disintegration of the cities — is given both a financial and moral priority over the arms race.

This is the last election in which labor leaders will be able to influence or direct the voters of their union membership; and the labor vote will no longer be "deliverable" to the Democrats, any more than the Negro vote will be.

The two-party system may very well become segmented into four party system, with the dissident left pulling out of the Democratic party and the dissident right pulling out of the Republican party. Contrary to general belief, I think this would be a healthy tendency.

Both Nixon and Humphrey, in their different ways, are equally obsolete political figures, operating in a framework of ideology that is geared more for the past than for the present or future — for neither the concept of the "welfare state" nor "free enterprise" is viable today, with the liberal (an promise) of cybernation upon us.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For December 3

Your birthday today: The coming year will bring changes and offer stirring tions of your faith. The challenge is to learn the difference between intuition and rational thinking. The safety valve is physical activity, particularly outdoors. Live fully as you go; put nothing off for the future. Today's natives tend to be practical and attractive!

Quinte Voting Is Light In Spite of Major Issues

McFarland's Victory Salute

Arena Plan Beaten

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

Despite what appeared to be major issues in Belleville, Trenton, Brighton and Picton, voting was light in yesterday's Quinte district elections.

Even the initial selection of the new county-wide school boards failed to bring out the voters.

Only place the pattern didn't hold true was in Picton, where 60 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls to elect Harvey J. McFarland mayor.

Mr. McFarland polled a majority of 662 over challenger Reginald Moore to be returned to office for the 19th consecutive year.

In Belleville, two controversial issues — extension of the mayor and aldermen's terms of office to three years for one term only, and construction of a $1 million arena—failed to pull voters to the polls in any number.

About 28 per cent of those eligible voted on the council term question. The extension was approved.

Electors turned down the arena proposal by about two-to-one.

Mayor Allan Walker said this morning the percentage voting was about average for a non-mayoralty race. Highest municipal vote in his memory was 42 per cent in a mayoralty contest.

In Trenton, the port office plebiscite was responsible for drawing 35 per cent of the enfranchised voters to the polls. They decided in favor of saving the old building and renovating it for town offices.

Yesterday's turn-out represented a 10 per cent increase over Trenton figures when there was no mayoralty contest. In last year's mayoralty race 30 percent voted.

Auto Service Business in U.S. Called Jungle

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter where you go for auto repairs you run "the risk of a fleecing," the Senate anti-trust subcommittee was told today.

"The automobile service business has become a jungle for the consumer," said William N. Leonard, professor of economics at Hofstra University, Hempstead, N.Y.

He put the blame chiefly on automobile manufacturers, saying they put pressure on dealers to sell cars, not to provide service.

"The realities of the situation are that Detroit's income derives largely from the sale of automobiles to dealers and only slightly from dealers' service to customers," Leonard said.

Leonard's comments were prepared for the opening of hearings into auto repair costs on which Americans spend up to $25,000,000,000 a year.

Israeli Planes Hit Arab Guns

From Reuters - AP

Israel bombers struck at Jordanian and Iraq-manned artillery emplacements east of the Jordan River during the night after Jewish settlements came under heavy shelling, Israeli military sources said in Tel Aviv today.

The military sources said the artillery barrage from the Jordanian side lasted about 3½ hours and the fire was returned by Israeli gunners.

The type of artillery used by the Arabs in the initial shelling of Israel positions indicated that Iraqui units now deployed in the Irbid region took part in the barrage, the sources added.

Damage to the Israeli villages was reported as light, the sources said.

Israeli sources said the Iraqui batteries have been strengthened by big new Soviet 122-millimetre guns. They were ranged to hit villages to a depth of six miles west of the ceasefire line.

Bullet Wounds Fatal to Man and Wife

By BOB AVERY
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — A wife and husband died yesterday afternoon and another woman is in hospital after the triple shooting that took place in a frame house on the Wooler Road yesterday.

Dead are Wayne Mostroy, 21 of Orangeville and his wife Grace, 18. Both died in Toronto in St. Michael's Hospital.

Mrs. Mostroy's mother, Mrs. Nellie Curlette, 47, is in Kingston General Hospital but has been taken off the critical list.

Trenton police are still investigating and as yet have released no details on the incident.

"Before we release any statements we must interview Mrs. Curlette," said Chief Robert Rutherford.

The interview will take place tomorrow and police officials hope to have some release on the incident by tomorrow evening.

Neighbors reported seeing Mrs. Curlette run out of the back door of the house and crumble to the ground.

Police then arrived, after being called by Stewart Burns, 48, caretaker for North Trenton Public School who was informed by Roger Curlette, 12, of trouble.

Roger had run to the school from his home.

Neighbors further reported that they heard two shots as police arrived. It was under police protection that Rushnell Ambulance men took Mrs. Curlette by stretcher to the waiting vehicle.

Alaskan Airliner Crashes

Residents of an Eskimo village near the crash site reported by short wave radio they saw an explosion near the tail of the Wein Consolidated Airlines plane before it plunged to earth.

Winds gusting to 55 miles an hour and 11-below-zero temperature hampered efforts to recover the bodies and start an investigation into the crash. Rescue teams and agents of the FBI hoped to reach the scene by helicopter or small plane today.

George Fay of the Federal Aviation Administration in Anchorage confirmed that the reports indicated either an explosion or that the craft was trailing smoke before it hit the frozen ground and careened into the ice of Spotsy Lake.

The FAA said there was no indication of what caused the crash.

The plane, a Fairchild 27 model, was bound from Anchorage, 150 miles northeast, to several small towns on a regularly scheduled flight.

'Not Asking for Trouble We Are Demanding It'

LONDON (AP) — Police patrolled the English-Welsh border today after saboteurs blew up pipelines Monday that carry water from the Welsh mountains to the English industrial city of Birmingham.

Julian Cayo-Evans, self-styled spokesman for the Free Wales Army, told police: "The bombing will be increased. We are not asking for trouble. We're demanding it. Agitation through the democratic process has failed and we must now fight like patriots."

South Vietnam Has Three-point Plan for Peace

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks will take along a three-point plan, informed government sources said today.

"That's ridiculous, very ridiculous," said a spokesman in Paris for the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front when told the plan's third point called for the NLF and the Viet Cong to rally to the Saigon government.

The other points are:

1. A de-escalation of the fighting.

2. A "controlled and guaranteed" withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces, accompanied by a phased cut in American strength.

PM's Constitutional Priority

Trudeau Wants Charter of Rights Before Powers Divided Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau reaffirmed his constitutional priorities Monday night, stating that his government wants agreement on a charter of human rights before it plunges into debate on the division of powers between Ottawa and the province.

Speaking to the National Human Rights Conference, Mr. Trudeau said the ultimate test of a government's merit is "what it does for the individual in society."

This was why the government attached so much importance to the human rights charter that it proposed to imbed in the constitution. It is at "the top of the list" of matters to be discussed when the federal-provincial constitutional talks resume here Dec. 16.

The distribution of powers between the federal government and the provinces is also on the agenda of the three-day conference.

Mr. Trudeau spoke at a dinner given by the federal government for delegates to the human rights conference. Sponsored by the Canadian Commission for International Human Rights Year, a private organization, the conference celebrates the 20th anniversary of the United Nations' declaration of human rights.

French jurist Rene Cassin, this year's winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, said a national government still bears the primary responsibility for treatment of its citizens, "but we can no longer talk about exclusive responsibility."

"The whole of mankind is concerned that no one be an object of oppressive and unfair treatment," he said.

City Splits On Questions: Arena No; Long Term, Yes

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Belleville property owners yesterday turned down the proposed construction of a new arena for the city defeating the issue by approximately 500 votes in a slim turnout of voters.

At the same time, however, voters approved a three-year term for members of city council which will bring municipal elections in line with the election every two years for the new county board of education.

In the absence of a contest for municipal council, yesterday's turnout of voters was the smallest in many years, with some polling sub-divisions reporting as low as 16 per cent of the eligible voters casting ballots.

An indication of the light turnout was the total vote on the three-year term question.

The unofficial vote on the arena question will all polls in was 2361 "yes" and 2861 "no."

For the three year term question, there were 2238 no votes and 2991 affirmative ballots.

On the question of the three year term a total of 5229 voters cast their ballots or just over 28 per cent of the total 18,541 eligible voters.

"This has killed a new arena in Belleville for all time to come," lamented Alder man Richard Ellis, who was one of the leading supporters in the campaign.

Alderman Ellis didn't think the arena question could be presented to council again for many years.

"I was surprised at the vote," Alderman Soden admitted. "I felt that we would do better — I thought we had a fighting chance."

He placed the defeat of the arena question at the hands of what he termed "conservative" Bellevillians who he felt had been penny wise and pound foolish.

Alderman Soden has campaigned for a new arena in Belleville for several years but after yesterday's vote said it was now a dead issue.

"As far as I am concerned I am throwing in the towel," he said.

On the other hand city council members seemed pleased about the reaction of the electors to the proposed three year term for council.

Yesterday's vote means that city council members and Public Utilities Commission members will be elected for three year terms in 1969.

Then the 1972 elections will be held for city council, utilities commission and county public and separate school boards.

But there is a hint of irony in connection with the defeat of the arena question.

City council has paid out $54,000 in plans for the new arena complex and as the result of yesterday's vote there is little hope that they will be put to use — at least for some years to come.

Commenting on the vote for the two questions, Mayor J. Russell Scott referred to the front page story in The Intelligencer with respect to the three year term for council.

The Intelligencer editorial suggested that the three year term be defended and that council petition the Ontario Legislature for a one year term to bring municipal elections into line with those for the county school board.

Noting that despite the editorial the vote had been in favor of the three year term, Mayor Scott, in conversation with another councillor and others in the hall, suggested The Intelligencer should have run an editorial opposing the arena.

"Maybe then the arena question would have carried," he said.

Campbellford Ward Is Well Represented

CAMPBELLFORD — The Ward 1 northeast section of Campbellford is going to be well represented on town council for the next two years as the result of yesterday's municipal election.

Six of nine council members, including the mayor, reeve and deputy reeve who were returned by acclamation are all from the one ward while one of the town's areas will be without a council representative.

New council members are William Murray, William Hennessey, William Carter, A. C. Newman, Douglas Sharpe and Carman Westlake. The two unsuccessful candidates were Danie Pace and William Nicholas.

Elected to council in yesterday's municipal vote were Neil McCullough, Maurice Brunton and Carleton Rowe. Defeated were Carl Free and Robert Lisle.

Perfect Turnout At Polls

AMELIABURG — The election of two representative on the ward 4 separate school board of education may have prompted one of the few cases of a perfect turn-out at the polls.

In the township of Ameliasburg, 18 of the total 2,563 with franchised rights were eligible to vote for the 4 separate school candidates running for two seats.

At the returning office here it was revealed that 17 cast ballots in four polling subdivisions. The remaining one is understood to have voted elsewhere — making a 100 per cent effort on behalf of the segment voting for the new expanded school board system.

The official count, after the polls closed, showed Rev. Walter Hamilton with a total of 12, Gerald Walsh 6, Farrell O'Neil 3, and Vincent Kennelly 0.

Case Traversed

Judge Reprimands Absent Crown

PICTON (Staff) — The opening of the general sessions of the peace in Picton yesterday didn't even get off the ground.

But, Judge Wilfred S. Lane, in charge of the court, did as he verbally lashed out at the offices of the crown attorneys in both Belleville and Napanee.

No representative of the crown was at court.

It is "most disrespectful and completely negligent" that no representative of the crown was in court, he stated.

Court waited almost an hour for the case of the absentee crown to be solved before Judge Lane finally had to averse the only criminal caste on the docket to the next sessions.

He said he blamed the officials in Belleville or in Napanee. He added that he was unable to determine which one had undertaken to handle the single criminal court action in Picton yesterday.

Judge Lane told the court that were it in his power he would dismiss the case completely.

However, since there was an indication that it would be a jury action he said he could only put the case over until June.

The only case that would have been tried at the sessions yesterday was that of Mrs. Wallace MacNaughton of R. R. 1 Bloomfield, charged with carrying an offensive weapon.

Brighton Rejects Town Status

BRIGHTON — Brighton residents last night decided that the status of a town was not for them.

In a plebiscite put before the people 277 voted that the village remain a village and 249 felt that it should be changed to a town.

When a village has a population of 2,000 it has the option of changing to a town. Brighton's population is 2,700.

The idea was brought up by the Brighton Chamber of Commerce if Brighton did become a town, according to some voters, the main benefit would be one of increased prestige.

The vote here was down to what it usually is when there is a race for council seats.

In previous years when there had been a race for municipal seats, a turnout of 75 per cent of the voters was commonplace.

Turnout Good At Deseronto

There was only an election for three council seats in the town of Deseronto but a surprising 60 per cent of the eligible voters turned out at the polls.

Accordion Concert Saturday

The first annual Allore's accordion concert will be held Saturday at the Centennial secondary school auditorium.

Special guests will be the Contemporary Accordion Concert Orchestra of Toronto, a 32-piece orchestra, conducted by Tony Mergel.

This musical organization captured the All-Canadian accordion orchestra championship this year in Toronto and the All-American championship in Chicago, also for 1968.

This group and local accordion artists will form a two-hour program at Centennial beginning at eight p.m.

Mother of 14 'Family' Expert On R.C. Board

DELORO — Lillian O'Connor last night was elected to Ontario's biggest school area.

It's the first time she ever was named to public office — but, to the assembled Hartings, Prince Edward and Nipissing Separate School Board she'll bring plenty of grassroots experience in education.

For Mrs. O'Connor and her husband Breen have either graduated or are educating enough children to fill every seat on the 14-member board.

The mother of 14 last night downed two male opponents in the Marmora-Lake-Deloro municipal bloc in the board's Ward 2 zone to, become the new separate school area's second woman administrator.

Her handy victory — 151 votes against 81 and 20 for the men — has given her opportunity she relishes.

"I feel I can say," she adds, "we've always been interested in education."

Stimulus for that interest was pointed up by the hustle around the O'Connor household here this morning as eight children readied for school.

There was Maureen, Janet, Colleen, Kathie, Paddy, Ed and Lillian — ranging in years from seven to 16.

Then there was Mary O'Connor — also on her way to school, but not as a student.

As a first-year teacher at Sacred Heart School in Marmora she numbers several of her younger sisters as students.

The O'Connor clan away from home counts Breen, Jr., teaching separate school in Cooksville; Dennis, an engineer working in Ottawa; Paul, studying for his BA at St. Michael's, University of Toronto; Leo and Donald, both at Peterborough Teachers' College, and Anne married in Toronto.

At last count that makes two practising teachers and two more on the way to graduation.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor both are anxious that all their offspring receive as much education as possible.

"We hope they all finish with higher education — everyone of them," says Mrs. O'Connor. "It's a necessity today."

The couple has been rearing the large family toward that goal apparently undeterred by personal setback. In 1961 all the O'Connors had to find new quarters when their home near Marmora was gutted by fire.

But Mrs. O'Connor already has demonstrated her energy in community work. She's a vice-president of the Catholic Women's League Kingston diocesan council, an enthusiastic curler and tennis player.

Toss of Coin Decides Elzevir Council Seat

The toss of a coin decided the fourth place position on Elzevir township council this morning after a recount failed to settle a tie between the two candidates.

Incumbent William Credicott won the fourth council position on the coin toss defeating Charles Reavie with whom he had been tied with 147 votes.

Elected to council besides Mr. Credicott were Kenneth Cassidy, 206 votes, Edward Alexander, 183, Rnd Joseph Kehoe, with 177.

About 50 per cent of the eligible voters turned out for yesterday's election.

Fairgrounds Hall Finally Accepted

After long weeks of delay in the receipt of the necessary safety certificate, Belleville's new recreational building at the local fairgrounds is finally to be accepted by the city.

Announcement of the city's formal acceptance of the building from the contractor is expected to be made at tonight's regular meeting of council.

The building contractor Marcus Rollins Ltd., Rollins Construction, said today that his consulting engineer had okayed the building and that it had also been approved by the city's consulting engineer J. H. A. Lassing of Trenton who was recommending acceptance by the city.

Mr. Lassing this morning confirmed that he had signed the necessary safety certificate.

The new fairgrounds exhibition and recreational building constructed at a contract price of about $95,000 was used temporarily during the Belleville fair but was never officially accepted by the city because of lack of the required safety certificate.

The building was considered safe for summer use, but because of possible winter snow load the safety certificate was refused by Mr. Lassing until certain remedial work was completed.

This work was completed before the building was put into use during the fair, but the safety certificate was held up until proof was provided by Mr. Rollins that the additional piers installed were sufficiently strong.

Following official acceptance of the building by the city, the installation of washrooms and certain other "extras" not included in the contract price will be done before the building is put into use by the Belleville recreational committee.

Already the recreational committee has had numerous requests from organizations for use of the building.

Wounds Are Fatal To Man and Wife

The question of whether or not Brighton should change its status from a village to town brought out only 50 per cent of the voters. Normal volume of the vote in Brighton is 75 per cent of eligible voters. Yesterday, the electors chose to have the municipality remain a village.

An exception to the rule of indifference occurred in Amelia burg where the town east of the eligible separate school supporters, 18 in all, voted for the two seats allotted Ward 4 on the combined counties separate school board.

Election fever ran higher in small municipalities in the county.

About 36 per cent went to the polls in Sidney, about 37 per cent in Thurlow.

Tweed recorded 65 per cent of eligible voters at the polls and the Deseronto average was 60 per cent. The separate school supporters' vote in Tyendinaga was 60 per cent of those eligible.

Electors in the Quinte district voted for trustees on three regional school boards — those of Prince Edward County, Hastings County, and the combined Nipissing District, Hastings and Prince Edward counties Separate School Board.

In Hastings County, the 12 present local school boards will be replaced Jan. 1 by one county board. The education with 16 trustees elected yesterday. These 16, elected on a ward basis, replace the 131 trustees now serving on various boards in the county.

Prince Edward County voters elected 14 trustees to their school board, also on a ward basis. The combined separate school board will also have 14 members.

Trustees of the regional boards meet Dec. 9 for their first sessions, and take over administration of education in their areas Jan 1.

Duckfoot!

Police, armed with rifles and tear gas, ringed the home when it was entered by the back door.

Police reportedly found a sawed-off .22 calibre rifle in the Carlette home.

Mrs. Aubrey Barre of R.R. 4, Trenton, Mrs. Carlette's sister, said she had been down to Kingston to see her injured sister and said she was coming along very well.

The Carlette children, Eddie, 16, Anna May, 14, and Roger, 12, are being cared for by relatives.

Mrs. Helen Howard of Trenton, a relative of Mrs. Carlette, said Mr. Montroy was a farmhand who had worked three days since returning to Trenton with his wife about two weeks ago.

Mrs. Montroy began working in a Trenton plant Thursday, after leaving her husband.

Sore Heads

In Toronto Friday night police arrested more than 100 persons on liquor offences associated with the Grey Cup celebrations. They ranged from drunkenness to causing disturbances.

In Ottawa Saturday night on the other hand celebrants were offering drinks to police who, reports say, "steadfastly ignored the goings-on." So much so, according to one Belleville visitor, that he and his wife had difficulty getting back to their hotel around midnight. There was not a policeman in sight, while celebrants roamed Bank Street, mobbing cars, and looking menacing. There was no attempt at traffic control — except, ironically, that which some of the more sober demonstrators attempted themselves. It was in this way that the Belleville couple were able to cross Bank Street and reach their hotel by a circuitous route.

This sort of conduct is all very well if it were not for the fact it can lead to more serious incidents. For instance, the emergency cord of a Grey Cup special train to Toronto was pulled three times before reaching Smiths Falls, and a pregnant woman fell and had to be taken off the train. Another woman was catapulted through a glass door.

"A floating cocktail lounge on wheels," it was called.

Psychiatrists likely would offer the explanation that occasions such as the Grey Cup offer outlets for the severely repressed emotions which are the norm in our society. It lets off steam. Unfortunately it can also lead to offensive behavior and that is upsetting for other people who have no talent or desire for such extravaganzies.

It's an odd way to "forget," which so many people seem bent on doing during Grey Cup fever. You want your team to win, but must it be at such cost in terms of sore heads, exasperated citizens — and not least, plain, ordinary dignity?

It Endures

Far from bowing out, that classic accoutrement of the female form, the miniskirt, is still around.

All that talk about lower hemlines, and even maxi lengths, has been just that — talk. If it does ultimately give way to such a trend, the girl-watching phenomenon will have suffered a serious setback. After all, it claims a host of devotees — ranging from the Archbishop of Canterbury (observed watching a young woman walk past during a break from World Council of Churches deliberations in Uppsala, Sweden) to touring editors. (See Watching the Girls Pass By," on this page).

And still the folklore surrounding this intriguing raiment increases. Most of it is favorable, but some is not. There was the Englishman for instance who was fined the equivalent of $84 for making rude remarks to a miniskirted young woman who sat opposite him in a train.

Then, in Tanzania — where under a leftist government even the young people have become pretty square — the governing party's Youth League is still pursuing its "cultural revolution" against miniskirts, tight trousers and wigs. In the latter, where in Dar Es Salaam recently two girls in minis had to be rescued by police. In Egypt the authorities are in a similar flap.

Yet, the world over, young women keep wearing them. A California newspaper has effectively demonstrated their significance in contemporary society by testing how long it took for rescue to come on a freeway to first, a shapely lass of 19 wearing a mini, and secondly a grandmother of 75. Standing beside stalled autos at separate points, the teenager had an offer of assistance within three minutes, while the older woman had to wait 17 minutes. In England, meanwhile, a government research council is financing a year-long study to find answers to the question of why girls wear short skirts.

A newspaper in Tunisia, of all places has put it best: "Against wind and tide, the miniskirt endures. It can be seen everywhere — with what it allows to be seen in addition."

Shoplifting

Shoplifting as was pointed out in an Intelligencer feature recently is a problem for merchants at any time. In the weeks before Christmas it reaches even more serious proportions. A good deal of it apparently, if not all, is perpetrated by teenagers, individually or in groups, and often out of derring-do rather than through innate dishonesty. Nor are adults immune, and for merchants it involves big losses annually. It is a deplorable situation. Yet this is the season of goodwill, which includes keeping hands off that which does not belong to them unless paid for.

Ottawa Offbeat

Prime Minister Uncontested Master of the 'Put Down'

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Nobody in these parliamentary parts — not even the elder statesmen of the Senate — can recall any prime minister with the matter-of-fact, even casually offhand confidence of Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

The airy wave of his hand, the toss of his head, the almost scornful breath that he gives the Opposition are the gestures of the supreme self-confidence of unchallenged power.

You go to the Senate to enquire about what it used to be like long, long ago, because there are some real ancients in the Upper House.

In terms of personal power, truly there has been nobody quite like Trudeau in the East Block for these last nearly 24 postwar years.

Not even Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who was enough of a political boss - man and monarch-of-power that intimates among his loyal Liberal subjects took to calling him "Rex."

So you check the old memories in the Senate and ask those who were there and knew, if pompous, pious Richard Bedford Bennett, who ruled Ottawa with a stern rod of fear, was any more confident of himself than P.E.T.

And the answer is no.

Bennett, they jog your memory, was enough of an authoritarian, and so certain of the sure wisdom of his decisions, that he could liquidate an entire department — it was the old "interior," forerunner of energy, mines and resources — and dismiss every last manjack of a civil servant.

This in mid-depression, too.

The very name "Bennett," the ruler supreme, still is invoked by Liberals at election time to remind any might - be Conservatives in the seven civil service constituencies of the National Capital Region of the Tory Terror.

But the Senate greybeards whose memories go back into the early thirties tell you that Bennett was an amateur in the uses of personal prime ministerial power compared with Trudeau.

No wonder, then, this new prime minister can stun the House of Commons with the almost casual comment that he can take Canada out of NATO "if we feel like it," and compel thousands of English-speaking civil servants to learn French, or else.

Or take, as he has made plain forget about promotion and pay and think, instead, as he said — but really did not mean — "of running elevators where there are no French-Canadians."

These and other of his astounding initiatives seem to have struck the Opposition dumb and Social Credit Rally alike, they just sit there agape.

When they recover — and they don't always manage a comeback — he answers them if he feels like it, or ignores them, grinning at their confusion.

He has become, so quickly in these 11 weeks since Parliament opened, the great-put-down artist.

Like the other day when Halifax Conservative MP Michael Forrestall, enraged at the casual Trudeau disregard of opposition demands for information on defence matters, told the prime minister to "straighten yourself out."

"Perhaps you would like to help me," smiled the PM sweetly, and sat down, leaving the fuming Mr. Forrestall to stand up and speak his piece.

Of course the Halifax MP really had nothing to say and remained seated, red-faced in embarrassment while the prime minister continued for perhaps 40 prickly seconds motioning him to get up.

Other times, if interrupted, the prime minister will simply shrug and sit down, leaving the baffled Opposition with its mouth open.

He bounces in his seat like a gymnast on a trampoline, he throws up his hands, he turns his back, he laughs, he treats the Opposition with what they can only regard as contempt.

This is the exercise of power — naked and lordly power as the supreme power of a Canadian prime minister, a power in its context of Canada unequalled by far than the authority of an American president, perhaps of any ruler this side of an uncontested dictatorship.

And unlike Mackenzie King and Louis St. Laurent who also shared their majority power with C.D. Howe, this prime minister shares it with nobody, not even his old buddy Jean Marchand.

Of course, the whole thing could blow sky-high.

And that, at this moment in political time, seems to be what the Opposition is working — but mostly wailing — for.

But as things now stand, Trudeau seems vulnerable only in whatever may be his own potential for self-destruction.

Liquor Laws

Oklahoma's Worse Still

Kingston Whig-Standard

At last we have found it — a place with dizzier liquor laws than Ontario. Where? The great southwestern state of Oklahoma, that's where.

To begin with, it is illegal to buy or sell an alcoholic drink of any kind. You can buy beer, wine or bottles of liquor in retail stores operated by private enterprise but you can't just buy a casual drink. That is, you can't unless you belong to a club. These clubs cover a wide range from the super-posh Petroleum and Cattlemen's clubs to the dreary little "Moonbeam" joints featuring "Dancing Cocktails" although a dancing cocktail we have yet to see.

Members of the high class clubs pay high initiation fees and dues. Members of the other "clubs" join by knocking on the door or by just walking in. Some charge "fees" of one dollar; most don't bother.

Restaurants are not allowed to serve any alcoholic drinks; all of them cheerfully provide "set ups" or mixers but you have to bring the bottle. Just to make matters more confusing, quite a few restaurants advertise "cocktails". How can they do it? Such places seem to be a part of motels or hotels. What difference that makes no one in Oklahoma seems to know or care.

Well, as they say, "It takes all kinds" to make the world go round.

TODAY IN HISTORY

St. Francis Xavier, a Roman Catholic missionary pioneer, died 418 years ago today — in 1552 — aged 46, near Canton. At his death, he was waiting for permission to open a Chinese mission. Born in Spain, Xavier was one of the first members of the Jesuit order and was assigned to the Portuguese Indies in 1541. He was canonized in 1622.

Waiting Game For President-Elect

Nixon Follows A Co-Operative Middle-of-the-Road Course

By ARCH MacKENZIE

With a left-over practice from more placid days, the actual transfer of power is delayed more than two months after the election. It used to be even longer.

The former Republican vice-president ran a cautious campaign in winning a thin victory on Nov. 5. Since then he has continued to demonstrate what may be a personal motto to: Prudence Makes perfect.

So far, the man who takes over from Lyndon Johnson on Jan. 20 has a theme of sorts for his four-year term. It is "Forward Together."

He has appointed a handful of senior White House assistants, including a super-chief of press information for his whole administration. All his appointees are from well-heeled and highly - organized campaign teams.

But a series of leak-proof meetings in New York or in sunny Florida have failed to cast much insight into who will be in his cabinet — except in a negative way.

It is becoming plainer who will not be in the cabinet. These include Senator Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, a Negro who says he wants to stay where he is, and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, twice Nixon's unsuccessful foe for the Republican party nomination.

Both men look themselves out of the running.

What the president-elect has done is initiate a tight leash for his vice-president, Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland. Agnew, a political novice to start with, came down with a bad foot-in-mouth malady during the campaign.

Nixon emphasized an interest in running his own foreign affairs policy. He feels himself at home in that field. He has sent former governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania on a tour of NATO European capitals and Friday dispatched Scranton on a second fact finding mission to the smouldering Middle East.

Nixon also worked out an agreement with President Johnson pending the Jan. 20 transfer of power, guaranteeing continuity in policy on Vietnam peace talk efforts.

Other than that, Nixon has given every indication that his term may be less rambunctious than Johnson's. It probably will also be much more relaxed in pace, if world events co-operate.

Nixon has not been an impetuous man by training or nature, except for some angry outbursts more than five years ago. One outburst was against the press when he lost a try for the governorship of California.

He is aware of his thin margin of victory, of the fact he is the first president elected since 1912, that Americans are frustrated over war, race and crime.

Hence, while it is expected in some quarters that Nixon will try to call for a bank of cabinet administrative activity, there may be less in any such flurry than meets the eye.

Meanwhile, as of all kinds continues to shower on him. So far he has taken a middle - of-the-road approach — neither left nor right. It is expected he will have to make some kind of pay-off to southern conservatives who stuck with him this year — but so far he hasn't.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 3, 1948.

Members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association concluded their two day convention here as they listened to addresses by Gordon McLean, president of the Montreal Provision Trades Association, and to a report of 1948 grading by W. C. Cameron, Chief, Dairy Products, Grading and Inspection Services, Ottawa.

Members of the Belleville Board of Education at a special meeting approved plans for the construction of a new five-room one storey school to be erected in the west end of the city. The location of the new school would probably be at the south-west corner of the lot on Yeomans Street which the Board has acquired from the city.

24 building permits, totalling $89,238, were issued during the month of November according to records kept by J. W. Holley, building inspector. Of the 24, the largest issued was to the St. Lawrence Construction Company for alterations to the Bank of Montreal, and was for $53,000.

December 3, 1938.

Dr. R. F. Ross, who has been resident physician at the Burwash Industrial Farm for two years, arrived in the city yesterday and intends to make his home here and practice his profession. Dr. Ross, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Ross, Goddes St. has many friends here.

Mrs. Gordon Lockhart of Brockville is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Booth, Yeomans St.

Rabbi Sachs, noted Toronto Jewish author, will be the guest speaker at the joint meeting of the Belleville Rotary, Quinte, Kiwanis and Y's Men's Club at the New Queen's Hotel.

40 YEARS AGO

December 3, 1928.

The annual election of officers in two of the groups in connection with the YMCA resulted as follows: Prep. Group, president, Ted Hall; secretary, Jack Barrett; chairman of physical and social, Frank Pepper; chairman of intellectual and religious, Cecil Redfern and R. Badgley; chairman of membership, Howard Sager; chairman of World Brotherhood: Harry Farnell, Junior School Group, president Fred Adams; secretary, Raymond Harris; chairman of physical and social, Bill Lindsay; chairman of intellectual and religious, Robert Austin; chairman of membership, Sidney White; chairman of World Brotherhood, Garnet Sinfield.

At a meeting of the Belleville Hockey Club the following officers were elected: honorary president, William Carnew; honorary vice president, Col. H. Wilson; president Col. Ed. D. O'Flynn; first vice president, George Graham: second vice president, P. F. Brockel; secretary-treasurer, W. Green; manager, Ed. Thomas; trainer, Oscar Simpson. The members of the Intermediate and junior teams are getting in good condition and no doubt will give a good account of themselves in the games to come.

An old fashioned concert was given in the basement of Holloway Street Methodist Church under the auspices of the Epworth League. It was an enjoyable event.

The Art of Mudslinging

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

Mudslinging can be fun, and it's an effective tool available for any politician running for public office. With an election just around the corner, I thought it appropriate to review the rules of mudslinging.

First rule: use it as a last resort. After all, politicians are always at one resort or another.

Second rule: don't jump the gun. The idea is to make the other candidate look bad, but be patient. He may save you the trouble with a timely faux pas of his own.

Third rule: begin by extolling your virtues, making the usual, dull promises about restraint and reform and by kissing a few babes . . . er . . . babies. Then let fly.

Fourth rule: remember, the voter has been brainwashed into regarding all candidates evil. On voting day, he (the voter) will vote positively to the least negative (or evil-seeming) candidate, which if you follow these rules will be you.

Fifth rule: save the best (actually the worst) for the end of your campaign. It is imperative not to wind it up on a positive note. This indicates weakness. And always say, "Politician, please don't promise us a "clean" election. That would be far too dull and we voters might become apathetic.

But you've never failed before have you?

Watching The Girls Pass By

(Norman Smith, editor of The Ottawa Journal)

At Nimes, having been told we couldn't get into the Greek-style temple because the guardian had gone to lunch 15 minutes too early we unkingly repaired to a sidewalk table in the sun and lunched too. I agreeably watching the university girls go by and was reminded on the oddness of the widespread French custom of all shops and businesses closing down completely from 12.00 until 2.00 and in some cases until 3.00.

I gather she was against the midday closing matter. I on the other hand was in favor of my subject of contemplation: the girls don't wear the mini mini skirts here but the way they carry themselves, shall we say and the chicness of their style of dress is more attractive than an extra four inches of thigh. Voila, Eddie McCabe wrote from Ireland last month that the girls there were more desirable than in Ottawa, and now I've been and done it too. Please omit flowers.

Reeves Defeated

Upset Victories Recorded in Hastings Municipalities

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Three upset victories were rolled up in Hastings county yesterday as voters in less than half of the rural municipalities went to the polls to elect new councils.

In Sidney township Deputy Reeve Jack M. Bush ousted incumbent, Reeve Ernest Kelly, in Hungerford township another deputy reeve, William McCrea defeated reeve R. Clarence Graham.

The hottest fight for municipal council in the South Hastings district was in Sidney township incumbent Reeve Carman Gibson was re-elected for a two-year term, defeating Bernard O'Sullivan in a relatively close fight. Reeve Gibson received 672 votes to Mr. O'Sullivan's 439.

For councillor Long it is a return to municipal office. Mr. Long previously served as councillor and reeve of the township and is also an ex-warden of the county.

Thurlow township had no election for reeve or deputy reeve as both these offices were filled by acclamation. But there was a close fight for the three seats on township council.

JACK BUSH

Elected were Fletcher Reid, with 639 votes, Garnet Denyes with 632 and Donald McKeown with 614. One other candidate, Jerry Masterson failed in his bid for a council seat with 461 votes.

As a result of yesterday's election the village of Tweed has lost distinction as an all-woman council.

Reeve Barbara Allen received acclamation for a third term of office, but two of her women councillors, Christine Sinclair and Jeanette Whitfield went down to defeat in their bid for re-election.

Elected to Tweed council were Harry Thompson with 478 votes, Dora Cournyea with 442, Kenneth Thompson with 420 and Edwin Champagne with 376.

Marmora and Lake township reeve John Wilkes received acclamation for another term of office, but seven candidates lined up in the battle for the four council seats in yesterday's election.

Elected to the four man council were George Fox with 280 votes, Dermont Bedore, 253, Thomas Devolin, 233, and Gordon Jones, 220.

There was also a battle for council in Marmora village, where Reeve William Shannon received acclamation.

The 1968 council are: Edward Mcnamara, 305; John Reynolds, 293; William Monk, 246, and Grant Ayrhart, 228. Ronald McKee with 214 votes was the defeated candidate.

There was also an upset in Hungerford township where reeve R. Clarence Graham went down to defeat at the hands of this year's deputy reeve William McCrea. The vote was 555 for Mr. McCrea to 485 for Mr. Graham.

Councillors are Lorne Gunning with 693 votes, Fred Preston with 567 and Maurice Goslah with 492. The defeated candidate was Thomas E. Cassidy with 388 votes.

Stanton Cassidy received acclamation as deputy reeve.

German-born Professor To Study U.S. Policy

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — German-born Prof. Henry Kissinger of Harvard University and a team of foreign experts will speed the plans of President-elect Richard Nixon to reamoud U.S. foreign policy.

Kissinger, who came to the United States 20 years ago as a 15-year-old refugee, gets the key role in completely reorganizing the White House security planning machinery, with emphasis on mobility to meet international emergencies.

Kissinger will be in charge of the White House "situation room," a basement enclave which keeps an around-the-clock watch on world trouble spots.

One of his first tasks will be to revitalize and streamline the policy-making National Security Council which Nixon said he intends to call into frequent and regular session.

Nixon charged during his election campaign that Johnson and President John F. Kennedy allowed the security council to fall into disuse, summoning the cabinet-level group only for rare emergency meetings.

Nixon also announced another innovation—a plan to tap the knowledge of outstanding foreign experts in an advisory capacity.

They are expected to be called in only occasionally, for advice about specific national problems or in specialized fields.

Nixon told a New York news conference he was looking for advice "in terms of trying to pick the brains of the best people in the world."

The president-elect suggested that Dr. Alastair Buchan, director of the highly regarded Institute of Strategic Studies in Britain, might be a suitable candidate as one of the foreign advisers.

Kissinger said he hoped to consult the "best people" among his wide circle of friends in the foreign academic community.

Nixon said he was thinking of foreigners now working in private jobs outside their own governments "who can make a very significant contribution to a discussion." They would be unpaid.

Buchan, 50, is the son of Lord Tweedsmuir, who gained fame as novelist John Buchan. Lord Tweedsmuir was Governor-General of Canada from 1935 to 1940.

Community College Defended

The right was challenged in the legislature by George Ben (L—Toronto Humber) who asked how many adults enrolled in the course, offered by Scarborough's Centennial College.

He also asked how many adults specialized in alchemy, vampirism, lycanthropy were-wolves "and how many are just plain witches."

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: I am driving to Syracuse, N.Y., for Christmas. Can you suggest a route from there back to Belleville that would take in some of the good skiing areas in the Ontario-Quebec area of Ontario?

ANSWER: We would suggest taking the New York Thruway to Schenectady (Exit 25), State Routes 7 and 9 to Bennington, Vt., and U.S. Route 7 north from there through Manchester, Rutland and Middlebury to Burlington, Routes 2 and 11 to Malone, N.Y., State Route 37 to Cornwall, Ont., and 401 home from there. An alternative route, which might involve somewhat more rugged driving conditions, would be to take State Route 100 northeast from Rutland, Vt., through Waterbury and Stowe to Newport, Vt. and Hwys. 5 and 50 to Magog, P.Q., and the Autoroute from there to Montreal

Near Manchester, Vt., is the big Bromley ski area which offers 22 slopes and trails, with 9 lifts. One of these, a 5,750 foot double chair lift, extends up the mountainside to an altitude of 3,260 feet. At the summit is a lookout tower commanding a view of three states.

To the east of Middlebury, Vt., is 3,823-foot Bread Loaf Mountain. About 1,400 acres of this land are the property of Middlebury College. The college snow bowl facilities include a rope tow, slopes, three pomalifts and what is said to be one of the country's largest collegiate ski jumps.

Stowe, Vt., is in a section where snow can pretty well be counted on from December through April. The area has a number of good slopes and trails.

QUESTION: We are planning to go to Miami, Fla., for the Christmas holidays. Should we write for hotel reservations?

ANSWER: The latest report is that, for Christmas and New Year's reservations, all Miami Beach hotels and motels demand a ten-night minimum stay, starting either December 22 or 23. Many are already sold out. On the Miami side, space is still available on shorter stays basis except for downtown Miami hotels during the New Year's Orange Bowl festivities. They demand a minimum three-night stay commencing December 30.

Motorcyclists, more than any other road user, have to pay particular attention to road surfaces and cambers. In wet or icy conditions, steel gratings, metal studs or even white markings on the road present a hazard to them. These polished surfaces can be very slippery.

Always make special allowances for the two-wheeled road user. Never thoughtlessly crowd him off the road or follow too closely. Because he depends so much on his sense of balance during bad weather his world can often be an unstable one.

Turning the steering wheel while the car is stationary, puts a great deal of unnecessary strain on the whole steering system. Without realizing this, many motorists do it dozens of times each week when they park the car.

The stationary front wheels create a terrific resistance against the power assist, and, by forcing the steering to turn them, you are knocking off valuable tire tread and imposing extreme loads on the steering knuckles and linkages.

Always keep the front wheels rolling, no matter how slowly, when you turn the steering wheel. It will pay off in the long run in extra tire mileage and less wear on the steering.

Renovations In Order

Trenton Voters Want To Keep Old Post Office

TRENTON — The old post office is swept, and Trentonians turned out in record numbers as they decided in favor of maintaining the old structure.

According to chief returning officer O. W. Larry, it was the post office obstacle that accounted for the "nearly 35 per cent turnout of voters."

This is an increase of five per cent over last year's figures when there was a mayoralty race. Last night's turnout represented a 10 per cent jump over figures when there was no race for the mayor's post.

There were 1136 votary who decided in favor of maintaining the structure and renovating it for municipal office purposes. With this plan the present municipal offices may be used for a new police station.

"We will make the best out of the decision," said Mayor James MacDonald, "and I expect council will initiate a further study into the situation to see just how best to go about it."

Projected costs to renovate the old building have run as high as $250,000 which included the purchase price.

The second choice, according to the ballot, was that of the town disposing of the land by sale. There were 810 Trentonians who favored this alternative.

The third choice, to demolish the building received the support of a scant 680 members of the electorate.

The old post office dispute has raged on for three years and the three members elected to council last night had words to say on the votary decision.

Duncan MacDonald, who was re-elected to council, said he "was happy with the people's choice."

Paul Tripp, also re-elected, was "pleased that the building will be put to some useful purpose."

And Stanley Ketcheson, newly elected member to council, said he "was glad it was put to a vote of the people and that he will abide by their decision."

Mayor MacDonald previously had views of the building being demolished and the land being used to enhance the downtown shopping core.

"The people have made up their minds and we will do our best to carry out their decision," he concluded.

Board of Education Veteran Stanley Ketcheson Moves Over to Win Trenton Council Seat

By BOB AVERY
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Voters here last night chose three members for council—among them a man who said he "was sitting at home one night and decided to enter the race."

The remaining two positions were filled by incumbents Paul Tripp and Duncan McDonald.

Stanley Ketcheson, a 14-year veteran of the Trenton board of education will enter his first term at council. He ousted incumbent Edward Todd and and Charles Hilton.

He ranked third in the six man race with 1,105 votes.

"This is my first try and I made it," said a smiling Mr. Ketcheson. "I wasn't as well organized as some candidates."

Incumbent McDonald topped the polls with 1,432 votes and Paul Tripp came next with a total of 1,351.

"Needless to say I am very pleased with the vote," said Mr. McDonald. "But I did feel very confident going into the campaign."

And Mr. Tripp was "very happy to get back in." He said he would be working for increased industrial growth for Trenton.

Incumbent Todd, who was unseated and polled number five with 841 votes in the six man race said he was "not entirely disappointed."

"I will think about running some time in future but I have no definite remarks now," said the defeated candidate.

Gerrit Beutnix, making his first attempt at public office, polled the least number of votes with 672.

"But I do not have a feeling of defeat," he stated, "and I will be back next year."

Charles Hilton, with 916 votes ranked fourth in the race, and was the only candidate who did not come to election headquarters in the old town hall over the police station.

He was unavailable for any comment concerning a future candidacy.

Chief returning officer O. W. Larry said 35 per cent of Trenton's 7,214 registered voters turned out. "This is a five per cent increase over last year, when we had a mayoralty issue with which to contend," he said.

"All candidates had predicted a heavy turnout due to the post office plebicite and the board of education election."

Wire Screen Suggested For Cells

A jury inquiring into the Oct. 23 death of Franklin William Sedore last night endorsed city Police Chief Douglas Crosbie's recommendation that wire screening be secured to the interior of cell doors to prevent suicide attempts by prisoners.

The five-man jury, convened by Coroner Dr. William Beattie, heard police evidence that Sedore, 22, was found hanging by his shirt from the barred-door in his city police station cell 10 minutes after he had been booked for possession of beer in a place other than his residence.

The deceased's sister, Mrs. May Cathcart of Belleville, told the inquest her brother had previously been under psychiatric care in Syracuse, where doctors said he had attempted to take his own life.

In their verdict, the jurors found that Sedore's death was due to "hanging by his own hand" and recommended that "a protected form of covering be placed on the interior of cells" and additional lighting for cell block areas.

TOPS POLLS—Council veteran Duncan McDonald topped the polls in yesterday's voting.

RETURNED — Paul Tripp was returned to Trenton council after yesterday's vote. Councillor Tripp, chairman of the industrial committee, campaigned on his past record.

Changes Seat

Stanley Ketcheson, former chairman of the Trenton School Board, won a council seat last night in his first run for municipal office.

Long Long Night

Four Ballots Created Confusion

To say that there were complications involved in yesterday's four barrelled municipal and school board elections throughout the Quinte district would be putting it mildly.

And as it turned out that was also more than a little confusion — especially in some of the rural municipalities where getting the returns to the proper returning officers were really complicated.

For instance, in some municipalities there was the municipal election for council and reeve, an election for the new county public school board of education, an election for separate school trustees on the public board and then an election for county separate school board.

And the returns for all four ballots had to go to different returning officers.

But he was required to forward county school board vote totals to Huntingdon Reeve Clayton Wright; vote totals for separate school trustees on the county public school board had to go to Belleville city clerk Adam Stalker, and the vote for the combined separate school board had to go to Tyendinaga Reeve clerk William Walsh.

Just before one o'clock this morning Mr. Kinlin was still tabulating and he said the separate school vote returns would have to wait.

"I'm tired and ready to go home," he said.

And Tyendinaga clerk William Walsh had the same idea as he waited in vain until after midnight for separate school board returns from some of the adjoining municipalities.

Education Veterans

Unity of Purpose Links Winning School Board Candidates

By LINDA GLEDART
Staff Reporter

The two seats allotted to Trenton on the new Hastings County board of education will be filled by Mrs. Jean Hutchison and Ralph Weaver.

Mr. Weaver led the electoral race, polling in a total of 1,333 votes, with Mrs. Hutchison trailing by a close 1,314. Aspiring candidate, George Greer was defeated with a count of 704 votes.

Both Mrs. Hutchison and Mr. Weaver are long time members of the Trenton board of education and are closely associated with the problems of their own area.

This experience will serve them in good stead on the new 16 member board, which enacts one of the most important changes in the education field.

Asked what her reaction was to winning, Mrs. Hutchison said simply, "Frankly I have cold feet because we are in for quite a time."

She termed her election to office as "holding a terrific responsibility" and stressed the importance of teamwork and complete co-operation between all board members.

Her co-member, Mr. Weaver, stressed that the "interests of the pupils will be in the foreground," and that "we are going to make an equitable contribution on the part of the town of Trenton."

Mr. Weaver, who has been with the Trenton board of education for more than eight years, spoke of "levelling up" the standards of education through the newly - elected board.

They both emphasized the idea of unity within the organization.

"To get this equality to work there must be a combination of common sense, tact, and co-operation", said Mrs. Hutchison.

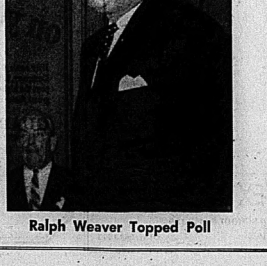
She spoke of the importance and tremendous responsibility that the future director of education for the board will have. "He must be a man of immense tact and have qualifications to cope with the workload involved," she said. "He will be a very powerful figure."

The hiring of the director will be discussed in a meeting to be held on Dec. 9.

Mrs. Hutchison said "the big board will be bureaucratic in a way . . . but the board has yet to decide exactly what methods will be involved regarding various policies which in themselves could cause this to come about."

She stated "I like the educational organization we did have because today we often find ourselves creating corporations that seem to run away." Mrs. Hutchison said this would not be the fate of the new board, although she admitted a larger organization does get bigger and more complicated.

"The board will have an awful lot of problems," asserted Mrs. Hutchison. "For example the board will ask what has priority and in what direction they are going. There is a provision for adjustment of two years, which will undoubtedly serve to iron out any particularly pressing problems, in either organization or policies.



"The channels of communication between parents and teachers in relation to the Hastings board will be one of increased need on the part of all concerned," she stated.

She emphasized the increased area the board is now responsible for, and "if parents and teachers want action, they will have to get out and push.

"Most of all they will have to support us at the county board level."

During his campaign, Mr. Weaver emphasized his desire to establish a proper liaison between parents and the board — but most important to consider and develop the aims and long term objectives of the pupils of the county.

"We must put the interests of the pupils first," he said. "We will do our best," added Mr. Weaver.

Newcomer Tops Picton Polls In Race for Council Seats

By DAVID LEES
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — William Lane, a newcomer to Picton politics, led the polls last night with 1,097 votes, the highest vote cast for any of the seven candidates for six council positions.

The only loser of the election was Mrs. Cynthia Arnaud.

Other winners were Harry Abram, Mrs. Margaret Ackerman, James Bird, Harold McLoughlin, and Mrs. Bessie Ward.

Mr. Lane served on the Prince Edward Collegiate Board, but has had no other political experience although he has been an active critic of the town council.

He commented prior to the elections "If I'm going to criticise council I should put myself in a position where I too can be criticized."

Standing second in the polls was incumbent councillor James Bird who drew 964 votes.

Mr. Bird normally leads the polls. He had served on council for 10 of the last 12 years — broken only by a period of poor health.

At one time or another Mr. Bird boasts of having served on all committees of the council.

His pet project last year has been campaigning for the purchase of a new fire truck, which he says is vital to the needs of the community and the surrounding area.

The new truck has been turned down repeatedly by council, but says Mr. Bird "I will continue to be a thorn in the flesh of the finance committee."

Mrs. Margaret Ackerman, another newcomer to council, placed third with 932 votes. She is head nurse at Picton Memorial Hospital, and is a member of the library board.

Although never a member of council, Mrs. Ackerman states that during the last two years she has attended nearly all of he Picton council meetings.

She said last night she would study the issues and do her best.

Mrs. Bessie Ward polled the fourth highest vote. She is a long-standing member of council with four years of office behind her.

During the elections she stood on the past record of council but pointed out "I have the best interest of the town at heart."

She has been a member of the finance committee, the recreation and parks committee, and the planning committee.

Harold McLoughlin, another veteran councillor placed fifth in the polls with 880 votes.

Mr. McLoughlin served on council for the past two years. He is a Picton lawyer who has decried the lack of involvement in municipal affairs."

He is particularly concerned about the 'brain drain' in Picton, and says that one solution is attracting 'new industry.'

Harry Abram, a newcomer to politics was also elected.

Mr. Abram began the race with confidence saying "I have to think positive, or I would not be in politics."

He would make no promises saying that he was new to politics, and did not yet know what to exyect. He said that he felt young people should become more involved in municipal politics.

At 27 Mr. Abram is the youngest councillor. He is a salesman for Grindrod Motors in Picton.

McFarland Tops Polls Again

By DONALD MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Seven for seven.

Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton came through again last night — for the 19th year straight.

He beat mayorally opponent Reginald Moore by a margin of almost three to one. The last election McFarland had to fight, in 1960, he won by a margin of two to one.

In all seven electoral sections the 18 year mayor of Picton came through as a winner.

The first polls to come in at election headquarters at the Royal Hotel were 166 to 83 and 110 to 34 in favor of Mr. McFarland.

Almost immediately opponent Reginald Moore said that he was not going home disappointed.

"We set out to do something in this town and we've done it," he said.

It wasn't until the final poll came in at headquarters that Mr. McFarland arrived at election headquarters to make his victory speech.

He and his wife as well as Harvey McFarland Jr. and his wife all made an appearance at the victory celebration.

Mr. McFarland told his supporters, "I have been again given the inspiration to do my best for you and the entire town of Picton."

"For those who did not vote for me," Mr. McFarland said, "I hope that in the future they will realize that they should have."

"We will work together for the benefit of each and every one in the county," finished the mayor.

"God bless each and every one of you who voted for me," he said, "and each and every one of you who didn't."

Mayor McFarland ran on no platform other than his record and said, prior to the election, that "the voters know me, they know what I've done and they know what I can do."

His opponent, Mr. Moore, cited the Proctor-Silex strike as the main issue in the election and stated that the mayor should take it upon himself to help resolve the dispute.

Upon his election tonight, Mayor McFarland will now embark upon his 19th year as mayor of Picton.

The Coffee Tastes Excellent

Candidate Moore Loses By Three to One Edge

PICTON (Staff) — They drank and danced at the Royal Hotel — but nobody showed up to eat the food at the headquarters of Reginald Moore, Picton candidate for mayor.

Two or three supporters at a time wandered in throughout the night to give support but later to offer condolences.

Mr. Moore lost to long standing mayor Harvey McFarland by almost three to one — the final figures giving Mr. McFarland a majority of 662.

Most questions directed at Mr. Moore were answered by his wife who has acted as campaign manager.

Mrs. Moore commented that the team was not "going home disappointed."

She said they had accomplished what they had set out to do.

Cunningham Wins in Ameliasburg

Townships Elect Reeves and Councillors

PICTON (Staff) — All around Prince Edward County election returns were anxiously awaited last night as reeves, councillors and school board members were elected.

The school trustees elected were Ted Rutter and Douglas Caley.

Elected to the new county board of education were George Flower, leading the way with 619 votes followed by Harmon Montgomery with 594 votes.

The other trustee elected was Jerald Anderson who had polled 476 votes.

Athol Township saw Keith Brummell elected as reeve with 206 votes. His opponents John Whiteford and Bessie Dulmage polled close seconds with 172 and 147 votes respectively.

Another acclamation was in North Marysburg township where Reeve Harold Harrison will serve another term as reeve.

Elected as councillors were David Whalen with 264 votes, Gordon Norton with 254 votes, Jack wells with 249 votes and Mrs. Avis Heal who polled 243 votes.

Allan Bailey was elected reeve of South Marysburg township with a total of 189 votes over his opponent Harold Miller.

All other elections in the township were by acclamation with Bernard Keogh, Arthur Ford, Horace Brewer and Joe McAlpine elected as councillors and James Plomer elected as the county board of education trustee.

Elected as councillors in the township were Max MacDonald, Leland Doxsee and Wayne Lindsay. John Huskinson was elected as the school trustee for the county board of education.

Wellington saw William Greer leading the way as councillor followed by George Bailley, Keith Barnett and Douglas Marvin.

Both school trustee Wilfred Burrus and Utilities commissioner Robert Quick were elected by acclamation.

In Hillier township which had no election due to total acclamation, Gordon Lloyd will serve as reeve with Robin Adair, Ross Benway, Ralph Margetson and John Weit as councillors.

Clare McFaul was elected by acclamation as the school trustee.

Polls Are Slow In Ameliasburg

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Correspondent

AMELIASBURG — In some ways the means of communication between the polling subdivisions and the returning officer at the township hall here has deteriorated if anything, in the past 25 years.

At the township hall to receive the returns from the advance poll and nine polling sub-divisions last night were a number who recalled earlier days when deputy-returning officers brought results from across the township through six-foot high snow banks by horse-drawn sleighs.

Later on, to speed up the process of making the final standings known to the public faster moving tractors were employed. There was no telephone at the township hall at that time.

Last night, the results from the first poll started coming into the clerk's office one-half hour after voting officially ended. However, before all the figures were in some of the impatient onlookers claimed they could have walked with the information to the returning officer quicker.

By 9.30 p.m. all but two polling sub-divisions had been heard from.

A half hour later, with incumbent Reeve George Cunningham present in the audience, the long wait began to unnerve the more curious.

A half hour later — still no figures from polls at Albury and Consecon. Reeve Cunningham appeared restless, moving back and forth between the hall and the clerk's office where the telephone is located.

The tone irritated, however, called for an explanation for the delay.

After a further half - hour hold - up, councillor Arnold Wetherall, who posted the results as they arrived during the evening, marked in the missing figures and final totals. It was after 11 p.m. by then.

In the election for reeve, George Cunningham was victorious with 602 votes against Adams' 454.

The successful candidates in the race for county board of education seats were George Flower 619, Harmon Montgomery 594, Jerald Anderson 476. Defeated were Carl Reid and Mrs. Mary Marshall.

A total of 1016 went to the polls — better than one-third of the electorate.

'Playboy Band' Performs at Party

Party Time in Prince Edward

By DONALD MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Setting the beat for the pollsters at the Royal Hotel election headquarters in Picton last night was the "Playboy Band" and a few 'out of the ordinary' events.

First of all Mrs. Mary Goode, who ran for councillor in Hallowell township and lost, led the group in a few numbers.

Said one spectator, "If they had heard her singing it is doubtful she would have lost the election."

And then to everybody's surprise and pleasure Norman March, the owner and star singer of the Rickarton Hotel in Picton got up with the band and belted out a few bars.

March sang numerous numbers and was consistently called back for encores.

"I used to play the stage when I was young," he stated.

And indeed he did.

From Massey Hall through Shea's Hippodrome to the Royal York the March Brothers were renowned.

Norman March said he and his brothers left the business after the war but one thing is for sure — he retains some of the showmanship that made the trio famous.

Picton Turnout Is Tops

Approximately 1,800 of the 3,000 eligible voters turned out to fill the ballot boxes.

Why the low turnout . . . nobody knows.

But one election spectator said that perhaps it was because of "the inevitable outcome."

"First of all there were no real issues and secondly Harry J. McFarland has been Mayor for the past 18 years."

Three Acclaimed

Fourteen Elected To County Board

PICTON (Staff) — Four of the 14 County board of education school trustees in Prince Edward County were elected by acclamation.

Jim Plomer of South Marysburg Township, Wilfred Burrus of Wellington and Clare McFaul of Hillier Township were all acclaimed to the county school board.

In Picton Lloyd Seeley and Mrs. S. W. D. Hart were elected to the county board of education.

Rounding off the other eight school board trustees elected in the county were George Flower, Harmon Montgomery and Jerald Anderson, all of Ameliasburg Township.

In Athol Township Hutton Martin was elected to the county board and in North Marysburg William Smith was elected as a trustee.

Hallowell Township saw Ted Rutter and Douglas Caley elected as school trustees and Sophiasburg Township saw John Huskinson elected to the county board.

Gerald Bond of Picton was acclaimed as the separate school representative to the new Prince Edward County board.

Music Pupils Present Annual Recital in Commemorating St. Cecilia's Day

Canada Music Week was brought to a fitting close with the third annual recital to commemorate St. Cecilia's Day, the patron saint of music. After the recital, past president and recital convener, Mrs. G. H. Rennie and M. C. for the second half of the program — the presentation of the awards. Mrs. Rennie explained the significance of the date for the recital in her remarks. She also noted that funds for the awards are raised from the proceeds of the three yearly recitals. One unique fact was that a brother and sister from each of two families received an award. James Noakes also received the silver medal from the Royal Conservatory for the highest mark in Ontario grade 10 organ exams in 1968. He also received the Peter Screaton Skinner scholarship for highest marks in first year organ, Bachelor of Arts program.

Wendy Trew, co-recipient of the award for grade VIII, was unable to be present to receive her award as she is now in Magog, Quebec.

President, Mrs. D. Wall presented the awards for the highest marks in the 1968 examination sessions for this area to the following: Grade X organ, James Noakes; Grade IX piano, Gaye Richards; Grade VIII piano, Linda Noakes, Wendy P. Trew; Grade VI piano, Anne Marie Aquino; Grade V piano, Thomas Aquino.

Parade Plans Now Finalized

TWEED — The members of the Tweed Chamber of Commerce held their regular meeting at the Hotel Tweedmuir for November when final plans for the coming Santa Claus Parade were completed.

Bob Hanna was appointed to arrange for a canvass of merchants and business men to obtain donations to aid in covering the cost of treats for the children who will be following the parade.

Floats will be welcomed from local places of business, and from out-of-town as well. Persons wishing to take part in the parade are asked to contact either the president, Kenneth Little, or the vice-president David Martin. At least two farm tractors and wagons are needed for the parade, and offers will be welcomed.

The C of C is also asking for help in preparing the floats for the parade. Volunteers should contact the parade chairman, Wallis Moffat.

The Tweed Santa Claus parade will be held Saturday Dec. 7, starting at 2 p.m.

There will be prizes for the best float, treats for all the children, sponsored by the Tweed Chamber of Commerce.

Honor Students Receive Awards

Bernard Hunt the chairman of the Tweed-Hungerford High School Board, told the capacity audience that they might well be attending the last graduation exercises ever to be held in the Tweed High School, and certainly the last to be held in the school under the administration of a local school board.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1969 the school will be administered by the Hastings County Board of Education, and "its future will be in their hands," said Mr. Hunt.

Guest speaker for the evening was a former graduate, John W. LeSage, BA now a member of the staff of the Barrie North District Collegiate Institute, where he is head of the Mathematics Department. Mr. LeSage was the winner of the Shell Prize Award for Mathematics in 1966, and co-author of a text book on Secondary School Mathematics.

He was introduced by a former teacher, John F. Burns of Tweed and thanked by Michael McCormick, president of the Students' Council for 1968-69.

In a well-ranging address, Mr. LeSage reviewed his years in Tweed and as a student at the local High School. In a more serious vein, he told the students that they must be tolerant to differences between old and young, race, color, and creed, but intolerant toward wrong.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

BAYSIDE BROWNIES

Brownies Miss Cutting, Eva Jolliffe, Barbara Watson and Barbara Consul were at the door to escort Madame Commissioner, Millie Broughm to the chair of honor.

The ceremony commenced when Brownie Patsy Finkle was called upon to be Fairy Queen and to collect the Fairy God. The Brownies then led Madam Commissioner Broughm a special welcome and she in turn spoke briefly to the Brownies. Brown Owl, Jean Millar introduced the acting Brown Owl of the first Bayside Pack Janice Worentin, the retiring Brown Owl, Marion Ackerman, Guide Captain Sharon Schleger, the three Patrol leaders, Tawny Owl Elaine Consul and Grey Owl Selina Dunn.

Brown Owl Jean Millar called Madam Commissioner Broughm and Brown Owl Janice Werkenten to the toadstool. Brownies Theresa Fiskle, Michele Spence and Lynn McMurray were called and Madam Commissioner Broughm presented them with their wings. Each was given a magic key to unlock the gate leading to Guide land. They were met by patrol leader and in turn were introduced to guide captain Sharon Schleger.

The meeting closed after which games were played. Lunch was served by the golden hand brownies.

Eye Glass Collection Successful

In co-operation with H. A. Thompson of the Missionary Optical Service, the Interact Club of Colborne has been collecting used eye glasses which will be reclassified and repaired and redistributed in underdeveloped countries by this voluntary service.

To date, a total of 117 pairs of glasses, 76 cases and 50 lenses have been collected.

Anyone who may have used eyeglasses they wish to donate are asked to mail them to Donald Davis, R. R. 4, Colborne, Ontario.

Six-month Waiting Period Proposed

MOSCOW (Reuters)—An old Russian custom of publishing wedding banns six months before marriage has been proposed as a solution to the Soviet Union's rising divorce rate.

Komsomolskaya Pravda, newspaper of the Young Communist League, suggested young couples should be required to wait six months from the time they become engaged to their wedding.

The waiting period, the newspaper said, might prevent marriages that fall apart after periods as short as three days because the husband and wife find that they do not know each other.

It cites two cases of couples who were married on a Saturday and turned up at the divorce office the following Tuesday.

Although the current divorce rate is officially cited as one for every four marriages, the newspaper quoted a local registry official as saying that each month she records about 400 marriages and 250 to 300 divorces.

The current mandatory waiting period between registration and marriage is one month. But Komsomolskaya Pravda said even this period can be avoided by persuading village officials near big cities to ignore regulations.

Church Groups

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN

DESERONTO — Nearly all of the active members of the Presbyterian Church were present for the November meeting, held last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Donald McMillan. As has become the custom, the first part of the meeting was given over to the work of the Missionary Society, with the business of the Ladies' Aid.

Mrs. Charles Griffiths, the president, conducted the worship service, assisted by Mrs. Blake Moore and Mrs. Kay Hood. An introduction to mission study, "New Acts in Mission" was shared by Mrs. Albert Walker and Mrs. Griffiths. Two appropriate readings brought this portion of the meeting to a close.

Business of the Ladies' Aid concerned final plans for the bazaar and tea to be held Saturday, November 23. The Christmas theme will be followed. As this group is small, the event is necessarily modest, but is enjoyable, and is well patronized. The group is always especially proud of the table which displays handiwork. This year they are featuring candles, a new craft for them.

Mrs. Dorothy McCullough has again invited the group to her home for the Christmas party, which will follow a brief meeting.

During the social hour which followed the meeting Mrs. Moore assisted the hostess to serve refreshments.

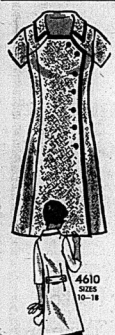
Women's Institutes

(Mount Pleasant-Rawdon U.C.W.)



On Wednesday evening, 25 members convened at the church hall for the November meeting of the Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church women.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe welcomed the group and opened the meeting with the theme poem and joy. Gifts were brought for the Fred Victor Mission in Toronto. Mrs. Donald Robinson and Mrs. Mac Sharpe conducted the devotional with a hymn and prayer.

Mrs. I. David read the Bible lesson and Mrs. Robert H. Hoard rendered a vocal solo, while Mrs. Tom Cousens outlined the study chapter. Mrs. William McAdam introduced her niece, Miss Doris Baker, R.N. who has spent the past year at Wenah Memorial Hospital, Hazelton, B.C. She gave a most interesting travelogue with colorful slides and also displayed several items of exquisite bead work which the Indian women had fashioned.

The hospital has 50 beds, three doctors, 12 graduate nurses and one technician. It serves 5,000 people and 75 per cent of the patients are Indians. It is situated in the bush in North Central B.C. Mrs. Johnson voiced thanks to Doris and presented her with a gift. Mrs. G. Joslin closed the meeting.

Following the social hour, several interesting pictures depicting scenes at the hospital mounted in cardboard were viewed by the group.

One Needs Moral Support on Sticking to A Diet

By DORIS CLARK

One year ago teen-ager Libby Henderson weighed 209 pounds and felt as graceful as a ton of bricks. In October, at 132 pounds and five-foot-nine, she was crowned princess at the Canadian Coast-to - Coast Calorie Counters convention.

She had had the greatest weight loss of any member within the preceding year. She combined diet and exercise. Mainly she eliminated fats and potatoes, and cut down on the size of portion of everything she ate.

Boy friends are a part of Libby's new world. "Boys did not look at me before," she said. And her doctor says she is his prize patient.

The Five C's, as this new and completely Canadian organization is nicknamed works this magic regularly. What a girl needs is often the moral support to stick with a diet; and members weigh in at every meeting. Branches are sprouting all over Canada.

A THIN TIME OF IT

Potatoes browned can make you round;

And whipping cream adds breadth of beam.

A sugar lump — and even liquor

Makes you thicker.

Forgive me if my stomach squawks;

It's been reduced to celery stalks!

Dear Doris: I am a middle-aged divorcee raising two teen-aged boys. I do not wear a wedding band and would very much appreciate your opinion on what the etiquette regarding this is. Does it look as if I have never been married? If so, I will buy a band and wear it.

I disliked my husband a great deal by the time I left him and didn't want to wear his ring. Also, I'll be moving into a new neighborhood and don't want to make the wrong impression. — Divorcee

Dear Divorcee: Better get one and put it on the proper finger. Otherwise there will be two lively young question marks running in and out of your house and starting folks talking.

Wearing a plain gold band is not going to mean having to live with their father again. Relax.

Sole Fillets with Crab Stuffing

By MARY MOORE

Six of us went out on the town to dinner. After examining the menu as one man we ordered Sole Fillets Marguery with Crab Stuffing. The choice was right and my companions helped me to analyse the contents.

Three evenings later I served my version of it to four of those who had tasted them before and I received high marks.

CRAB-STUFFED SOLE FILLETS MARGUERY (serves 4)

1 can (5 ¼ - oz. drained weight) Canadian crabmeat.

8 teaspoons genuine mayonnaise

8 tiny (1") fresh mushrooms

2½ tablespoons butter

5 teaspoons flour

½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon M.S.G. (accent)

¼ teaspoon paprika

chicken or cream

1 cup liquid (from canned crab and maybe thawed fish fillets — see below — plus milk or light cream)

NOTE: if fresh frozen fillets are used thaw and catch liquid that collects (for sauce later).

Divide fillets into eight strips as evenly as possible.

Drain and reserve brine from can of crabmeat. At one end of each fillet strip place an eighth of the crabmeat and onto it measure one teaspoon m a y o n n a i s e. Roll up and place, open side down, in buttered shallow baking dish that may be carried to the table. Repeat for remaining seven fillets.

Make Sauce by melting butter and blend in flour, salt, M.S.G., paprika and chicken oxo cube, then stirring in fish-milk (or cream) liquid until thick. Scrub the tiny mushrooms, break off and chop stems finely and add to sauce. Perch a mushroom cap on top of each fillet roll, press down a little to prevent toppling. Spoon sauce evenly over all being sure each mushroom cap is coated with sauce. (NOTE: at this stage you may refrigerate this if you want to prepare it in advance.) Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until it bubbles all over. If dish is at room temperature it requires about 25 minutes. If from refrigerator bake about 35 minutes or until bubbling. The fish requires very little cooking. Be sure not to overcook it or its delicacy is offended. Serve three colorful vegetables such as stuffed baked cheese-topped potatoes, broccoli and glazed carrots or mashed squash to make a beautiful and satisfying dinner plate.

Ann Landers

Cat Makes Selection Of Girl's Friends

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you believe animals can size up people better than humans? Well, they can and I have proof. Call it instinct or whatever you want, but it's a fact. — • • •

We have a cat of uncertain parentage. He is yellow with stripes. We named him "Romeo" because he has so many girl friends.

ANN LANDERS

Romeo has a way of brushing up against good people and purring, like his little motor is running. When Romeo doesn't like a person, he humps up his back and spits.

A few months ago our daughter became friendly with a man who was a mystery to all of us. Romeo hated Floyd from the first day he stepped into our home. One evening Romeo lashed out and clawed Floyd's highly polished shoes. Before we could pull him off, he had torn Floyd's socks and scratched his ankles.

When our daughter announced she was going to marry Floyd we were not very happy. Romeo was depressed — he didn't eat for two days. One week before the wedding, Floyd skipped town and left no forwarding address. Our daughter nearly had a nervous breakdown. Romeo perked up and started to eat again.

Our daughter insists that iron now on she'll watch Romeo's reaction to her boyfriends. She swears she will never marry anyone Romeo doesn't like. What do you think of this, Ann Lander? — VANCOUVER.

DEAR VAN: One need only look at the soaring divorce rate to conclude that some cats might make better selections than some people.

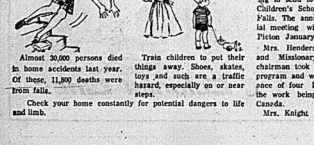
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Does my husband need to be straightened out or am I overly sensitive? We have been married 18 months. This is my first marriage, Conrad's second.

Whenever he introduces me to friends (and this has been going on from the day we married) he says, "Meet Charlotte, my new wife. My first wife died four years ago."



I don't think it is necessary for Conrad to mention his first wife when he introduces me. It's almost as if he is apologizing. I have mentioned this to him but he insists he doesn't mean anything by it. He says it's just something to say.

What is your opinion, Ann? — PITTSBURGH MRS.

DEAR MRS.: What Conrad needs is something else to say. Suggest a substitute sentence. How's this for openers? "I'd like you to meet my wife Chyristie. We've been married 18 months and she still looks like a bride, doesn't she?"

'The Great Lakes' Is Topic At Study Guild Meeting

"The Great" Lakes" was the program topic at the monthly meeting of the Women's Study Guild, held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, 75 Victoria Ave.

Information was read concerning the Guild's sponsored child in Marseille, France.

Mrs. D. J. Gill led a worship service containing many Biblical references to the seas and stressing the great gift of water and the need to avoid pollution and conserve pure water in lakes and streams.

In this way the mood was admirably set for the wealth of information given by Mrs. Rose Kincaid and Mrs. (Capt.) Jack Buchanan. Both of these Prince Edward County families were personally involved in sailing the lakes.

Pictures of ships and lighthouses added interest.

Mrs. Kincaid outlined the history of navigation on the Great Lakes, commencing with Jean Nicolet. In 1678 La Salle had "The Griffon" built at Cayuga Creek. Everything for this construction had to be carried from France to Niagara. It was later lost in Lake Huron and found again in 1949.

After many ships had vanished in Lake Superior, the Superior Shoal was charted in 1929. The story of Silver Island in Lake Superior was related, and the construction of the early canals. Before 1840 there was a private canal at Welland with a draught of ten feet. Now it is 27 feet. About 1824 there was a similar private canal at Carrying Place.

After 1830 many steamers were built in Prince Edward County. John Tait was the master-builder.

Many cargoes went from Picton to the United States and many ships were wrecked between Point Peter and the Main Duck Islands.

Fishing was also a main industry in Prince Edward County and the kinds and quantities of fish were mentioned. Now Provincial Parks are being developed and becoming well-known.

Mrs. Buchanan described her trips with her captain husband on freight boats of mixed cargo — and mixed crew — from Montreal to the head of the lakes. One French crew she remembered was paid off at Port Colborne at the end of their trip with $7 each.

She also painted a vivid word picture of the typical sailor's wife, alone with her children for many months of the year, with the work of a farm and apple orchards as well as the constant worry and fear for her husband.

Mrs. George Wishart and Mrs. Ashley were hostesses for the evening and Mrs. Peggy Cochrane presided over the meeting.

U.C.W. Meeting

The November general meeting of Holloway St. United Church Women was held in the Sunday School room. Mrs. Coulter was in charge of the devotional opening while Mrs. Way read the Scripture.

The treasurer's report was given including a report of the bazaar. The roll call was taken and the correspondence read. It was decided to make a quilt and send it to the Victor Home; a membership tea will be held in January.

The members are to bring gifts to the December meeting to send to the Retarded Children's School at Smiths Falls. The annual Presbyterial meeting will be held in Picton January 29th.

Mrs. Henderson, Christian and Missionary Education chairman took charge of the program and with the assistance of four ladies outlined the work being done across Canada.

Mrs. Knight explained the location, accommodation and world of the home mission hospitals across Canada; Mrs. Campbell spoke on what is done for the immigrants coming to our country; Mrs. Outlingdyke told of the Fred Victor Mission and the Victor Home in Toronto, and Mrs. Bird told of the Indians and Eskimos.

Mrs. Henderson outlined how the boats and planes operate along the coast of British Columbia. The Thos. Crosby the 5th and the Alert Bay Marine Mission.

She closed a very interesting program by explaining this is where our Missionary and Maintenance money goes. The meeting was closed after which unit I served lunch.

Trudeau Offers Share of Offshore Resources to Provinces

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Monday offered the provinces what he termed a generous share of undersea mineral resources off the Canadian coast, but at least one provincial premier said he will "never accept" the new formula.

Mr. Trudeau proposed in the Commons that coastal provinces control the wealth behind administrative lines drawn close along their coastlines.

The federal government would not exercise its legal right to all offshore rights, but would assume administrative control of the continental shelf beyond the "mineral resource administration lines."

The revenue from this much larger area, where 90 per cent of offshore oil and gas drilling is done, would be split 50-50 with the provinces.

Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand said his province would never accept a situation in which "the owner should receive 10 per cent of his territory."

He said in an interview Quebec has never accepted the Supreme Court of Canada test-case decision last year that gave the federal government authority over all offshore mineral rights off the British Columbia coast.

Mr. Trudeau said it would be up to the provinces to decide how to share their half of the revenue from the federal-controlled area. The federal government would only involve itself reluctantly in this part of the division of the spoils.

The administration lines would be drawn anywhere from a half-mile to a mile off the coastline. But exceptions would be made to permit the provinces to administer large bodies such as the Georgia Strait, Bay of Fundy and the Northumberland Strait.

Reaction from other provincial premiers and opposition members in the Commons was mixed to the proposal, which gives coastal provinces administrative control over and all revenue from a nine-per-cent slice of the 1,200,000-square-mile continental shelf.

Two provinces without ocean borders, Alberta and Saskatchewan, would presumably not share in the revenue from the development on the landward side of the administrative lines.

Gerald Baldwin, Conservative House leader in the Commons, said the federal position leaves little room for negotiation by the provinces.

In the Atlantic region, Premier Joseph R. Smallwood of Newfoundland was "pleased" with the arrangement. Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick was "generally in accord."

There was nothing definite from Prince Edward Island. Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia said it appeared the federal government would get jurisdiction over lands "we believe to be ours."

Premier John Robarts of Ontario said in Toronto that his province's direct interest in the question of underwater mineral rights lies in Hudson Bay where the division lines have not yet been established.

Premiers W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia and Walter Weir of Manitoba said they were reserving comment until they could study the report.

However, Mr. Weir said the offer should not apply to Hudson Bay which is inland water and "should be treated in the same way as the Great Lakes are treated in the southern part of Canada and central part of North America."

Mr. Trudeau said the federal government is sharing what the courts say belong in federal jurisdiction. He hoped the sharing would be settled quickly by negotiation. For its part the federal government was beginning with "a generous gift" to the provinces.

He doubted the federal-provincial constitutional conference this month was a proper forum to negotiate the final sharing arrangement.

On the question of whether the provincial governments might seek a greater share through the courts, Mr. Trudeau said that perhaps the provinces stand to gain more by taking the 50-per-cent share than going to the courts and perhaps gaining nothing.

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition members of Parliament concede that the 1965 Canada-U.S. automobile pact has met with a fair degree of success in stimulating the Canadian auto industry.

One thing it has signally failed to do, however is bring car prices in Canada into line with those in the U.S.

The point was pounded home at the same price as Americans can, we will have proved to Canadian taxpayers that this program has been worthwhile."

Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said production of passenger vehicles in Canada had increased by 28 per cent since 1964. The productivity gap between U.S. and Canadian production had been cut to 20 per cent from 32.

Productivity increased by eight per cent last year compared with a five-per-cent increase in the U.S. The imbalance between auto imports and exports and been cut by $351,000,000 last year from $547,000,000 in 1965.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) charged that Canadian automobile firms, almost exclusively U.S.-owned, are making exorbitant profits. Canadian governments had been too stupid to pass legislation requiring them to reveal their profits.

Mr. Orlikow said he agreed with Mr. Pepin about the "good things" that the free-trade pact had accomplished. However, the Canadian consumer had not benefitted.

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of the federal housing inquiry appear anxious to promote their ideas after listening to other people's suggestions at intermittent hearings across the country for 11 weeks.

"If you're going to subsidize, let's subsidize people to buy homes," snapped Ottawa builder Robert Campeau during discussion Monday of public and co-operative housing projects.

"I would like to see everybody sell all their holdings" to individual owners, the commission member added?

"I don't like the idea of one big landlord, whether it is government, co - operative or private."

Economist Doris Boyle, also on the inquiry panel, ripped into the Co-operative Housing Foundation with an argument that money for worker housing co-operatives should come from the labor movement, rather than government as suggested.

She said the labor movement has been talking about co-operative housing for years, but has committed only $5,000 a year to the program.

Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, who leads the inquiry, said too many people are too rigid in their views on how to solve the country's housing problems.

The inquiry, which opened hearings Sept. 16, is winding up its public investigation today. Mr. Hellyer hopes to have recommendations ready by early next month.

He asked Reuben Baetz, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council, and Harold Clark, chairman of a council-sponsored housing conference held last month in Toronto, how much attention the conference had given to costs and what recommendations it made on how to get more money into house building.

Mr. Clark said the conference concentrated on people's rights to decent housing.

"People take too much for granted," Mr. Hellyer said. "They hear someone say that you can't buy a house on less than $8,000 a-year income. Once stated, it's never challenged. It becomes gospel.

"This seems like arch-conservatism: Don't get rid of anything. . . . What's the sense of holding a housing inquiry if we can't change anything?"

Mr. Hellyer raised a suggestion, made earlier in his inquiry, for using family allowances as a down payment for a house. The government making a one-time cash grant to families and discontinuing the month ly cheques.

The federation proposed reform to relieve municipal governments of educational costs—transferring responsibility to the provinces—so property taxes could be devoted fully to housing and related community problems.

"Can we honestly believe that if municipalities get more responsibilities we would get better housing?" asked Mr. Campeau.

Mr. Campeau criticized municipal authorities for insisting on house-lot sizes wider than 30 feet, saying small lots would cut the cost of housing because land and servicing charges would be less for each house.

Federation President Al Campbell, mayor of Scarborough, Ont., retorted that his community had been severely criticized in the past for building such "strawberry boxes."

Ocean Fleet Advocated

LAUZON, Que. (CP) — The federal government was told Monday night that the establishment of a Canadian ocean-going fleet would be a big help toward improving Canada's balance of payments.

Richard Lowery, president of Davie Shipbuilding Ltd., told reporters following the launching of the 31,000-ton Otterclifte Hall that Canada is losing all the money that goes into shipping costs for her import-export trade.

He said a Canadian ocean-going fleet would keep all the shipping charges in Canada, rather than having the shipping costs going to other nations.

It was unfortunate that Canada—one of the fourth- or fifth-biggest trading countries in the world—had no ocean-going fleet of its own.

Canada was capable of modern and efficient shipbuilding and needed an ocean-going fleet to keep shipyards and their employees occupied.

All Under-8,000 Areas To Eventually Disappear

TORONTO (CP) — All proposed changes in municipal boundaries will be submitted to a special review while the government is pushing a policy that means the ultimate disappearance of all Ontario municipalities of fewer than 8,000 population, the legislature was told Monday.

The review of boundary changes and the consolidation of small municipalities are forerunners to the gradual implementation of regional government in Ontario, said Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough.

Legislation creating regional government in the Niagara region will be introduced to the present session of the legislature, Mr. McKeough said.

Last areas to be considered are likely to be regions of Northern Ontario because of special problems resulting from scattered populations and the primary-resource base of the economy, he told the legislature.

A first proposal on regional government for Niagara is ready to be presented to the municipalities involved.

A second proposal will be considered based on reaction to the first one, before legislation is presented to the house, he said.

Mr. McKeough said the government has rejected any inflexible dates for implementation of regional government, but he gave this breakdown for the next two years:

—Ottawa-Carleton: A regional municipality becomes effective Jan. 1;

—Hamilton-Wentworth: Further action is being delayed for a decision on whether Burlington should be part of a Peel-Halton or a Hamilton-Wentworth region, but a local government review committee is to report within eight months;

—Waterloo: A regional government proposal will be offered to area municipalities within six months, with legislation to come within 14 months;

—Brant: Discussions are taking place with possibility of a larger regional unit being considered;

—Norfolk - Haldimand: Detailed study, to see if a larger regional government is needed, is just beginning.

Mr. McKeough said a priority is consolidation of local municipal government, since the size of municipalities within a regional government should be between 8,000 and 10,000.

The text of Mr. McKeough's speech in the legislature indicates that the present boundaries of Metropolitan Toronto will remain reasonably stable.

"The area on the three sides of Metropolitan Toronto is probably the key area in terms of the need for changes in the structure of local government."

Mr. McKeough said he hopes to present proposals within 12 months for regional government in Ontario County and the western portion of Durham County, east of Toronto.

He said "it is not clear" whether there will be one or two regional governments in the Peel-Halton area west of Toronto.

A local government review completed in 1966 has been rejected by the government.

"Closely related to the program of regional government is our program to encourage the consolidation of existing municipal units," Mr. McKeough said. "Most local municipalities are now far too small to be viable units of local government even at the lower tier of a regional system."

Mr. McKeough said representation by population is the only acceptable principle that can be applied to regional governments as they are formed.

The regions, as they are formed, will show variations in population and size because of problems of access in larger areas, but the government's objective is a set of regions with a population of at least 150,000 to 200,000.

Mr. McKeough's statement was a rejection of a proposal by the Smith taxation committee and a select legislature committee on taxation that regional governments be adopted on an inflexible date basis.

Mr. McKeough said there may be two-tiered systems of local government in some regions, and for these the government has accepted the Smith committee's recommendations on division of powers.

The new regional governments will be responsible for property assessment, taxation billing and collection, capital borrowing, planning the broad physical and economic framework, police protection, arterial roads, public transit planning, water intake and purification and primary trunk distribution, health and welfare, some elements of conservation.

Universites to Run Teachers' Colleges

TORONTO (CP) — Rough guidelines for the integration of teachers' colleges with the 14 universities in Ontario are contained in a report released Monday by the committee of presidents of universities of Ontario.

The report, the committee's second annual review, says tentative agreement has been reached between the committee and the province to have universities start taking over education of elementary school teachers in the fall of 1969.

The education minister could set requirements for certification but the universities would set admission standards.

The universities would have to ensure its education graduates meet certificate requirements but could develop its own curriculum and set additional standards. Prospective teachers would pay the same fees as other students.

Under the agreement, the province would build the necessary facilities for the universities. Operating costs would gradually be transferred from the education department to the department of university affairs.

The takeover of teacher training by the universities has been under discussion for the last two years and one of the major obstacles has been the future of the staff of teachers' colleges.

The report recommended that staff members of teachers' colleges be encouraged "to take study leave to improve their academic qualifications" during a three-year period.

"The universities and the department of education are expected to undertake to discover alternative openings for the staff of a teachers' college who for one reason or another do not join the university staff," the report said.

In the last year, the committee has created an inter-university fleet of station wagons to transport books from one city to another, giving students 24-hour access to any university library in Ontario.

The system, which costs about $75,000 a year, has also begun carrying passengers between universities. Lakehead University in Port Arthur-Fort William and Laurentian University in Sudbury are not served by the station wagons but participate in the plan by air freight.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved ... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Port Credit Steam Plant Breakdown Threatens Hydro Shortage

TORONTO (CP) — A breakdown at a nearby Port Credit generating station could reduce Ontario Hydro's capacity to provide power for Ontario this winter, the legislature was told Monday.

John Simonett, energy and resources minister, said power shortages could develop if repairs are not made soon to broken blades on two steam turbines at the Lakeview station.

A hydro spokesman said later the breakdown has reduced Lakeview's capacity of 2,400,000 kilowats by 600,000 kilowatts.

He said there was no indication when the repairs would be made, adding that specialists were en route here from England where the equipment was purchased.

Hydro had estimated it had a capacity of 9,600,000 kilowatts for its eastern transmission system which covers the most heavily-populated areas of the province. The loss puts its capacity below the expected peak demand of 8,400,000 kilowatts.

Replying to questions, Mr. Simonett said the situation is similar to a year ago when hydro feared it would have to reduce service to heavy industries receiving electricity at a cut rate. However, he said that "except for abnormal contingencies," hydro expects to be able to meet its commitments.

If a power shortage develops, Hydro could buy from Hydro-Quebec or U.S. companies, or cut service to industrial users.

Ice Breaks

Children Drown In Swimming Pool

BRAMPTON (CP) — Three Orangeville children drowned Monday when the ice on a swimming pool they were crossing caved in.

Their father, Frank Misurka, discovered two bodies of his children after following their foot prints in two inches of snow. The third body was recovered by a fireman.

Allan McMaster, 28, a neighbor, said there is no fence around the private pool and the gate to the farm was open.

Police said the house with the pool, is owned by V. W. Armstrong of Toronto and was used primarily as a summer- and weekend residence.

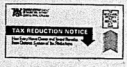
Tax Reduction Deadline

FOR TENANTS AND LANDLORDS

Dec. 31



Virtually all home-owners and tenants in Ontario are entitled to benefit this year.from a reduction in residential property tax.

Tenants of all eligible apartments and houses are to receive the tax reduction allowance from their landlords on or before December 31, 1968.

The landlord has received the reduction in property tax from his municipality. He or his agent is required by law to pass on the full amount of the reduction that applies to each tenant who is eligible.

A tenant who has moved during the year should advise his former landlord of his present address.

This new system was established in 1968 by the Ontario Government in order to ease the burden of municipal and school taxes. The Province, in effect, is paying part of the property taxes for each eligible house and apartment.

Full information is contained in the free pamphlet "TAX REDUCTION NOTICE" which is available at your Municipal Office or by writing the Municipal Subsidies Branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs, 801 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

Sixteen Members Elected to Hastings County Board of Education--Fairman Tops the Polls

MRS. MIRIAM GRAHAM

MACDONALD SMITH

Portt Defeated In Ward Four

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Sixteen trustees for the new Hastings County board of education were elected yesterday at polling divisions throughout the county.

Separate school supporters voted on a county-wide basis for two trustees to represent them on the new board. Winners were Robertson Collins of Belleville and Paul Fleming of Trenton.

Belleville voters elected five trustees, one of them a woman. All now sit on city school boards. They are Mrs. Ralph (Miriam) Graham, Everett Fairman, Macdonald Smith, James Clarke and John O'Flynn.

In Trenton, Mrs. Jean Hutchison and Ralph Weaver were elected to fill Trenton's two seats on the board. Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Hutchison were the only women trustees voted into office.

In Ward 1, comprised of the eight northern-most townships in Hastings, Emerson Robinson was acclaimed.

John Follis polled 508 votes in ward 2 to defeat Guy Bentley, chairman of the Bancroft high school board, who polled 450 votes. Ward 2 takes in Bancroft, Faraday, Wollaston, Limerick, Tudor and Cashel.

James Spry, Bonarlaw, emerged winner of a two - way race in ward 3, polling 1,086 votes to Stanley Frank's 743. Ward 3 is comprised of the Madoc, Marmora and Lake and Deloro areas and Rawdon township.

In ward 4, veteran high school trustee Bruce Portt, Tyendinaga, was defeated in a four-way fight. Laurason Gunning emerged the winner with 1,119 votes, to 917 for Mr. Portt, 535 for Elmer Wood and 259 for S. C. Geneja, Tyendinaga.

Raymond Rowe, Frankford, and Donald Williams, Stirling, won the two seats allocated to ward 6 on the county board. Ward 6 takes in Sidney, Stirling and Frankford.

Mr. Rowe polled 980 votes and Mr. Williams 842. The four defeated candidates and the votes they received were Hugh Gray, Sidney, 482, Gerald Irvine, Halloway, 478, Gerald McCrory, Frankford, 436, and Edison Sine, Sidney, 574.

Belleville Elects Five Trustees

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The five Belleville seats on the 16-member Hastings County Board of Education will be filled by members of the two existing city school boards.

The chairman and two trustees from the Belleville Public School Board and the chairman and one trustee from Bay of Quinte District High School Board will represent the city on the new board for the next two years.

They were elected from a field of 10 candidates.

Retired public school principal Everett Fairman topped the polls with 2,546 votes, 403 more than his closest rival, Macdonald Smith. Mr. Fairman was appointed to the public school board last September, following his retirement after 38 years as a principal in city schools.

Macdonald Smith, chairman of the public school board, with a record of 16 years as a trustee, polled 2,143 votes for second place in the running.

Third place in the winning line-up went to Mrs. Ralph (Miriam) Graham, who has served as a trustee on the public school board for the last three years. She won 1,924 votes.

James Clarke, chairman of Bay of Quinte District High School Board, came fourth with 1,877 votes, 47 fewer than Mrs. Graham. Mr. Clarke was also chairman of the interim committee charged with planning the change-over to county wide boards.

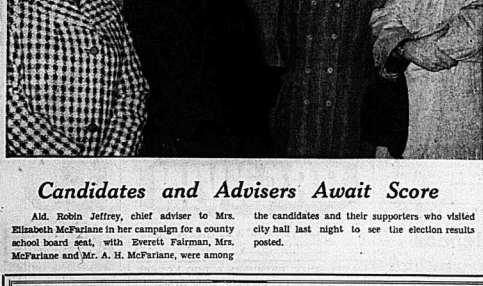
John O'Flynn captured the fifth Belleville seat with 1,834 votes, 243 fewer than Mr. Clarke. A city lawyer, he is also a trustee on the Bay of Quinte high school board.

Defeated candidates and the number of votes they polled are: Harry Fast (1,397) Mrs. A. H. (Elizabeth) McFarlane (1,218), J. Nelson McKibbon (1,078), James Ritchie (915) and Ronald Lee (536).

Mrs. McFarlane, first Belleville candidate to declare herself for election the week before nomination date, conducted the most vigorous campaign. She was campaign chairman of the recently completed and successful United Community Fund.

Mr. Fast, manager of the CN's Rideau Area, is a member of the public school board, and Mr. McKibbon is a trustee on the high school board.

Mr. Ritchie is a former member of the public school board and served four terms as chairman.



The newly elected trustees meet Dec. 9 for their first session as a board, and take over operation of education in the county Jan. 1.

Elementary and secondary school boards in the county will continue in operation until Dec. 31, when they will automatically cease to exist.

Tense Moment

Mrs. James Clarke keeps her eye on her husband as he watches the election returns being posted on the city hall blackboard. Mr. Clarke placed fourth among trustees to the county board of education.

Candidates and Advisers Await Score

Ald. Robin Jeffrey, chief adviser to Mrs. Elizabeth McFarlane in her campaign for a county school board seat, with Everett Fairman, Mrs. McFarlane and Mr. A. H. McFarlane, were among the candidates and their supporters who visited city hall last night to see the election results posted.

Five in Race

Looks Like Collins and Fleming For RC Spots on New Board

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

It appears, with only four polls yet to hear from, that Robertson Collins and Paul Fleming will be the two separate school trustees on the new Hastings County School Board.

Mr. Collins and Mr. Fleming have netted 1,423 and 1,274 votes, respectively, so far.

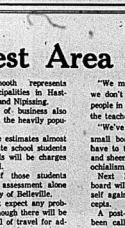
The four polls that have not been heard from are Sidney, Faraday, Herchel and Frankford.

The other three men in the race do not appear to have a chance to catch up to Mr. Collins and Mr. Fleming.

Louis Aaron has obtained only 88 votes so far. John Forbes and William Shannon have received 773 and 722 votes respectively.

Voting last night showed that Mr. Collins and Mr. Fleming received most of their support in Belleville with Mr. Collins netting 764 votes and Mr. Fleming obtaining 697 votes.

In Trenton, John Forbes, a native of that town, ran away with most of the votes. His total was 456 and his closest contestants were Mr. Collins and Mr. Fleming with 56 votes and 35 votes respectively.

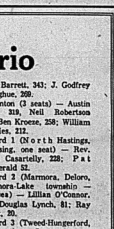


In Tweed, Hungerford and Thurlow the battle between Mr. Collins and Mr. Fleming came out just about even. In Tweed Mr. Fleming came out a little bit ahead.

Mr. Collins is a native of Belleville and was educated in the local separate school system. He attended the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall and then became a partner in the law firm of Collins and Collins.

He is president of the Hastings and Prince Edward Bar Association. He has previous experience on the Bay of Quinte High School Board, the Tweed - Hungerford Separate School Board and the Centre Hastings High School Board.

He spent three years on Belleville City Council.



Mr. Fleming, a Belleville chartered accountant, was the 1968 separate school representative to the Bay of Quinte High School Board.

PAUL FLEMING

There, he was chairman of the budget committee and was a member of the planning and building committee and the non-teaching employees committee.

He has served as the chairman and vice-chairman of the Belleville Separate School Board.

ROBERTSON COLLINS

Two Women Elected

Separate School Board Serves Largest Area in Ontario

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Next Monday night a diversity of elected personalities will take stock of their new public responsibilities.

But the members of the Hastings, Prince Edward and Nipissing Separate School Board will have at least one kingsize common denominator — the biggest school area in Ontario.

It sprawls 165 miles from Lake Ontario to Algonquin Park, counting segments of Northumberland County on the west and Lennox and Addington to the east.

Although it looks like a man-size administration chore Catholic voters in the municipal conglomerate chose two women for board membership.

Among the 14 trustees are Mrs. Jean Wilson, Belleville housewife and Mrs. Lillian O'Connor of Marmora township — a mother of 14.

Three Catholic clergymen also have been named to govern the new area.

In Belleville, Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan, pastor of St. Michael's Church, topped the election with 796 votes.

Rev. Walter Hamilton of Picton topped the poll in Ward 4 — a territory including Prince Edward County as well as Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga townships.

At the extreme north of the board territory, Rev. Louis Casartelly, of Maynooth, beat Maynooth farmer and former reeve Patrick Fitzgerald 228-52.

Communication always is an unknown quantity when centralization occurs. It will be a factor for all the amalgamated school boards voted to authority across Ontario last night.

For separate school supporters throughout the Quinte district communication will be physically emphasized.

The new organization regroups 14 former boards into one body.

Undoubtedly, says area separate school superintendent Fred B. Allore the new district is the biggest in the province.

However, he emphasizes, the peculiarities of the region reduce its membership.

It is an area of physical contrasts and population disparity. The rich pastures of Prince Edward are bordered by the Belleville-Trenton urban - industrial sprawl. Further north, the country hardens and the population thins.

Board membership is representative of the contrasts.

Belleville elected six members; Trenton three trustees, and the surrounding Bayshore and Prince Edward communities in Ward 4, two representatives.

By contrast Rev. Casartelly from Maynooth represents eight municipalities in Hastings North and Nipissing.

The bulk of business also will concern the heavily populated zones.

Mr. Allore estimates almost 4,100 separate school students in 20 schools will be charges of the board.

About half those students and school assessment alone is in the city of Belleville.

"We don't expect any problems — although there will be a great deal of travel for administrative and supervisory staff," says the superintendent.

Communication, however, was one aspect Mrs. Wilson noted immediately after her election was assured last night.

"We must be very mindful we don't lose touch with the people in the communities and the teachers," she cautioned.

"We've hitherto always been small boards. And now we have to think wider concepts and sheer away from any parochialism."

Next Monday the new board will begin measuring itself against those new concepts.

A post-election session has been called for 7.30 p.m. at the county court house.

These were last night's election results:

Playoff Promise Keeps Punch's Job

TORONTO (CP) — Punch Imlach won the support of the Toronto Maple Leafs' executive Monday night with a promise that he would lead the club into the National Hockey League playoffs as coach and general manager.

Club president Stafford Smythe read a statement that quashed rumors Imlach would be replaced by John McLellan of Tulsa Oilers, Tordito's farm club in the Central Hockey League.

"Punch has told us that we can make the playoffs and I believe he can get more out of the players than anyone else," Smythe said.

"I've told him we want more exciting hockey at Maple Leaf Gardens and he says we'll have it. Punch is the best in the business."

Imlach's five-year contract with the club expires at the end of the 1969-70 season.

"We've had our differences before and we'll have more," Imlach said.

"Staff's a needler and I'm stubborn. I rise to the needle."

The rift between Imlach and the club arose following reports that Smythe had suggested he step down as coach, but remain as general manager.

Earlier Monday, Imlach stormed out of Smythe's office, vowing that if he didn't coach, he didn't work.

The Leafs, who managed only a tie in two weekend games, are tied with Chicago Black Hawks for fourth place, three points ahead of Detroit Red Wings in the Eastern Division.

Smythe said the hockey committee had accepted Imlach's recommendations on the operation of the club in full, but when asked what they were, he quipped:

"That Punch doesn't have to play."

Smythe said the Leafs have people in the organization who can help the club and indicated that it will probably mean more work for chief scout Bob Davidson.

"Besides, when the Grey Cup came along, we had to do something to get it out of the papers," he said.

"We've got a lot of youngsters on our club this year and they're bound to make mistakes the same way (Bobby) Hull and (Stan) Mikita did when they started," Imlach said.

PUNCH IMLACH

"We'll go as far as these kids can take us."

Since Imlach joined the Leafs as assistant general manager in 1958, the Leafs have only finished out of the playoffs once—last year when they were fifth, four points behind Chicago.

In his 10 years with the club, Imlach put the Leafs in the Stanley Cup finals six times. He won four playoff championships including three in a row between 1961-62 and 1963-64.

Unlike 1967-68, Imlach believes his players are "trying and losing."

"We have a lot of kids who are making mistakes," he said.

"But with youngsters like (Jim) Dorey, (Mike) Pelyk and (Rick) Ley, we'll have the best defence in the NHL in two or three years."

Meanwhile, George Armstrong, who earlier told a friend that the only reason he would come out of retirement was to help Imlach, Monday signed a contract for the rest of the season.

Imlach said the 38-year-old veteran could be ready to play as soon as Wednesday, but added that he probably won't use him until Sunday in Pittsburgh against the Penguins.

Jumpy Gump Gets Vacation

MONTREAL (CP) — Lorne (Gump) Worsley, goaltender for Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, has been ordered to take at least one month's complete rest in an attempt to overcome a fear of flying and a generally troubled state of nerves.

The rest was ordered by club physician Dr. D. G. Kinnear after Worsley underwent a physical examination. His nerves have been troubling him since last season.

Sam Pollock, general manager of the club, said Worsley will be re-examined in a month "to see whether . . . the rest has overcome his current condition."

Worsley, 39, a 20-year veteran in professional hockey, left the team in Chicago Tuesday after a rough 24-hour flight from Montreal, saying he could not face the further four-hour plane trip to Los Angeles. He returned to Montreal by train Wednesday.

The team did most of its travelling by train before last season's expansion forced air travel to distant points.

Baseball Brass Has Goal -- Give Game Back to the Hitters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Steps to eliminate last season's inequity between the pitcher and the batter may be decided at baseball's annual winter meetings today.

The major and minor leagues opened their week-long session Monday and, aside from the draft of some marginal players, about the only thing the American and National Leagues accomplished was to fall behind schedule.

The rules committee was to meet Monday, but a meeting of general managers lasted so long that the committee—some of whose members are general managers—put off its session until today.

Steps to be discussed today include shrinking the strike zone, lowering the height of the pitchers' mound and strictly enforcing the ipitball rule.

Perhaps the most revolutionary method, though, would be an often-mentioned change that would allow a permanent pinch-hitter for the pitchers. This would let a team hit for its of the game.

The general managers recommended changes in the first three categories, but left the pinch-hitter question up to the rules committee for discussion.

The front office bosses said they want the mound lowered from 15 inches to eight and the strike zone limited to beween a batters' armpits and knees.

Also set for today was a meeting of baseball's ruling executive council to discuss how to split the money in the intra-league playoffs that will be held for the first time next year and whether to give World Series players a flat fee instead of a cut of the gate.

The Major League Players' Association will also begin meeting, with the most pressing issue reported to include the pension plan.

About the biggest thing that happened Monday was the drafting of pitcher Bo Belinsky by St. Louis Cardinals as the 24 major-league teams had a chance to fill their rosters from the minor leagues.

Belinsky pitched a no-hitter in 1962 for California Angels but then his career went into an eclipse.

Last year, he was 9-14 for Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League with a 2.97 earned run average —and another no-hitter.

Other former major leaguers drafted included outfielder Gary Geiger by Houston Astros, first baseman Bob Chance by California, catcher Russ Nixon by Chicago White Sox, outfielder Billy Cowan by New York Yankees and pitcher Bill Short by Cincinnati Reds.

Bo To Go?

Ottawa Management Looking for 'Quitters'

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders will take one more crack at trying to sign fullback Bo Scott to a new contract.

"I've asked him to come to my office Wednesday," general manager Red O'Quinn of the Grey Cup champions said Monday night in an interview.

Scott, Ottawa's biggest ground threat this season, couldn't come to salary terms with Ottawa this year and there is talk he will try his luck in U.S. football next season.

O'Quinn also said he wants quarterback Russ Jackson and halfback Ronnie Stewart to let him know this week whether they plan to retire.

Jackson, who finished his 11th season with the Eastern Football Conference team, said he wanted to wait sometime after the Grey Cup game to decide whether to play again or devote full time to his job as a high school vice-principal.

Stewart, a lawyer with the federal government, said Saturday he didn't know what he intended to do.

Coach Frank Clair also has let it be known he would like his contract renegotiated because of Ottawa's winning year.

But one director pointed out Monday that Clair's present pact has three more years to run. He said playoff bonuses in the contract leave Clair well-rewarded for the Grey Cup win.

At a $3.50-a-plate dinner later, Mayor Don Reid proclaimed Clair Ottawa's number one citizen and Clair got a roar when he said:

"What a difference a year makes."

Ken Lehmann, who won a national award as the top lineman in Canada, received a club trophy named after former assistant coach Bill Smyth who died in the 1966 season.

Up We Go!

Senior Saint John Mywaart shows good form going up for a layup during a practice session as the Quinte Secondary School basketball teams prepare for next week's season opener against Trenton Secondary School. Coach Barry Turpin's senior squad hopes to rebound this season after finishing with a record of 5 wins and 5 losses last year in the Quinte District Class "AA" loop league. (Story on Page 15.)

Dancer's Hearing Turns From Chemistry

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Racing Commission, given a liberal dose of chemistry for nine days, switches its attention today to the three men who handled Dancer's Image during the week of the Kentucky Derby.

All were to be summoned as witnesses for the state to explain what happened to the colt just before he was deprived of his 1968 Derby winnings.

Lou Cavalaris of Toronto and Robert Barnard, who trained Dancer's Image, face questioning as to his physical condition prior to the May 4 event. The other witness will be Dr. Alex Harthill, the veterinarian:

Dancer's Image recovered from sore ankles and went on to win the Derby. But his victory was set aside by Churchill Downs stewards after they received a report of an illegal medication, phenylbutazone, in the horse's urine.

That decision was appealed by owner Peter Fuller of Boston, who brought several chemists here to attack the validity of the test run by state chemist Kenneth W. Smith.

Before Fuller completed his case Monday there was a sharp exchange between his counsel and the commission's lawyer, George Rabe, who refused to testify how he had obtained his list of experts in the field of phenylbutazone.

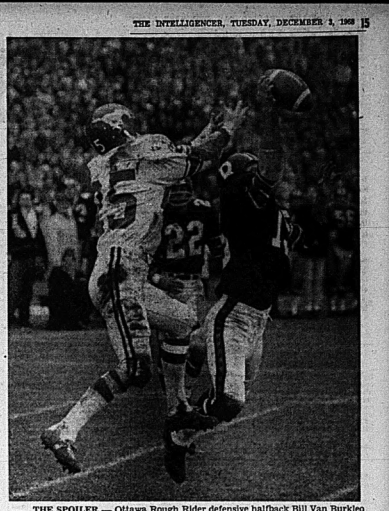
Rabe contended it was highly improper and illegal for a lawyer in his position to testify. His position was upheld by the commission but it agreed reluctantly to let Rabe ask questioning by Fuller's lawyer.

The lawyer charged that Rabe did not try to obtain his experts from any of the universities within the state but relied on suggestions made to him by Smith.

Rabe said he had checked with state schools and had been informed that he already had competent help."

Fuller's last witness was John McDonald, director of the Illinois Racing Board's Police Laboratory, who said he never would have made a positive report to the Churchill Downs stewards on the basis of the five tests made by Smith. He singled out Smith's color tests for phenylbutazone as incomplete.

Draw With Finland Is Best Nats Can Do



MOSCOW (CP-Reuters) — Canada and Finland tied 2-2 Monday in the second day of a four-team round-robin international hockey tournament.

Canada was defeated 4-3 by the Soviet Union's No. 2 team in its opening match Sunday.

The Canada-Finland game was the only match of the day Monday. The Soviet No. 2 team and the Soviet No. 1 squad, which defeated Finland 5-2 Sunday, each have one victory.

The tournament will run for four days. It originally was scheduled to last a week but an American team, the Green Bay, Wisc., Bobcats, pulled out at the last moment.

THE SPOILER — Ottawa Rough Rider defensive halfback Bill Van Burkleo leaps in front of Calgary's Terry Evanshen (25) to intercept a pass in the last quarter of Saturday's Grey Cup game in Toronto. The interception broke up a late threat by Calgary as Lisko threw to Evanshen from the Ottawa nine-yard line. (CP Wirephoto)

Ottawa Grey Cup Success Memorialized by Vic's Bounce

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's sport editors and columnists, after a day of rest to gather their thoughts, Monday analyzed the Grey Cup game.

Bob Mellor, Ottawa Citizen: "It takes more than just great football to stamp a particular Grey Cup game as one of the classics. It usually requires an incident to burn it into the memory of football fanatics. Ottawa's 1968 triumph had that, too.

"It will be remembered as the year Vic Washington bounced the ball on the way to the touchdown that broke up the game."

Hal Walker, Calgary Herald: "With the defence keeping them alive in the early moments . . . Pete Liske and his aides finally got something rolling themselves. Liske once again did his played his truly fine passing ability in his swan song to Canadian football. He had honored his commitments to the Stampeders in a truly professional manner."

Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal: "The turning point came when Ken Lehmann burst through and then to one side to force Calgary's Don Sweet to abandon the punt attempt as Gene Gaines lured the setback out of position and Jim Cain followed up to drill Stewart."

"That had to be the start of it all, one more big play by the defence. Here was Lehmann, who had blamed himself for a blocked Ottawa kick in the eastern playoff and victimized on the same situation, making up for it."

Eric Bishop, Calgary Albertan: "Sure they got edged, but by a great eastern team in the most spine-tingling Grey Cup classic since . . . Jim Van Pelt alive in the early moments . . . Pete Liske and his aides finally got something rolling themselves. Liske once again did his played his truly fine passing ability in his swan song to Canadian football. He had honored one of the most exciting. It had to be with the two most explosive teams in the country. . . ."

Jim Coleman, Toronto Telegram: "Although 45 points were scored . . . Saturday's outstanding stars were defensive players. . . .

"Calgary's defensive unit saved the Stampeders repeatedly in the first half. They rushed and tackled ferociously, but Wayne Harris and Don Luzzi were standouts.

"Washington . . . Justified partisan Ottawa claims that he is Canada's best and most versatile quarterback."

Laurie Artiss, Regina Leader-Post: "A dramatic last half was possibly one of the biggest reversals of form in the hallowed history of the Grey Cup. Ottawa still wasn't able to move with any consistency against the stubborn Stampeders, but they did discover chinks in the armor that netted two electrifying scores."

Wayne Overland, Edmonton Journal: "In the last two Grey Cups the best team didn't win. . . . As for the 1968 Grey Cup, Calgary won everywhere but on the scoreboard which, of course, is the only place that counts. . . . One-game playoffs are highly exciting, but the best team doesn't always win."

Jack Matheson, Winnipeg Tribune: "Ottawa was the better team because they had the running to set up their throwing. Calgary's running wasn't much, and the Riders knew it."

Don Blanchard, Winnipeg Free Press: "Quite easily the final score could have been reversed. . . . Almost everything went as expected. Liske's short passes, Jackson's bombs, neither club moving the ball consistently on the ground. Stamps were beaten, but they certainly weren't outclassed."

Midgets In Doldrums

Blake Kerr's Imperial Midgets fell behind 3-1 in the first period at Picton last night and suffered a 4-2 setback at the hands of the Picton Midgets.

Woodward led the Picton attack with a pair of goals and McLeod and Ferguson added singles.

The Imperial Midgets hope to snap out of their winless slump tonight when they play host to Trenton at the Belleville Arena.

Gordie Howe's HOCKEY

In this frantic world of ours, education is important. I suppose that sounds as obvious as saying "run a cold day wear a coat."

Maybe. Maybe, too, when you are young you don't stop to think. I'm in the position to argue this pretty well because I didn't go on and get my education. It is a decision I have always regretted.

It can be argued that I have been successful in hockey and it doesn't really matter. I don't agree. A person who has never completed his formal education never has the same confidence as the one who did.

Youngsters today who are interested in sports have a wonderful opportunity. Before I go on I suppose I must admit I'm sounding like a father. That's true. But I can't think of a better way of getting an education than through sports. You really have the best of two worlds. One is paying for the other. .

I have three sons and I hope they combine both.

And getting an education while you develop as an athlete isn't going to interfere with your talent whether it is in hockey, baseball or whatever.

I've heard it argued that 16 to 21 are the important years for a hockey player and education interferes. I don't buy that. A hockey player will never be good until he matures mentally. Education helps this maturity.

You can look around the National Hockey League and pick out players who were going nowhere with one club and were traded. With their second club, they suddenly found themselves. Quite often they "find themselves" because they have grown up. The trade made them stop and think. In other words, they matured.

Quinte Hoopsters Boast Good Balance

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Sportswriter
(Third In a Series)

The approach of the Class "AA" Basketball season is heralded with optimism at Quinte Secondary School. Both the Senior and Junior Saints appear to be experienced, well-balanced contenders while judgment has not been passed on the inexperienced Bantam squad.

Senior coach Barry Turpin says: "We haven't any individual standouts, but we do have good balance and depth. We have enough height that we should be strong on the boards."

"B.C.I. will probably be the team to beat" he added, "But I don't think the Senior league will be as strong as last year." Last year's Senior Saints finished with a 5-5 record.

The Senior Saints will vary between a man-to-man and 2-1-2 zone this year. The squad is not set yet, but Steve McKeown, Paul King, Leo Baker, John Mywaart, Wayne Casselman, Eric Emerson and Mike Finnigan are all pressing for starting spots.

Doug Shorey and Rich Insley will be available in reserve along with Steve Moore and Tom Sheppard.

Junior coach Rick Locke has high hopes for his Junior team comprised of five holdovers and seven graduates from last year's Bay of Quinte champion Bantam squad.

Coach Locke's team has good depth and average height. They will stress ball-handling as a team and work the ball around a lot. Locke said: "I expect a very close league race; there are a lot of good teams in the Junior league this year."

There are 2 holdovers from last year's Bantam squad which won 12 games and lost only 2. Coach Jim Follwell's squad lacks height and experience and must be rated as an unknown quantity.

He Predicts Imports Will Be Run off Road

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The small-car imports, with the possible exception of Volkswagen, will be run off the road by the proposed North American subcompacts, Lawrence C. Rice, president of American Motors (Canada) Ltd., forecast in London Monday.

"The import market will peak this year," and he predicted a bigger change in the import and export end of our (the automotive industry) business during the next five to 10 years than in the past 20 years."

Asked during an interview if American Motors had plans for a mini-car such as the Maverick to be assembled at Talbotville by Ford, Mr. Rice replied: "I don't think we're behind anybody."

He said since his appointment as president in August he has had a look at the future designs of American Motors and "I was delighted with what I saw for the future." He declined to elaborate other than to say "I was impressed with the direction it took to make the kind of decisions we did two to three years ago to design the kind of cars you will be seeing soon."

He hinted that American Motors was planning further expansions in Canada shortly. He said there would be an announcement within 60 days which would involve "people and bricks and mortar over and above the strengthening of the Brampton operation."

One Way to Learn to Drive

Learner drivers under the watchful eye of an instructor practice correct reversing techniques with the aid of carefully positioned mirrors on indoor trainer equipment now being manufactured in Britain. The equipment simulates every actual driving situation and instantly records the trainees' reactions to them.

Will Sonnett, Avengers, Huck Finn in Trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — It is becoming easy to spot programs in such poor health that they probably will not survive.

Poor health in television terms is any network program that routinely fails to attract at least one-third of the TV audience.

A scanning of the Nielsen rating reports indicates that it will take a miracle cure to boost such shows as The Guns of Will Sonnett, The New Adventures of Huck Finn and The Avengers.

Other programs that are not in good shape now include The Outcasts, The Jerry Lewis Show, Star Trek, N.Y.P.D. and The Big Valley. Hawaii Five-O, Blondie, Judd for the Defence, That's Life and The Jonathan Winters Show and Hollywood Palace also look frail.

While NBC and CBS seesaw back and forth weekly in topping the list for the network with the highest average rating, ABC trails by several points weekly in terms of audiences for its product.

Death in the springtime usually comes to those series which come in third in their time periods in the three-network battle for audience attension. Sometimes, however, a show that was weak one season manages to get stronger if moved to a different time. This season, for instance, High Chaparral appears to be doing nicely in an early Friday night position while last season it was dying in a late Sunday spot.

The Good Guys, the new Bob Denver situation comedy, started out dismally but now seems to have picked up steam. In the last Nielsen, it climbed into the top third. The Doris Day Show, which bobbed around alarmingly early in the season, now seems to have established its niche—25th in a list of 86 shows in the last report—and so is assured of a safe return.

With increasing production costs—half hour shows now cost between $75,000 and $90,000 a program, and hour shows twice that— it is necessary for the average series to have three seasons of network exposure before its producers can be assured of much profit.

ABC has not made the formal announcement but The Dick Cavett Show will wind up its brave, short-lived morning run at the end of January. It is a victim of small audiences and, as a result, little sponsor support and the network has been losing money with the show.

Recommended tonight: Reptiles and Amphibians, CBS, 7:30-8:30 EST, another in the National Geographic Society series; Elvis, NBC, 8-10, Presley's first TV special, with the Blossoms, a vocal group; Brigitte, NBC, 10-11, Miss Bardot's first TV special, with Sacha Distel, shot in France and England.

TV ENTERTAINMENT

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market ended moderate losses in active m'd morning trading today, interrupting an unbroken seven-day advance.

The industrial inde x fell .50 to 186.76. Base metals also were lower.

Koffler dropped 1 to 37½. Dofasco ½ to 23, Minds teral ¾ to 17¾, Bartaco ¼ to 17¾, and Canada Packers ¾ to 21¼.

Among the heaviest traders, Revenue Properties gained ¼ to 19¼ and Tru-Wall Concrete 27 cents to $5.12.

Canadian Tire was up 1¼ to 74¾, United Westburne ¾ to 14¼ and MacMillan Bloedel ½ to 28¾.

Codville A lost ¼ to 7¼. Halfyearly profits were down to 22 cents a share from 25 cents last year.

Highland-Bell recovered 25 cents to $4.75. Wilrich Gold Mines declined 20 cents to $3.80. Both stocks crashed Monday after the Ontario Securities Commission rejected their claim to the huge ore body at the Kidd Creek mine near Timmins.

Bethlehem Copper rose ¾ to 18¾, Giant Mascot 25 cents to $2.30 and Bright Hargreaves 15 cents to $3.20. Jorex lost 15 cents to $1.95.

Among western oils, New Continental and Numac gained 30 cents each to $3.10 and $7.20.

On index, golds gained .13 to 221.56 and western oils .27 to 238.38. Base metals fell .11 to 113.12. Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,016,000 shares compared with 1,205,000 at the same time Monday.

The industrial index gained .52 to a record at 187.36 and the western oil index also touched an all-time high.

Trading volume was 5,122,000 shares, the highest for a single day since March. Western oil volume was a record at 1,893,500 shares.

The unusually heavy turnover was largely due to trading two mines, Leitch and Highland-Bell and Permo, a speculative western oil.

Leitch slumped $8.25 to $4.00 and Highland-Bell $13.25 to 5.50 in the wake of the Ontario Supreme Court decision rejecting their claim to the huge orebory at the Kidd Creek mine near Timmins.

The stocks closed slightly above their lowest prices, which were recorded when trading opened after a lengthy delay to match buy-and-sell orders.

CLAIM DISMISSED

Chief Justice G. A. Gale dismissed their claim against Texas Gulf Sulphur in a decision handed down Friday night after stock markets had closed.

Permo, the market's most active stock, gained four cents to 60 cents on sales of 662,740 shares.

In industrials, Great West Life rose 4 to 79, Consolidated Bathurst 1¼ to 22, Computing Devices 1¼ to 25 Rockpower 1¼ to 22¼ and CPR 1¼ to 76.

Dylex Diversified jumped 3 to 30 and Thomson Newspapers 1¼ to 22. Both stocks were traded for the first time on a subsidivided basis as a result of stock splits.

Levy Industries lost 1¼ to 34¾ after reporting lower nine-month earnings. Canadian Breweries A was up ½ to 64½. The company has arranged the private sale of 100,000 Class A treasury shares at $50 each.

Bank of Montreal and Royal Trust picked up ¼ each to 35¾ and 25¾. The bank is acquiring a 10-per-cent interest in Royal Trust.

Wajax fell ¾ to 30½. Shareholders voted Dec. 18 to consider a 2-for-1 stock split.

On index, golds rose 1.63 to 221.43, base metals .52 to 113.22 and western oils 1.22 to 238.11. Gains outnumbered losses 299 to 202.

Canada Takes Cream In World's Brain Drain

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A United Nations committee is studying a report on the world brain drain which says that, in proportion to its population, Canada's intake of professional persons appears to be the highest in the world.

The report from Secretary-General U Thant says Canada and the United States are the main beneficiaries of a brain drain of skilled and professional persons, often from under-developed countries.

But Bruce Rankin, ambassador to Venezuela and Canada's spokesman on the economic and financial committee, said Monday the drain is not a one-way street.

He said that in 1955, for instance, Canada accepted 147,000 immigrants from throughout the world, including the U.S. But in that same year more than 50,000 persons, mostly members of the technical and professional groupings, left for the U.S.

Rankin suggested as a first step to stop the drain that developed countries agree not to actively seek "educated or trained" immigrants from developing countries and "urge businesses and other institutions to exercise similar restraint."

He expressed reservations about a recommendation in the report which calls for creation of an international pool of "trained manpower for development" to help overcome the harm done to developing countries.

He said Canada feels that the problem of the brain drain is "basically the responsibility of developing countries making career opportunities at home sufficiently attractive to shed the lure of developed countries."

The report mentions that countries such as Canada and the U.S. have introduced laws or regulations that give preference to skilled labor and professionals and left "decreasing room for unskilled entrants."

Rankin made it clear that Canada does not actively recruit personnel in developing countries.

Putting Drops in Eye Tricky

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the best and easiest way to put drops in my eyes? I am in my 60's and have glaucoma, so need to have the drops, but I have difficulty getting them in. — Mrs. F. H.

The best way, of course, is to have someone else put the drops in.

Hold the dropper in the middle of your gaze (do this with the other eye closed). Then squeeze the drops into the eye.

If the drops are a little cool, you can more readily feel them hit the eyeball.

Then close the lids and massage the eye ever so gently for two or three strokes.

If you have trouble tipping your head back far enough to look straight upward, then lie down and look at the ceiling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send me your booklet on "How To Control Emphysema, for which I enclose 30 cents and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Is it a prolonged illness? How do you know the various stages of it? — B. R.

You'll find that thoroughly discussed in the booklet. Briefly, there is no cure for emphysema. Once you have it, you have it for the rest of your life. However, there are various ways of controlling it so it doesn't bother you more than necessary and won't progress needlessly.

There aren't any well-defined "stages" of it. Basically, it is an inability to exhale deeply as you used to, and the disease your breathing becomes steadily more difficult.

Obviously, the earlier you discover the disease and begin protecting yourself the better.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can you tell me about a cousin infection called thrush? My doctor has been treating it for six months but it still comes back. Can I do anything to get rid of it permanently? — M. B.

Thrush is a yeast infection in the mouth, and sometimes on other mucous sufaces. It makes the mouth look as though it were covered with dried, curdled milk.

The infection usually responds to gentian violet applied to the mouth membranes, but it can be difficult to prevent recurrence.

Two things to keep in mind: first, be suspicious of gum or tooth defects which may harbor the yeast infection; second, the possibility of diabetes should be looked into.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The doctor tells me I should have a lesion removed and hammer toe corrected surgically. How serious is this operation, and can I get around pretty well after it? — Mrs. A. M.

It isn't a serious operation, and I don't know of any method that equals surgery in relieving this sort of problem.

Your foot will be tender and you'll do some limping and want to have something pretty soft in the way of footwear at first — but your feet aren't very comfortable now, are they?

In less time than you think, you'll be walking comfortably again, and you'll wonder why you worried about having the surgery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have hepatitis without being jaundiced? — Mrs. H. P.

Yes, quite possible in milder cases.

Socreds to Pick New Leader

EDMONTON (CP) — The 2,800-seat Jubilee Auditorium, where Alberta's first Social Credit leadership convention assembles Wednesday, is a far cry from the humble kitchens where the movement was born.

The 1,700-odd voting delegates who will choose a successor to Premier E. C. Manning Friday night will watch the results of their balloting flashed on an electronic race-track tote board.

Closed-circuit television will carry their deliberations to adjoining rooms and the third gallery of the auditorium will be a public gallery.

Twenty-five delegates and five alternates will have been named from each of Alberta's 65 provincial constituencies. The 56 Social Credit members of the legislature and members of the party executive also will have a vote.

No such publicity and fanfare has attended a function of the Alberta Social Credit League since the mass meetings of 1934 and 1935, when the late William Aberhart turned his radio Bible broadcasts into a platform for the monetary reform ideas of Ma]. C. H. Douglas.

The broadcasts led to formation of 1,800 study groups, which became the nucleus for transformation of Social Credit into a political force that swept Mr. Aberhart into power in 1935.

When Mr. Aberhart died in 1943, the choice of Mr. Manning as his successor was made quietly by the caucus of Social Credit members of the legislature.

Communism's Worst Threat

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The worst threat of communism in our time is neither attack from the outside nor subversion from the inside. The greatest harm that communism has done — and is doing — us is its role as a bad example.

The existence of communism in our century allows us to use it as a benchmark for our own values, aims and activities. And it thus permits us to be a lot worse than we ought to be, or have any need to be.

It is like a family with one bad boy. No matter what mischief the other kids engage in, they can always point to the bad boy and say (truthfully) that they are better than he is.

This is how we use communism in our family of mankind.

Or, to take another analogy, it is like a person with a mild disease comparing himself to a severe disease, and refusing to take measures to cure himself because he's already so much healthier than the very sick person.

If critics point out some thing that is awry with American capitalism and that needs to be corrected, they are often met with the comment that things are much worse in Russia and we ought to be glad we live here.

It is true that our next-door neighbor has pneumonia should not allow us to shrug off our own minor illness until it becomes major.

We consistently use communism as a cop-out for our own ills, just as a criminal who hits a lady on the head and steals her purse tries to mitigate his offence by pleading that he didn't rape her — the way the fellow in the next cell did to someone else.

This attitude has done us more national damage than almost anything else in our century. It has given us a "horrible example" to hold up before ourselves, permitting us to preen ourselves on our superiority and to fall into complacency and self-satisfaction about our own defects.

Parents properly tell their children that they should not compare themselves to the worst, but to the best. And the same is true of societies. If we use the grotesque repressions of Russia or China as a benchmark for our own social virtue, we can do some pretty rotten things and still be better than they are. But what standard is that to live by? —

Marx would be revolving in his grave if he could realize how his rise of dictator i a l communism in the 20th century has retarded the progress of mankind rather than advancing it. — not merely retarded, it in the communist countries but in the non-communist ones as well, by providing them with "bad boys" they can feel better than.

We must stop looking out, and start looking in; stop saying we're lucky to have just a cold when pneumonia — for colds have a way of turning into pneumonia if fed by smugness, negligence and superiority.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For December 4

Your birthday today: The coming year holds more adventures than you can possibly set out to cover. Select which lines to pursue. Choose according to your intuition and deep emotional needs, but use logic in double-check. This year will bring all types of new people to sort out; some will be with you for keeps. Today's natives tend to personal rashness and good looks.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): The urge is for hasty and forceful expression. Aggression in any form now defeats your purpose and spoils chances for later adjustment. Listen . . . rather than shout.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your strength is in your skill and determination rather than luck. Financial manoeuvres are tricky. Just do your regular job and mind your own affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Nobody wants to co-operate, so go your own route. To progress you must be firm but not intolerant or critical.

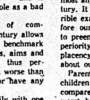
CANCER (June 21 — July 22): You may offer explanations and be rewarded by having people take you on as a challenge in a game of parliamentary tactics. The opposition is just for the sake of conflict.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Everybody seems to expect more of you today. Avoid overpromising and shooting for exact schedules as you can't get the co-operation needed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22): Be consistent. (The sudden rough going has nothing to do with what you've been doing.) The great difficulty is the conflict between private life and work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Patient insight shows you the causes of the day's turbulence. Neither travelling nor signing contracts is favored. Records are incomplete.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 — Nov. 21): Use your own wisdom today; people with the highest authority may be wrong. Caution is urgent in any material transaction.



SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your most generous impulse is to be misunderstood. Withdraw a little and watch people get in each others way. Try not to bring home the feeling of conflict.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Go directly to the point of your own interests, and act without a lot of discussion. Explain later if absolutely necessary. Be detached.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): In today's talks, the fine points seem irresistible to your own ideas. Listen for some cue as to the driving forces since your own theories meet rejection.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Having too many phases to cope with at the same time, you feel overscheduled. Try for an even division between private and working life. Omit anything not directly helpful to your own interests.

PRESENTED PAINTING

HALIFAX (CP) — W. E. DeGarthe, a marine artist, has presented a five-by-seven-foot painting of Christ calming the sea to the Church of St. Mary the Virgin at Cow Head, a small Newfoundland fishing village. DeGarthe said he spent three months preparing it to fill a bare space above the altar in the church in his wife's birthplace.

South Africa Dropped From UN Trade Group

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — With Afro-Asian powers providing the thrust, a General Assembly committee Tuesday night took the unprecedented step of suspending South Africa from a United Nations trade organization because of her policy of apartheid—racial separation.

Western powers, afraid of the consequences of the move, opposed the 26-power resolution in the economic committee that would drop South Africa from the 126-country UN Conference on Trade and Development.

The Soviet bloc, with the exception of Cuba, abstained—but not because it did not support the expulsion of South Africa. It wanted East Germany included in the conference—known as UNCTAD.

The vote was 49 for, 32 against and 23 abstentions. Thirty-two countries did not make their position known. Canada joined the rest of the Western powers in opposing the resolution.

The majority vote went against legal advice from the UN secretariat that said a member state can be expelled from such a UN organization only through joint action by the Security Council and the General Assembly.

The committee decision must be ratified by the General Assembly.

The West agreed with the UN counsel's interpretation of the provisions of the UN charter on expulsion. Some African countries disagreed while others said it was a moral matter, not a legal one.

Western speakers expressed concern that the move would serve as a precedent for ousting other members of other UN organizations.

Canada's Bruce Rankin, while repeating Canada's abhorrence of the "loathsome" policy of apartheid, asked what of other countries in the UN that have policies abhorred by other members?

Would these other states be suspended? he asked.

"We are concerned about where this process will end, once it has begun."

He said passage of the resolution was a dangerous precedent with dangerous implications. All members of the UN should be permitted to participate in its functions as broadly as possible.

The conference was formed in 1964 primarily to assist developing countries in matters of trade and tariffs.

Israeli Planes Active

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked Iraqi artillery installations in Jordan today and one jet did not return from the 90-minute raid, the Israeli Army announced.

It was the third Israeli air attack on Jordanian territory this week and the first in which any Israeli losses were reported.

The pilot of the French-made Super Mystere fighter-bomber parachuted into Jordan. "But we managed to get him out," an Israeli spokesman reported.

U.S. Senior Justice Speaks Out

Nothing Gives Demonstrators Right to Use Others' Property

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Hugo L. Black, the U.S. Supreme Court's senior justice, says nothing gives demonstrators the right to "tramp" streets—such as those of Chicago—or assemble on private or government property.

The constitution doesn't say that any man shall have a right to say anything he wishes, anywhere he wants to go," he said Tuesday night in an unprecedented hour-long television interview.

Rocking gently before a desk in the study of his suburban Virginia home, the 82-year-old Black frequently used dry wit and an elfin grin to season a philosophy that appears little changed after 31 years on the court.

Black was asked to apply his oft-stated beliefs on free speech and assembly to the bloody August clashes between police and anti-war protesters at the Democratic convention in Chicago.

He made it clear his answer applied to both private and government property.

The constitution "does not say people shall have a right to assemble to express views on other people's property," Black said. "It just doesn't say it. It says they have a right to assemble if they're peaceable. But it doesn't say how far you can go in using other people's property."

Black touched on several cases in which he took part. But perhaps his most startling comment came on the school desegregation decision of 1954.

He said that the phrase "with all deliberate speed" probably should not have been included because, he said, the wording has been used to delay integration.

The Black interview was billed by the Columbia Broadcasting System as having no precedent on television. Black, however, over the years has been one of the court's most candid members and on occasion so far in an article as to say most libel decisions are unconstitutional.

Picton Town Clerk Threatens to Quit

A. Jarvis Is Irate Over Election 'Ad'

By Don MacKenzie, Staff Reporter

PICTON — Local affairs in this town — recently and repeatedly buffeted by controversy — may have a new personal storm centre.

He is town clerk-treasurer Andrew Jarvis, who last night threatened to quit 16 years of municipal service here over an anonymous advertisement published during last week's local election campaign.

Mayor Harvey McFarland, elected Monday to his 18th successive term — in spite of the advertisement — says he will quit if the Jarvis resignation goes through.

But, Dr. Lionel Dockrill, fiery-spoken town councillor, charges that the clerk-treasurer's resignation would be "the best thing that can ever happen to Picton."

Storm signals of an impending clash went up in the council chambers last night when Mayor McFarland refused the floor to his blunt-talking council colleague.

Dr. Dockrill stormed out of the chamber but renewed his challenging stand today.

"Council should have accepted his (Jarvis') resignation right there on the spot," he said.

Pope Hits Back

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul today criticized dissenting priests and bishops and said that the Roman Catholic Church defends its teachings "at any cost."

In a voice breaking with emotion, the Pope denounced "the reticence" of some of those he said are duty-bound to defend Church teachings—an obvious reference to parish priests and members of the hierarchy opposing him on the issues of birth control, papal authority, priestly celibacy and revised catechisms.

"When it come to its own teaching," the Pope told his weekly general audience, "the Church is intransigent and dogmatic—at any cost."

He spoke bitterly of those in the Church who make their own choice of what is right and wrong.

"Who speaks today of hell?" the pontiff asked. "This is not liked and not discussed.

"Everyone chooses the truths he likes. In this way the faith disintegrates. It is no longer the faith of which St. Paul spoke."

Pope Paul recalled the doubts of Christ's disciples and repeated the words Christ addressed to them: "Do you also wish to go away?" (John 6:68).

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A storm centre over southern Manitoba will move into southern Ontario today, bringing snow to northern regions. A second storm centre will move across states just south of the lower lakes, bringing rain to southern regions. Colder weather and snowflurries will push southward behind the northern Ontario storm centre, likely reaching southern Ontario Thursday.

Seven Point Plan For Mideast Peace

PARIS (AP) — The United States is reported seeking the support of key nations for a new seven-point plan to bring peace between Israel and Egypt.

Informed diplomats said the initiative by President Johnson's administration gathered momentum after the Nov. 5 U.S. election and has attracted the interest of President-elect Richard M. Nixon's entourage.

The informants said the American plan foresees as a starting point Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula and Egypt's termination of its 20-year-old state of war with the Jewish nation.

The ultimate aim of the U.S. program is an acceptable peace document signed by the main contenders in the Middle East conflict, the diplomats said. The

Military Buildup Won't Be Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications currently point to a slower-paced military buildup after President-elect Richard M. Nixon takes office Jan. 20 than was suggested by campaign statements hammering at a "gravely serious security gap."

Nixon associates say the new president plans a detailed study of U.S. defence commitments and strength before deciding how far and how fast to go in spending additional billions of dollars on weaponry.

Going to Niger

Bertrand Ready For Showdown

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, reaffirming Quebec's stand on international relations, said Tuesday the province will be represented in Niger this month at an education conference of French-speaking countries.

Quebec would attend the late December conference no matter what the outcome of talks on the matter between Quebec and Ottawa.

He warned of a "major confrontation" between Ottawa and the provinces if the federal government "persists in a paternalistic, domineering federal policy."

Both the federal and Quebec governments have received invitations from the French-language state of Niger, but Ottawa is seeking a diplomatic formula to avoid duplicating the Gabon affair.

Ottawa and Quebec have been engaged in delicate negotiations on the question of the Canadian delegation to Niger in the light of a dispute over Quebec's attendance at such state conferences.

Canada suspended diplomatic relations earlier this year with Gabon when the African country bypassed Ottawa, directly inviting Quebec to an international education conference.

Union Requests Meeting with Council

PICTON (Staff) — A request by the Canadian vice-president of the International Union of Radio Electrical and Appliance workers to address Picton council was subject of much of the council discussion last night.

Glenn Pattinson sent the letter requesting the audience to Picton clerk Andrew Jarvis on Nov. 7.

It stated that "a matter of vital interest to all citizens, namely, the Proctor - Silex strike" would be the subject matter.

The letter also said that it was hoped by the IUE that after presenting their position on the matter something could be done collectively to resolve the case.

Mr. Pattinson said it would be agreeable to him if company representatives were also present.

First to speak on the matter was Picton Reeve Barney Hepburn who said "we don't want to get in a debating society unless it has something to do with the corporation of the town."

"Other councils don't mediate and I don't see what purpose it will serve."

However Mr. Hepburn as well as the other councillors all agreed that the doors of the council chamber are open to anyone at any time who has something to say concerning the community and its welfare.

Councillor James Bird pointed out "that council is available and they can come."

"We wouldn't want them to think they are being denied the chance to speak to us."

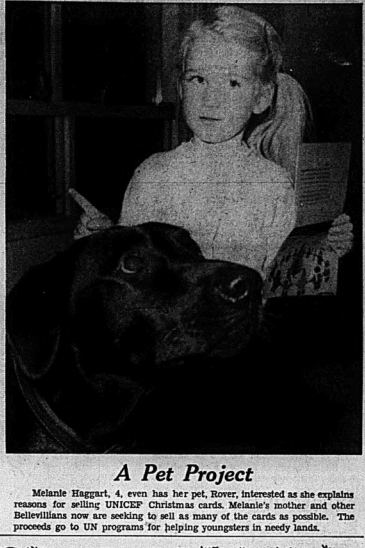
"Council is of course open to hear anything that concerns them."

The town solicitor R. E. Nourse, who had been asked to be present by Mayor Harvey McFarland, was asked his opinion by the Mayor.

Mr. Nourse said that it might be advisable to inquire of the union what they wanted to talk about and have them submit an outline.

"I don't see what a municipality has to do with labor problems," he finished.

It was finally moved that council answer the letter expressing their willingness to hear the union as long as it had to do with Picton's welfare.



Part of the motion was also to be a request to the union to include the subject matter of their presentation.

Mayor McFarland, explaining his request for Mr. Nourse's opinion stated simply "I don't want any trouble."

There have been some reports that the reason for the IUE's request was to submit to council the findings of the private investigator hired to look into local prejudice and action against the union.

The investigation, according to the union, has been completed for some time now.

Final Meeting for Two Councillors

PICTON (Staff) — The 1968 Picton Council met for the last time last night.

And the next council meeting held in January will see only three of the old faces seated around the municipal table — Bessie Ward, James Bird and Harold McLaughlin.

All were re-elected to another two year term along with new Councillors Mrs. Margaret Ackerman, Harry Abram and William B. Lane.

Of course the familiar faces of Mayor Harvey McFarland, reeve Barney Hepburn and deputy reeve Donald Thompson will still be there.

Most of last night's meeting was taken up with clearing the remnants of old business.

As his last recommendation Councillor King made a motion that beginning in 1969 the councillors indemnity be raised from $10 to $15.

It was seconded by Deputy Reeve Thompson.

Both men said they felt that all the time devoted by council members in addition to rising transportation and other costs was at least deserving of $15.

Formerly only the mayor, reeve and deputy reeve received $15 and Mr. Thompson pointed out that the rest of the councillors worked just as hard and deserved the same.

The motion was carried with all present in favor except councillor James Bird.

Three Year Term

Electors Commended on Monday's Vote

Belleville electors came in for commendation by Mayor J. R. Scott yesterday as he expressed appreciation for what he termed their vote of confidence by approving the proposed three year term for council.

He said the electors' decision on the three year term to bring municipal elections into line with those of the county school board would save the city money.

In fact he said the saving of election expenses every other year would amount to the cost of "one mile of sidewalk."

Council now has to apply to the Ontario Legislature for an amendment to its private bill to allow the three year term.

But despite the electors' rather decisive vote for the three year term, Mayor Scott said there had been some confusion and some clarification was needed.

He said there would be an election for council next year and if the Ontario Legislature approved the requested amendment to the city's private bill, the mayor and council members would be elected for three year term.

This would bring municipal and school board elections into line in 1972, following which council would revert to a two year term.

In view of the provincial government's intention to cut back municipal capital expenditures Mayor Scott said the decision for a three year term, rather than a one year term was wise.

"The government says that to avoid interest charges more capital works must be paid for out of current budgets," said the mayor.

But he said the rule also will be that councils will not be able to tax beyond the life of council.

If council had gone for a one year term to bring elections into line with those of the school board, it could have meant that some badly needed capital works might have had to be delayed.

With a three year term such cost could be spread over a three year period.

Report Tabled

Continue Day Nursery: Committee

A special committee named to look into the operation of the Belleville Day Nursery has recommended that it be continued — often if it isn't taken over by the county health department.

Alderman Enos David, reporting for the special two man committee told council yesterday that it was unanimously recommended that the day nursery be continued. The second member of the committee is Alderman E. A. Orr.

Council tabled the report until word is received on the city request for the county body to take over operation of the nursery.

The day nursery came into the news a couple of months ago when it was reported the city's share of the operational costs were high mainly as the result of low attendance.

The committee report by Ald. David had high commendation for the quality of care given at the day nursery and paid tribute to the supervisor and her staff.

The committee was emphatic in saying that the day nursery was not simply a baby sitting service as had been rumored.

It felt that the graduated fee structure was fair and should be continued and suggested that admissions be not for less than one month and that non-resident children be admitted on a full fee basis when accommodation was available.

Current fees at the nursery are $3 per day per child with a monthly fee of $63. The income of families is taken into consideration in determining the fee to be paid and in special circumstances may be waived entirely.

Street Roughness Causes Concern

The roughness of the newly completed concrete pavement on West Bridge St. hill has come in for criticism in city council.

Alderman Douglas Boyle raised the question at yesterday's meeting and city engineer Wilbur Purcell agreed that the surface smoothness did not come up to expectations.

But it seems that nothing will be done to correct the roughness.

The city engineer said there was no question as to the quality of the concrete, but there was no way to correct the roughness without tearing out the pavement and repaving.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said he had been told the roughness of the pavement was intentional to provide a degree of traction for cars and trucks.

The finish was applied and was known as burlap dragging.

But Alderman Boyle still claimed the pavement surface seemed "bumpy" and not nearly as smooth as 401 highway or the Gardner Express elevated roadway in Toronto.

The city engineer did not feel the roughness of the Bridge Street pavement was enough to warrant having the contractor Caten Construction tear out the concrete and re-pave.

Lakehead Merger

The Lakehead cities of Port Arthur and Fort William are heading for the amalgamation that has been talked about for so long — but in the process the provincial government appears guilty of going over the heads of the nearly 100,000 citizens of the two communities.

Amalgamation had been recommended by a firm of Toronto consultants earlier this year and Ontario Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough put the seal on this with his recent announcement that legislation will be introduced during the current session of the provincial house.

But something is missing — a vote of Lakeheaders, and community feelings are ruffled. Liberal member for Port Arthur Ron Knight is quoted as saying the decision to order amalgamation without recourse to a plebiscite "is an insult not only to the intelligence but to the feelings of the people of the Lakehead."

Mr. Knight says while he has been in favor of amalgamation since 1959 he does not think the people should be "herded like so many cattle into something that will affect their lives so much." He claims the result will be to turn people against a good thing.

The provincial member has a point, yet the die is cast — just as it is with the new county boards of education. It is now or never. Community pride aside, there can be no doubt the twin cities are tailor-made for a merger under a single administration.

No names have been mentioned as yet, and this is one sphere in which the opinion of the population should be sought. It could be made the subject of a competition. The name of course that comes to mind immediately is Lakehead, but there are any number of others that might find favor in both cities.

Saigon Drags Its Feet

Vietnam Negotiations Hamstrung By Major Problems

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—The glimmer of hope sparked by the South Vietnamese government's decision to end its boycott of the Paris peace talks brings precious little optimism that the Vietnam war can be ended soon.

Even with the best of good will on both sides, the problems involved in any ceasefire or mutual withdrawal of United States and North Vietnamese forces from the South would be immense.

Given the present atmosphere of contempt between Saigon and Hanoi —they're still quibbling over the size and shape of the conference table—substantive forward movement seems nearly impossible.

With Saigon refusing to recognize the presence at the Paris talks of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas, and Hanoi in turn refusing to talk to the "puppet" Saigon government, any debate on the issues would seem to be many weeks away.

When they do get down to such basic issues as gradual withdrawal of the 543,000 U.S. troops, the bargaining will be hard. In the American view, any such withdrawal must be accompanied by a reciprocal withdrawal of an estimated 80,000 North Vietnamese army troops not only to their bases in neighboring Cambodia and Laos but to North Vietnam itself.

As U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk conceded during the weekend, he expects Hanoi to respond to this "with very far-reaching and excessive demands on their side."

With the Saigon government increasingly behaving in a most un-puppet-like manner, the U.S. in essence is forced to negotiate with its South Vietnamese allies as well as its enemies.

And unlike the U.S., both sides tend to define "progress" in terms of victory rather than peace.

While Saigon publicly pushes its demands for a seat at the Paris negotiations it simultaneously dragged its feet for almost a month before agreeing to be seated. Behind this maneuvre is Saigon's fear that the U.S., in its haste to be done with Vietnam, might finally bow to some form of agreement that would lead to an imposed coalition government in Saigon.

When the U.S. finally gave assurances that it would not, Saigon could dispatch a delegation to Paris with the boast that it was not the totally controlled U.S. puppet that the Communists claim it is.

Meanwhile, Hanoi played its own version of the game of saying one thing and meaning another.

Despite its protests over the seating of the Saigon government the North Vietnamese government has shown remarkable and unusual patience in awaiting Saigon's appearance.

Apparently Hanoi and the NFL feel that to achieve their declared goal of a "coalition government" for South Vietnam, Saigon's presence in Paris is essential.

"— but shame on the little bull. He just wants to sit under his favorite cork tree and smell the flowers."

More Divorces

The startling increase in divorce actions in Ontario is a measure of the liberalizing process the divorce laws underwent recently and which were generally accepted as being necessary.

Formerly about the only ground on which a divorce could be obtain was adultery, but now the statute has been broadened considerably to include several other legitimate grounds for dissolution.

In the course of a lifetime a couple may suffer perhaps no more traumatic an experience than divorce. But better that than to be condemned to a lifetime of emotional turmoil.

There is irony in the wording of a Toronto report on the subject. So many people are seeking "relief", it said (in the words of Supreme Court Registrar Fred Sedgia) under the broader terms of the new divorce act, that all ten available judges may be assigned to hear nothing but divorce petitions for the first week of January.

More than 1,400 divorce actions are piled up at Osgoode Hall awaiting trial and about 125 new petitions are being filed each week. It is a distressing commentary on our day, but then again, it is still a comparatively small minority set against the host of others who find an enduring relationship in marriage.

Glimpse of Sweden

How much do you know about Sweden? A country of paradoxes to be sure. On the one hand one hears about stolid Swedes, a little grim and humorless perhaps, northerners like ourselves. On the other the impression is of an advanced, and even "swinging" society.

Sweden is all of these things, plus some of the most handsome people in the world. It is also a beautiful country with great vistas of lake and forest much like Canada, as well as quiet pastoral land where animals graze. The overwhelming impression is one of peace and tranquility. Again, it is an historic country, with ancient cities and ancient castles. Occasionally, in the strangest places one catches glimpses of a country's soul. Like in that 60-minute television special the other night featuring Ann-Margret. This greatly alive young star of 27 is Swedish born, and as she sang a haunting folk song of her native land background scenes of rural Sweden appeared on the screen.

There were scenes too of Stockholm, including the Millesgarden, where work by the famous Swedish-born sculptor Carl Milles are to be seen.

Ann-Margret has lived much of her life in the United States and typifies the vitality of that land in her song and dance presentations. Still, she has not forgotten the land of her birth, its languages and traditions. The glimpse of that land in her program must have touched the hearts not only of Swedes, but of countless others who have left home to seek their fortune elsewhere.

Lakehead's Lead

Airport Passenger Transit Problem

St. Catharines Standard

With so many task forces and study groups investigating the relative merits of extending our existing international airports or relocating them in their entirety, perhaps someone will spare some thought for the average air traveller who finds himself spending an ever-increasing portion of his travel time getting to and from the airport. Indeed, one must wonder what benefit there is in speeding up air travel if the time thus gained is merely added to the endless waiting and "processing" at the airports and to the travel time between airport and city.

Anyone contemplating a study of this particular aspect of air travel ought to take a look at Cleveland and its spanking new airport rapid transit system. Cleveland has just become the first city in the Western Hemisphere to provide a public rail-link-up between its airport and its downtown, and the local transit system authority is quite confident that the new line will add some 1,500,000 patrons a year who will invest 35 cents and 20 minutes for the 19-mile ride to and from the airport instead of the $1.60 to $5 and one hour involved in taking limousines and taxis.

The new airport rapid transit service sounds like a terribly simple solution and everyone in Cleveland is proud and enthusiastic about the city's new distinction. But it wasn't that way when the airport line was first suggested some eight years ago. Even the city's transit authority considered the proposal too costly and impractical, and debate dragged on for years. It wasn't until the federal government passed a law providing for federal grants for rapid transit systems that the proposal got off the ground. In 1956 the first shovelful of dirt was turned and today the airport "rapid" stands completed at a cost of just over $18,000,000.

It seems like a lot of money but it isn't very much in the over-all context of modern airport planning. Right now, Ottawa is contemplating the problem of preparing our major international airports for the coming era of the jumbo-jets and the supersonic airliners, and all the planning seems to centre on how to get the planes close enough to the cities. Maybe the problem wouldn't be half as big if more attention were paid to the task of getting the air travellers to and from the airports — with efficiency, speed and the usual low cost that goes with mass transportation.

Woman's Dilemma

Zippers and Living Alone

John Robinson in the Hamilton Spectator

A couple or three weeks ago I wrote a column in which, among other things, I suggested that the main reason women could zip and unzip themselves was due to a kindly and foresighted Mother Nature who, being a woman herself had either made female arms longer than men's or had hinged them in such a way that they could perform almost as well in back of them as in front of them — all of which is a confusing sentence and I wish you luck in it. And I do not claim it.

Then I got a very pleasant letter from a reader of indeterminate age — indeterminate as far as I am concerned for we have never met and she didn't say — who described a recent incident in which, living alone as she does, her zipper stuck and she had to take her dress apart at the seams in order to get it off.

Reading that letter and visualizing what must have been an astonishing and frustrating scene, I got the answer to a question that I have long asked me — why are women more highly strung than men?

However before proceeding with an explanation of this belief I must let me stress that although I think women are more tense, more highly strung, than we men, I do not intend by things, the less important things. They do not, for instance become excited about such important things as carrying babies.

Normally I am so placid that my wife occasionally stirs me with a stick in order to detect signs of life but if I had had to contend with a future in which I would personally produce babies, I would have gone out of my skull long before reaching my teens.

Medical Men's Fees

Ottawa Citizen

Ontario's doctors haven't raised their fees since April 1, 1967. They're planning a 10 per cent increase, effective next April, to apply for the following two years.

That's reasonable in relation to average wage increases in Canada these days.

But at a time when health costs are a significant factor in index up, it might be interesting to look at some other figures.

In Ottawa, doctors' fees have risen 40.2 per cent already since 1957; in Toronto, 33.5 per cent; both less than the national average of 43.2 per cent.

In Ottawa, doctors' fees have risen at the same rate as all health services; in Canada generally doctors' fees have risen slightly faster.

Health care in Canada (with doctors' fees the major component in DBS bookkeeping) costs 105 per cent more today than it did in 1949. No other costs have shown anywhere near the increase. Recreation and reading is up 77.4 per cent; food costs are up 52.4 per cent.

Finally, according to the department of national revenue, doctors and surgeons remain the leading income earners in Canada. Their average income in 1966 was $24,893, which was $1,793 more than the next occupational group, engineers and architects. Their average income in Ontario was $27,600.

The doctor! He's doing very well, thank you.

More Jargon

Montreal Gazette

Prof. Parkinson found a law which governed the growth of bureaucracies. No one has yet put their name to a law which seems to work within all large organizations — the growth of jargon.

In Ottawa, an employee is no longer an employee but a "man-year"; a graph is a "statistical break-through" or a "critical path flow."

But the phenomenon is not peculiar to governments, although governments in recent years have been the most productive sources of new words and phrases.

The Bay of Quinte area, and Trenton in particular, is taking on a cosmopolitan air with a motley European touch being added by newcomers to this area from war-ravaged countries of Europe. Two hundred Netherlanders, the majority of whom are members of the Dutch Reformed Church, are located in this area and meet on Sunday afternoons for worship services in Trenton. Many other nationalities and languages are represented through other immigrants.

Donations to the Red Feather Campaign of the Belleville Community Chest have reached the amount of $14,220, and the executive are now hopeful that the minimum objective which was looked for, namely $18,000, will be reached.

Pollution Enough Already

St. Catharines Standard

A recent news story from Ottawa said that the federal fisheries research board is going to artificially pollute 100 lakes in the Kenora district. The reason? To determine how a lake gets polluted and how the pollution can be controlled.

With the number of polluted lakes and streams already in existence in this country, it seems strange that the scientists have to deliberately go ahead and pollute a hundred more of them.

When the project gets going full speed, it will have 15 scientists and 30 other staff working out of a permanent field camp. Think of what that will cost.

Surely we know now how lakes get polluted, (certainly we have enough of them) and we also know most of the remedies. Why not devote our time, talents and cash to applying the remedies, rather than despoiling a lot of lovely lakes to find out something we should already know?

TODAY IN HISTORY

President Woodrow Wilson became the first United States president to leave the country while in office 50 years ago today—in 1918—when he sailed to the Versailles Peace Conference. The conference discussed the terms of peace following the end of hostilities in the First World War and resulted in the signing of the Treaty of Versailles in June, 1919.

1954 — West German Social Democrats defeated Communist candidates.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill began a conference with President Ismit Inonu of Turkey who agreed to "closest unity" and "complete identity of interests;" RAF planes laid mines in German waters; United States task forces attacked the Marshall Islands and sank six enemy vessels and damaged four.

The new controversy came in an election postlude touched off in council by its top civil servant.

Mr. Jarvis, charging "half-truths and cowardly anonymity" against the sponsors of an election advertisement in last Friday's Picton Gazette, threatened to resign unless the authors identified themselves.

If the advertisement, which traced council activities over 17 years, was published "to establish truth, it fell far short of that, he charged. Mr. Jarvis is a former councillor who was appointed clerk - treasurer this year.

Mr. Jarvis said he took issue with the advertisement because of "omissions of all facts," and misrepresentation of the truth.

"If someone casts doubt on my honesty I can't remain as clerk - treasurer of the town of Picton," he warned. "And I won't unless these people reveal themselves.

"The first thing the next council will have to act on will be my resignation."

Mayor McFarland said he would tear up the resignation. But if it went through, his own resignation would follow.

"We'll all go out together," he said.

The mayor said disrespect and cowardice were inherent in the advertisement, since many of the council members who had served in the period quoted were dead or had moved elsewhere.

Council members agreed that the sponsors of the advertisement should reveal themselves and make any accusations openly.

Dr. Dockrill this morning charged Mr. Jarvis had left off names of the voters' list in Monday's election.

He also named a letter involving the Proctor - Silex strike — the five - month - long labor dispute which has given the town some bitter publicity.

"If it hadn't been for me the letter from the International Union of Electrical Workers requesting to address council wouldn't even have been on last night's agenda," claimed the councillor. "It was being withheld."

"I've never in my life heard a man who said more and did less," said Dr. Dockrill.

The Picton physician has been an active labor sympathizer in the Proctor-Silex dispute. However, he came out in support of Mayor McFarland during the election campaign.

The controversial advertisement traces certain council sessions during 1950-67.

It then gives the engineer's statement in council on June 11, 1962: "In my judgment, the road into the Proctor-Silex plant having been constructed on the owner's land on his direction and for the development of his interests, cannot be the object of reimbursement by the use of public funds."

The advertisement also mentions purchase and sale of Picton armory by council and states: "A bylaw authorizing the sale of the building was passed at a special meeting of council held at the mayor's home April 10, 1967, where a vote was taken that the meeting be closed to press and public."

It then ends by quoting the Municipal Act that council meetings "shall be open to the public and no person shall be excluded therefrom except for improper conduct."

At last night's council meeting John Cross, representing Picton Ratepayers Association told council that no one in his organization had anything to do with the advertisement.

Who Owns the Land? That's the Question

The city public works department is spending $2,500 to rebuild the Church Street fence in front of St. Thomas Anglican Church, but the faces of several city councillors are red because they unknowingly approved of the expenditure.

Alderman Richard Ellis wanted to know if the fence was on city property and was told that while it was a borderline case, the fence was assumed to be on city property and was being repaired at the expense of the city.

Producing council budget figures, Mayor J. Russell Scott said the work had been included in the 1968 works budget under the heading of repairs to walls and bridges. The work had been recommended by last year's mayor, Jack Ellis.

Alderman Arthur Keegan said he resented city money being spent on walls repairs on private property "even if it was for his own parish."

And Alderman Gerald Joyce said he felt embarrassed that he had unknowingly voted for the work.

In the future he said he would make it a point to scrutinize every item of expenditure.

A Belleville business firm, Canadian Welding Glass Ltd., 35 Harriet Street, is to be asked by city council to remove a barbed wire fence from around its property which was erected without city permission.

The three strands of barbed wire is on top of a six foot chain link fence.

City manager J. R. Reynolds said that he had a request from the company to erect the fence and following consultation with the city engineer recommended that permission be granted. However, he said that he had no knowledge that the fence had already been erected.

There are similar fences in the city, including the one around the city public works property on Wallbridge Crescent, but the objection to the Welding Gas fence is that it adjoins the property of the city nursery school.

Channel Survey to Cost Additional $5,600: Council

The engineering channel improvement survey to be done on the Moira River within the city limits will cost the city more than was originally expected.

The city's responsibility is for payment of 66 per cent of 25 per cent of the over - all costs with the provincial government paying the balance. Earlier this fall city council approved an over-all expenditure of $15,000 for the survey.

But this did not include what is known as a "legal" survey and this is necessary if the data obtained to be used in connection with the proposed installation of a sanitary sewer up the river bed. The proposed new sewer is to serve the city's northeast industrial park area.

The additional cost of the "legal" survey will bring the over-all figure to $25,000 with the city's share to be approximately $5,625.

Sunday Fair Approved

Despite repeated opposition from Alderman Robin Jeffrey who said she would oppose anything not allowing the Sabbath to be a day of rest, Belleville city council yesterday agreed to the request of the local fair board to be allowed Sunday operation of their fair if necessary.

The recommendation was before council two weeks ago and was tabled for further consideration after Alderman Jeffrey raised objection.

She said these people had to put up with five days of distraction and noise and said said anything which would allow the same conditions on Sunday would be a backward step.

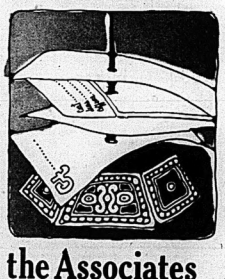
"If we permit the fair to operate on Sunday then it will be difficult to refuse the use of the fairgrounds by other groups," Alderman Jeffrey claimed.

Mayor J. R. Scott said the fair would be operated on Sunday only in the event of inclement weather forcing cancellation of the fair program during the five days which it normally runs.

No fair activities would be permitted until one o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Park Access Purchased

The city of Belleville will spend $360 to provide a permanent access to Victoria Park over property now owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway.



The property in question — 17 feet by 528 feet — lies between the railway tracks and Belleville harbor and since earlier in the year has been under lease agreement.

The roadway — providing a route to the park in addition to the subway beneath the railway was established many years ago but it was not until recently that it was brought to the city's attention that it may not have legal right to the property.

Subject to approval of the Ontario Municipal Board, council yesterday also approved the purchase of 22.98 acres from G. Mumby at $1,300 per acre.

The property in question is south of 401 highway and west of Sidney Street and is being purchased by the city for industrial use.

Thumbprint Cookies Excellent for Christmas

By MARY MOORE

Call them Thumbprints or Thimble or Swedish Cookies — they are all the same — lovely little nuggets of flavor that keep well and may be made and stored now. When you serve tea or coffee to your Christmas callers, arrange a pretty plateful after you have filled the centre dent with a drop of colorful jam or jelly.

You people lead me around by a leash. In 1964 and 1967 I gave you the recipe for Thumbprint Cookies. Now you are clamoring for them again. To be quite candid I do not blame you for I think there is something simiss at Christmastime if there is not a tightly covered cookie box full of these in my fruit cellar.

THUMBPRINT (or Swedish or Thimble) COOKIES (Yield — 7dz)

1 cup butter (room temperature)
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, yolks and whites separated
2 tsps. almond extract
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
Finely chopped nuts (walnuts or, almonds or filberts or Brazils or crushed corn flakes or corn flake crumbs)
Colorful jam or jelly (such as raspberry, mint, apricot)

In beater bowl cream together the butter and sugar until pale and airy. Separate egg yolks from whites of eggs, putting whites in shallow bowl for future step. Add egg yolks to butter-sugar mixture and beat well, then add almond extract, then add flour and beat until dough is smooth. Have finely chopped nuts or crushed corn flakes or corn flake crumbs on shallow plate or surface. By hand shape dough into uniform 1" balls. Drop about 6 in the egg whites. With fork turn balls over, lift carefully with fork and drop into chopped nuts or crumbs. (Keep one fork for turning balls in whites and one fork for coating balls with nuts or crumbs.) Working with about 6 at a time transfer coated balls to buttered cookie sheets, placing them 2" apart, each with ¼ or ½ tsp. of red or green jelly or jam. Apricot jam and raspberry jam are great favorites.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Pork Chops with Mushroom Soupsauce; Mashed Turnip and Potatoes; Green Peas; Tossed Greens and Tomato Salad; Grape Sponge with Nutmeg Custard Sauce; Tea.

Make depression in centre of each with your thumb (or floured thimble on your middle finger). When cookie sheets are full bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 18 to 22 minutes. But after 5 min. baking, carefully dent them at centre again. You may want to ever so carefully dent the cookies once more after they are taken from oven. Cool on cake racks.

Store in tightly covered containers, each layer being between sheets of wax paper)

When you are ready to serve these cookies fill centred

Wife Has A Selfish Attitude

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: The letter signed "Reader" should have been signed "Selfish".

She obviously wants a husband to work himself into the grave so she can not only have the necessities of life but the luxuries as well; and yet she in turn doesn't want him to bother her about sex.

I think you'd better give her a warning signal, Doris. If her husband is any kind of a man at all he'll find his "relaxation" somewhere else, and she may find her luxuries going to someone else!

Her last paragraph really floored me: "If one half of the girls knew what they were in for, there would be fewer marriages." Wow! This woman must be a statue, and I'm sure glad my husband doesn't suffer such indifference. Sure, we have a fight now and again. Who doesn't? He also works hard from early morning until sometimes late at night and is under much pressure; but believe me, lady, in my case this only increases his sex urge, and I wouldn't refuse him for the world.

But then, of course, I love him and would do anything for him. Try it sometime, lady; you'll find it's reciprocal — For Marriage.

Dear Marriage: 'Nuff said. Thank you for saying it.

Dear Doris: I was going with a guy all last winter, but these past few months he hasn't been coming down as often. Then about a month ago a friend of mine told me she heard he was going steady with a girl from his home town.

Since I heard this, he has still been taking me out. Should I tell him I can't see him any more, because I hear he is going steady; or should I wait for him to tell me?

I still think a lot of him. — What's Fair?

Dear What's: Tell me, first: (1) your age and his;

(2) whether you swore undying fidelity to each other, and (3) should you really be limiting yourself to one guy?

If you are 15, friendly and fun-loving, going steady is not for you anyway. You need lots of dates.

Bide your time; and make it clear that you plan to accept other invitations if he takes other girls out. This may be the best thing in the world for both of you.

Dear Doris: Is setting your hair every night bad for it? During school I nearly always set it every evening. I use the brush rollers with the brush taken out.

Does wind cause split ends?

What could I use on my hair to make it shiny and full of life? — Shoulder Locks

Dear Locks: Nightly setting is not advised by my adviser. As hair dries a roller will tighten as much as a quarter of an inch, and this pulls on the roots. Rollers should come out just as soon as hair is dry.

The wind could be causing your split ends, although usually brittle dryness is the culprit. Better wear a scarf in the wind. And write in for my 10-cent leaflet "On Being Well Tressed" for fundamentals on keeping hair shining and healthy.

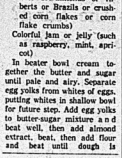
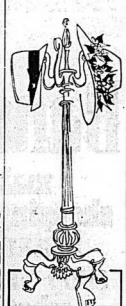
CLUB 4-H NOTES



MOUNTAIN VIEW MODERN MISSES



The last meeting of the Club Girl was held on November 23 at the home of Mrs. Motley. The meeting opened with the 4-H pledge followed by the secretary and the treasurer's report, which was read by Brenda Wood

For this meeting, a tea was held, in which each club member had to invite a guest. For the tea, each club member had to make something to eat. All enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. Debbie Motley had a beautiful centrepiece for the tea table.

A special thanks is extended to the mothers and friends of the club members who helped make the afternoon a success.

Points for Parents

Mother: "The traffic jam is terrible around the schoolhouse every morning. I hate the day I have the car pool, but the children get too tired if they have to walk."

In car-oriented society, youngsters may never learn the pleasures of walking, especially if parents provide constant and easy transportation.

Mother: "We didn't join the car pool this year. We get up a little earlier and the children walk to school. It's not quite a mile and the exercise is good for them."

The wind could be causing your split ends, although usually brittle dryness is the culprit. Better wear a scarf in the wind. And write in for my 10-cent leaflet "On Being Well Tressed" for fundamentals on keeping hair shining and healthy.

Home League Holds Tea

NAPANEE — Miserable weather notwithstanding, the Home League of the Salvation Army held a successful bazaar and tea last Friday afternoon. The few articles unsold on the bazaar tables will probably be bought up before Christmas by people whom the weather kept at home.

Mrs. (Lieut.) D. P. Connors welcomed the guests, and Mrs. Jennie Herrington received the admission fee. Mrs. Connors conducted a short worship service, assisted by her husband, Mrs. Herrington, and Miss Harriett Hannah, and declared the bazaar officially open.

The tea table centre was comprised of red candles and holly, and a miniature replica brought the Christmas atmosphere to each small table.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Frank Mellow and Mrs. Arthur Sladden. Mrs. Norman Dupont and Mrs. Joan Cooper served the guests, and Mrs. Gladys Storey, in charge of the kitchen, had the assistance of Miss Hannah and Mrs. Clare Milligan.

The food table did particularly well, in spite of the fact that two other organizations were holding similar sales in the neighborhood. Mrs. Leta McGarvey, Mrs. Fletcher Sergeant, and Mrs. Percy Paul were kept busy during the afternoon.

The long table at the side of the hall was divided into sections for the various types of articles, such as sewing, knitting, novelties, including the Christmas decorations, aprons, and quilts. Acting as salesladies here were Mrs. Harold Poste, Mrs. Ed Plane, Mrs. Percy Madden, and Mrs. Jack Martin. The "touch-and-take" section was in charge of Mrs. Menzo Grooms.

Mrs. A. Trafford. Home League secretary, was in charge of the over-all arrangements.

UCW Meetings

(TABERNACLE UCW)

President, Mrs. E. Cornish, opened the meeting by welcoming the members and visitors, and conducting the opening exercises.

Reports were given by Mrs. P. Osland on correspondence and Mrs. R. Nelson, on the forthcoming bazaar. Mrs. N. Wessels brought in the slate of officers for 1969. The Christmas meeting will be held on December 9, starting with a dessert luncheon.

Guest speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. G. Greer, Audio Visual Councillor of the Bay of Quinte Conference from Trenton. A table discussion was conducted, with several questions posed, after which slides were shown.

The worship service was given by unit 1 under the direction of Mrs. K. Riddell. Her theme was "stewardship" which means "head of the house." The scripture lesson was given by Mrs. M. Whiting and Mrs. J. Metier offered prayer.

A stewardship of prayer ended this devotional period, with background music rendered by D. Aitcheson. The offering was dedicated by Mrs. K. Riddell. Words of thanks were given to Mrs. Greer for her discussion and slides.

The meeting closed with a social half hour being enjoyed, with lunch served under the direction of unit four with Mrs. E. Neil.

Vilneff – Rashotte

MR. AND MRS. GORDON VILNEFF

Monsignor J. P. Sullivan officiated at the ceremony in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville on Saturday, November 23, 1968 at 3 p.m., when Jacqueline Sharon Rashotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Rashotte, became the bride of Gordon Vilneff, Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vilneff of Tweed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie featuring a scoop neckline and lily-point sleeves. An insert of Chantilly lace enhanced the bodice, mid way down the skirt and along the sleeves. A semi-attached chapel train of matching peau de soie accented with a band of lace extended from the neckline. The headdress was a butterfly effect of peau de soie with a forehead drop of lace swirls with miniature seed pearls caught to a four-tier silk illusion shoulder length veil.

The maid of honor Miss Marsha Austin of Kingston, cousin of the bride and the bridesmaid Miss Betty Begley of Belleville were identically attired in floor length gowns of cherry red velvet featuring bateau necklines and wrist length sleeves edged with white lace. The headdresses were clusters of red velvet leaves encrusted with pearls from which flowed four-tier veils. Each carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

Kerry Knapp of Portage La Prairie, Manitoba was groomsman, while the ushers were John Ramsay of Tweed, Raymond Casalin, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, also of Tweed.

For the reception at the Legion Hall, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a pink lace ensemble consisting of sleeveless dress and coat with three-quarter sleeves with white and pink accessories and a sprage of pink roses and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a sheath style blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Leaving on the honeymoon trip for points north, the bride donned a raspberry shade knit suit with black accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

On return Mr. and Mrs. Vilneff will reside at 494 Bolivar Street in Peterborough.

Canadian Booth Popular at YWCA Fair

WASHINGTON (CP) — Some pretty shrewd summertime shopping and a recent baking spree in Canadian kitchens around Washington made the Canadian booth one of the headliners of the annual YWCA International Fair, billed as "the world's largest one-day bazaar."

All told, some 30 booths laden with foods and handicrafts from around the world turned a hotel ballroom into a sort of United Nations supermarket for a day recently. The centrepiece was a Christmas tree flown in from Canada.

Proceeds go to assist the international program of the Young Women's Christian Association in 73 countries.

Earlier, during summer vacation, Mrs. Henry C. Armstrong of Kingston, Ont., toured the West Coast in search of suitable Canadian-made articles to sell at the fair. Mrs. H. Edward Price, wife of the assistant Canadian Forces attache here, scoured handicraft shops in the Atlantic provinces and Mrs. Ward Greenwood of Winnipeg did her shopping in the Prairie provinces.

The result was a 40-foot booth displaying knitted goods from Newfoundland, heather tweed from New Brunswick, hand-moulded flower candles from Ottawa, Eskimo carvings, model Red River oxcarts from the Industrial Workshop for the Handicapped in Winnipeg and samples of the ancient fabric-painting craft of batik from British Columbia.

As for food, "the success of the bazaar continues o be due to long hours of work and baking done in the kitchens of the Canadian women," said Mrs. Stuart Paddon of Picton, Ont., wife of the head of the Canadian military mission here. She and Mrs. Peter Towe, wife of the senior minister at the embassy, were co-chairmen of the Canadian committee.

Additionally the ladies got Canadian companies to donate such items as bacon and syrup for the sale. There also was aged cheddar cheese, and apricot and apple delight from British Columbia's Okanagan Valley.

But the competition was tough. Also bidding for the shoppers' attention were an ostrich egg, Nigerian Africa large enough to make an omelette for 24, buckets of peanut stew with chicken and rice from Ghana, German gingerbread houses and orchids from Hawaii.

This year more than 3,000 volunteers from 30 countries helped stage the 19th annual fair, which had modest beginnings back in 1950 when Washington's YMCA faced the problem of meeting its quota contribution for the world fellowship fund.

A member of the board suggested a luncheon at which embassies would present their native foods and the public could come and "eat their way around the world."

Six embassies agreed to stock booths and others donated beverages and food for an international tea table. It was a sellout, and the affair has grown every year since.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

QUINTE W. I.

The Quinte Women's Institute held their last regular meeting in the W. I. Memorial Hall, with the president, Mrs. Clifford Reid extending a special welcome to the guests and also the members present.

The opening exercises were followed by the business period and also announcing the Christmas meeting with a Christmas Message and roll call, exchange of Christmas gifts, Mrs. F. Bedell and Mrs. L. Sharpe, conveners for his

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Kitchener Ward of Belleville announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Lois to Mr. Robert Lorne Probert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Probert, also of Belleville. The marriage will take place in St. Joseph's Church at 11 a.m. on January 4, 1969.

* * *

Previous to the marriage Mrs. Gordon Vilneff (nee Jacqueline Rashotte) was honored at a personal shower given by Barbara, Betty and Brenda Begley.

torical research and current events took charge.

The motto "She who forgets the past, loses key to the future" was ably given by Mrs. Fred Campbell. The most satisfying task for Women's Institute is to see that the things of the past, antiques and histories must not be destroyed. Our heritage must not only be cherished, but passed on.

Mrs. L. Sharpe prepared an interesting report of current events for the past year, this covered alterations and additions to our schools and manufacturing companies and also new industries locating in the city.

Ross Irvine and Mrs. Ralph Plumpton of Belleville Historical Museum showed some very interesting slides. Mrs. Plumpton ably commented on each slide, showing pictures of the first settlers' homes, hardships and etc.

Some of the buildings are still standing — Mrs. Simpson's first tavern still standing on the corner of Dundas and Front Streets. The members present were very appreciative to Mrs. Plumpton and Mr. Irvine for their entertainment.

The meeting was closed after which the lunch committee served a delicious lunch and a social half hour was spent.

WEDDING

BAKER — NORRIS

TWEED — Mary Frances Norris of Kingston and Stanley Baker of Sharbot Lake were united in marriage November 23 in St. Mary's Cathedral Kingston. Rev. R. J. Flurey officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Norris of Howe Island. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Baker of Kingston.

She was attended by Anne Kenney of Kingston, Sheila Ottenhof of Athensview, Lynda Norris of Howe Island, Debbie Ottenhof, Amherstview and Patricia Richardson of Kingston.

Attending the bridegroom were Steve Richmond, Barry Browning, Lorne Hudson, all of Sharbot Lake, Ontario, and Gary Woodcock of Kingston.

The couple will be residing in Sharbot Lake.

The Experts Say

Public Should Scrutinize Food Plans

MONTREAL (CP) — The Consumers' Association of Canada advises people interested in buying a freezer food plan of any type to do some careful comparative shopping first.

Check with the Chamber of Commerce or Better Business Bureau, says the association, to see if the firm has its own warehouse and delivery facilities.

Read the fine print in the contract and make sure you know exactly what services the plan is supposed to provide and what premium you are paying.

The association stresses the importance of finding out how much of the total payment is for the freezer, how much is the cost of credit, and how much is for food—then see if you could get these cheaper elsewhere.

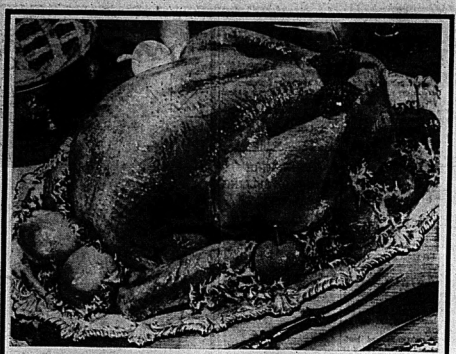
When comparing freezer prices make sure that the models are actually the same. Sometimes freezers of a given brand, sold with a food plan, are "stripped down" models built to the food firm's specifications.

Also be sure to check the list of groceries available with the plan and figure out what items you will need that are not provided, and how much extra they will cost. Last but not least, check deliveries carefully to make sure that you actually get what you order.

The association warns that a freezer food plan demands the closest scrutiny, and that a potential customer should never assume that the monthly payments will look after monthly food needs—they won't.

A prospective buyer should find out if the firm that sells the freezer is the same one that supplies the food. A firm that sells freezers but arranges for a food supply from some other source may not have any continuing interest in the customer's satisfaction once the sale is made.

As for refreezing of frozen foods, the Ontario Frozen Food Council says fruits partially thawed out, or completely thawed but still cold, can be refrozen. Even if they are at room temperature for not more than three hours they may be safely refrozen.



Vegetables may be refrozen under similar conditions, as well as meat.

But if meat or vegetables have been in room temperatures, completely thawed out for an indeterminate time, they should not be refrozen.

Poultry, if at room temperature for three hours and still with a normal odor, can be refrozen. But if the slightest "off" odor is present, it is wiser to discard.

Many packages are clearly marked "don't refreeze" and although some of these products may be safely refrozen it is best to follow the instructions unless it means the product will be wasted.

The refreezing question arises more frequently where there are power failures. As a general rule, food in a full freezer will stay frozen at least two days without power, even in summer. If only partly loaded it will stay frozen at least one day.

Local Girl Chosen Miss Farm Union

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Petherick and daughter Fay attended the Provincial Farm Union conference and banquet in Kingston on Monday evening at which about 800 were in attendance.

Miss Fay Petherick was the winning contestant in the beauty contest, runner up was Miss Rita Gogo of R.R. 1, Bellamy, of District II.

Miss Petherick was first in the local competition of Local 202, her second contest was for District No. 8 held in Cold Springs and the final in Kingston For the remainder of the year, she will be Miss Farmers' Union.

The girls were judged on poise, personality, suitability of dress, knowledge of Farmers' Union policy and beauty as well. The girls were also required to give a two-minute speech as part of the competition.

Ann Landers

Wife's Insight Makes Life Better

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married nearly 50 years. Joe has always had "girl friends" and I'm sure the reason our married life has been so wonderful is because I have never been jealous or suspicious.

ANN LANDERS

Not that Joe has ever been unfaithful, but when we are with a group he makes it a point to seek out a red widow or an unhappy divorcee or a maiden lady who has lost confidence in her ability to attract a man. He takes her to a quiet corner of the room and tells her she is lovely, interesting company and that he has always admired her. I have seen these light-lipped women come alive as Joe talks to them.

Recently, we were having dinner in a restaurant. Our waitress was a stony-faced sourpuss who greeted us with a chip on her shoulder the size of a two-by-four. Joe said to her, "The proprietor of this establishment is fortunate to have a woman of your charm and dignity working here." She broke out in a broad smile. Her entire personality changed. She gave us superb service.

These women need a kind word — and that's all Joe gives them, I'd bet my life on it. The world would be a better place if more men were like my Joe. Don't you agree, Ann? — PROUD DOP HIM.

DEAR PROUD: Indeed I do, but Joe is only half of it. You are the half that makes Joe's half possible. An orchid to you for your insight.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please don't think this letter is a joke. I'll bet loads of kids around the country would like to ask this question but don't have the nerve.

When a person wears braces on his teeth, should he smile with his mouth open or shut? Please answer soon. We have to take pictures for the school year book and I want to look my best. Thank you. — SPARKLE PLENTY.

DEAR PLENTY: I checked with two yearbooks and counted only three broad grins that revealed braces. I'm certain dozens of kids concealed their braces by smiling with their mouths closed. For those who are self-conscious about the hardware the closed-mouth smile is best.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married one month and I hate it. I hate doing dishes and ironing clothes and cooking. I didn't hate doing these things when I was home but I hate it now.

I am 16 and my husband is 18. I despise him for talking me into getting married. I quit school because he made it sound like being married would be so much fun. It's not fun, it's work. He lied to me.

I am not asking for advice. I know what I am going to do. I am just writing to say I was sure I was an exception but I was wrong. Getting married at 16 is rotten and I'm getting out as soon as I figure how. Sign me — DUMB LOU.

DEAR BLOU: You didn't ask for advice so I won't offer it. I'm printing your letter for the benefit of others for whom it is not too late. Are you listening out there?

Tariff Changes Okayed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons spent most of Tuesday on legislation aimed at tidying up Canada's commitments to international trade and the International Monetary Fund.

Opposition MPs found something to criticize in both government proposals, but nevertheless gave second and third readings to a bill implementing more than 1,000 tariff changes and first reading to the monetary measure.

The Commons returns to study of 1968-69 departmental spending estimates today.

Before debating the trade and monetary items, Prime Minister Trudeau was questioned on his Monday announcement on the federal proposal to share offshore mineral rights with the provinces.

He said the federal proposal does not leave much room to manoeuvre but the sharing formula remains open to negotiation.

The proposed 50-50 split of revenue from the off-shore area that would be under federal control was not as open to discussion as other parts of the scheme.

The federal area would cover 90 per cent of the off-shore zone outside of lines drawn near the coastlines. Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand has already said he will "never accept" the formula.

On the trade agreement, arising out of the Kennedy Round of tariff negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, Harold Danforth (PC—Kent-Essex) said Canada may not survive the progressive tariff reductions to which she now is committed.

He said that whenever action is taken to promote free trade, U.S. imports into Canada increase to the detriment of primary and secondary industry.

He saw in government-proposed anti-dumping legislation confirmation of his own fears that Canadian industry is going to be hurt by the tariff cuts.

Another Conservative, Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West) complained that most of the tariff changes already were implemented by the cabinet last April. This was a dubious procedure.

Many of Canada's trading partners restricted imports through means other than tariffs. It was "dangerously naive" for Canada to rely on tariff cuts when other nations used quotas, border taxes and building codes to keep out imports.

John Burton (NDP—Regina East) said the extensive trade liberalization predicted as a result of the Kennedy Round tariff reductions had not occurred. He urged a re-direction of trade from the U.S. Some light consumer goods now bought there could be purchased elsewhere.

Herb Gray, Finance Minister Benson's parliamentary secretary, said the government and other GATT nations were aware of the need to deal with non-tariff barriers to trade. Discussions on the problem were under way with Canada playing an active role.

Lesage Supports Bertrand

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand and Opposition Leader Jean Lesage joined forces Tuesday to reject as unacceptable the federal proposal for sharing of undersea mineral resources.

Mr. Bertrand told reporters Quebec is not prepared to "give up what, in our idea of the meaning of federalism, is Quebec's already."

The federal proposal was "not acceptable" to Mr. Lesage, whose Liberals maintained that the question is "political, not legal."

Mr. Bertrand said that if Ottawa were intransigent on the issue, he would not rule out the possibility of an early Quebec election to seek support from the people of Quebec.

Mr. Lesage recalled in the legislative assembly that in 1964, 1965 and 1966 his Liberal government maintained that offshore mineral resources are merely an extension of provincial territory.

He agreed with Mr. Bertrand's comment that the territory is under the "exclusive and entire authority of the Quebec government."

"You really can't help liking her, though heaven knows I've tried!"

Health Care Remains Big Saskatchewan Issue

REGINA (CP) — Health care still is a main issue in Saskatchewan as the Liberal party prepares for its 57th annual convention, six years after the province launched North America's first government-run compulsory prepaid medical care insurance plan.

Premier Ross Thatcher's government has modified significantly operations of the plan introduced by the CCF, predecessor of the New Democratic Party. Liberals say the changes are aimed at keeping the plan alive, but the NDP says the modifications may be lethal.

One of the resolutions to be debated at the three-day convention opening here Thursday asks for a yearly ceiling on a family's liability for utilization fees, charges imposed this year on use of hospital facilities and doctor visits.

Saskatchewan citizens pay a head tax of $72 annually per family towards medical care funds, or $36 for a single person. The utilization fees, which went into effect April 15, are $2.50 a day for the first 20 days that a person is in hospital and $1.50 a day for the next 60 days. No fee is charged after 90 consecutive days.

There is a $1.50 fee for house calls and $2 for visits to a doctor's office. The fees were introduced by the Liberals to cut down on what they called abuse of health services. The NDP refers to the fees as "deterrent fees" and sometimes label them "a tax on the sick."

PM Worried by Impression His Is One-man Government

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is reported to be concerned that his government is leaving the impression that it is a one-man show—his.

Informants say the 49-year-old bachelor prime minister wants his ministers to know who is in charge but not to be such shrinking violets that all the public can see is one big sunflower.

It is understood that for this reason Mr. Trudeau has recently given ministers free rein to express opinions on national affairs on which the cabinet has not yet set out a collective policy.

So far, only Postmaster-General Eric Kierans and State Secretary Gerald Pelletier appear to have ventured out on the loosened leash.

Mr. Kierans said Canada should withdraw from NATO and Mr. Pelletier suggested conscription for public civilian service. They immediately ran into a blizzard of opposition questions in the Commons.

Mr. Trudeau is probably himself responsible for any impression that his government is a one-man band.

Though he was merely restating a principle of parliamentary government, his frequent public reminders to ministers that they were to observe cabinet solidarity frightened some and caused embarrassment among a few.

Mr. Trudeau now is trying to temper his instructions and to encourage his ministers to talk it up more with the public.

By contrast, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield has no problem about leaving an impression with Canadians that he is running "a one-man party—not with former prime minister John Diefenbaker still taking an active part in the Commons and politics generally.

Sources close to Mr. Stanfield say the Conservative leader bears no resentment toward Mr. Diefenbaker for sometimes taking the play away from him.

Mr. Stanfield appears content for the time being to work away steadily and hope for a breakor a break being, of course, some political disaster for the government.

Farmers Are Broke

EDMONTON (CP) — The president of the Farmers Union of Alberta says farmers are broke and businessmen dependent on the grain growing industry report some farmers are bartering grain for goods.

Paul Babey of Edmonton said bartering grain for merchandise is an "understandable situation." But he said he does not know how substantial the reports are.

Farm spokesmen and businessmen say some bartering is taking place, despite Canadian wheat board regulations. There is no clear indication whether regulations are being bypassed or ignored.

"This is nothing startling," said Tom Bunn, feed manager of an Edmonton farmers co-operative store.

"It's not actually an exchange. Money is paid for their grain and they turn around and hand it back for (livestock) feed, etc."

Mr. Bunn said he knows nothing of reports that clothing, television sets and other merchandise are also being exchanged.

Quebeckers Flock to Polls in Two Important Byelections

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's Union Nationale government went to the people, city slickers and farmers, today in two byelections fought with almost the fury of a general election.

The two-member working majority of the Union Nationale in the Quebec legislative assembly was at stake in this first test at the polls since the late premier Daniel Johnson squeezed out Jean Lesage's Liberal government in the June 5, 1966, general election.

The rights of English-speaking Quebecers became a topic of debate in the overlapping campaigns to fill vacancies in Montreal's Notre-Dame-de-Grace riding and Bagot, a rural constituency 40 miles eastward.

Polling was from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. for the 42,119 eligible voters in largely English-speaking Notre-Dame-de-Grace, formerly represented by Eric Kierans, and the 13,262 in predominately French Bagot.

Snow—perhaps as much as four to eight inches in some areas—and freezing rain were predicted for the election districts.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, 43, member of the non-elected legislative council or upper house since last year, battled for an assembly seat in Bagot, which was wrested from the Liberals and held for 22 years by Mr. Johnson until his death in September.

Mr. Bertrand, 52, and Mr. Lesage, 50, broke tradition by leading teams of ministers and former ministers into the by-election frays and the premier made a strong pitch for English-language representation from Montreal which now has no "Anglo" members on the government side of the house.

Speaking on behalf of Union Nationale candidate John Lynch-Staunton, 38, in Notre-Dame-de-Grace—locally known as NDG—Mr. Bertrand went so far as to declare:

"I have come here to ask you to give support to help him win his election and I would also say my election."

The fight in NDG, from which Postmaster-General Eric Kierans resigned to move to federal politics, is a straight two-man battle between Mr. Lynch-Staunton, city councillor and insurance executive, and Liberal William Tetley, 42-year-old lawyer and alderman of neighboring Town of Mount Royal. NDG has never elected a Union National representative.

Carrying the fight to Mr. Cardinal, former dean of law at University of Montreal, was Mayor Henri Boisvert, 38, of Acton Vale, largest community in the riding, under the Liberal banner.

There also were three independents: Jacques Pelletier, a film producer; and Michael Mill, representing the Young Socialist League, and Micheline Chartrand, both students who have sharply attacked Mr. Cardinal's policies in this period of educational turmoil in Quebec.

The Union Nationale, which came to power with a majority of legislature seats but a minority of the popular vote, now has 54 MLAs, one of whom serves as speaker and votes only in case of a tie.

The Liberals have 48 and there are three independents making up a combined opposition of 51 so that a double defeat today would cost the Union Nationale its working majority in the 108-member house.

Why?

We think it's excellence of product.
Years and years ago,
when we decided to bake Jane Parker Fruit Cake,
we also decided to bake the best.
That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts.

Just enough delicious cake to hold together
the bounty of cherries from Canada, pineapple from the Far East, citron from Italy,
sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is one of Canada's most popular.
One other thing you should know:
You can buy it only at A&P.

Canada's Security Closely Interlocked With That of Europe

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's security is closely interlocked with that of Europe, Defence Minister Cadieux told the Commons committee on defence and external affairs Tuesday.

In a statement, the defence minister stopped short of recommending what role Canada should play in NATO after the current review of defence and foreign policy.

But his comments, endorsed later by External Affairs Minister Sharp who appeared before the committee at the same time, appeared to come down on the side of a continued military role in Europe.

The major threat to Canada's security comes from the prospect of nuclear exchange between "the two super-powers," Mr. Cadieux said.

"The forum where the super-powers' interests most closely impinge on each other is Europe, and hence Europe is the geographical region where Canada's security is most in jeopardy. Thus, Canada's security is very closely interlocked with the security of Europe."

In the past, Mr. Cadieux said, it has been considered to be in the interests of Canada's national security to meet the challenge through participation in NATO.

"How we meet the challenge in the future is one of the very important considerations of the defence review.

"But I would ask you to remember this, the defence review cannot remove the challenge."

Mr. Sharp, under questioning later by J. Patrick Nowlan (PC —Annapolis Valley) said he had no difficulty whatever in agreeing with Mr. Cadieux's statement.

He also agreed with the statement of the recent NATO ministerial meeting in Brussels that NATO would continue to stand as the guarantor of security and the essential foundation of European reconciliation.

Mr. Nowlan suggested that acceptance of these two points of view would preclude withdrawal from NATO.

Mr. Sharp said the government's present policy is to support NATO and the Brussels statement therefore represented no policy change.

Meanwhile, it was good that the government was delaying a decision in this matter to allow for full debate. He himself had personal views but was not giving them because he did not want to inhibit the debate.

But at another point Mr. Sharp said it was a mistake to think Canadian forces are in NATO to defend Europe—"we're there to defend Canada."

War could break out in Europe and destroy Canada, he said. To prevent this, it was essential to remain strong enough to deter invasion while at the same time working for a reduction of tension.

The external affairs minister also said the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia last August was "so irrational" that he shared Western concern over Soviet intentions.

Parole Board Frees 513 Because Provincial Jails 'Dungeons'

OTTAWA (CP) — The national parole board released 513 men serving short sentences last year because they were locked up in provincial jails that are akin to "dungeons," Board Chairman George Street said Tuesday.

He told the Commons standing committee on justice and legal affairs that paroles on sentences of six months or less are granted because some parts of the country are backward in probation and lack proper prisons.

The board regarded even a short sentence in some provincial jails as so harmful that it went out of its way to get men out of them quickly.

Mr. Street, without naming names, said in some cases, provincial mental hospitals were bad too. He had seen a man in a hospital cell that would have been considered a disgrace in a federal prison.

Mr. Street, with support from Solicitor-General George McIlraith, argued for more money for parole and probation.

Since the parole board was established 10 years ago, 23,000 prisoners had been released and only 2,500 had been returned.

Mr. Street said the low failure rate places the parole system among the world's best.

Mr. Street also noted the cabinet approved parole of five of 15 murderers since last Dec. 29.

A five-year trial abolition of capital punishment began Dec. 29, 1967, with the provision that paroles in non capital murder cases require cabinet approval.

Mr. Street told Elden Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) that it appears to be too early to say whether the new law, which restricts hanging to those convicted of the capital murder of a policeman or prison guard, is having any effect on statistics.

The chairman said murderers have the lowest failure rate of any category of paroled prisoner.

Only one of the 119 persons paroled since 1920 had committed murder again and only 11 had been returned to prison.

The trial law stipulates that 10 years must be served before a murder convict becomes eligible for parole.

As a result, Mr. Street said, Steven Murray Truscott will not be eligible for parole until next June.

Truscott was convicted in 1959, when he was 14, of the strangling of a girl at Clinton, Ont.

Railways Accept Mediator

MONTREAL (CP) — A new approach to collective bargaining, suggested by Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey, has been accepted by Canada's major railways and eight unions representing 75,000 non-operating employees.

The CNR and CP Rail said in a joint statement Tuesday they have accepted Mr. Mackasey's suggestion that a federal mediator sit in on contract talks from the start, in the hope of bringing about an agreement through negotiation.

Imposed settlements have been the rule rather than the exception in the railway-union field in recent years. Negotiators have been unable to hammer out an agreement at the bargaining table, and the issues have been settled by binding arbitration or federal legislation.

The railways' announcement followed a similar statement of acceptance by R. C. Smith, chairman of the bargaining committee for the eight non-op unions.

There was no immediate word, however, from another group of eight unions representing 22,000 railway shop-craft workers.

Mediceord frequently here as a likely choice as mediator was W. P. Kelly, of Ottawa, former Canadian vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who joined the federal labor department about two years ago.

It was felt that Mr. Kelly was thoroughly familiar with the railway-union situation and would be acceptable to both sides.

Mr. Smith's non-op group—representing section hands, freight handlers, clerks, telegraphers, signalmen and others not directly involved in running the trains—presented demands Nov. 1 for a 32-per-cent wage increase spread over a two-year contract.

This was termed "danger-ously inflationary" by the two major railways, who said it would cost them $145,000,000 over the two years.

The shop-crafts, grouping skilled tradesmen such as machinists, boilermarkers and electrical workers, have asked for a 15-per-cent increase in one year, plus a substantial but unspecified raise for mechanics with special skills.

The trainmen, who make up the largest of the running trades unions, have asked for a 20-per-cent pay increase for road service employees and a $1-an-hour increase for yard employees, plus a reduction in the work day to six hours from eight.

Canadian Council of Human Rights Formed at Ottawa Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Conference for Human Rights, designed as a forum for expression of views, gave birth Tuesday to the Canadian Council for Human Rights.

Prof. John Humphrey of McGill University, Montreal, conference chairman and provisional president of the new council, told a news conference that its main purpose will be to focus attention on human rights problems in Canada and "inspire" action to solve them.

"The new organization will go on from here," he said at the end of the three-day conference. "It goes on penniless, at least for the moment.

A federal government subsidy of $100,000 to the Canadian Commission for the International Year for Human Rights, which sponsored the conference, ends Dec. 31, and the commission ends with it.

However, the new council expects to begin operations soon with "a modest budget," vice-president Kalmen Kaplansky of Montreal told reporters.

The full conference, attended by about 450 delegates, took no action other than to establish the new council. But it received reports from its 10 workshops airing individual views on a variety of matters, including women's rights, the status and treatment of Indians and Eskimos, the Canadian Constitution, bilingualism, and ombudsmen.

But one subject that was overlooked, in the opinion of Joseph Drummond, a member of the New Brunswick Human Rights Commission, was the condition of the Negro minority in the Atlantic provinces.

He said in an interview that employers still discriminate against Negroes, to the extent that even educated young people find it hard to get suitable jobs. Now outsiders from the United States, members of the militant Black Panthers, had moved into the region and were challenging moderates for the leadership of the Negro community.

"These outsiders are telling us in no uncertain terms to shape up or ship out," said Mr. Drummond, who is also president of the New Brunswick Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"While society should concern itself immediately with the black people of the Atlantic provinces, because of the situation that is developing there."

Prof. Humphrey told reporters he wouldn't agree with the allegation that Negro voices weren't properly heard at the conference. But, as a native of New Brunswick, he could understand the reasons for Mr. Drummond's remarks.

"I also have deplored the treatment of Negroes in the Atlantic provinces. I am glad Mr. Drummond spoke out because that was the intention of this conference—to get people to speak their minds.

"My only regret is that Mr. Drummond didn't do it on the floor of the conference."

The federal department of Indian affairs took a scathing from Indian and Eskimo delegates in the conference workshop on aboriginal rights.

Harold Cardinal, president of the Indian Association of Alberta, said there is a consensus among Indian leaders that the department has no part to play in the "meaningful dialogue" that must develop between Indians and whites in Canada.

"The credibility of the Indian affairs department is gone," he said.

"If we are to have a full measure of justice and freedom, the expansion of the Indian affairs department must come to a halt."

Mary Carpenter of Sachs Harbor, N.W.T., an Eskimo university student, told the conference that Eskimos want "to be part of the so-called Canadian mosaic" but they don't want the Indian affairs department telling them what to do.

Addressing the final conference luncheon, Mr. McRuer Justice accused Canadian society of tolerating, and sometimes even encouraging, injustice to Indians and Eskimos.

"If all men are born equal in this country, we well know that they do not stay equal long after they are born."

A workshop on ombudsmen, independent officials appointed in some countries to take up the complaints of private citizens against their government, agreed that the federal government should appoint one for Canada immediately.

It also agreed that the example of New Brunswick, Quebec and Alberta, which have all established the office of provincial ombudsman, should be followed by all the other provinces.

The conference instructed the new Canadian Council for Human Rights to convene a national convention some time next year. In the meantime, the council is to draft a constitution and "program of action."

Illegitimate Children Denied Rights -- McRuer

OTTAWA (CP) — The rights of the illegitimate child urgently demand the attention of all agencies interested in human rights, J. C. McRuer, retired chief justice of the Ontario Supreme Court, said Tuesday.

Speaking at the National Conference on Human Rights, Mr. McRuer said that for most purposes under law the illegitimate child is a second-class citizen.

"In our province, it can only inherit through the mother and then only if she has no legitimate children."

Why should any child be branded for life "with the badge of the indiscretions of its father and mother?" he asked.

In the area of women's rights, why should a woman not get equal pay with a man if she did the same work?

Mme. Therese Casgrain of Montreal had forcibly pointed out that discrimination exists in abundance and that the concept of equal pay for equal work does not in practice generally exist in Canada.

Mr. McRuer said that there is not one woman in the supreme or county court bench in Canada.

"I do not suggest that a woman should be appointed to the bench because she is a woman," he said. "But I do say that there are many women who are practising at the bar in Canada who would make better judges than some of the men that have been appointed."

Convention delegates heard more on the subject of women's rights when a seminar group headed by Margaret MacLellan of Ottawa presented its recommendations to the general session.

The group wanted to see political parties actively seek and support women candidates for public offices at all government levels.

The group recommended that a working mother be able to claim the wages paid a housekeeper as a legitimate business expense whether or not the helper was employed on a part-time basis.

It also wanted a study made of conditions that govern the status of Indian women so that steps could be taken to safeguard both their rights and those of their children.

PROTECTS SOCIETY

WINNIPEG (CP) — Scattered through the Manitoba jail and mental hospital systems are 11 inmates held at the pleasure and discretion of the lieutenant-governor-in-council. They are there for the protection of society after being acquitted of charges on the grounds of insanity.

Mayor H. J. McFarland

Picton's Harvey McFarland Known In Dozens of Cities Throughout World

By DONALD MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Picton is H.J.'s town.

And even those who call Harvey McFarland's 18 years as mayor of the community a dictatorship cannot deny that it has been a benevolent reign.

From a dot on a map (and not even all maps at that) Picton and Prince Edward County are known from the Lord Mayor of London's office to the home of an Indian nurse in India.

From a barren community and county without industry and for that matter, without paved roads, there is now over $40,000,000 of major industry in the county and Picton.

But that is not what's made the community known around the world.

The man who says he is on "a Dick and Harvey basis" with president Richard M. Nixon has had a lot to do with it himself.

And the story behind the man who rose from a penniless 12 year old out of school to the head of one of Ontario's largest construction empires explains why.

Besides being able to telephone the last four presidents of the United States and speak on a first name basis which he claims among his gifts, Harvey McFarland has gone well out of his way to promote Picton and Canada in all parts of the world.

He has sent every mayor of every major European city a key shaped clock inscribed from the Mayor of Picton and Canada.

When he was the first Canadian mayor to be taken into the vault below the Lord Mayor's Office in London, and saw there was nothing there among the hundreds of century-old gifts representing Canada, he took it upon himself to have a statue of an RCMP officer sent.

Again it was inscribed from the Mayor of Picton and the Dominion of Canada.

Sending a letter of appreciation to the parents of an Indian nurse who cared for him while he was in hospital telling them how glad Canadians were to have them in the country and how well they're doing, does just as much for Canada as the NATO alliance pontribution, he says.

Sending government officials in other countries, high and low, gifts of maple syrup for Christmas "make them remember Canada" says the mayor.

And he must be right, since all year round letters of appreciation pour into his office from around the world, all the way from the President of the United States to the mother in India.

All of this is at the mayor's own expense and when asked why he does it Mr. McFarland can only say "because I like to."

By a long shot Picton and Prince Edward County receive the most of Mayor McFarland's attention and gifts. He has never taken a cent, in 18 years of municipal service, from the town. Each year he signs over his mayor's stipend to charity.

All streets in Picton are paved by Mr. McFarland's company "virtually at cost." Sixty seven churches in the county receive annual gifts, high school students get sent to see the Queen, to New York City . . . it just doesn't stop.

To be sure, growing along with Picton and the county has been H. J. McFarland and he has on many occasions been the target of criticism.

Most of it has come because of his unique position in the community and has been directed at him along many different lines.

Still even in a country that is against dictatorships Mayor McFarland has again and again been the choice of the people.

And in the past election he was voted in by the highest ratio ever. A move which makes him the chief officer of a single municipality longer than any mayor in Canada.

If the saying "you can fool some of the people all of the time, all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time" is true, there's really only one thing to say.

Building and Politics

Construction Empire Distant Goal At 12

PICTON (Staff) — From cleaning stables and picking potatoes to be mayor of Picton for 18 years and head of a multi-million dollar corporation.

That's H. J. McFarland.

It was a long road to travel on which Harvey McFarland set out at the age of 12 when he left school.

After working for his father for four years, Mr. McFarland left his home in the township of Richmond near Napanee and went on his own.

Cleaning wells and stables, lumbering, along with a few dollars won as a prize boxer, finally enabled him to buy a team of horses which he used to haul lumber.

Then a car came but "that was no good to me," he said.

"I couldn't make money with it" so Mr. McFarland sold the car and bought a truck.

He drove it himself, filling ditches along Highway 2 in the Quinte area.

Saving money, he bought a threshing machine and began working for farmers. Soon there were five threshers and a saw mill.

Now a problem arose. How to keep the machinery going and making money year round. Farms were seasonal.

So Mr. McFarland went to the various townships and began doing odd jobs for them. That's when he finally got into the road business.

They wanted me as a foreman to build roads so with that and subcontracting with my machinery to crush rock, I finally was able to raise enough money in 1937 to make my own bid."

The road from Picton to the Glenora ferry gave the McFarland Construction Company its beginning in 1937.

A year later, after another construction company went broke, Mr. McFarland crossed the bay and finished the road on the other side from Bath to the ferry.

From then on the company grew until today it is one of the largest in Canada

And its founder and owner finally found the money and time to devote to another interest — politics.

Mr. McFarland was acclaimed mayor of Picton 18 years ago after the mayor of six months, Buff Cooper, died suddenly.

He has been mayor ever since.

Concentrating primarily on advertising Picton, Prince Edward County and Canada, Mayor McFarland has made an impressive record for himself.

Over $40,000,000 worth of industry have come to Picton in the past 18 years, along with Harmsworth Trophy team, a bridge connecting the county to the mainland, roads, parks and people.

For the future the mayor is working on getting more major industry into the area and improving the community generally.

"People know me, they know what I've done and what I can and will do," he stated. "I stand on my record."

Trustees Meet Dec. 9

New School Boards Officially Take over on Jan. 1

Newly-elected trustees on regional school boards begin Monday to come to grips with the problems confronting them under large, autonomous units of administration.

Under legislation setting up the new boards, trustees must meet for the first time Dec. 9. They officially take over education in their regions Jan. 1.

In Belleville, agendas for the Dec. 9 meetings of both the Hastings County Board of Education and the District of Nipissing, Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Roman Catholic Separate School Board are ready for mailing to trustees.

Both groups will meet at the county building in Belleville — Hastings County trustees in the county council chambers at 8 p.m. Monday, and separate school trustees in the adjoining court room a half hour earlier at 7.30.

Carl Bateman, county clerk, is calling the meeting of the Hastings County board and will preside until the trustees elect a chairman and vice-chairman from among the 16 board members.

The clerk of the county municipality with the largest separate school assessment is the official charged with calling the separate school trustees' meeting. He is William J. Walsh, Tyendinaga township clerk, who will preside for the election of the separate school board chairman.

Invited to attend the first board meeting to bring greetings from their municipalities are the mayors and reeves of county communities and the warden of Hastings County, Clarke Rollins and Dr. R. T. Potter, members of the Ontario Legislative Assembly for the area will represent the government which enacted the legislation setting up county-wide boards.

Business is expected to be brief at the first meeting, and Mr. Bateman said today he expected both boards will call other meetings before Jan. 1, in addition to the Monday night sessions required by law.

Both boards will officially receive the reports compiled by the interim committees set up earlier in 1968 to collect data on schools in the county.

Two recommendations of the separate school interim committee are expected to be debated at the initial meeting of the 14 separate school trustees.

One recommendation calls for a change from the present cumbersome name of the combined counties separate school board to "Quinte Highlands Roman Catholic Separate School Board."

The interim committee suggested "Quinte" would designate the Prince Edward County and south Hastings districts represented on the board, and the "Highlands" would designate the north Hastings and Nipissing District areas.

A second interim committee recommendation suggests the permanent administrative headquarters for the new separate school board remain at 133 Dundas St. East.

The office of the separate school superintendent, appointed by the department of education is now located in the Hartt Building at this address.

Collins, Fleming Elected

Final count on the balloting for separate school representatives on the new Hastings County Board of Education is now complete.

Robertson Collins, Belleville solicitor, led the polls with 1,493 votes throughout the county.

Paul Fleming, an accountant, also of Belleville, came second with 1,317 votes.

Mr. Collins and Mr. Fleming will represent county separate school supporters on the 16-member board.

Defeated candidates are John Forbes, Trenton, 837 votes, James Shannon, Marmora, 737 and Lodvik Arcon, Frankford, 188.

Final returns from polling sub-divisions throughout the county were sent to Adam Stalker, Belleville city clerk and returning officer for the city in the election of the five Belleville trustees on the county board.

By agreement with other county officials he was also in charge of the balloting for separate school trustees on the county board.

Holiday Declared

Yesterday council passed the necessary resolution authorizing the Boxing Day holiday but it raised a question on the part of one alderman.

"What would they call it if we didn't declare Boxing Day?" queried Alderman Paul Russell.

The back of this school crossing sign on West Moira Street illustrates perfectly the type of slushy, gooey snow that fell in the Quinte area this morning, the type of snow that made driving on Belleville streets very treacherous.

Belleville Traffic Slows to Crawl

Winter slopped across the Quinte district today and up to four inches of snow may have fallen by tonight.

But the winter landscape is more wet than wondrous — setting a wearying chore for Job-bound workers this morning.

Rush-hour traffic slowed to a crawl as the fallout left streets and highways overlaid with a layer of mush.

It took Belleville - bound workers more than an hour to reach the cities from out-of-town areas like Madoc and Frankford.

On the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway a tractor - trailer transport Jacksnifed near Glen Miller as the storm bore down.

South of Rossmore provincial police were called to a three-car crash at the new Fenwood Gardens subdivision on Highway 14. There were no injuries.

The fallout of wet snow was expected to last through most of the morning, said the duty forecaster at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton.

Flurries, driven by winds gusting up to 25 miles an hour were predicted during the afternoon.

Intermittent flurries also are expected tomorrow while temperatures remain relatively mild.

Inquest Expected In Shooting

TRENTON — Trenton police expect an inquest will be held into a triple - shooting here Monday now officially termed a "murder - suicide."

Police Chief Robert Rutherford said today an inquest is likely into the shooting affray that took the lives of Wayne Mountjoy, 21, and his 18-year-old wife Joanne.

Today police are interviewing the key witness in the incident — Mountjoy's mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie Curlette, 47, now recovering from face and neck bullet wounds.

Mrs. Curlette was found wounded outside her Wooler Road home here Monday before armed police walked into her living room and found the other two victims.

Police confiscated a sawed-off .22 - calibre rifle at the scene.

Rotarians Visit Handicapped Homes

Belleville Rotarians this week explored means of becoming more involved in their work of helping crippled children.

The club has already introduced a policy of personal visits by members to children who are handicapped which has been found to be a rewarding experience.

The visits in some cases have revealed difficult home conditions — such as a 13-year-old mother with two children, one crippled and herself in need of medical care. One Rotarian was told it was the first time anyone had taken the trouble to call, other than visits by officials.

Arnold Campbell, chairman of the Crippled Children's committee, in an effort to follow up the club's work among crippled children in years past, learned of the progress made by a former Easter Seals campaign "Timmy."

The club had donated about $2,000 in assistance to the boy. However, although he still must wear a brace. He is now married and living in Ottawa.

The club, in co-operation with the Ontario Society for Crippled Children helps to provide necessary equipment for the children, and send some to camp at Merrywood-on-the-Rideau.

Now members are hoping to provide further assistance in co-operation with other agencies involved in similar work.

Henley Perennial Pick

Football Standouts Find It Hard To Repeat As All-Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Fame in the Canadian Football League apparently is a fleeting thing for many players.

Only nine of the 24 players named to the 24-man CFL all-star team Tuesday by the Football Reporters of Canada are survivors from last year's edition.

Five members of the offensive team are back from last season. They are running back George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders, centre Ted Urness of Saskatchewan, tackle Dick Fouts of Toronto Argonauts, tackle Clyde Brock of Saskatchewan and end Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Defensive players back for an encore are tackle Ed McQuarters of Saskatchewan, linebacker Wayne Harris of Calgary Stampeders, back Garnie Henley of Hamilton and back Frank Andruski of Calgary.

Henley seems to be almost a permanent member of the all-star team. The slim back, whose career is in jeopardy because of a knee injury suffered late last season, has made the squad for six consecutive seasons.

Harris and Coffey are veterans of five straight all-star squads while Reed and Urness have been named four consecutive times.

It was the third year in a row that Frank and Brock were selected together as offensive tackles.

Harris and Coffey have been all-stars six times in the seven years since the Football Reporters of Canada began selecting the team in 1962. Both missed the squad in 1963.

Saskatchewan placed six players on the team, more than any other of the nine CFL teams. Toronto Argonauts came second with five and Hamilton had four.

Ottawa Rough Riders, the Grey Cup champions, and Calgary, the team they beat, placed three, each.

Montreal Alouettes, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos had one all-star each. British Columbia Lions were not represented.

Urness won a position by the biggest margin, picking up 21 votes—two short of the maximum.

Bill Symons of Toronto and Reed, the player he defeated for this year's outstanding player award, tied at 20 votes each in balloting for running backs. Vic Washington of Ottawa won the other running back spot.

Harris attracted the most votes as a linebacker, followed by Ken Lehmann of Ottawa and Wally Dempsey of Saskatchewan.

Centennial Chargers Face Tough Role

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Staff Reporter

(Fourth in a Series)

The fledgling Centennial senior Chargers, a rookie team in the Class "AA" Basketball league, will be characterized by inexperience and experimentation this season and may have to take a back seat to the more experienced junior and bantam squads.

Centennial expanded in September to include Grade 12 and will be fielding a senior hoop squad for the first time.

Coach Doug Irvine has no players with senior experience and will rely on junior graduates, transfer players, and a few boys of senior age who couldn't play last year because the school didn't have a senior team.

Coach Irvine said: "This may be a good year to break in because the senior league doesn't appear to be as strong as last year." "I'll experiment a lot to see what we can do, but I think we've got some good ball handlers, so we'll play ball control and work the ball around. We're short on height, so we'll set a lot of screens and play both man-to-man and either a 3-2 zone or a box and one," he added.

Centre Dennis Neron, forwards Larry Fell, John Koch and Larry Wannamaker, along with guard Wes Chow will comprise the Centennial starting five.

Bench strength will be supplied by guard Bob West, centre Brian Daniels, and forwards Ed Christopher and Steve Hamar.

Junior coach Bruce Faulds is in the enviable position of having eight holdovers from last year's squad which won five games and lost seven. In addition he has seven Bantam graduates from the team which won 10 league games and lost only two.

The starting five will be Mike Semark and Mike Thompson, both bantam graduates and junior holdovers Frank Johnston, Glen Mallory and Larry Tweedy.

Bench strength will come from among junior holdovers Keith Wilson, Steve Ford, Paul Penney, Alan Isaacson and bantam graduates Randy Derry, Roy Vassey, Vic Ribel, Bob Henderson, David Pascoe, Bruce and John Lanning plus Dennis Fraelick.

Coach Faulds said "We'll run a lot and use both man-to-man and zone presses. Our presses worked well in our 56-24 exhibition win over Trenton."

Bantam coach Gary Allin reports lots of enthusiasm from the 18 boys trying out for the team. He has three Bantam "B" holdovers from last year.

Coach Allin said: "We've lost most of last year's squad which tied Quinte for the Bay of Quinte championship. We won't be as strong as last year, but we have enough experience that we should do all right."

Canada to Send Five Teams To Kennedy Winter Games

MONTREAL (CP) — Organizers of the first Kennedy International Memorial Winter Games, scheduled for Lake Placid, N.Y., Jan. 18-March 2, 1969, said in Montreal Tuesday Canada is expected to participate in five major events.

The Games, destined to fill off-Olympic years in the same way as the Canadian Winter Games, will feature the world bobsled championship and a tournament featuring top national hockey teams from four countries.

In all, close to 200 athletes from 25 nations are expected to compete in the Games over a seven-week period.

Roy Kennedy, a co-ordinator with the Lake Placid group, said Canada expects to participate in the ski jumping, cross-country, hockey, bobsled, luge and snowmobile events.

Canada's hockey representatives will be the Ottawa-based Eastern National team who will play against teams from Sweden, Czechoslovakia and the United States.

The Masters ski jump, previously recognized as a major international event, will have top European jumpers competing against the Canadian and U.S. national squads.

The Kennedy Games are invitational and are to commemorate the interest of the late U.S. president, John F. Kennedy, and his brother, the late senator Robert F. Kennedy, in sports and physical fitness.

They are sponsored by the International Amateur Sports Development Fund, with Lake Placid being chosen as the site of the Games because of its Olympic facilities.

Participating countries include Canada, Austria, Belgium, Britain, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, East Germany, West Germany, Finland, France, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Yugoslavia and the United States.

Picton Goal Spree Beats Campbellford

Picton fired four goals in the second period and six in the third last night to defeat Campbellford 10-5 in a Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League game at Picton.

Campbellford led 1-0 at the end of the first period on a goal by Rowe, but Picton came back in the second period when James scored two goals and Berry and McGill added singles. Smith and Hagerman replied for Campbellford, who trailed 4-3 at the end of the second period.

Picton put the game away in the third period as James got the last two of his four goals, McGill got his second goal and Jacklin, Guernsey and Kellar added one each.

Smith, with his second of the night, and Bartch replied for Campbellford, who outshot Picton 48-41.

Belleville Girls Teams Advance to Title Round

Two Belleville teams captured Girls' Class "A" basketball championships in playoff games at Madoc yesterday and advanced to the COSSA championships at Oshawa this Saturday.

Albert College senior girls downed Tweed 39-23 and Nicholson Catholic College junior girls slipped Tweed 26-24. The local teams had both finished in a tie for first place with the two Tweed teams, with five wins and one defeat in regular season play.

Margie Munro with 14 points and Denyse Grey with nine led Albert College to victory. The game was close all the way with Albert leading 22-19 at the half and holding on to win.

Nicholson juniors and Tweed were engaged in a close game with the result undecided until the final whistle. Betty Molaski with six points and L. Jones with five stood out for Nicholson while Margie McCrea with eight points and Linda Crabelon with six topped the Tweed scorers.

Trenton Legion Beats Imperials

A five-goal barrage in the first period enabled Trenton Legion to down Blake Kerr's Imperial Midgets 5-3 last night in OMHA play at the Belleville arena.

The locals couldn't get going in the first period as Beecroft fired a pair of goals for the visitors and Ferguson, Temple and Henry added singletons.

Cliff Janitsch put Belleville on the scoreboard in the second period and Mike Rollins and Terry Meagher narrowed the count in the third period.

Coach's Nightmare

Vachon Hurt-Canadians Shy in Nets

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Claude Ruel of Montreal Canadiens is learning quickly why some older coaches in the National Hockey League are burdened with ulcers.

The rookie coach was enjoying his new job until Tuesday when he ran out of goaltenders at the worst possible time.

The Canadiens meet New York Rangers at Montreal tonight, with first place in the Eastern Division at stake and with both Montreal goaltenders unavailable for action.

Rogatien Vachon, the first-string reminder, suffered a cracked bone in his right hand Tuesday morning when he stopped a hard shot off the stick of centre Jacques Lemaire.

Doctors may try to fit Vachon's hand with a cast so the young goaltender can continue to play. But he was not expected to play tonight against the Rangers, who trail Montreal by one point.

Gump Worsley, Montreal's other regular goaltender, has been ordered by doctors to take a month's vacation. He left the Canadiens during a road trip last week because of an aversion to flying and troubled nerves.

In other games tonight, Toronto Maple Leafs play Minnesota North Stars at Minneapolis, Pittsburgh Penguins welcome Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks meet the Blues at St. Louis and Philadelphia Flyers play the Kings at Los Angeles.

So, Ruel is faced with the kind of problem that gives NHL coaches stomach trouble. He has to select a fill-in goaltender from a rather unimpressive list of candidates.

Tony Esposito, the younger brother of Boston centre Phil Esposito, was recalled from Houston of the Central Hockey League last week to replace Worsley. But Esposito allowed two goals in only six shots last Friday night when Montreal lost 5-4 to Oakland Seals.

Other possibilities are Ernie Wakely at Cleveland of the American Hockey League or young Phil Myre at Houston.

The situation looked even worse later Tuesday when the Canadiens announced that defenceman Terry Harper faces knee surgery later this week and will be out indefinitely. Fluid on the right knee has made skating painful for Harper recently.

Detroit also ran into some goaltending problems Tuesday, but of a less serious nature. Veteran Terry Sawchuk underwent surgery to repair a broken finger on his catching hand.

The Kings ran into problems of a different kind when right winger Lowell MacDonald refused to report to Springfield of the AHL, where he was assigned a week ago.

Los Angeles management responded by suspending MacDonald, who had 21 goals and 24 assists with the Kings last season. He had only one goal and three assists in 17 starts this season.

Meanwhile, Toronto Maple Leafs welcomed back captain George Armstrong who decided Monday to end his retirement.

Flyers Maintain Lead; Terriers Keep Pace

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Former professional Pete Panagabko came through with his best effort of the season Tuesday as Barrie Flyers maintained their six-point lead in the nine-team Ontario Hockey Association senior series.

Panagabko, a veteran of 11 pro seasons who split the 1967-68 season between Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League and Memphis South Stars of the Central League, scored two goals and assisted on two others as the Flyers bounced last-place Woodstock Al's 7-2 before 888 fans at Woodstock. Second place Orillia Terriers kept six points behind the Flyers with a 6-2 decision of Collingwood Kings.

A third game between Galt Hornets and Kingston Aces was postponed.

Corby Adams, Ron Vermette, John McMillan, Wayne Weller and Mike Dubeau also scored as the Flyers sent the A's to their 18th loss in 17 starts.

Chuck Harmer broke Barrie goalie Bob Saunders' shutout bid with less than nine minutes remaining in the final period and Mac Westgate added the other Woodstock goal. Saunders, making his first start for Barrie in place of Ken Payne, was a standout in Los Angeles Kings' NHL training camp at Barrie last September.

At Collingwood, before 472 fans, the Kings were handed their third straight loss. George Vail paced Orillia with two goals. John Paul, Moe Galand, Don Fuller and Grant Moore added the others.

Fern St. Onge scored both Collingwood goals.

General's Kessell Moves Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Daryl Sittler of London Knights picked up three assists last week to pad his lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race but Rick Kessell of Oshawa Generals is making a big challenge.

Sittler leads with 13 goals and 33 assists for 46 points but Kessell, 10th a week ago, moved into second place with three goals and eight assists in three games.

Kessell now has 10 goals and 29 assists for 39 points, one more than last week's runner-up, Phil Roberto of Niagara Falls Flyers.

Federal Study

Nationals to be Examined

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal study on amateur sport will sound out hockey officials next week on placing Canada's national hockey team operation under the control of a non-profit corporation.

Under the current setup, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association operates the two national teams with financial help from the federal government.

Health Minister John Munro, to whom the study group reports, told reporters Tuesday he likes the idea of an independent corporation to administer the national teams.

Top business and labor people could serve on the corporation's board of directors. They could be amply supported by administrative personnel and finances. The corporation would have no share capital.

He said the corporation idea would be advanced at a meeting soon with top amateur and professional hockey officials. A study group spokesman said later the meeting will be "next week," but was reluctant to talk about it. He did say it was an exploratory meeting.

Mr. Munro said that this year's financing of the national teams, which represent Canada in international tournaments, would be discussed at the meeting.

But financing would be only one part of it. The whole structure and operation of the team would be discussed. The federal government gave the national operation about $100,000 last year.

Mr. Munro said that some CAHA officials are not keen on continuing to run the national teams. The organization has its own fields to worry about such as their extensive minor league operations.

The minister said "we are trying hard" to get the private sector interested financially in the national hockey teams.

Doyle Survives Barrage

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ottawa goalie Gary Doyle survived a 64-shot barrage as the 67s edged London Knights 5-4 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game here Tuesday night.

Pierre Jarry scored twice for the 67s who hit 31 shots at London's Gilles Gilbert. Jean Potvin, Murray Wilson and Gord McCormick scored the other goals. Pete Laframbroise assisted on three of the Ottawa goals.

Alan Young scored once and added three assists for the Knights. The other London goals went to John Gould, Bert Wilson and Joe Widdis.

Hershey Explodes, Triumph Over Aces

QUEBEC (CP) — Hershey Bears exploded for five goals in the second period and coasted to an 8-3 triumph over Quebec Aces in an American Hockey League game before 2,363 fans Tuesday night.

Chuck Hamilton scored three goals for the Bears, who boosted their lead to four points over Providence Reds in the league's Eastern Division.

The Aces are last in the four-team Western Division with 15 points on five victories and five ties in 23 games.

Batters Get Help

Baseball Steps to the Plate and Throws Curve at Pitchers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A smaller strike zone and lower mound are baseball's answer to last season's lack of hitting.

"Anything that makes it tougher for pitchers has to help hitters."

The changes reduce the strike zone to between the armpits and tops of the knees and lower the mound from 15 inches to 10 above the level of the plate.

Don Drysdale, ace of the Los Angeles Dodgers pitching staff, was against the changes.

"If they think this is going to make .300 hitters," said Drysdale, "they're mistaken. Last year could have been just a one-year thing. I think they should have waited a year to see how it goes before panicking like this."

Last season pitchers had an overpowering mastery over hitters, reducing the number of .300 hitters to only six.

The strike zone had previously been defined as the area between the tops of the shoulders and the knees with the knee not specifically defined.

Rules committee members also said that a strike should be definitely across the area of the plate. Complaints had been made that some inside and outside pitches were called strikes.

Another change was made to games suspended in extra innings rather than having them replayed in their entirety.

Four player transactions were completed on the second day of the week-long meetings, with St. Louis Cardinals the most active.

The Cardinals reacquired pitcher Dave Giusti from San Diego Padres, also of the National League, in exchange for outfielder Ron Davis, third baseman Ed Spiezio, and two minor leaguers—pitcher Phil Knuckles and catcher Danny Breeden.

The Cardinals acquired Giusti from Houston Astros just after the World Series, but lost the right-hander to San Diego in the expansion draft.

St. Louis also landed pitcher Garry Waslewski from Boston Red Sox of the American League for infielder Dick Schofield.

Philadelphia Phillies announced the purchase of infielder Deron Johnson from Atlanta Braves for an undisclosed amount of cash and Cleveland Indians acquired shortstop Zoilo Versalles from San Diego.

The Indians will send the Padres a minor league player to complete the trade for Versalles which started with San Diego's purchase of first baseman Bill Davis from Cleveland several weeks ago.

All Adult Males to Need Fishing Licence

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario males, starting at age 19, have been hooked with the first resident fishing licence in the province's history.

The $3 licence, effective Jan. 1, 1969, was the major change in the department of lands and forests 1969 fishing regulations, released Tuesday.

Non-resident anglers also face increased fees as season licences have jumped to $8.50 from $6.50 and three-day licences to $4 from $3.25.

One consolation in the new regulations is that the $3.25 licence to fish in provincial parks such as Algonquin and Quetico has been dropped.

A department official said the resident licence excludes women and youths "because few women fish and the youths are going to school."

"We had to start somewhere and we can always make the licence universal in the future," he said.

He said the release of the regulations was the earliest ever and that the increasing number of ice fishermen had prompted the department to get the licences to issuers before the new year. The release date for the 1368 season was Feb. 24 this year.

The regulations include few changes in limits or seasons although the department has altered its regulations on the Ontario-Quebec border.

This area, mainly the Ottawa River, has been subject to two fishing seasons, one for Ontario and another for Quebec.

In 1969, the bass season in the border waters has been advanced one week to June 28 to coincide with the Quebec season.

Other changes in the border waters include a Quebec reduction in the pike limit from 10 to Ontario's limit of six and Ontario changing its opening season for pike from April 1 to May 1.

Although anglers are asked to ask the department for specific area regulations, seasons and limits for all species are generally the same as 1968.

The season for pike varies in southern Ontario from a May 3 to May 25 opening and an Oct. 15 to March 31 closing. In Northern Ontario, north of North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie the season is open year round.

The seasons for pickerel are generally the same as those for pike with the exception that Georgian Bay will be open to anglers year round.

The smallmouth and largemouth bass season opens in most areas of southern Ontario June 28 and closes Nov. 31 or mid-December. In Northern Ontario waters, the season is generally open all year.

The muskellunge season in the majority of Ontario waters opens June 21 and closes Nov. 30.

The only changes in the speckled trout season are in the Parry Sound-Muskoka area where the season opens Jan. 1, one week earlier than this year, and in the Georgian Bay area where the opening has been extended to April 26 from Feb. 24.

In the Timiskaming area, the rainbow trout season has been opened all year. This season it closed Sept. 15.

The lake trout season varies widely in all areas of the province.

In the new regulations, the department points out specifically that fishing huts must be removed by March 31 in Lake Temagami, Lake Nipissing and surrounding waters.

Dancer's Workout Over Vet's Veto

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — What caused the sudden improvement in Dancer's Image's ankle in the 48 hours before the Kentucky Derby?

Was it nature? Was it azium, an anti-inflammatory drug? Or was it something else?

These questions were tossed back and forth Tuesday as the Kentucky Racing Commission dug deeper into the circumstances surrounding the race which the colt won.

The trainer, Lou Cavalaris of Toronto, was out of the country when the ankle, described as inflated and tender to the touch on Thursday morning, was returning to normal by evening. The assistant trainer, Robert Barnard, told the commission that exercise always tended to reduce the swelling.

Because of this, he let Dancer's Image work out Thursday morning despite objections from Dr. Alex Harthill, the veterinarian who was treating him.

Harthill said the ankle was so bad he doubted the colt would run in the Derby but he went ahead and administered a large dose of azium, a steroid commonly used to fight inflammation and soreness.

The veterinarian noted that the colt started responding and by Derby day "the ankle was beautiful; the medication worked more dramatically than I'd ever seen before."

At the time, Harthill continued, he credited the improvement to azium "since that was the only drug I was aware the colt had gotten." He said he did not know that the same medicine was being administered to the colt by his groom.

Azium is a permissible drug in Kentucky but phenylbutazone, also an anti-inflammatory agent, is not.

A post-Derby urinalysis on Dancer's Image disclosed the presence of phenylbutazone and the stewards at Churchill Downs ordered the purse to be turned over to the second-place finisher, Forward Pass. Fuller has asked the commission to overturn that ruling.

The five commissioners questioned Barnard extensively about his decision to let the colt gallop on Thursday even though he had been forwarned by Harthill.

"Why didn't you get in touch with Cavalaris, the head trainer?" Barnard was asked.

"I didn't think it was absolutely necessary," he replied.

Organized Labor Complains

Federal Housing Inquiry Ends on Sour Note in Hull

HULL, Que. (CP) — Public hearings of the federal housing inquiry ended on a sour note Tuesday with a complaint by organized labor that it got short shrift at the final session.

The union leader, who represents 1,600,000 workers, summarized organized labor's lengthy brief for the housing task force. Then he replied to a few questions from commission member James Gillies.

Nobody else asked a question and Transport Minister Hellyer, the inquiry chairman, politely dismissed the three-member labor delegation.

"I've been submitting briefs on behalf of the CLC for 20 years," Mr. MacDonald complained angrily to reporters on his way out. "I've never had an experience like this one."

"We have important views on housing in our brief. Apparently, it didn't elicit their interest."

Hull Mayor Marcel D'Amour, the Hull Builders and Contractors Association, the Institute of Traffic Engineers and the Pointe Gatineau, Que., Chamber of Commerce all were accorded much more time than the CLC. The sitting lasted more than two hours.

Lloyd Axworthy, a Hellyer aide, told reporters it should be noted that the CLC brief did not arrive until the day before the hearing. It was not in the hands of the commission members until the afternoon before the Hull sitting.

The CLC recommended the federal government lower mortgage loan interest rates, promote public and co-operative housing, accelerate federal land-assembly commitments, eliminate the 11-per-cent sales on building materials and establish a federal department of housing and urban affairs.

Mr. Hellyer said he hopes to present the task force report to the cabinet by mid-January. This would leave time for government action to influence the 1969 building season.

High housing costs are partly due to the high cost of money and of land. Another factor is high cost of construction which is partly due to the red-tape jungle in the housing industry.

"Somehow we have to take the broad-axe to the underbrush of red tape," he said.

Doctor's Formula Guarantees A Heart Attack by 45

TORONTO (CP) — A United States doctor says he has a formula guaranteed to give persons at least one heart attack by age 45.

Dr. Richard C. Bates of Lansing, Mich., a specialist in internal medicine, told a service club here Monday ingredients include being a fat male, living in a city and earning lots of money while sitting behind a desk, eating too much meat and dairy products, smoking cigarettes and never exercising.

Then get into the habit of drinking 15 or 20 cups of coffee a day "well-laced with cream."

Dr. Bates also suggested drinking a lot of whole milk "because there are two pats of butter dissolved in every glass of whole milk, so if you can make away with two quarts of milk a day there will be 16 pats of butter fat for your diet right there."

Pipes and cigars have no effect on the heart, he said, but two-pack-a-day smokers "have over three times as many heart attacks as non-smokers."

"Alcohol neither prevents nor promotes heart disease," he said. "The hard work, nervous tension bit, in relation to coronary heart disease, has been greatly overplayed."

Dr. Bates said that one statistic that stands out in studies is that "the higher he standard of living the greater the incidence of coronary heart disease."

KILLED BY CARS

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP) — About 25 deer were killed by motorists in this northwestern Ontario area last year, a better record than in 1966 when 71 were killed. Deer and moose are driven across roads by flies and other insects.

MP Munches Apple --Colleagues Are Upset

LONDON (Reuters) — Conservative MP John Wells shocked Her Majesty's government and loyal Opposition Tuesday when he munched on an apple through a House of Commons debate.

He steadfastly chomped his way through the apple as Prime Minister Wilson tried to answer questions on the main issues of the day.

"Point of order" cried a Labor MP. But Speaker Dr. Horace King ruled he had no control over the "masticating habits" of members.

Wells said later the core of the demonstration was the British apple industry's need for long-range quotas on apple imports.

Opposition Approves Expropriation Bill But Urges Changes

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for the two opposition parties in the legislature said Tuesday they supported a new expropriation bill in principle but felt it could be improved considerably.

During debate on second reading of the government, Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview) said it answers many of the complaints against current expropriation procedures but doesn't go as far as the McRuer report on civil rights had recommended.

Mr. Singer said the bill should have followed the principle that persons whose property is expropriated should have a right "to full enjoyment of their property."

He said the legislature should remember that such persons did not choose to have their property expropriated.

Specifically, he criticized sections of the bill limiting interest payments on money advanced by expropriating authorities to five per cent. He deplored a provision under which costs are to be awarded to the expropriated party only at the discretion of a board.

Mr. Singer said the bill should apply to all expropriations now under way. But a second opposition speaker, James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale), went further. He said the bill should be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1966.

Under the terms of the bill it will go into effect on being given royal assent, probably before Christmas.

Both Mr. Singer and Mr. Renwick promised their parties will put forward a series of amendments to the bill when it comes up for clause-by-clause consideration.

Debate on second reading continues today.

In other legislature business:

—The legislature was told there is nothing wrong with construction firms using the government's HOME label in advertisements for houses built on lots assembled under the Home Ownership Made Easy plan.

Stanley Randall, trade and development minister, said the government's Ontario Housing Corp. "has no exclusive right to the use of the HOME label."

NDP Leader Donald MacDonald had drawn attention to an advertisement featuring the label which offered homes at nearby Bramalea to persons with an income of at least $7,422 a year.

Deaf Girl May Stay in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Annabelle Lopes, the seven-year-old Guayanese girl denied landed immigrant status because she is deaf and has a heart murmur, will not have to leave Canada yet.

T. J. Delaney of the Toronto immigration office said Tuesday her case is under review, "so we're not pressing the family to leave now." A decision is expected in a few days.

Mr. Delaney said no deportation order was ever issued.

Rules Go Out the Window During Eddie's Happy Hour

TORONTO (CP) — Speaker Fred Cass had barely completed a warning to members of the Ontario legislature Tuesday to obey the rules of the question period when Eddie Sargent (L —Grey-Bruce) stood up and the rules went out the window.

In 15 minutes of catcalls, interjections, misdirected questions and sarcastic put-downs, the warning had been forgotten as the house enjoyed another of what Trade and Development Minister Stanley Randall calls "Eddie's happy hour."

Mr. Sargent Tuesday answered his own questions before the ministers got to their feet.

"Now tell me it's a federal responsibility," he said after directing a question at Attorney-General Arthur Wishart. Mr. Wishart obliged him.

Mr. Cass opened the daily question period by reminding members that rules call for them to pose questions that are direct and comprehensible, and warned them not to expect answers if the questions are phrased in difficult language. Questions also are supposed to be on matters of urgent public importance, a rule frequently violated.

Mr. Sargent's first question was to Allan Grossman, minister of correctional institutions, who replied that it was neither a matter of urgent public importance or comprehensible.

Mr. Sargent asked if Mr. Grossman has any reason to believe there is any less homosexuality in Ontario institutions than newspaper reports indicated there is in Philadelphia.

"It's impossible to answer," Mr. Grossman said. "I can't compare ours with unidentified institutions."

He rose angrily on a point of privilege when Mr. Sargent shouted that "you will be in jail yourself some day."

That was an unparliamentary remark and should be withdrawn, Mr. Grossman said.

"I only meant that we should build jails as if we were to accompany them ourselves," Mr. Sargent said.

Mr. Sargent asked Mr. Wishart if the attorney-general knows of any cases of electronic listening devices being used in auto agency and real estate sales offices.

Mr. Wishart said there is now law to make electronic eavesdropping among business firms an offence. It is a federal responsibility and the province has asked Ottawa to make the invasion of privacy a crime, he said.

Davis Frowns on Schools Using Strap

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister William Davis said Tuesday his department frowns on use of corporal punishment by Ontario schools and school officials across the province are being sent a memorandum on the subject.

"It is considered that the use of corporal punishment in any form is not appropriate in the schools and it is recommended that principals and teachers refrain from its use," he told the legislature.

In a delayed reply to Tim Reid (L—Scarborough East), Mr. Davis read a memorandum being sent this week to the principals of all school and to all school boards in the province.

"It has generally been assumed that while corporal punishment was not specifically authorized by any act or regulation, it nevertheless was condoned under a regulation which states that 'a pupil shall submit to such discipline as would be exercised by a kind, firm and judicious parent'," Mr. Davis said.

"Without commenting in any way on the responsibilities or prerogatives of parents, it is suggested that this regulation should be interpreted as providing, within the context of the schools, an atmosphere of respect and trust between students and teachers with the cultivation of individual responsibility as a major goal."

Mr. Davis gave the legislature the text of the memorandum one day after Mr. Reid had asked whether the department of education condoned corporal punishment in the schools.

Hydro Blackouts Unlikely but Possible

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro has warned local power commissions it may have to black out communities because of a breakdown at its Lakeview generating station, 10 miles west of here.

But the blackouts will be limited to 15 minutes and rotate among several communities, says a letter to the commissions from hydro Chairman George Gathercole.

The letter, read to the legislature Tuesday by Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough, stressed that no interruptions are expected despite the temporary loss of 600,000 kilowatts of steam-turbine capacity as the result of the breakdown.

"Barring unforeseen breakdowns we will have sufficient capacity to meet our primary power requirements," the letter said. "but because of the aforementioned (Repair) delays, we are running closer to the line than we had originally anticipated.

Contract Renewed

Donald O'Connor Talk Show Huge Success

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donald O'Connor seemed an unlikely candidate for host of a television talk show. Although a warm and forceful performer on stage, he had spent his professional life avoiding controversy.

Yet the blonder song-and-dance man has joined the Johnny Carson, Joey Bishop, Merv Griffin, Steve Allen and Mike Douglas fraternity with apparent success. The Donald O'Connor Show now is syndicated by Metromedia to 30 market areas. Having completed the first order for 93 shows, O'Connor's contract has been renewed and he will tape six shows a week until June and perhaps beyond.

"I'm getting with it," said O'Connor. "I think I can handle most situations now, but I'll admit it wasn't easy to learn.

"You see, all my life I've kept certain things inside myself. Instead of responding to certain situations, I kept my mouth shut or gave a bland answer. As a result I wasn't very good copy for interviewers.

"But I found out you can't do that on a television discussion program. For the first five or six weeks I didn't respond the way I should have; I froze when something controversial came up. But then I learned to let my feelings out and play things much looser."

Example: A guest showed up stoned and began to blubber when he and O'Connor reminisced. O'Connor deftly turned the conversation to lighter matters.

Added example: Joan Baez made cracks about Donald's question cards. He put the cards aside and asked her point-blank:

"How did you like it up river?"

Miss Baez was taken aback, but described her experience in serving a sentence for a war protest.

O'Connor admitted he was an offbeat choice for a talk-show emcee.

"As far as my career was concerned, I had just about decided to coil it," said O'Connor. "Not that I'd quit entirely; I've been in the business too long for that. But I thought I would limit myself to a few guest shots dates at Tahoe and Vegas, and devote the rest of my time to writing. I've always wanted to write, and I've been working on a movie script for a number of years.

"But be offer to do this show was too much of a challenge."

Metromedia reports sales are brisk, and in some areas such as Washington, D.C., the Donald O'Connor show plays in prime time to excellent ratings.

Director At Work

New Message Emerges From Special Programs

NEW YORK (AP) — There seemed to be a sort of inadvertent message emerging from Tuesday night's trilogy of special programs.

First there was CBS's Reptiles and Amphibians, a science show, picturing some creatures, like the dinosaur, that disappeared because they could not adapt to change. Others like turtles and reptiles survived because they could adopt to change.

Then along came Elvis Presley on NBC, followed immediately by Brigitte Bardot, both demonstrating they were more susceptible to the passage of time.

The NBC specials were lavish programs built around a couple of performers who a few years ago carried a bit more box office than they do today.

In the case of Presley, now a bit heavier, a bit more mature of face, there was no change in the facade—the same stubborn black locks falling into his eyes, the arrogant glance and throwaway line to the squealing young girls clustered like bees around the stage, legs akimbo and growling voice belting lyrics as if they were fighting him.

His show was beautifully lighted and artfully constructed. Through much of it Presley worked in a leather costume from shoes to neck with sweat visible on his face—sort of like old times—those great days a decade or so ago when his gyrating attack was so controversial.

After Elvis, along came another sex symbol out of the recent past, Miss Bardot. Again, everything was focused on the star, although there occasionally was some imaginative camera work — like having Brigitte transported by kite high above the Mediterranean while she was singing a song, accompanied by a full orchestra.

Naturally there were plenty of numbers in which the blonde, almond-eyed star tripped around in the scantiest of costume— now stretching lazily on a beach, then playing an Egyptian temptress. The emphasis was on music—those sad, sexy Paris music hall songs about lost love.

The snakes, lizards and turtles of the National Geographic Society show seemed to have a survival edge on the beautiful people like Presley and Bardot who have their brief moments in the spotlight and suddenly seem just a bit mature and old fashioned. What made the special just a little embarrassing was that both stars were presented as if time had been standing still.

Recommended tonight: Saturday Adoption, 9:30-11 EST, original drama in the CBS Playhouse series by 25-year-old Ron Cowen, an angry young man with a message about the evils of paternalism.

TO HELP ARABS

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel has opened employment offices in occupied Jordan at Nablus, Jenin, Hebron, Ramallah, El Bireh and Tulkarm, the labor ministry announced, to help Arabs find jobs in Israel. It said they will be paid the full Israeli rates—about $4 a day for unskilled labor and $8 for the skilled.

IT WORKS
BECAUSE IT
SWINGS!
That's the principle behind the handsome clock, introduced in 1957. Earlier clock were round only in shape, but not in pulse squares; today it is a rare thing that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.
If the days of your older clock are gone, your hours are not. It is rare that a home somewhere in this area would love to use

YOU MAY NOT OWN A TALKING
PIANO!
But if your piano could talk, it might tell you that its first associations was formed in the fireplace, Italy in 1709, and that by 1800 it had supplanted the harpsichord and clavichord. And it would tell you Mozart and Haydn were among the first composers to write for the piano. Your piano might also remind you that if you no longer play it, it needs you. Get back through a intelligencer Want Ad. Your piano will be back to work. Call 962-9171 today.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market edged up in active mid-morning trading today. The western oil index was up .51 to an all-time high at 240.27.

Gains outnumbered losses by 175 to 128.

In industrials, Harvey's Foods rose ¾ to 31, Bramalea ½ to 12¼, Canada Cement ½ to 34, Dylex Diversified ½ to 23 and Noranda ⅜ to 63½.

Among the heaviest traders, Canadian Industrial Gas gained ½ to 24 and GSF Industries 1¼ to 22½.

Dominion Textile and Texaco lost ¼ each to 16 and 32½.

Trading was delayed in United Westburne Industries orders following the company's announcement of plans to acquire all shares in Commonwealth Petroleum Services Ltd. and Trimac Transportation Ltd., both of Calgary.

Among mines, Highland-Bell and Leitch lost 15 cents each to $5.25 and $3.80. Both stocks have slumped sharply this week in the wake of the Ontario Supreme Court decision rejecting their claim to the ore body at the Kidd Creek mine near Timmins, Ont.

In western oils, New Continental jumped 40 cents to $4.10, Mill City 20 cents to $2.25, Permo 14 cents to $1.40, Dynamic 15 cents to $2.10 and Consolidated East Crest 55 cents to $2.55.

All five companies hope to benefit from a uranium discovery in the Wollaston Lake area of northeast Sask.

Golds, industrials rose .04 to 187.33, and golds 1.93 to 224.18. Base metals fell .13 to 112.97. Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,146,000 shares compared with 1,016,000 at the same time Tuesday.

However, prices fluctuated in a narrow range and the Industrial index touched a record earlier in the day. Gains outnumbered declines 402 to 281.

In industrials, Leigh Instruments fell ¼ to 44¾. Empire Life 1¼ to 22¾, Dofasco ¼ to 23, Consolidated Bathurst ¾ to 20½ and Alcan ¾ to 28¾.

Among the heaviest traders, Cominco rose ¾ to 36⅝ and Tru-Wall Concrete 15 cents to $5.00. Reserve Properties slipped ¼ to 18⅛.

Reichhold Chemicals gained ¼ to 13⅜. Unlisted shares were traded for the first time following a 3-for-1 stock split.

Senators Sold for $10 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert E. Short, Democratic Party national treasurer, has bought Washington Senators.

Short, 51, also a Minneapolis hotel and trucking executive, purchased the last-place American League baseball club Tuesday for about $10,000,000.

He said the Senators will remain in Washington where they are host to baseball's annual presidential opener as well as the All-Star game every year marking the sport's 100th anniversary.

A tenth-inning hit by comedian Bob Hope to buy the club fell short.

The sale left in suspense the jobs of manager Jim Lemon and general manager George Selkirk, native of Huntsville, Ont.

After conferring with both men in San Francisco where the winter baseball meetings are underway, Short said he did "not plan any immediate changes."

Short bought the club from Washington businessman James H. Lemon—no relation to the manager—and the estate of Calvin Griffith, Washington Senator, who died last year.

The sale will need approval of

ALL owners and the court overseeing Johnston's estate, but this should be routine.

The Washington club was created as an expansion team in 1961 when the original Senators moved to Minnesota to become the Twins. It has finished last four times in its eight-year history.

Short said, "I didn't buy the club to move it, but there is no

To Your Good Health

Crackers and Cake Not Adequate Diet

By Dr. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother who is 67 has got in the habit of eating three or four pounds of soda crackers a week. And she doesn't eat much of anything else except crackers and cakes. Will this cause her any harm? If so, what would you advise me to do? — Mrs. R. C.

This is an extreme example of what I have been talking about when I mentioned recently how some older people will fall into eating habits.

I presume that Mrs. C.'s mother must eat something besides her crackers and cake, but evidentally not much. The result is that she is struggling along on a diet that is almost entirely carbohydrate — starch and sugar.

Depending on how long she has been on this atrociously inadequate diet, it is only a matter of time before the consequences begin to show up. Quite likely a doctor examining her could find signs now.

Skin ailments, weakness of bones and muscles, digestive and elimination problems, anemia — these and many other problems are the automatic result of such a restricted diet.

For one thing, the human body, to be strong, must constantly replace itself cell by cell. For this, protein is absolutely vital — lean meat, cheese, fish, eggs. Protein in smaller quantities is in milk, cereals, nuts.

Absence of any mention of citrus fruit juices or tomato juice or of fruits and vegetables (including green, leafy ones) indicates that this woman is starving herself of vita mins. She appears to get almost none. A person can get away with this for a little while. We see such patients arriving in hospitals, wasted away, unable to take care of themselves, often suffering from sores, loose teeth, eye troubles, liver damage, and so on.

Another necessary ingredient in the diet is calcium — and crackers and cakes have very little if any. Milk, cheese, cheese, green leafy vegetables are all good sources of calcium, but milk is by far the best. If milk is used in making the cakes she eats, she may get a little calcium — but not much. Calcium is necessary to prevent softened and brittle bones.

What to do about this dangerously inadequate diet? Do a little gentle insisting that she eat some of the essential foods before she starts on her crackers! Cream soups can get some milk and fats into her system. What about a poached or boiled egg (or egg in some other form) for breakfast every day, to provide protein? If she has difficulty eating meat, grind it up for her.

Offer vegetables a couple of times a day, and try to get her to eat some. But a mixed vitamin capsule a day will be a safeguard for her. See that she gets some orange, grapefruit, or tomato juice every day.

Make it as easy as possible for her to eat the things she needs to have, but do some gentle insisting that she eat them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful to eat or use eggs that have blood in the yolk? My husband and I disagree. Lately I have come across a good many, and it seems wasteful to throw them out. — Mrs. V. C.

This blood means that the egg has been fertilized. It is not harmful, but it is fried, boiled, or poached egg you would like the spots for the sake of appearance. Unfertilized eggs, omelets, or baked goods, the little a p e c k e d blood would not even be seen.

Note to C.B.: Athlete's foot (caused by a variety of fungus infections) can spread to the hands if a person happens to be unusually vulnerable to the fungus. Best solution is to follow a dermatologist's advice in controlling it.

Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — You're 20 minutes late for work already, but before you can run for it you have to:

—Arrange to get an estimate on fixing your car.

—Get a caterer to provide sandwiches for a party Saturday.

—Talk to a contractor about repairing the leak in the roof.

—Replenish your supply of martini ingredients.

There just isn't time for all these things, so what do you do?

If you live in Toronto, you can call Spot Dial.

You tell them your needs and where and when you can be reached by a garage man, caterer, contractor, dog clipper and liquor salesman.

Then, with half an hour's phoning cleaned up in five minutes, you leave for work.

Spot Dial is a new, private company which aims at helping consumers get almost anything that's available in the way of goods and services.

When a consumer calls Spot Dial—at no cost to him—the company's operators take his name and needs. They then call a store or service centre in his area which can meet those needs and pass his name along.

Spot Dial gets its money from the store, which pay it for the privilege of being told about prospective customers in its area.

Metropolitan Toronto is divided by Spot Dial into about 30 districts in which exclusive rights are sold to services and retailers. Costs range from $20 a month to as much as $1,000 a month for chain operations that want to blanket the city.

The company is the brain child of Ruth M. Gingell, a tall, 37-year-old career woman who was a computer programmer before starting Spot Dial six months ago.

"I really got the idea one time when I was in Winnipeg. I was very hungry, but didn't know where to go so I called an operator and asked her. I must have sounded really starved because she helped me.

"Then it occurred to me what a wonderful service this could be on a large scale."

Although the company has been operating publicly for only two months, Mrs. Gingell says it has proved so successful she already is considering expanding to Montreal and Vancouver, with franchise operations in other Canadian cities and perhaps in the United States.

She says it is the first operation of its type in North America. There are other outfits that help steer consumers to goods or services, but they charge the consumer a fee and usually collect a percentage of the sale from the retailer.

A. T. Williams, general manager, admits the service is similar to the one provided by the yellow pages in the phone book —with two important differences.

"First, you may not know the proper category to look up in the yellow pages.

"Second, if you're looking for a plumber there are pages of them. You don't know which to pick—whether he'll do a good job, overcharge or what.

"All the services and retailers we use are checked first with the Retail Credit Association and the Better Business Bureau, so the consumer knows he will be dealing with a reputable firm.

If a consumer has a legitimate complaint against one of the businesses, Spot Dial can cancel the contract it has with that company, Mr. Williams says.

Spot Dial now is open 18 hours a day to receive calls from consumers.

The services and retailers to whom these calls are relayed are listed in a large, revolving file so operators can find them quickly to pass along consumer requests.

Spot Dial says it can handle up to 1,500 calls daily and extra capacity can be added quickly.

It has, however, been stumped once already, Mr. Williams says.

"A woman called and wanted to rent a pig for a party. We didn't have a contact for that."

Business Briefs

GOLD SUPPLY UP

The United States treasury department announced Tuesday that the country increased its supply of gold by approximately $73,000,000 during the third quarter of 1965, largely due to purchases from France. During the three months ended Sept. 30 the U.S. bought $240,000,000 gold from France, bringing the $460,000,000 purchases from that country in the last six months.

Smallwood Has Five-year Plan Involving Heavy Expenditures

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Joseph Smallwood hinted strongly Tuesday Newfoundland may face new tax increases in the near future, as he outlined cornerstones of provincial expenditure plans for the next five years.

Mr. Smallwood laid before a three-day public conference on financing education key fragments of a total planned expenditure of $303,263,000 five years from now—a figure that could go as high as $513,486,000 "if we do the things that should be done . . . need to be done. . . ."

Expenditure in the current year is estimated at $310,010,100, of which some $78,000,000 is being spent on education, the biggest single item. This outlay will reach $109,150,700 five years from now and could go as high as $154,969,000, Mr. Smallwood said.

Payment of the education bill could not be considered except within the framework of over-all needs, he said. And "the cost of education has got to come out of the people's pockets. . . ."

Mr. Smallwood said the bill would have to be paid with money raised directly from the Newfoundland people, or turned over to the province by the federal government, or by a combination of the two.

Tweed and District News

TWEED — Mr. John A. Craig, of Calabogie, Ontario, passed away recently in the Renfrew Hospital, the funeral was held in Redrew on November 22nd.

Plans are already underway in Kaladar, for the annual Santa Claus parade in that hamlet, it will be sponsored by the Kaladar Community Club. Anyone wishing to enter a float is invited to do so. The dale of the parade is December 14 at 2 p.m.

Mr. Joseph Hanley returned to his home at Read, Ontario, after being a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

R. Clarence Graham, of Thorneburg, attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Alvin (Reta) Wright at Hamilton, late in November.

Mr. Nelson Vanness and daughter, Mrs. Linda Belanger of Northbrook, visited the former's brother, Donald Vanness, who is a patient in a Toronto Hospital, having undergone eye surgery.

'Incredible Mismanagement' Charged Against Robichaud

The motion, based on the $41,700,000 net debt increase in the fiscal 1968 budget, accused the government of "incredible mismanagement and flagrant misrepresentation."

It will be moved by Opposition Leader Richard Hatfield and, seconded by Lawrence Garvie, freshman member for Fredericton City, who won a by-election last June. It will give Mr. Garvie a chance to make his maiden legislature speech.

The committee of the whole house sat until 11.45 p.m. Tuesday and made a paragraph-by-paragraph study of four bills, including one on public service labor relations, which would give public employees the right to strike.

It was win-a little, lose-a little for the opposition in dealing with the bill. They promised to have one amendment made but lost out in an attempt for another.

The amendment would give an added guarantee that an employer shall not replace striking employees with other workers.

Opposition members also claimed there would be no means of appealing decisions of the public service labor relations board and arbitration tribunal to be set up by the act. They would be removed from access of the courts.

Labor Minister H. H. Williamson said the clause in question was intended to eliminate all minor appeals to courts in labor decisions. There would be recourse to the courts if the board or tribunal exceeded their jurisdiction.

An opposition amendment to allow certiorari appeal, based on common law was lost on a voice vote.

Strictly Personal

Origin of Our Measures

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of our absurd system of weights and measures, as I was the other day, reminded me that the University of Wisconsin Press has lately published a fascinating research book on the subject of old weights and measures from Anglo-Saxon times to the 18th century.

As I mentioned in the prior column, our "inch" comes from the length of three average-size fatty-tissues placed end to end, and our "acre" comes from the amount of land which one yoke of oxen could plow in a day.

The "fathom," as a nautical measurement, was roughly six feet, as the space comprehended by the utmost stretching of both arms (the Old English word, "fathom," meant "the arms outstretched.")

Land measurements in English are also wild approximations. For instance, the "furthingdale" was a measure of area with two very different dimensions: one fortyfold the other. It became later known as a "furdel" (now heard only in Hamlet's famous "To be or not to be" soliloquy) indicating 10 statute acres.

Land was also divided into "virgates" and "roods," a rood containing 10 days of work and consisting of one "perch" in breadth and 40 in length. Can you imagine what farm children in medieval England suffered?

There was also a "leap," which was a half bushel; a "librate" for an amount of land worth 1 pound a year; a "digit," which was a finger's breadth, which was equal to one-quarter "palm," one half "span," one-sixteenth "foot," one - twenty - fourth "cubit" one-fortieth "step," and one-eightieth "pace."

The measurement for quantities of wood began with the "cord" which was originally determined as the amount encompassed by a length of cord or string, equal to a double cube of 4 feet or 128 cubic feet.

While we have retained the cord, we have lost the "cubit" (blank goodness) which was a measure of length from the elbow to the extremity of the middle finger, and generally considered as 18 inches.

I'll remembered in tailoring is the "ell," which was 45 inches, or about a yard and a quarter; and in jewelry, the "carat," which was about the weight of a bean or pea shell, about 4 grains. The grain was the smallest weight in England, being a grain of corn or wheat, dried and gathered out of the middle of the ear.

This "Dictionary of English Weights and Measures" I have been happily browsing through has about 3,000 entries, many of which still dominate our "modern" system of weighing and measuring objects — something anachronistic as if we were still making flintlocks in a nuclear fission plant.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For December 5

Your birthday today: The coming career-building year is relatively uneventful but requires constant revisions of tactics. Vacations or stretched-out trips tempt you to stray off and thus lose some advantage at your home base. Diligence pays. Today's natives are usually versatile, resourceful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): If you kept your temper yesterday . . . your luck comes back. Factors over long distances enter favorably into your work. Don't leaf now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Settle with creditors. Write off losses if your debt is now long overdue; create credits where you can. Intuition comes to the fore.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Attention to your possessions is in order, for both inventory and now before year's end! Settle family squabbles simply tonight with groun decisions.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Plans that bring news & strong enterprise can be organized. Contracts are fruitful now. Use intuition where unknown factors must be estimated.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Consider the needs of young people. There is opportunity to expand your work. Stay up and active all through a full day; then relax.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): The goal is to raise your standard of living. This requires an investment and some labor. Help is available now from your own people. Get together.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): A connection made today can be useful later. Cater to family needs. Improvement of home seems to center attention as a high priority consideration.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Patient search will reveal an obscure, but real, opportunity for improving your position. Use it at once.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Partnership requires time to absorb ideas. Work proceeds well, according to your morale and willingness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Demonstrate your organizing capabilities. Attend to your health. Conclude personal agreements for future collaboration.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): The (minor) fly in the ointment is your concern over family or close associates. During work hours give all attention to people who can help open doors.

Hydro Steam Plant Planned in Lennox

1,800 to Work On Erection

Yesterday's formal provincial approval of a $275,000,000 coal-powered station near here is seen today as a high-voltage economic boost to lagging district development.

Sited for Lake Ontario, about five miles west of Bath and eight miles south of here, the massive project is expected to

- See a construction start by 1970.
- Employ up to 1,800 workers at the peak of construction.
- Take seven years to complete.
- Begin first production by 1975.
- Have an output of 2,000,000 kilowatts — reportedly an output powerful enough to supply an urban-industrial complex twice the size of Metropolitan Toronto.
- Will include harbor facilities.

The plant is a twin project to a new nuclear power station at Douglas Point, near Kincardine on Lake Huron. The government's green light to both developments — estimated to cost a total $1,198,000,000 — was given yesterday by Premier Roberts.

The premier's announcement formalized expectancy current for more than a year in the Quinte area.

Today, community spokesmen throughout the district were responding with predictable optimism to the economic significance of the scheme.

"It could be the start of a boom in the whole area," enthused Norris Whitney, M.P.P. for whose Prince Edward-Lennox riding the plant will be sited.

As the politician most closely involved with the provincial government plan, Mr. Whitney had most of the immediate details on the project.

Not only will it employ about 1,800 workers at peak, but the construction phase will also boost employment in local manufacturing and service industries contracted to assist in the development.

"A substantial number of the work force will be hired from this district. And then, they'll have to be housed and fed," said the M.P.P. "They and their families will be here for several years."

Mr. Whitney said the plant will have four generating units "among the largest anywhere" in development. The 2,000,000-kilowatt capacity. This would be sufficient to power an area twice the size of metropolitan Toronto, the MPP claimed.

South of the highway docks will be built for ocean-going Ontario shorelike to accommodate coal carriers fueling the plant.

Multi-million-dollar Site Is Mapped

Site of the Ontario Hydro's new multi-million-dollar steam generating plant in the Quinte area is mapped by J. F. Woodcroft, operating engineer at Hydro's Belleville regional office. Construction of the new plant — southeast of Napanee — is expected to start by 1970.

Both Israel and Jordan Get Warning From U.S.

By Reuters

The United States Wednesday warned Israel and Jordan that violations of the Middle East ceasefire served only to heighten tensions and disrupt United Nations efforts to bring peace to the area.

The State Department warning came as Egyptian President Nasser rejected a reported U.S. Middle East peace plan, and exchanges across the Israeli-Jordanian ceasefire line continued for the fourth straight day.

Meanwhile, UN peace envoy Gunnar Jarring met with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad for 3½ hours in Cairo Wednesday. No statement was issued after the talks, but the Middle East news agency said Jarring "did not present anything new . . . and the envoy's mission is still facing a blind alley."

Riad told Jarring that Egypt considered Israeli bombing of Jordanian territory Tuesday "as actual war against the Arab countries," the news agency reported.

Red Cross Drugs Reach Those in Need In Nigerian War Zone

TORONTO (CP) — Red Cross drugs are getting to the spots where they are needed in the Nigerian war zone, thanks to three mission organizational work by a Canadian pharmacist from Saskatoon.

Sam Harder, 37, returned to Canada this week to continue post-graduate study in pharmacy at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon.

Three months ago he left the university, his wife, three-months-old baby and two other children in response to a cable from a missionary friend in Nigeria who said his services were desperately needed.

"I got the cable on a Wednesday and Friday I was on the plane," Mr. Harder said here.

Bob Hope Backs Crusade on Crime

NEW YORK (AP) — A business executive whose wife was slain last year plans a war on crime by mobilizing a minimum of 10,000,000 Americans.

H. Bruce Palmer, 60, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, Wednesday announced formation of Citizens for Justice with Order.

Palmer's wife, Dorothy, 57, was stabbed to death Sept. 29, 1967, in their New Vernon, N.J., home.

Frederick B. Thompson, 36, who worked as a tree trimmer on the Palmer estate, was arrested in Chicago about a month later. He was convicted of murder last Nov. 21 and sentenced to death.

The new organization hopes to raise $25,000,000 in its first drive, with comedian Bob Hope, honorary national chairman, kicking off the campaign on television tonight.

Palmer said his group already has compiled a list of more than 200 projects in which communities and individuals can take part.

"They range from improvement of street lighting to court-watching, from block mothers to criminology scholarships, from community business protection to youngsters on probation," he said.

Plans of the new group call for improved training programs for convicted criminals and juvenile delinquents, as well, with separate forces on higher education, the clergy, television, newspapers, youth and minority groups.

New Heavy Water Plant Is Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — A new $65,000,000 heavy water production plant will be built adjacent to the Douglas Point nuclear power station near Kincardine, Ont., Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. announced today.

The plant, with a production capacity of 400 tons of heavy water a year, is expected to be completed in three years.

"Existing heavy water production plants in Canada will not be able to supply enough heavy water for the Canadian-type nuclear power stations now committed," the Crown-owned atomic agency announced.

"Additional heavy water production is required to fill the expanding nuclear power program in Canada and in support of AECL's nuclear power marketing operations in other countries."

Ontario Hydro has announced it will build a 2,000,000-kilowatt nuclear station near the present Douglas Point station, the AECL announcement noted.

Steam from the present Douglas Point station and from the new one there will be used in the new heavy water production plant.

Italian Parish Revolts

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — A Roman Catholic parish, led by a rebel priest, revolted today against the Archbishop of Florence.

The priest, Rev. Enzo Mazzi, defied an order removing him from the working-class parish of Isolotto and told his parishioners Your mass will be held every day in the streets."

The parishioners organized a march from their neighborhood on the outskirts of Florence to the cathedral square to read aloud before the cardinal's residence parts of a catechism they wrote with Father Mazzi's help.

Father Mazzi, 43, was dismissed for issuing the catechism and for defying the cardinal on other questions.

In the Isolotto catechism, Father Mazzi and his collaborators depicted Christ as a leader of the poor people of his time against the rich. As soon as the catechism went on sale last weekend Cardinal Florit denounced it and forbade all priests in his archdiocese from using it.

Nixon Likely to Take Early Hand in Paris Peace Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — W. Averell Harriman said today, after conferring with President-elect Richard M. Nixon, that he is confident Nixon will send a personal observer to the Paris talks and will replace the two principal American negotiators soon after taking office.

Nixon, who had tentatively decided against sending an observer to the peace talks before inauguration day, was said to be shifting his attitude at the urging of Harriman.

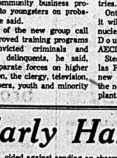
Talking to reporters after meeting with Nixon for more than an hour, Harriman made it clear he and deputy negotiator Cyrus R. Vance will turn over their tasks to Nixon's team on or about Jan. 20, which is inauguration day.

China Opposes Peace Parley

TOKYO (AP) — Red China gave its first hint Wednesday that it is sternly opposed to the Paris peace talks to end the war in Vietnam.

It did this in a round-about way, publishing a speech by Albania's deputy premier and defence minister, Beqir Balluku, accusing the United States and the Soviet Union of plotting to crush the Viet Cong through the peace talks.

Clear DMZ Top Priority



ST. LOUIS (AP) — Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford said Wednesday one of the first United States' objectives at the four-party peace talks in Paris will be to get the demilitarized zone cleared.

Speaking at a St. Louis Chamber of Commerce dinner, Clifford said clearing of the demilitarized zone would "give us a measure of protection in return for our not bombing up the North."

"Then we must reach an understanding with the enemy about not shelling centres in South Vietnam."

The defence secretary said the U.S. should aim its future foreign policy at securing world peace through development of regional agreements.

"We cannot be policemen for the world," Clifford said.

Parley Approval Delayed

SAIGON (Reuters) — Officials called for an immediate joint session of the National Assembly today after the lower house delayed approval of South Vietnamese participation in the Paris peace talks.

Informed sources said the House of Representatives ended a closed-door meeting halfway through after deputies said the chamber could not constitutionally act alone in matters of war.

The Senate previously approved participation in the talks and sources expected the joint session to raise no objections. However, if it did disapprove, the Paris delegation would be deprived of its authority to negotiate on behalf of South Vietnam.

President Nguyen Van Thieu announced Wednesday the South Vietnamese delegation would arrive in Paris Saturday.

Trilingual Parley

PARIS (Reuters) — U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators so far have settled only one minor point in procedural arrangements for expanded Vietnam peace talks, Hanoi delegation sources said today.

The sources said the two delegations agreed that Vietnamese and English would be the conference's official languages with French as the "working language."

Problem Overlooked in Legislation

Some Electors Voted Twice--for Same Candidate

A basic principle of the democratic system — that each voter is entitled to vote once, and once only, for each candidate in an election — was overlooked in the legislation governing election of separate school representatives on the new county board of education.

In Monday's election for county school boards, for instance, a property owner was entitled to vote in each municipality in which he owned property.

With candidates elected on a ward basis this presented no problem in the voting for separate school and county board trustees.

The situation changed in the case of separate school representatives on the county board.

Separate school supporters in all wards of Hastings County were entitled to vote for four representatives. The ballot listing the five candidates for these positions were the same in every polling sub-division throughout the county.

A separate school supporter who owned property in several municipalities throughout the county could drive from one polling subdivision to another, casting a ballot at each for the same separate school representative on the county board.

City Clerk Adam Stalker said every property-owner in the city is entitled to a ballot, regardless of where he lives. The returning officer has no right to ask the non-resident voter if he has already voted in the municipality where he lives or owns other property.

"There is no way to police this," Mr. Stalker said. "However, I know of no instances occurring in Belleville last Monday."

G. D. D. Morton, Tweed village clerk, said he had heard reports of some separate school supporters with property in both Tweed and Hungerford casting ballots in both municipalities for the same separate school candidates for the Hastings County Board.

"But I have no knowledge, only hearsay, and no way of ever finding out," he said.

"This is a weakness in the legislation," he added. "The Hastings County Clerks and Treasurers Association brought this to the attention of two department of education officials at a meeting in October. The officials said the possibility had never been thought of when the legislation was enacted."

Mr. Morton said the same double voting could have occurred across the province on Monday. The only solution he suggested would be an enumeration of voters of the type held before provincial and federal elections.

"Then, a public or separate school supporter would have one vote only, and would vote where he lives," said Mr. Morton. "That's the only way to control the situation."

May Sell for $5,000

School Houses Are Up for Sale

Call it nostalgia, status seeking, or antique collecting mania on a giant scale — by any name the yen for old school houses has reached fever pitch in the Toronto area.

It spilled over this week into Hastings County, where 29 one and two-room country schoolhouses go on the auction block Saturday in Stirling.

C. R. Cotton, business administrator for Hastings school area No. 2, the board selling the schools, said today he has received over 200 inquiries from Toronto residents since the sale was advertised last week.

"I'm going crazy up here answering all the letters and telephone calls," he said from his Tweed office. "The inquiries are coming from doctors, lawyers, professional people of all kinds."

Mr. Cotton spent yesterday with a Toronto television crew, filming three typical schools — a frame building at Sulphide, a stone school at Wellman's Corners and a brick school near Anson Junction. The films will be screened tonight at 6.30 and 11 p.m. on channel 4.

"Toronto people who know real estate values and the price old schools have been selling for around the metropolitan area tell me our schools should go from $500 to as high as $3,000 apiece," Mr. Cotton said.

"In Toronto, they tell me, coming an old school house for a country residence has become a fad, part of the Canadiana craze."

The 29 schools in Hungerford, Huntingdon, Rawdon and Madoc townships and the Village of Deseronto were closed last year when pupils were moved to central consolidated schools. Furnishings have been moved to the larger schools or sold.

Most of the buildings date from the mid-19th century or earlier, but some were built as recently as 15 years ago.

Bartend Sergeant as well-known local auctioneer, will conduct the sale Saturday at 1 p.m. in Stirling Intermediate School.

MRS. MARJORIE TROUNCE and Mrs. Winsome Lewis take a close look at a painting exhibit at the Corby Library. The exhibition contains paintings by Donnah and Alan Cameron.

Hydro Steam Plant Is Planned

The choice water frontage in the area was a governing factor in locating the plant in South Fredericksburg says Mr. Whitney.

"One of the determining factors in choosing the site, "I'm told, is the excellent harbor facilities available."

Coal will be carried from the docks on a conveyor tunnelled under the highway, he said.

Neither will the entire operation be distract from the landscape — one of Ontario's choice scenic routes.

Hydro has given assurance that no injury will be caused "the esthetic values" by the new development, said Mr. Whitney.

The new plant also will guard against air and water pollution in the region, he said.

Its engineering will include the latest in air-quality control installations. Water returned to the shoreline from the steam-powered generators will be cooled to close to lake temperature. This will avoid any damage to wildlife, said the MPP.

Best economical use will be fence over esthetics in the general local reaction today to the premier's announcement.

Already, some residents have benefited from the scheme — local farmers on whose property the project will be located.

Harold Creighton, South Fredericksburg reeve, believes Hydro already has purchased about 750 acres in the vicinity — and is seeking another 400 acres.

"If they purchased all they're after it will mean about 1,200 acres, or seven or eight farms."

Mr. Whitney hails the entire project as a "sizeable boost to the county of Lennox and Addington and the whole district and surrounding area."

It could create a boom echoing around Hastings and Prince Edward counties, he continued.

Other characteristic reactions included:

Mayor Russell Scott, of Belleville: The new plant will provide jobs in the area. But there is something just as important: "It will make sure there is going to be no electric shortage in the area. Industrial expansion we expect here in the city".

Reeve Creighton: As reeve of South Fredericksburg he is concerned about the revenues to be derived for his township from the acquisition of a large-scale public project. But "time and Addington County "will benefit as a whole — especially from the construction of it."

Gordon Demorse, Prince Edward County warden: "Anything that comes as close to the county means we're going to share in it." Linked to the new Quinte Skyway "we expect should help uplift county economy." "We're badly in need (of development). If we can't land something here in the county, anything within reasonable distance is a benefit. However, the results should not strain our present services within the county."

Ray Bredshaw, Belleville and District Labor Council president: "This project should be of tremendous value in a side area now 'plagued by mass unemployment'." The region also is a low - wage zone. The project, along with the industry, services and commerce it generates, "will bring towards a higher level of living conditions of a great many . . . more in line with other areas."

Post Office Issue Raises Problems

TRENTON — The post office issue here could receive a new lease on life.

The plebiscite in Monday's municipal elections has given rise to more problems than it has solved.

The three choices on the ballot gave the voters the choice of retaining, demolishing or selling the old structure.

While the choice to retain and renovate the building received the most votes it did not outnumber the total votes cast in favor of the other two choices.

There were 1,136 Trentonians who voted to retain the building, while 818 were in favor of selling and 590 wanted it demolished.

In other words, 1,408 voters were in favor of disposing of the structure in one way or another.

Mayor James MacDonald said today there is no truth to the rumor that the two votes will be totalled.

He added that council will probably be holding a further study so the wishes of the people will be carried out in the best way possible.

And the question as to whether tenants should have been allowed to vote on the post office plebiscite has raised some opinions here.

Some Trentonians have indicated that they believe the plebiscite to be a money question and as such only property holders would be allowed to vote.

Coming Events

THERE WILL BE A JOINT MEETING of Associated, of Prince Edward No. 47 Royal Arch Chapter, and I.B.E.S. at Hotel Quinte on December 5th at 6.30 p.m. sharp with a social and dinner. Electrical Contractor Dies

Prominent in the business and fraternal life of this city for some time, Stewart Willam Hibbard, 37 Ritchie Avenue, died early this Thursday morning in hospital.

Mr. Hibbard was born in Belleville, 47 years ago, a son of Mrs. Isabel Elizabeth Hibbard and the late William Paul Hibbard. He was educated in the city and resided his entire life in the community.

In early life he entered the Electrical field and with his father established the Hibbard Electric Company and served for 20 years. He enjoyed a wide clientele in the Quinte district, was well known and highly respected.

Mr. Hibbard was a member of Holloway Street United Church.

Fraternally he was a member of Moira Lodge AF & A.M. No. 11, Quinte Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, No. 228, King Baldwin Preceptory No. 8 and Kameses Shrine in Toronto.

Mr. Hibbard was a member and director of the Belleville Shrine Club and a member of the Camel Herders in the Shrine. He was also an active member of the Electrical Contractors' Association of Ontario.

Surviving are his mother, one son. William J. Hibbard of Belleville and two daughters, Mrs. Denis (Bonnie) Edwards, Toronto, Mrs. Peter (Trudy) Foley, Oshawa and two grandchildren.

Mr. Hibbard is resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home. Service will be held in the chapel on Saturday, Dec. 7 at 11 a.m.

Interment will be in Belleville cemetery with Rev. William Lamb officiating.

Heaviest Snowfall Recorded

TWEED — One of the heaviest autumn snowfalls in years is being recorded in the North Hastings and Renfrew areas with as much as 30 inches having fallen in some localities.

According to the Tweed meteorology office from seven to eight inches of the fluffy white stuff fell throughout the Tweed forest district yesterday although milder weather has reduced the amount of snow on the ground.

At Deseronto there is 20 inches of snow on the ground, at Bancroft 13 inches, Barrie Rapids 12 inches and at Plevna 12 inches.

Tweed still has four and a half inches of snow on the ground.

Volunteer Fireman Retires

Twenty five years service as a volunteer fireman by Fred M. Clarke, 20, of which were served as chief of the Point Anne fire department, was recognized here by the Hastings-Prince Edward Fire Fighters Association.

At their monthly meeting held at the Batawa recreation hall, association members presented Mr. Clarke with the traditional gold plated fire fighters' helmet along with a long service plaque.

But the long time Point-Anne volunteer fireman has answered his last fire call.

As of November 20 he is no longer with the department and is now on retirement leave from his job as general foreman at the Canada Cement plant. He retires officially on December 31.

The new fire chief is Vincent Maher who takes over as head of the Point Anne department on January 1.

Also at last night's meeting at Batawa, Mr. Clarke, and Arthur Duncan of Batawa, were presented with honorary life memberships in the Hastings - Prince Edward Fire Fighters Association.

The new chief co - ordinator for the two county mutual aid fire fighters Association is Leo Culhane, incoming chief of the Belleville Fire Department. Association president is Fire Chief Al Fraser of Deseronto with vice presidents being Chief John Acquino of Batawa and John Ogilvie of Wellington. Secretary is Vincent Lawlor of Deseronto.

Children Help Biafrans

NAPANEE — To the pupils of the Slash Road School Christmas is a time for giving, and not just for getting. Between now and Christmas they have pledged themselves to raise $100 to send to the starving children of Biafra.

All the money will be raised in the school itself, and they plan to have some fundraising project each Friday afternoon in the school.

Last Friday marked the beginning — a White Elephant Sale netted them close to $50, and the money is already in the bank. Now they are looking for other projects, and will welcome ideas.

It takes the kids to shame some of us adults.

Belleville Firm Gets Contract

Hugh Murray Ltd. of Belleville this week commenced work on a $329,000 installation contract at the Warkworth Medium Security Institution.

A company spokesman said the contract called for the installation of interior walls, plumbing, heating and electrical work for an institution training shop. The building itself is already constructed awaiting the interior installation.

When completed the shop will be used for training inmates in mechanical trades.

Hugh Murray Ltd. will subcontract some of the installations which are scheduled for completion by March 14.

Just one misfiring spark plug could cut your mileage by 10%. That means you could waste a gallon in every tankful. For every 500 miles you drive, you could be paying for 50 miles more than you should.

Find a mileage expert

Find a Shell dealer. Mileage is his business.

Let him check your spark plugs regularly. If he recommends a change, new Shell/Champion plugs can be installed while you wait. (You'll soon recover the cost of the plugs with the gasoline you save.)

And be sure to ask him for a free copy of 32 Secrets.

It's a book of tips on how to go as far as possible on every gallon of gasoline. When everything is right with your car and your driving habits, then Super Shell can really show off.

Super Shell for good mileage

Super Shell has five ingredients for good mileage.

(1) Platformate contains extra-energy petroleum molecules.

(2) TCP works to keep spark plugs from misfiring.

(3) Butane helps you start quickly. And the quicker you start, the less gasoline you waste before you get going.

(4) A detergent fights deposits that can build up inside the carburetor. These deposits hurt your mileage.

(5) Mixed Pentanes help your engine warm up quickly to prevent misfiring, bucking, coughing and wasted fuel. In any weather.

You'll get good mileage with Super Shell. You'll get even better mileage with the help of our 32 Secrets book.

Arctic Work Force

They do it in Sweden and elsewhere in Scandinavia — that is, they send drivers convicted of drinking charges to the mines and forests and give them some work to do.

There was the Swedish television performer for instance who came back from a stint in the prison and said: "My career was ruined — but I was as strong as an ox."

So why not here? For one thing it would improve the physique of innumerable Canadians, who as statistics and even appearance show, are only an emotional or physical shock away from a heart attack.

Anyway, here we have the chairman of the National Parole Board, George Street, agreeing that sending paroled prisoners to jobs in the Arctic would be a good way to keep them away from old haunts and temptations.

Mr. Street told the Commons Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs he planned to ask the Manpower Department about placing paroled men in jobs in the Arctic. Observing that 60 per cent of those sent to prison should be paroled, Mr. Street added: "We're spending too much on prisons and not enough on people."

Still, we wonder if Mr. Street is not being overly optimistic when he says the men would be "perfectly safe" in the Arctic, and that they "couldn't get into trouble if they wanted to."

The Arctic in itself would be like an open air prison. Someone on the committee had mentioned the Panarctic expedition. Well and good, but wouldn't there be the usual tensions and problems where a large group of men are working together in a strange and remote environment, away from normal recreational facilities and everyday pursuits?

We still have a long way to go for instance before taming the Arctic to the extent that the Russians have, with their northern cities almost on a par with, perhaps even more modern, than those in the Soviet Union proper. In any event, there is a lot of pioneering to be done up north and if it will help both the country and the men on parole then why not send them there?

More on Fitness

British medical men are experimenting with a new treatment of victims of heart attack. Victims are placed in special oxygen chambers where the pressure of pure oxygen is raised to double that of the atmosphere.

Under these conditions they absorb enough oxygen to feed their bodies even though their hearts are not functioning properly. Then the body, properly nourished, can repair itself, as it does with a minor injury.

Richard Oliver spoke of the work being carried on at London's Westminster Hospital in a recent CBC broadcast. Over a period of 18 months 40 patients have been treated in this way. Thirty-seven lived. The treatment has aroused world-wide interest and orders for the equipment have been received from the United States and the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, more warnings are being issued on this continent about the "Pickle Vita" type of life that is causing so much physical damage today.

The board of trustees of the American Medical Association, in a special report to the AMA's clinical convention in Miami, said: "Our affluence has reduced physical exertion and increased overeating, excess drinking, smoking, late hours and drug consumption."

Stressing the importance of individual responsibility in the maintenance of good health, the report noted: "While much progress has been made in overcoming many historic plagues of mankind, we find more and more illnesses due at least in part, to abuse and neglect by the individual himself."

The report says also that the advice of the physician is frequently ignored. Is it any wonder that heart trouble is on the increase?

Welsh Agitation

Welsh nationalists are making it abundantly clear they would like self-government for their country. The latest incident involved the blowing up of pipelines carrying water from the Welsh mountains to the English industrial city of Birmingham. Meanwhile, concern is mounting over the threats made against the life of Prince Charles who officially takes over the hereditary title of Prince of Wales next year. A spokesman for the so-called Free Wales Army is quoted as saying: "We are not asking for trouble. We are demanding it."

Canada's Allies Look Askance At Possible Defence Cuts

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau's new and swinging style of sock-it-to-them politics may be exciting and even entertaining to watch from the Commons galleries as he says it to the Opposition.

And it might be only slightly less fascinating to watch on the news pages and the air waves by those who do not line up and scramble for the privilege of watching Pierre Pierre perform in person.

But how exciting and entertaining is it to Washington, London, Brussels, Bonn and the capitals of our other friends and allies?

Exciting it may be — for entirely the wrong reasons — but entertaining it is not.

Maybe it is just one of the risks involved in giving supreme power to a new and completely untried prime minister, a wildly non-conforming character who has been in national politics a scant three years.

After all, it was not that Pierre Elliott Trudeau did not warn Canadians they might be adventuring with him into the unknown.

"Take a chance," he invited us all, and a majority did just that.

The way some things have been shaping up, it could turn out that there is a greater contest of risk in Washington-to-the - chance than a lot of people figured.

For with the prime minister's ballet-dancing on defence—"We can get out of NATO (next year) if we feel like it," he has said — the alarm bells are ringing in the departments of external affairs, energy and resources, industry trade and commerce, finance, and all the other federal agencies that do business with the free world.

They are warning that with the prime minister so fifty-and-butty on Canada's solemn commitments to the North Atlantic and the North American defence alliances, there is danger of distrust of Ottawa building up in Washington, London, and in the other free world capitals.

Washington is the one that worries the department of industry trade and commerce External affairs, too. And especially finance.

With a new administration moving into the American capital there is a very real danger that the first impression Ottawa creates with president Richard Nixon could be that of the quitter — the big bopper of NATO and Norad one day of a friend and ally and next-door-neighbor not to be trusted.

So okay, argue some other Ottawa federal departments, such as the secretary of state and post office — where those ministerial mavericks Gerard Pelletier and Eric Kierans bang their administrative carts at hats — so who cares what the Americans think?

Well, there are those oil and gas, timber, cattle, newsprint, nickel, even steel and all those other Canadian exports that get a trading break across the border to think about. Also that ready access for Canadian provinces and municipalities to the U.S. capital market for their bonds.

And there is the Canadian-American automobile agreement, and the question to be debated by the new Nixon administration of loosening the ties on U.S. investment in Canada.

It is only money. Only the American dollar. But it buys Canadian goods and helps keep Canadian industry growing and Canadian payrolls expanding.

So who cares what "the British think"?

The prime minister should — because the Brits spend three times as much on Canadian exports as Canada does on English imports.

But the Kierans and the Pelletiers and maybe the Jean Marchands and the other "free souls" of the Trudeau cabinet argue that it is now-or-never to cut defence spending and bug out of NATO and Norad and save money.

Save it for what, though?

For foreign aid, Eric Kierans tells you at every opportunity, for the Africans and Asians and Latin Americans.

Park Lands Threatened

Kingston Whig-Standard

The efforts of the Ontario Government, through the Department of Lands and Forests, to make of Algonquin Park a true park in place of a rich nesting ground for private lumbering interests has aroused bitter opposition. That opposition, naturally, comes from those who are making profits out of the raw materials of the park and who think it quite right that public lands should be used for their business purposes.

It is natural, also, that unions should protest since their big business — the supply of labor — is threatened too. The chorus of protest is swelled by the Mayor of Huntsville, who talks about "the lifeblood" of the community, and by local industrial boosters of every description.

If the Government had not in the first place permitted the practically unrestricted commercial use of lands designated as public park lands, this situation would not exist. The park area comprises 2,190 square miles and logging is the chief industry which has developed. A master plan projected by the Government calls for the end of all logging licences by 1979. After that logging will still be permitted, but under a controlled volume agreement.

It can be considered that the decision to save a huge natural park area for the public is a form of human progress. Logged provincial governments down through the years have let commercial interests creep in and establish themselves in this area (a common pattern all over Canada). In earlier days, with a much smaller population this did not matter much. But there is now great pressure to have park lands set aside in perpetuity, free from commercial exploitation.

Bruce Peninsula Walk

Kitchener - Waterloo - Record

It's hard to know who to admire the most: Elmer Caerhalmi Sr. for being a good father, Elmer Jr. for being a stalwart son, or the two of them together for being good Canadians.

The two of them together, Dr. Caerhalmi, an Elmira physician and his 12-year-old boy, are among the very few who have walked the 430-mile Bruce Trail from end to end. They have scored gains for themselves in several ways.

To begin with, they have gained more healthful value from 430 miles of travel than most of us get by sitting in heated automobiles for a similar distance. Furthermore, they have seen the Bruce Trail as it is still there, even if to many travellers it is just the great unknown behind the traffic signs and the gas pumps.

Thirdly, they have had a close look at Queenston to the tip of the Bruce Peninsula.

Father and son did it in intervals on weekends, averaging about 16 miles a day, and starting each time where they had stopped the time before.

Teens Are More Poised Today

John Robinson in The Hamilton Spectator

What with one thing and another I meet a fairish number of teenagers during the course of a year and I am constantly surprised to find that many of them are worried about a fancied lack of poise—I say I am surprised because I seldom see that this present teenage generation is a great deal more poised than most other similar age groups in the past.

I have theories about poise but the only thing I know for sure about it is that you acquire more and more of it as you grow older but you die shortly before you get all you need. In other words, the acquisition of poise is a struggle in which you win a number of battles but seldom, if ever, win the war.

I certainly sympathize with those youngsters of today who feel awkward in the presence of others because when I was the same age I was as shy as a rare-vous horse. I was not only short and pudgy but my blood seemed to be on permanent display — sometimes it would rush to my face — giving it a wide-screen Technicolor look, long before there were wide screens and Technicolor — and sometimes it would press the down-button and my face would turn as whitely clammy as a bride's first pie-crust.

Because of this rush of blood to the head young girls soon stopped speaking to me because after only a few words from me I ever, with a blushing scarlet casual observers were convinced either I was the victim of an invisible strangler or the girls taking to me were telling me dirty jokes.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Montreal was put under martial law 121 years ago today as Patriote leader Louis Papineau, the leader of the rebellion, had already fled to the United States. Papineau had served in the government for 22 years but led a "patriot" party. Papineau's revolution came to nothing as did that of William Mackenzie in Toronto. Their aims were different as Papineau was a republican and Mackenzie favored a constitutional monarchy.

1848 —President James Polk announced gold had been found in California.

1933 — Prohibition repealed in the United States.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—officials announced tankers and motorized troops arrived in Italy; King Peter of Yugoslavia protested the formation of a council of liberation inside the country by Gen. Tito and Dr. Ivan Ribar; Japanese planes bombed the Calcutta area.

People on the Move

Ottawa Journal

Canadians are a restless people, the number of moving vans on the highways, crowded railway stations and airports bursting at the seams attest to this. But just how restless? The Dominion Bureau of Statistics gives some indication with a report on mobility status over the 1956-1961 period for residents of private households.

In 1961 Ottawa's metropolitan population numbered 268,031, and 189,342 of that number had moved their place of residence since 1956. Most of this number (125,633) stayed within Ottawa when they moved. But 54,310 moved into Ottawa from other areas. About half (28,427) of our newcomers were from Ontario while 24,731 came from other provinces. Another 15,190 came from abroad to settle in Ottawa.

Among Montreal's 1,777,985 population an amazing 943,800 moved their place of residence between 1956 and 1961.

Bearing out the sociologist's predictions that Canada will be soon, a nation of highly urban people, only 342 of the 11,397 persons who left Ottawa between 1956 and 1961 moved to farms.

Shock Value

Peterborough Examiner

Sometimes we think the youngsters are putting us on. By sprinkling a few four-letter words through a 30-page propaganda sheet that is otherwise not particularly offensive and, in places, even thought provoking, the students figure we (meaning adults) will come out swinging and in our righteous indignation provide them with the publicity they deem essential to their 'cause.'

We think that there is any serious cause for alarm over the tract now being circulated in schools in Peterborough and other cities in Ontario. The words are such as we, and which, they are not commonly used in high school publications they are gradually losing their shock value, even to 16-year-olds.

Some of our better authors—including in some cases, those whose works are part of senior English courses — make occasional use of some of the earthier Anglo-Saxonisms.

Mayor James MacDonald tries out one of the new desks in the newly opened addition to Prince Charles School last night. The desk proved a bit small for this older student.

Opening of Addition Final Act for Board

TRENTON — The quest for "the best possible education facilities in Trenton" received a boost last night when a $248,000 addition to Prince Charles School was opened.

The six room unit, which has been in makeshift use for about a month, will spell an end to crowded conditions which had existed in the school for some time.

"This new wing will incorporate better facilities which will complement the overhaul effectiveness of this building," said principal A. H. Ball.

For Mr. Hall the need for more space was a major problem. During the construction of the addition this term, two classes were held in the gymnasium and one in the staff room. Another was temporarily stationed at the Dufferin St. School.

The delay in construction had been due to striking construction workers who were building the unit.

But last night's ceremonies, aside from putting out a feeling of accomplishment were also touched with a feeling of nostalgia.

Mayor James MacDonald labelled the occasion as "the last time the present board could be called on to perform an official act of this nature."

He paid tribute to the board by saying he believed them to be one of the best in the province.

"We have the best possible education facilities at the lowest possible price for the taxpayer", said the mayor, "and we couldn't ask for more than that."

And mayor MacDonald expressed the hope that the Home and School would continue to play a major part in school affairs. With the new regional boards in the offing he believes this organization will play a major part in "parent - teacher relations."

The mayor also hinted that the regional boards might be taking on more than they can handle in that "they might be too widespread."

According to the mayor, "We may have to pull ourselves in a bit."

The mayor said this might give Trenton a chance to get the present board back.

"I realize to some this is an extreme thought but I believe that we are losing one of the best boards in the province."

Criticizes NDP Leader

Jarvis Hasn't Heard from Committee

PICTON (Staff) — Even with the threat of Picton clerk-treasurer Andy Jarvis' threatened resignation nobody from the Citizens Information Committee has yet come forward to speak to him.

At Tuesday night's council meeting Mr. Jarvis said that the first thing the new council would have to do would be to act on his resignation if the persons responsible for the political advertisement casting doubts on the integrity of the mayor and the council for the past 18 years did not come forward.

However, this morning Mr. Jarvis did say that he knew who three of the people were, but would not name them publicly.

NDP leader Donald MacDonald, for his remarks at Queen's Park was also the brunt of Mr. Jarvis' criticism this morning.

Mr. Jarvis said the NDP leader had not once, come into the town offices to see where the records were kept.

"Instead he went out to the Proctor-Silex plant, listened to a few strikers and then spoke with the authority of a saint.

"He's so far out of line with the principles that the CCF and NDP parties are based on that I don't see why he does not join one of the other two parties."

Mr. Jarvis also said, he would like to meet Mr. MacDonald and "bring him out of the deep dark cavern of ignorance."

"He's been living in ignorance so long I doubt if he'd be able to stand the truth."

Mayor H. J. McFarland stood behind clerk Jarvis at the council meeting and stated that "If Andy's resignation goes through mine will follow."

Prince Edward County

Authority Should Purchase Land: Report

PICTON (Staff) — Over 37 recommendations were made by the Prince Edward Region Conservation Report conducted this year by the department of energy and resources management.

The report, which was released in November, covered the entire county and divided the recommendations into three parts: land and forest, water and wildlife.

The Prince Edward Conservation Authority was started in 1965 and the recommendations made by the government's study are to aid them in their work, ambitions and aid.

Under the land and forest section it was recommended that the authority establish a program to systematically purchase consolidated blocks of land within the 52,646 acres of land recommended by the government study as "needing alternative uses."

Forest plantations should also be established on the recommended conservation lands. It was also recommended that the Prince Edward Authority demonstrate the means of eliminating "over grazing" on local grasslands and provide a private lands' assistance program for the establishment of grassed waterways, stream bank improvements and small scale reforestration.

Wrapping up the recommendations under the land and forest category were those suggesting that the authority encourage the use of contour cultivation and strip cropping, provide assistance in establishing windbreaks and assess the most efficient means of controlling the unnecessary spread of red cedar.

Greater care in the management of natural woodlands and plantations as well as well as assisting and co-operating with other agencies in extension work in the field of agriculture and forestry wrapped up the first part of the report.

GEORGE EMPSON

City Group Attends Seminar

A delegation of seven and possibly nine people from Belleville will attend the East Central Ontario youth seminar to be held at the Campbellford District High School on Saturday, December 7.

Taking in the seminar will be Lorne Williams, administrator of the Belleville recreation committee program, his assistant Mrs. Wilma Summers, and five others, including four members of the local Kin-So Club. The local YMCA will also possibly send delegates.

The purpose of the seminar will be to discuss programs and administrational problems encountered by youth groups, to exchange program ideas and increase organizational and leadership skills.

George Empson, son of Dr. Robert Empson and Mrs. Empson of Belleville recently received his B.A. degree from Waterloo University where he majored in psychology. He is now assistant principal at the Prince Charles School in Belleville.

Make sure it hums.
Then it won't be a watch at all. It'll be an Accutron® timepiece.

Buiova felt out of Accutron the parts that make a watch run fast or slow.

The Accutron timepiece has no balance wheel, no mainspring, no hairspring. (Therefore no tick.) Instead it has a tiny, electronically-powered tuning fork. (That's what does the humming.)

The tuning fork splits a second into 360 equal parts. The best a ticking watch can do is divide a second into 5 or 10 parts.

Accutron time is so nearly perfect that Bulova guarantees monthly accuracy to within 60 seconds.†

It's a particularly good gift for the man who has everything except the right time of day.

Accutron timepieces start at $135.00.

Jury Recommends Walks For Herchimer Avenue

A five man coroner's jury recommended sidewalks and better lighting on the east side of Herchimer Avenue last night at the inquest of Robert Heaton, 23, who died in an accident Oct. 19.

The jury's verdict was that Heaton died from accidental means because of bad lighting and poor driving conditions.

The jury also said that Heaton should have walked facing traffic.

City police officers, Const. Lorne McLaton and and Const. Les Hall testified before coroner Dr. W. B. Beattie, that it was raining heavily at the time of the accident and that it was quite dark.

Constable Hall said the lights shone on the road like a "black mirror."

Heaton was killed on the night of Oct. 31 when he and his girl friend, Nancy Johnson, were walking home from the Tiki Club.

They started to cross Herchimer Avenue between Dundas and Bridge Streets and a car slowed down for them. They then walked in front of a second car, a Ford, in the other direction. It was driven by Louis Donald Shell — the car that struck Heaton.

Miss Johnson terrified that "Robert gave me a shove onto the gravel." He was then struck by the car while he was still on the pavement.

"We never saw the reflection or anything," she told the court.

Wayne Fraser, driver of the car that slowed down for the two pedestrians, said he felt the driver (Mr. Shell) had no chance to stop.

Mr. Shell said that he "saw a figure and that was it."

He said his "first glimpse of the boy was right in front of the car. I never saw the girl."

The bearers were Russell Brisbey, Norman Brusbey, Almonde Lessard, Clayton Lessard, Ernest Andrews and Francis Allair. Interment was in St. John Evangelist Parish Cemetery.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Brownies with Added Yule Decor

By MARY MOORE

To ease your mind I want to start by saying that the actual brownie part of this recipe is easy to make for it goes together in the beater bowl in straightforward steps. The "Holiday" part is a green mint icing drizzled with bitter chocolate. For a pan of dandy undecorated brownies, just make and bake the batter.

HOLIDAY BROWNIES
(These Freeze)

BATTER:
5¼ oz. (2⅓ squares) unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ cup shortening (half and half shortening and butter is better)
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¾ cup chopped nuts

FROSTING:
1½ cups unsifted icing sugar
1-3 cup evaporated milk
¼ tsp. peppermint extract
3 drops green food coloring
1½ oz. (1½ squares) unsweetened chocolate, melted (for topping)

Melt the 5¼ squares chocolate in a cup standing in a shallow pan of simmering water.

Into beater bowl measure shortening (or shortening and butter) and sugar and beat until creamy then add eggs and vanilla. Beat until light. Stir in melted chocolate. (Do not wash chocolate cup. Melt the 1½ squares chocolate for topping in it for applying to top later.) Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and beat in. Remove beaters and stir in nuts. Pour into 9"x 9"x 2" or 9" x 9" buttered, bottom square pan and smooth top. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 25 to 28 min. Cool in pan.

If you are frosting these brownies measure icing sugar and evaporated milk into small heavy saucepan. Stir constantly over medium high heat for 3 min. Remove from heat and add extract and coloring and beat for 1 min. Then pour evenly over cooled browning in pan, working quickly enough to prevent hardening before pan is frosted. Drizzle second amount of melted chocolate in uneven lines all over top. Cut in as needed cut into squares from pan.

NOTE: These freeze well if carefully freeserwrapped.

'High Fashion in Wigs' Tea Popular

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Our hospital tea turned into a Wig Tea this fall. A showing and modelling of wigs has been done in other cities, but so far not here.

We are calling it "High Fashion in Wigs" and a local beauty shop, run by two men, is going to do the showing. Our small table centrepieces are to be models of dolls made of pipe cleaners, with heads of small styrofoam balls cute faces, and wigs of various colored yarns. Three dolls are fastened into small colored flowerpot, which has been filled with vermiculite.

Just thought this idea might intrigue some other inquiring group. — B. C. Helpers.

Dear Helpers: Sounds tops to me, as it were. Hospital auxiliaries and others casting about for ideas will be glad of this one.

Could you send me information on how a girl can make herself look taller by doing little things? —Greatest Gratitude

Dear Greatest: My leaflet on Air Stewardess (air-laned) will answer your questions about this work.

As for looking taller, stand tall. Straight. As if you were carrying a water jar on your head. Wear clothes with vertical lines; and solid colors.

An erect posture shows poise, pride in yourself, an attitude of facing life squarely — all attributes we think of as going with "tallness" of personality.

It takes a persistent, self-starting writer with creative ideas to survive the hazards, but if you make it, the whole thing is exciting.

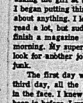
Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Father: "I saw Tom with your new sled. I'm tired of seeing him impose on you. He never seems to have any toys of his own."

Father: "Tom's parents probably can't afford to buy him a sled this year. I'm glad to see you are sharing yours with him."



It's better for a child to be more than for him to grow up without learning kindness and consideration for others.

It's better for a child to be "imposed on" now and then than for him to grow up without learning kindness and consideration for others.

Ann Landers

Girl Writes Letter On Effects of Marijuana

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you need a letter from a 19-year-old girl who has smoked marijuana and can tell you what it's like, here it is:

ANN LANDERS

For months my friends talked about pot parties. They insisted marijuana is harmless — that it's less damaging than liquor — not habit-forming, no withdrawal symptoms, no hangover, and cheaper. I decided to try it.

At first we smoked in groups and everybody got high. Each of us paid the "host" who bought the stuff so much a puff or a puffer. Then we began to smoke in pairs. After a few weeks I started to smoke alone. I bought the stuff by the ounce from a friend.

After a while I had trouble making simple decisions. I had to ask my sister which dress to wear to work. I found myself asking the girl at the next desk how to spell simple words. I began putting things off because I couldn't make up my mind about anything. I lost my appetite and couldn't sleep. I used to read a lot, but suddenly I couldn't concentrate long enough to finish a magazine article. I had trouble getting up in the morning. My supervisor told me if I was late again I'd better look for another job. It was then that I decided to get off the junk.

The first day was fine. The second day I was jittery. The third day, all the problems I had been running from hit me in the face. I knew then I was in worse shape than I had ever been in before. I was determined to kick the habit and I've gone through hell but, thank God, I licked it.

It's been five weeks since I've had a smoke. I'm almost back to normal, but not quite. I shudder when I think of how close I came to wrecking my life with this "harmless" drug.

I started smoking because I was curious. I kept it up because it made the things I worried about seem unimportant. I know now the only way to handle problems is to face them and work them out. People who go to pot — go to pot. — NEARLY HOOKED.

DEAR NEARLY: I can add nothing to your letter but my thanks to you for writing it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: They say when a woman's husband dies, her whole world changes. I became a widow two weeks ago and I can attest to the truth of this statement. I did not expect to get it in writing, however. Three of my friends spelled it out in their "sympathy" letters. The most revealing note closed as follows: "It was an honor and a pleasure to have known you both." In other words, "This is it, Toots. Get lost."

An extra woman is a fifth wheel — a problem to hostesses everywhere. I know, too, some women consider a widow a threat as well as a nuisance. But must they put it in a sympathy letter?

Please tell your readers if they can't think of anything supportive to say to simply buy a card and sign it. — SAN FRANCISCO.

DEAR FRAN: I'm sure your friend did not mean, "Get lost." She merely used an unfortunate combination of words.

The wise and worthy widows are not abandoned by real friends. They keep them — and make more.

U.C.W. Meeting

(Salem U.C.W.)

Mrs. Ross Bush, Consecon opened her home for the Salem U.C.W. meeting. The president, Mrs. Betty O'Hara opened the meeting by a reading.

Mrs. Betty O'Hara was in charge of the devotional. Mrs. Nina Weir had the Bible study and also gave a reading.

Business consisted of discussing plans for the Rally that was to be held in Consecon United Church. The meeting closed with a delicious lunch served by Mrs. Ruth Broomfield and Mrs. Keitha Carnrike.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

UNIONDALE W.I.

The November meeting of the Uniondale Women's Institute (Hastings West), was in the form of a Family night, with a potluck supper held at Scott's Uniondale Hall.

The supper was followed by a short program of songs, after which a reading was given. Later, a showing of colored pictures of a trip "around the world" was given by Miss D. Hill of Wooler. She was assisted by Mrs. Alan Hill. Miss Hill was thanked for her wonderful entertainment and given a small token for her efforts.

November 20, 14 members and seven visitors met at Scott's Uniondale Hall to take a short course on "vegetables with a flair". Leader, Mrs. Mary Sine was efficient in making and explaining several recipes and rules for preparing vegetables to conserve food values. Mrs. Sine was thanked for her outstanding effort by the president, Mrs. R. Burkitt.

The December meeting of the U.W.I. will be held at Scott's Uniondale Hall with hostess, Mrs. Maurice Dafoe.

Tabernacle U.C.W. Tea Prelude to Yule Season

Tabernacle United Church ushered in the Christmas season in a most appropriate way and their Christmas bazaar held Wednesday afternoon from two to five hit just the right note.

General convener of the event was Mrs. R. Nelson, while the co-convener was Mrs. Pickell.

There was the usual variety of display tables, and an exceptionally beautiful array of Christmas decorations to add a special holiday touch.

There was a special corner for the children, too. Labelled "Toyland," and convened by Mrs. Maclean and Mrs. W. Babbit, it contained doll clothes, books, crayons and many stuffed animals including Inpish monkeys and pupies.

The children's wear section was convened by Mrs. C. Stanton and Mrs. H. Bailey, and featured warm slippers, mittens and baby sets. Nearby, the apron table, supervised by Mrs. W. May and Mrs. N. Wessels sported all sizes and colors of aprons in many designs.

Miss Carol Goodfellow was in charge of the Hi-C booth. Here, shoppers had to decide between a good variety of articles, ranging from baubles on the "jewellery tree" to knick-knacks for every room. Convening the Cuba table were Mrs. N. Akey and Mrs. Hine, while Mrs. C. Walker supervised the Explorer's table.

The men were not to be left out of the action, however. They had their own display table of birdhouses, birdfeeder trays, some planks, and of course, a rocking chair.

Delicious cold plates, pickles, relishes — so many good things to eat, were sold at the delicatessen table, as convened by Mrs. B. D. Salisbury and Mrs. H. W. Robinson.

The home baking table, with its cakes, tarts, cookies and different types of breads was a delight to behold. One couldn't spend too long looking, however, since everything disappeared so rapidly. Conveners at this table were Mrs. R. Ashley and Mrs. H. Brodie. Right next door, the candy table, overflowing with colored popcorn and home-made fudge was convened by Mrs. N. Robb.

The Christmas decor display was convened by Mrs. J. Irving.

The vast quantity of decorations was only exceeded by their quality. Beautiful wreaths, candles, driftwood centrepieces, and even a church made out of icing sugar. All this and more was on sale, and the shoppers had an extremely difficult time making their decision.

After those "difficult decisions," it was time for a cup of tea.

The tea room was bright, with touches of Christmas everywhere. Entering through a frame of holly, visitors were surrounded by sprigs of cedar and spruce boughs, covered with tinsel, and centred by poinsettias.

The focal point of the room was the lighted Christmas tree, underneath which were several gifts, just waiting to be opened, backgrounded by a fireplace and a stocking ready to be filled. The main replenishing table was covered by a white crocheted table cloth, with red underlay, centred by a gold bowl of poinsettias flanked on either side by silver candelabras complete with lighted red candles.

Each individual tea table was covered by a white linen cloth and centred by a small red candle and a sprig of cedar and pine cones. The tables were self-serve; each with their own teapot, and plate of appetizers. Tea room conveners were Mrs. F. Smith, Mrs. M. Graham, assisted by units three and eight. Responsible for the lovely Christmas decorations was Mrs. J. Connell.

Mrs. R. Crooks (left) and Mrs. R. Atkins add the finishing touches to a part of the beautiful Christmas display—church made out of icing sugar, surrounded by Christmas trees. The yule decor highlighted the Tabernacle U.C.W. tea held Wednesday afternoon.

With just a little tilt to the left, it looks perfect, mused Mrs. C. Pope, as she tries to decide which hat she likes the best at Tabernacle's Christmas bazaar held Wednesday afternoon.

Community Honors Couple

MOUNTAIN VIEW — On Saturday evening, November 30th, a number of relatives, friends and neighbors gathered in Wesley United Church parlors in Mountain View to honor Mr. and Mrs. L. Poste (nee Jeanne Regensburg, a recent bride and bridegroom.

An address was read by Mrs. R. Snidern and on behalf of the community, the couple were presented with a lovely gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Poste were delighted with the gift and made suitable replies and invited everyone to visit them in their new home. Walter Hamilton of Belleville, formerly of Mountain View also addressed the couple, giving them some excellent advice.

A delicious lunch was served by several of the ladies and all enjoyed a social time.

Officers Installed at St. Columba

Amid gay Christmas decorations and candlelight, members of St. Columba Presbyterian Women held their Christmas meeting and party this week. Mrs. A. Dunsmore, President, was in charge.

A service of lights, depicting the needs of the world at the manger scene in Bethlehem, was led by Mrs. S. W. Gentle. Representing the voices of India, China, a North American Indian and a new Canadian were Mrs. B. Hackett; Mrs. F. Lyon, Mrs. G. Devolin and Mrs. H. Vos. Mrs. R. Blatchford played carols and appropriate music during the service.

Rev. S. W. Gentle, installed the officers for 1969, stressing the need of co - operation on the part of all.

The officers installed were: president, Mrs. B. Hackett; vice - president, Mrs. C. Carlson; secretary, Mrs. J. Burke; treasurer, Mrs. J. Smit; program conveners, Mrs. J. Allen and Mrs. M. Crewson; Glad Tidings secretary, Mrs. F. Lyon; kitchen convener, Mrs. R. Bartlett; news letter, Mrs. R. Brain, nursery, Mrs. E. McLaughlin; friendship and service, Mrs. H. Vos and Mrs. J. Miller; flowers, Mrs. C. Carlson, Mrs. G. Devolin, Mrs. D. Dawson and Mrs. S. Gentle.

During the entertainment hour games were played and carols sung. A buffet dessert was served at tables set around the Christmas tree surrounded by gifts for the Mental Health Association.

Couple Celebrate Thirty Year Union

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam, Mount Pleasant were honored by their family at a dinner, in Havelock, on the occasion of their 30th wedding anniversary.

Later, the entire family gathered at the home of their parents and made presentation of several gifts, after which all enjoyed a social time.

Mr. and Mrs. McAdam were married on December 3, 1938. Mrs. McAdam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burkitt, of Bonarlaw and Mr. McAdam is the son of Mrs. Earl McAdam, of R.R. 3, Stirling, and the late Mr. McAdam.

After Dinner Talk

A group of Czechoslavakian women who have just arrived in Belleville were given a reception by the Argyll and St. Julien chapters of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire last night. Here Mrs. Jarmila Frydl and Mrs. Hadezda Jurena have a chat following the reception.

Top 40 Judge

Disk Jockey In Love With Job

By LINDA GELDART

Headphones in place, the top 40 set to spin on the turntables, all systems go. The "on air" red flashing, voices sing out praises! "It's music man Neil Kirby."

CJBQ's DJ Neil Kirby is a music man. He has to be. Music is his thing, six days a week from 7 until 9 every night, Today's music, the happening sounds of 1968, is what he knows best.

Surrounded by walls of dials, knobs, turntables and tape machines, we talked about music, the show, and music—in that order.

Discussing his unseen audience, Neil explained that contrary to popular belief, they are not all under 16. He gets many requests during the course of the week from young housewives in their early 20s, and even older than that.

"Granted, my audience is composed basically of teenagers, but you also have to remember there are people listening in cars, and of course the out-of-town fans. This means a wide range of ages.

He gauges the reaction to his show as "mostly good". His main aim, though, is to hold his audience till nine.

The music man, who has been in the radio business four years, explained how he puts together a show. He surprised me by saying that it is impromptu, and he likes it that way.

"I would sooner go on cold and do it as it comes along; I never write down what I'm going to say. If you do, you are committed to a script, to paper."

As for the records he does play— the top 40 — these he decides upon himself. He does not follow any specific chart, but records several.

"I listen to what the other stations are playing, and what is on top there and phone requests. I read a lot of music magazines, and using that combination I come up with the top 40 records."

During his show, Neil does not have an engineer to operate the necessary paraphernalia of a radio studio. It's a one-man show all the way. He does admit that operating the switches and announcing can become a bit hectic, "it runs you ragged", but, "there's something about it I like."

Neil has spent three of his four radio years at CJBQ. He has been doing the teen show for nine months now, and loves it. Before he had his own show he did news on FM.

"I want to try everything in the business, and see what I like."

How did it start, this love affair with the airways?

To hear Neil tell it, it is the most natural thing in the world. "I was always listening to a radio, so having a career in this field was, I suppose, my ultimate goal."

The whole thing got started at CHEX in Peterborough, with the help of a friend. It was through this friend, who worked at the station, that Neil got his introduction to the complex world of dials and turntables.

"It was a struggle — I kept begging and bugging. I knew I was a nuisance, but I finally got my chance." It is probably safe to assume he was hired so that he wouldn't continue to bother the personnel.

Although he has no specific training in radio work, that is a university or college course, it does not deter him. "It is a hard nut to crack, almost a form of showbusiness, in a way. Essentially, I thought I think it boils down to who you know, and basic enthusiasm."

The idea of getting "right in the action from the start" learning by doing, rather than by the theory and exams of a college course, appealed more to Neil.

His realization, "you have to get a foot in the door, even part-time, doing anything, that is how you begin regardless of money."

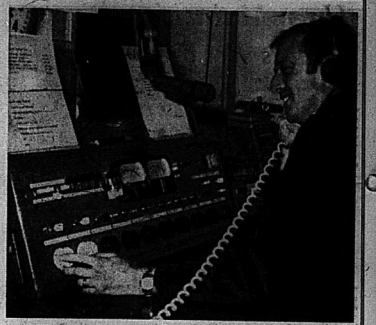
You get the distinct impression he enjoys what he does.

"Yes, I'm happy in what I am doing . . . It's great. Like any adventure to walk in the . . . We eventually got around door every day."

He agreed that the release of the Beatles new album re-asserted the fact they are the best. "No one has copied them and they are talented." He cited the number of contemporary artists who have recorded Beatle songs, and made them classics.

His own preference in groups runs from the Creedence Clear Water Revival, to the hard soul sounds of Wilson Pickett and Aretha Franklin, and, of course, the Beatles.

What does he think of the young people of today, I queried.



"Young people do get involved, those with whom I have had contact are great. It is true," he continued, "there are a lot of good young people, and people who think young. It is all to do with how you think, and you should think young."

Neil is married, and is originally from England, Brighton to be exact. He has been in Canada for 14 years.

During the week, contrary to what most people think, he does work.

He puts in regular hours during the day, recording commercials, listening to new records, doing production, reading and compiling the top 40 in between.

What can be said about Neil Kirby? He said it himself — "It's what I'm doing because it is today's sound . . . radio 1968."

Students Visit Queen's

By JUDY SCHRIEDER

Perhaps the mention of math evokes blurred thoughts of binomials and factor theorems. But for Nicholson students who attended the mathematics conference at Queen's last weekend, the subject consists of much more than just groups of numbers.

One professor, in an effort to show the relation of math to everyday life, stated a way in which mathematics could be used to stabilize society. In the computer building, students were allowed to feed problems into the machines, and if the computer was given sufficient information it came up with the answers.

The Queen's library, containing 21,000 volumes, was one of the most impressive buildings on the campus. Of the seven storeys, the basement aroused the most interest. This section was filled with original manuscripts, written hundreds of years ago, as well as back copies of the Financial Post and Pakistan Times, to name two. But a modern note was found in the antiquity of this collection — many of the manuscripts were also filed on microfilm.

The purpose of the conference was to make students aware of the various courses offered at the university, but the result was even more far-reaching. Nicholson students were impressed with the good-will shown them by Queen's students, as well as the relaxed atmosphere which prevailed throughout the campus.

Sports flash: NCC junior boys defeated Picton 22-20 in a basketball bout Monday. NCC seniors were defeated 31-30.

Term Work Marks Issued at Quinte

By SUE BOARDMAN

Report cards were given out to all grades at Quinte last week. It was the second one for the grade 13s but only the first one for the rest. Since we won't be writing our exams until January, the reports were to give us an idea in how we are doing in our term work. For grades 9 to 12 inclusive, subjects were graded with numbers from zero to four. Four was the highest, then three, and so on.

The basketball season is over for our senior girls' team for another year. They played their last game on Monday, and finished the season in second place in the Bay of Quinte district. Our juniors have had their basketball team and will represent this area in COSSA at Cobourg next weekend.

Although the football season has been over for quite some time, our senior football team held its banquet and dance last Friday night. They were first served their dinner in the restaurant services room and then had a closed dance in the gym.

Student Parliament sponsored the assembly last week and held an open meeting. It's nice to see that everyone's so contented with this year's government, since only one person had a question to be asked. It took place in the days of Louis period. The float that was to be built and entered in the Santa Claus parade will not be entered due to lack of participation and co-operation.

Wednesday the grade 13s put on the assembly. It was almost like a small variety show, and was certainly enjoyed by all. The program consisted of a number of short skits, including a story that took place in the days of Louis XIV, a story on a chemistry class and also a few folk songs.

Well, that's about all for this week — and remember, get your orders in to the Purple Pencil contest before there is no more time left. Give it a try now, and show everyone how talented you are.

Examinations End at BCI

By LEONA WOODS

The cracked halls of BCI are filled with glum faces. If you thought the week before exams was bad, you know now that the weeks after are worse. Papers are coming back thick and fast to the great disappointment of many.

Not even the highly successful, aftermath, (math - what a foul word!) dance sponsored by the Radio Club and featuring the fantastic group the Westbury Union could bring the usually gleeful atmosphere back to the school.

Of course the dampening effect of examination results is the only reason the school has been so quiet lately except for the sale of school Jackets in the front hall — that is, orders are being taken for these handsome garments being retailed at a remarkably low price.

Another edition of the Bruised Banana (for want of a better name) has hit the stands — yellow hot from the Gestetner. At 5 cents a copy, what student can afford to be without one?

Unfortunately the business transactions at BCI are not run as they are in stores — on easy credit terms.

If you buy now, you pay now!

Madoc Students Get Reports

By BETH PRICE

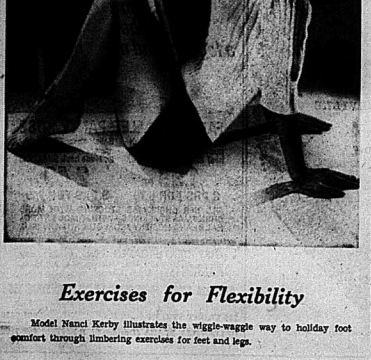
Last week began well for some Centre Hastings High School students — for others it was disastrous. The November reports were distributed Monday.

Senior classes heard a lecture from an officer of the Canadian Armed Forces, who summarized the careers open to men and women in the forces. A film was shown on the life of a cadet and the occupations open to him in the services.

On Friday students viewed a film on car accidents and their results. The goal of the films was to give a young driver an awareness of the power he has chained under him when driving a vehicle.

Drama night, Dec. 6, is approaching. A comedy and two dramas will be presented. Three staff members are directing the plays and the actors are putting great effort into their roles.

Holiday Footnotes



By REBA AND BONNIE CHURCHILL

Holiday Footnotes

Food lovers: Increases an estimated 12 per cent during the holidays. Frequently, feet are stepped on, tripped over or bumped into as you shop, decorate and party. Any wonder those 26 bones in each foot may suddenly demand attention? Take pity, and pamper them by basting on massage. Expert advice avoiding cramped muscles by checking that there's the width of the thumb between big toe and shoe tip. Also, there should be "breathing space" along the sides of boots, so movement is unrestricted and fabric doesn't ride or rub against leg.

A handy way to stimulate circulation, soothe feet and smooth skin, begins by spreading a thin film of petroleum jelly on legs. Use long strokes to apply it to toes, callus sections, and ankles. Switch to a rotating action as you continue up the leg to the knee. As Nanci Kerby illustrates, fingertips, or an activator brush, can be used.

Get those toes out of hiding — wiggle, waggle, wave them. Stand on a book and let them grip the edge of the cover. Press-relax eight times. Once that tingle returns to toes, get to work on the limbs. Sit on floor, place a ruler between ankles, and lift legs. For balance, brace hands behind back. See how high you can raise them. Next, omit ruler; lean back and engage in a scissor - chop movement. Repeat 25 times. How do those weary walkers feel now? Bet you can outdistance an athlete or, more fun, why not go dancing?

Exercises for Flexibility

Model Nanci Kerby illustrates the wiggle-waggle way to holiday foot comfort through limbering exercises for feet and legs.

Hees Maintains Benson Takes Problem Lightly

OTTAWA (CP)—One Conservative MP accused Finance Minister Benson of not taking seriously the problem of unbalance in the public accounts, while another said Mr. Benson would pillage graves to get revenue.

Mr. Benson was subjected to these and other Opposition salties Wednesday as the Commons considered $3.48 spending estimates of the finance department.

George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) said that in the first seven months of the year excess of federal expenditures over revenues was 30 per cent higher than in the same period last year. Forecast budgetary deficit for the fiscal year was $678,000,000.

However, he added, the finance minister did not appear to take this question of "overspending" seriously. "He assures us that everything is going to be all right if only we have confidence in him. In view of the figures that are published year after year and month after month, the Canadian people cannot be anything but greatly alarmed."

Mr. Benson retorted that he took his job seriously indeed. Mr. Hees, minister of trade and commerce in the last Conservative administration, was making "a big fuss about not very much." In emphasizing a $32,000,000 deficit on government operations for October.

Monthly figures were not indicative of the over-all state of governmental finances. The finance minister said the present government had every move to control expenditures than any recent administration. He predicted that in 1969-70, Canada will have a "relatively balanced budget."

Clifford Downey (PC—Battle River) indicted the government on a different count. Its new sales tax, he said, is "one of the most vicious taxes ever evolved."

Where once the maximum tax started at the $2,000,000 level, it now started at $300,000. Though the rate had dropped to 50 per cent from 81 per cent, federal income under the new rate structure will be "very much greater" than under the old.

"My belief is that the minister and his colleagues were so desperate for money cash that they would go anywhere to get it," said Mr. Downey, an Alberta rancher. "In this case they would even pillage graves to get revenue."

It was not unreasonable to say that many of Canada's average family farms, due to booming land values, fall into the $200,000 to $300,000 valuation category.

"... And what family farm can afford to pay a quarter, a third or half of its total value on passing from father to son."

The fact that a farm can pass tax-free to a spouse was of no value so far as keeping a family farm in business was concerned. "The majority of widows would not care to carry on the business in the event of their husband's death."

Steve Otto (L—York East) countered that every civilized country is turning toward a denial of inherited privilege.

At present, 85 per cent of Canada's economic wealth was controlled by 182 families. "Nothing would be better than for at least 30 percent of these family corporations to lose control. If they were to invite young men with ambition and intelligence to take over these corporations, the situation would improve."

The proposed estate tax would "break up the establishment and keep the economy of this country rolling."

Satellite Project Intricate

OTTAWA (CP) — It may be four months before the full picture emerges on Canada's communications satellite project, reliable sources say.

An intricate series of decisions and actions by the cabinet and by Parliament must precede any signal to go ahead with the task of putting a space station aloft to relay voice and picture signals anywhere in the country.

The first step will be the government's reorganization bill, expected to be placed before the Commons next month. This will give legal basis for the new communications department to be headed by Postmaster-General Eric Kierans.

Waiting on his doorstep for decision as communications minister will be the question of the kind of agency to operate the satellite and the extent of its powers.

Informants say only two real alternatives exist for the satellite agency—a completely government corporation or a mixed government-private enterprise effort.

An entirely private company, such as the Trans-Canada Telephone System and CN-CP Communications have proposed, has been ruled out, say informants.

Recommendations on composition of the space agency have been made to the government by Dr. Robert MacIntosh, joint general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in a report commissioned last April.

They have not been made public, partly because Canada's communications needs are not firmly established and partly because the government reorganization bill has been precedence over setting up the satellite agency.

Also up in the air is the question of whether the agency will control both the satellites launched and the ground stations for picking up the signals relayed from it.

The publicly-owned CBC is pressing its case for a say over use of the limited number of broadcast channels that will be available on the satellite and Bell Canada—CN-CP Communications want to be in on the ground stations.

All these decisions must await the reorganization bill and other legislation to establish the space agency. And next in line after they are settled will be what kind of satellite to launch.

The government commissioned two firms—Northern Electric and RCA Victor—to propose domestic communications satellites. The proposals were delivered late last month.

While both were drawn up on the basis of providing six color television channels or 6,000 one-way voice channels, no firm decision has been made whether that is the size to aim at.

Informants say the decision won't necessarily be one proposal or the other. The satellite could be anywhere from a four- to a 12-channel setup.

The general aim is to get a satellite aloft by late 1971 or early 1972.

Informed industry sources say that to meet such a target will require that most of the big decision be made by next May.

Bid to Extend Hospitalization Proves Failure

OTTAWA (CP) — A Winnipeg pharmacist-MP argued in vain Wednesday that the government should include mental hospitals and tuberculosis sanitoria in the federal hospital insurance program.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) made his plea in a private member's motion that was talked out during the time allotted for such debates.

He sought a change in the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act under which the federal government underwrites half the cost of provincial hospital insurance programs. Mental and TB institutions are excluded.

Notice to Employers & Employees

At 12.01 a.m. on January 1st, 1969, the new Ontario Employment Standards Act becomes law

The New Employment Standards Act provides minimum standards for overtime pay, holiday pay and vacation pay; protects against long hours; ensures equal pay for equal work for women workers; sets higher rates of minimum wages.

Ontario's employment standards program is concerned with the economic well-being of the Province's manpower resources. The new Act up-dates and broadens the minimum standards for wages and working conditions to safeguard workers against exploitation and to protect employers against unfair competition based on lower standards.

hours of work

The working hours of an employee shall not exceed eight in the day and 48 in the week. However, under certain conditions a permit to work overtime may be obtained from the department. Employees whose only work is supervisory or managerial are exempted from the hours provisions of the Act. A girl under 18 years shall not be required to work more than six hours overtime each week.

overtime pay

The Act provides that an employee will receive a minimum of one and one-half times his regular wage-rate for any work in excess of the maximum 48 hours per week. In addition to providing premium pay, this requirement is designed to curb the use of excessive overtime.

Special overtime provisions have been established for the following industries and may be obtained by writing the Employment Standards Branch of the Department: Sewer and Watermain Construction; Interurban and Municipal Transport; Local Cartage; Tourist Resort; Restaurant and Tavern; Fruit and Vegetable Processing; Taxi; Ambulance Service; Highway Transport and Road Building.

statutory holidays

A regular, full-time employee and certain categories of part-time employees who work on a statutory holiday must receive a minimum of one and one-half times their regular wage rate. The holidays are Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labour Day and Thanksgiving Day. Substitute holidays may be arranged with the approval of the Director.

equal pay for equal work

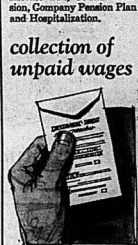
In order to protect the growing segment of women in the labour force the existing legislation covering equal pay for equal work under the Human Rights Code has been strengthened and transferred to the Employment Standards Act. This provision ensures that a woman who does the same job as a man in the same establishment is entitled to the same pay. The question of what is equal work will be determined on the basis of skill, effort, responsibility and working conditions.

THIRD SHIFT.

No girl under 18 years shall work in an establishment between midnight and 6 a.m.

If a woman works on a shift that begins or ends between 12:00 midnight and 6 a.m. her employer must provide transportation from her residence to the job or from the job to her home.

vacations with pay



The Act provides that every employee shall be given an annual paid vacation of at least one week after one year of employment. The vacation pay must not be less than 2% of the total pay received in the year in which the vacation is given. When an employee works for a period less than one year he is entitled to 2% vacation pay for the period worked. After three years of employment, the minimum is two weeks paid vacation and the pay must not be less than 4% of the annual earnings. The Vacation with Pay stamp book system for construction workers will be phased out between January 1, 1970 and June 30, 1970.

protection for homeworkers

Any person doing homework as defined in the new Act is now considered to be an employee and is protected by the legislation.

Employers are required to provide a statement of wages and deductions to each employee at the time wages are paid. It must show: pay period, rate of wages, amount of wages, all deductions and the purpose of each, allowances and the net amount being paid the employee. Deductions include those authorized by the employee and such usual deductions as Unemployment Insurance, Income Tax, Canada Pension, Company Pension Plan and Hospitalization.

collection of unpaid wages

The department may now collect unpaid wages for an employee including the amount of wages due, overtime pay and vacation pay up to a maximum of $1,000. Formerly collection could be made for wages only up to the level of the minimum wage.

NOTE

There are some industries in the province under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government such as banks, airlines, railways etc. These industries are covered by the Canada Labour Standards Code and are not under the jurisdiction of this Act. If you are in doubt which legislation applies to you, call the Employment Standards Branch (Telephone: 365-5251), for information.

The above is only a general summary of the Act. For more specific information regarding the Act and its regulations concerning overtime permits, exemptions for special occupations, etc., contact:

Deputy Speaker Adamant

Trudeau and Privy Council President Shot Down by Liberal

OTTAWA (CP) — Deputy Speaker Hugh Faulkner, Liberal MP for Peterborough, twice shot down Privy Council President Donald Macdonald, government House leader, in the Commons Wednesday.

Mr. Macdonald presented a motion that the Commons hear Bryce Howard, Liberal backbencher for Okanagan Boundary, on a question of privilege.

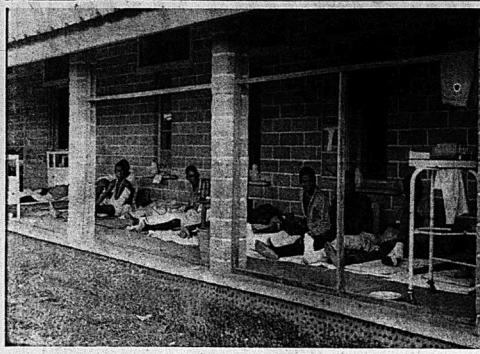
The motion followed Prime Minister Trudeau's appeal to the Commons that Mr. Howard be heard. It was believed to be Mr. Trudeau's first such appeal.

Mr. Faulkner first ruled Mr. Macdonald's motion out of order on the grounds that it had to be in writing.

Mr. Macdonald hastily wrote out a motion at his desk.

Mr. Faulkner immediately ruled it out of order because it was incorrectly drafted.

As a result, Mr. Howard did not get the floor.



The matter arose when Donald MacInnis (PC—Cape Breton-East Richmond), said the public service is working under duress because of threats from Liberal MPs.

He quoted Mr. Howard as saying that he uses threats against cabinet ministers in the Liberal caucus to get action by public servants on things he wants done.

Mr. Howard appeared on the CBC television program Twenty Million Questions Tuesday night.

Mr. MacInnis raised the matter at the end of the question period. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux left the chair after calling the day's regular business and apparently did not see Mr. Howard trying to get the floor.

Under Commons rules, Mr. Howard could not be heard on a matter of privilege at that time unless the Speaker returned to the chair.

Patients Line Up at Biafran Hospital

Wounded soldiers line the veranda at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Umuahia, Biafra. The majority of the hospital's 800 patients were wounded in Biafra successionist war with Nigeria, but the hospital also has a maternity ward and a ward for children suffering from kwashiorkor, the debilitating protein-deficiency disease. Air Canada Conciliator Is Changed

OTTAWA (CP) — A new chairman of the conciliation board in the dispute between Air Canada and about 1,300 of its employees has been named, it was learned Wednesday.

Thomas C. O'Connor, a Toronto industrial relations consultant, will replace Judge Rene Lippe who is ill, a reliable source said.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey told the Commons Wednesday the board will resume hearings in Toronto Friday.

Earlier Wednesday John Hayes, president of the Canadian Air Line Employees Association, said workers are angry at government delays in their dispute and are considering a work slowdown over the holiday season.

BUDGET GROWING

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — In eight years, Alberta will be spending $1,000,000,000 a year on education, says Joe Berlando, co-ordinator of the Alberta Teachers' Association's welfare program. The amount is half again as much as the entire provincial budget for the current year.

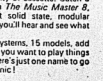
PANASONIC

RS 9000 The Band Wave $259.95* with optional RP 8088 speakers $69.95*

Reel-to-reel, cassette or cartridge. With Panasonic you can play things your way.

The name of the game is choice. And Panasonic goes all out to please by offering all three tape systems—plus 15 different tape recorders and players to handle them.

For the reel-to-reel fan, the choice runs the gamut from easy toting AC or battery powered portables all the way up to hi-fi stereo tape recorders like The Band Wave. It delivers all the sweet sound you paid your good money to hear. 16 watts of it. Full. Rich. Undistorted. In stereo from two built-in full frequency response speakers (50—17,000 cps at 7½ ips). The case for cassettes is very simple.



No reels to thread. No tapes to handle. Instead, life suddenly becomes very uncomplicated. Plunk. Push. Click. And you're recording. Or playing back. Or rewinding. Want to turn on this easy way? Try The Oakwood—a dandy cassette tape recorder that goes anywhere because it's AC or battery powered!

If after all this you're wondering why bother with cartridge tape players, here are a couple of sound reasons. Cartridge tapes, pre-recorded with all your favourite music, offer the thrilling hi-fi stereophonic performance of reel-to-reel with the plunk, push, click simplicity of cassette. Catch a session with The Music Master 8, our 16-watt solid state, modular system, and you'll hear and see what we mean.

Three tape systems, 15 models, add up to this: if you want to play things your way, there's just one name to go buy. Panasonic!

Savings Plans

By KEN WEEKES

What are the features you should look for in a savings plan? Should you save at a bank, buy bonds, or just what? There are over a dozen different ways to save now available. The following will give you some ideas on how to compare the virtues of the various savings institutions.

Certainly one of the first features you will look for in a savings plan is the ease in which you can transfer your assets into cash. This is referred to as liquidity. The most liquid form of savings is keeping your money under the mattress. But obviously the disadvantages are high risk and no earnings. On the other hand, some savings such as life insurance may require several days before you can get cash. Before selecting a form of savings, know how long it would take to turn your savings into cash, should you need it for an emergency.

Of course you will also want safety for your savings. Safety refers to the risk you take in losing your principal. The safest savings are government bonds, the least safe are common stocks. Always check the savings plan to see if your principal is safe if there is danger of losing it.

Because you don't have the use of your money you want it to earn money for you. Earnings refers to the interest rate you will be paid on your savings. In discussing earnings you will run across the word "compounded". It simply refers to the method in which your savings earn interest. Compounded monthly means the interest is added to your principal each month; compounded semi - annually means interest is added every six months and so on. As a result, you get interest on interest as well as interest on your deposit.

Does it make any difference how your interest is compounded? Indeed it does. For compounded semi - annually example, suppose you deposit $1,000 in a savings plan at 4 per cent tomorrow and leave it for five years. At the end of five years you would receive the following amounts: compounded annually; $1,216.65; $1,480.24; compounded quarterly, $1,191.12. The oftener your interest is compounded, the faster your savings will grow.

Convenience in a savings plan is also important. Certainly you do not want to run across the city every time you want to make a deposit. Other conveniences such as hours of service or accepting deposits by mail should also be considered.

Finally, when you withdraw your savings, you will want to know what it will cost you. Some savings plans, such as savings certificates, will charge you a certain fee when you withdraw your savings. These charges on your savings plan can be important features to consider.

Each of the savings facilities offer the above features in varying degrees. Savings accounts in banks offer high liquidity, safety and convenience but have the disadvantage of small earnings. This method is very suitable for short term savings.

Government bonds offer maximum safety, a fair rate of interest, and good liquidity. Very suitable for long term savings but do not offer any hedge against inflation.

Stocks and mutual funds may have the advantage of high returns but are much lower in safety. These will be discussed in a later article.

Generally, if your objective is short term savings, look for safety, convenience, no charges, and liquidity. For long term savings look for safety and earnings. In most cases if you want low risk, you must accept low earnings.

Before choosing a savings facility, understand all aspects of the account. Any bank, trust company, credit union, and so on, will provide any information you require on how to save your dollars.

Strictly Personal

Study of Power Needed

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

Within the lifetime of our children, not only man's environment but man himself will become increasingly controlled and manipulated by the new forces of biochemistry and molecular biology, changing both our personal and our genetic natures, with unprecedented possibilities for creating either a heaven or a hell on earth.

The great study that has yet to be done — calling on the genius of a Marx or Darwin or Freud — is on the "pathology of power" in human affairs; a study clearly delineating the limits, the risks and the dangers of social and political power, and helping us to differentiate between the healthy, productive use and the sick, destructive use of power.

• • •

The traditional cliche of the U.S. as a "melting-pot" has always been a great misnomer: there has been no true melting-pot in American cities and the various ethnic groups have maintained their identities and dual allegiances for generations, trying to get as much as possible out of both worlds at once.

• • •

Cultural lag between the generations is nowhere more ludicrous and pathetic than in the modern father who proudly offers his college-age child a drink of liquor on equal terms — when the child has already gone far beyond liquor to hallucinogens!

How obsolete, in these days when decisions must be made with furious urgency, to wait four years for an election, so that the sense of the country can be felt and policies turned around — when, using a telephone system hitched to a transistor computer, we could have "voting machines" registering popular sentiment at least once a month as regulatory "feedback" to high government officials.

The Ruhr river, flowing through West Germany's most industrialized region, is less polluted than it was 20 years ago, since a co-operative agreement among 250 towns and 2,200 industries along the river to charge "effluent fees" to those causing pollution: why can't American river towns begin to do the same before it is too late?

• • •

The best and briefest description of the conflict that racks the church today was expressed by the Rev. E. Stanley Jones last month. "An individual gospel without a social gospel is a soul without a body and a social gospel without an individual gospel is a body without a soul. One is a ghost and the other is a corpse — you can take your choice."

• • •

As long as we continue our preposterous policy of undertaxing land and over-taxing improvements, our problems will grow grimmer and our cities continue to decay, while speculators get rich and homeowners move away.

Paris Workers Walk off Jobs In Token Strike

PARIS (Reuters) — Thirty thousand Renault auto workers began a five-hour token strike today in the first big challenge to the government since the May-June revolts.

About 30,000 other workers were expected to walk out during the day at three other factories of the state-owned auto company.

Before the strike began, the National Assembly voted 438 to 4 for a bill giving labor unions official recognition in all firms with more than 50 employees.

Union officials also will be allowed time off the job for organization activities in companies with more than 500 workers. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The first workers to strike, at the huge Renault plant at Billancourt in suburban Paris, were leaders of labor unrest in May and June. The workers claim the company has not honored agreements to improve working conditions.

Other Renault factories are expected to stop work at Tat le Mains, Cleon and Sandouville in northern France and at Flins, a centre of labor discontent west of Paris.

The strikes will vary in length from factory to factory. Labor union leaders view them as a warning to the government not to implement parts of a new austerity program that allegedly would wipe out gains won by workers after the spring crisis.

Although student leaders called off demonstrations in support of workers, about 50 students, shivering in the morning cold, gathered outside the main gate of the Billancourt factory.

Several riot police buses waited about 500 yards from the factory, built on an island in the Seine River.

Leaders of the French Students Union said fives would not demonstrate after they were asked to stay away from striking factories by officials of the Communist-led Confederation Generale du Travail, the largest labor union group.

However, it was expected that some radical students would not listen to orders from any Communist officials, many of whom condemned students at the beginning of the university revolts in Paris in the spring.

The students have called Communist trade unionists "bourgeois," accusing them of forcing workers to return to work under compromising positions.

Million and Half On Strike in Rome

ROME (Reuters) — Rome and its surrounding province were paralysed today as an estimated 1,500,000 workers went on a 24-hour protest strike.

Romans were without newspapers, factory and farm workers stayed home and trains stopped running, cutting vital transportation links between north and south Italy.

All schools were closed while hospital doctors and nurses restricted themselves to treating only urgent cases. Gas and electricity cuts also were planned at various times during the day.

The strike, over wage claims, was called by three giant Italian labor union federations and came after weeks of bitter labor and student unrest, brought to a head by the police killing of two Sicilian farmhands earlier this week.

Fresh clashes between police and workers in several Italian cities Wednesday raised fears of renewed violence during the Rome shutdown.

Protest demonstrations were planned during the day and thousands of students were expected to take part.

In the midst of the turmoil, Premier-designate Mariano Rumor continued efforts to form a new government to take over from the outgoing caretaker ministry which resigned 16 days ago.

The latest outburst of violence was touched off by the shooting of Giuseppe Scibilia, 45, and Angelo Signora, 24, at Avola near Syracuse.

More than 30,000 persons stood in pouring rain as the two men were buried Wednesday in Avola, a poverty-stricken village on the east Sicilian coast.

Throughout Italy hundreds of thousands of workers stopped work for varying periods to commemorate the deaths and anti-police feeling brought near-riots in Florence and Naples.

Left-wing students joined in with shouts of "Police assassins" and 'No to police brutality" as they fought with police.

All teaching was halted at a science college at Genoa as 3,000 students occupied a hall of residence.

In Milan and Turin, students marched through the streets demanding more say in the running of their courses and better teaching facilities.

The stock exchange in Milan, Italy's industrial and financial capital, was closed for two days.

Canada Will Maintain NATO Strength at Least Until 1970

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Cadieux made it clear Wednesday that Canada intends to maintain its present military strength in Europe at least until January, 1970.

In a Commons reply to the Conservative defence spokesman, J. Angus MacLean, he said such an intention was implied in testimony he gave Tuesday to the House committee on defence and external affairs.

The defence minister told the committee:

The forum where the superpowers' interests most closely impinge on each other is Europe, and hence Europe is the geographical region where Canada's security is most in jeopardy.

"Thus, Canada's security is very closely interlocked with the security of Europe."

Opposition Leader Stanfield asked Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday whether Mr. Cadieux was stating government policy when he said Europe is where Canada's security is most in jeopardy.

The prime minister replied that Mr. Cadieux was "stating a very important viewpoint."

Mr. MacLean asked the defence minister how his statement on maintenance of force levels in Europe could be reconciled with an earlier statement by Mr. Trudeau that Canada could withdraw from NATO in 1969.

Mr. Cadieux said his understanding was that the prime minister had stated Canada could exercise an option to "give notice" of its withdrawal if it so wished.

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet Union's No. 1 hockey team trounced Canada 6-0 Wednesday in the final game of a four-team international round-robin tournament.

The victory was the third in a row for the premier Russian team, giving it a maximum six points and the championship.

The Soviet No. 2 team tied Finland 2-2 and finished second with three points. Finland had two points and Canada was in last place with one point, garnered by tying Finland 2-2 on Monday.

AND THAT MAKES 700 — Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings follows through as he scores his 700th goal in his NHL career Wednesday night in Pittsburgh. The 700th came in the first period against the Pittsburgh Penguins. At right is Pittsburgh's Leo Boivin. (AP Wirephoto)

Penguins' Binkley Howe's 700th Prey

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With one quick flick of his powerful wrists, Gordie Howe reached a plateau Wednesday night that he may never have to share with any other National Hockey League player.

The Detroit Red Wings star blasted a 30-foot shot past Pittsburgh Penguin goaltender Les Binkley for the 700th regular-season goal of his career.

The goal put Howe 156 ahead of his closest rival, Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens, who retired in 1960. Possibly the only player with even a remote chance of matching Howe's feat is Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks who has 430 goals.

Howe's goal sparked the Red Wings to a 7-2 victory against Pittsburgh. Officials stopped the game after the historic goal and presented Howe with the puck while 4,451 Pittsburgh fan applauded.

In other games, New York Rangers downed Montreal Canadiens 4-2 to move into first place in the Eastern Division. Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Minnesota North Stars 4-2, Los Angeles Kings took Philadelphia Flyers 3-1 and Chicago Black Hawks and St. Louis Blues tied 2-2.

Howe, 40, said the goal "took a little weight off my back." But he said the pressure to get No. 700 was not as great as that he faced in trying to match Richard's record.

The Detroit right winger said he would definitely play again next season.

Nick Libbett scored two goals for the Red Wings and single goals went to Bruce MacGregor, Gary Unger, Bob Baun and Danny Lawson. Keith McCreary and Billy Harris replied for Pittsburgh.

Howe's goal, which came at 7:13 of the opening period and tied the score at 1-1, came on the end of a three-way passing play with Frank Mahovlich and Alex Delvecchio drawing assists. Howe was unscreened in front of the net and he drilled it past the partially screened Binkley.

The Rangers' victory, helped by two goals from Jean Ratelle, moved New York one point ahead of the Canadiens.

Vic Hadfield and Ron Stewart scored the other Ranger goals while Jacques Lemaire and Bobby Rousseau connected for Montreal.

Montreal coach Claude Ruel refused to blame fill-in goaltender Ernie Wakely for the loss. Wakely was recalled from Cleveland of the American Hockey League because Rogatien Vachon is out with an injured hand and Gump Worsley has a nervous condition.

"Wakely played well enough, but a goalie can't do much when loose pucks are left lying all around and nobody on the defence takes charge," Ruel said.

The Rangers outshot the Canadiens 27-25. It was the outstanding work of Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin, however, that kept the Canadiens from holding on to first place before a home-town crowd of 16,633.

Dave Keon scored two goals for Toronto in its triumph before 12,337 at Minneapolis. Norm Ullman and Mike Walton scored the other Maple Leaf goals and Wayne Connelly and Jean-Paul Parise replied for Minnesota.

The win ended a five-game winless streak for Toronto and ran Minnesota's winless streak to eight games.

St. Louis, which holds a 10-point margin over runner-up Los Angeles in the Western Division, scored two goals midway through the final period to earn its tie.

Ab McDonald and Gary Sabourin collected the important third-period goals for the Blues and Red Berenson scored the other St. Louis tally. Jim Pappin, Doug Mohns and Eric Nesterenko were credited with Chicago goals.

The tie, watched by 14,397 St. Louis fans, dropped the Hawks into fifth place in the Eastern Division—one point behind Toronto and two ahead of Detroit.

Gordie Howe's HOCKEY

There is, I'm afraid, a sad lack of imagination in modern hockey.

Imagination like Punch, Toe, The Cat, The Eel, Turk, Bootnose, Boom Boom, Rocket, Blinkey and Yogi.

There's a woeful lack of nicknames in hockey anymore and I really don't know the reason. Perhaps writers are a little short on imagination. Perhaps, hockey players themselves are short in the same area.

Nicknames sometimes are applied to the obvious. Like in the case of Red Kelly, and Red Sullivan, a pair of redheads.

Others are more intriguing. Like Toe Blake. Toe's nickname dates back to when he was a schoolboy. His sister had trouble pronouncing his name of Hector. She called him Hectue. It didn't take his schoolmates long to shorten this to Toe. And it stuck.

Turk Broda's colorful nickname dates away back, too. When he was just starting in organized hockey, the youngsters teased him about his freckles. He had plenty. They said he was speckled like a turkey's egg. Soon he was called Turkey and this was shortened to Turk.

Punch Imlach picked up his nickname in a hockey game in Windsor. He was knocked unconscious and somebody said he was punchy. He was soon Punch to his teammates.

Our manager, Sid Abel, had the nickname Bootnose hung on him by a photographer. The photographer found a similarity between Sid's prominent nose and the arch of a boot. Or so the story goes.

The Cat, of course, is Emile Francis, of the New York Rangers. He would pounce on pucks back during his playing days as a goalie in the National Hockey League. The Eel is a guy who still torments the Detroit Red Wings. Camille (The Eel) Henry, now with the St. Louis Blues.

Blinkey? Oh, that's me.

Corporation Sought For Hapless Nationals

RIVERS, Man. (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has been working for two years to establish a non-profit corporation to operate Canada's national team, Earl Dawson, acting CAHA president, said Wednesday.

"We agreed long ago that the only way to get the best possible team to represent Canada was to get Canadians behind it," Dawson said.

He was commenting in an interview on a statement Tuesday by Health Minister John Munro that the federal committee on amateur sports will ask hockey officials about the corporation idea next week.

Dawson, appointing acting president on the resignation earlier this year of Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, Ont., registered annoyance that the government seems to be taking credit for the corporation proposal.

He added that after meetings with the committee next week in Ottawa, the CAHA will ask for a quick answer from Munro on what financial aid the team can expect for the next two seasons.

In September, Dawson said, the committee met president John Wintermeyer of the Canadian National Hockey Foundation, which had been established to administer hockey scholarships with federal and private financial aid.

In August, the CAHA presented its 1967-68 budget to the advisory council on physical fitness and amateur sports and it was held up.

Teachers Top Quinte League

Undefeated Belleville Teachers trounced Picton 77-46 and remained alone in first place atop the Bay of Quinte Intermediate "C" basketball league.

The victory was the third in a row for the Teachers who led 40-18 at halftime and were never threatened.

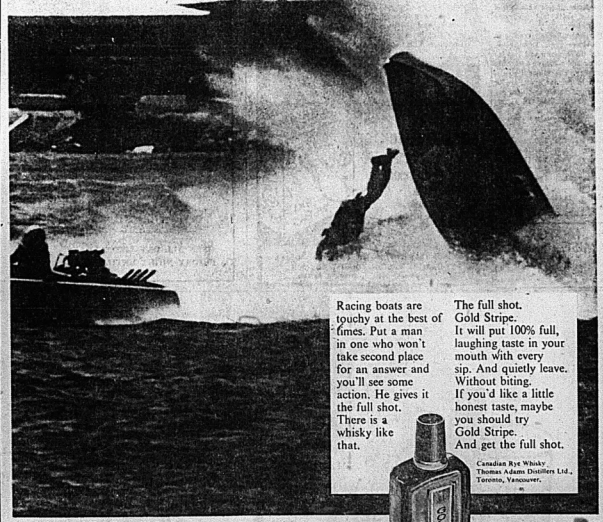
Bill Latchford hooped 19 points for Picton and Bob Munn added 10.

In Tuesday night action Cobourg climbed into second place by edging Belleville Aces 67-66 in Cobourg.



Cobourg now has four points on two wins and one loss while the Aces are in the league cellar without a win in two games to date.

Having a Ball

Prince Edward Collegiate guard Rick Walmsley looks for teammates after stealing the ball in an exhibition game won 31-30 by the Picton seniors over Belleville's Nicholson Catholic College. Picton Hoopsters Face Gym Shortage

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Sportswriter
(Fifth in a Series)

The basketball coaches of Prince Edward Collegiate, at Picton, are prepared for a slow start this year by their teams in the three divisions of the seven-team Bay of Quinte Class "AA" basketball league. The teams lack experience and will suffer from a shortage of practice time until the school's second gym is ready for use after Christmas.

The senior squad had a 4-6 record last year and there are only two holdovers available.

Senior coach Bill Latchford will rely heavily on jump-shooting guard Max Burleigh and rebounding forward Peter Rigby in the coming season.

The other senior starters will be 6-foot-4-inch centre Wayne Coward, guard Rick Walmsley and forward Ken Parks. Paul Heath, Steve Martin and Craig Fredericks will be available in reserve.

Coach Latchford said: "I expect that we'll start the season slowly. A completely new offence has to be learned. Because of inexperience no elaborate system can be used until several games have been played."

Junior coach Bob Munn has only three holdovers from last year's squad which won only two games of 12.

"We've got some talent, but we're inexperienced and it will take a little while to fit the pieces together," he said.

"We'll play man-to-man and shift to a 1-2-2 zone occasionally on offence."

Guards Joe Burley and Blaine McLeod, forwards Dennis Bond and Paul Lockyer and centre Bill Barrett will comprise the junior squad's starting five.

Vying for reserve spots are David Rigby, Allen Dick, Dave Haney, Paul Cory, Dave Matthies, Dennis Howard, Larry Ferguson, Allan Dunlop, Brian Rutter and David Ferrion.

The Bantam squad is coached by Don Cummings, who also claims a lack of experienced players. "We lack height, but we do have a good turnout this year. I'm afraid we won't be one of the strongest teams this year, so we'll be building for next year," he added.

Holdover Kevin Dockrill, a 6-foot centre, will be the backbone of this year's squad.

Limestoners Drub Picton

A five-goal second period outburst enabled Kingston Merchants to rout Picton Merchants 9-1 in a Lakeshore Intermediate hockey game in Kingston last night.

Terry Landon opened the scoring for Kingston at 1.16 of the first period, and the score remained 1-0 until 4.45 of the second period when Les Colligan scored the first of his three goals.

The deluge began and Rick Eaton, Winston Dowdell, Wally Travis, and Terry Landon with his second of the night, all scored to give Kingston a commanding 6-0 lead.

Jim Stinson added a goal for Kingston in the final period and Les Colligan picked up his final two goals. Jim Guernsey replied for Picton at 7.54 of the final frame to avert a shutout defeat.

Baseball Bombshell Drops

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I don't think the owners think we're serious," said Pittsburgh pitcher Jim Bunning. "We're trying to convince them that we are."

The Major League Players Association dropped a bombshell into the serene midst of the annual winter baseball meetings Wednesday when it asked players not to sign 1969 contracts until a dispute over radio and television receipts is settled.

In their statement—signed by about 100 players and read to a news conference by Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association—the players accused some owners of exerting unfair pressure to get players to sign contracts.

"Young players have been told to sign now or play in the minor leagues next year," Miller said. "Others . . . have been told that they will never get the necessary five years of service (needed to qualify for a pension) unless they sign."

"Veterans have been told that baseball has a long memory, and if they refuse to sign now, they should forget about staying in baseball after their careers have ended."

Said Warren Giles, president of the National League:

"I can't believe it. I'm not saying anybody's lying, but I know of no instances of threats being made."

Bunning, player representative of the Pirates, said that "A lot of players who are indebted to their ball clubs have been threatened to sign or else. A lot of players borrowed money to tide them over the winter."

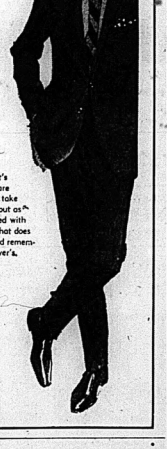
Said Jerold C. Hoffberger, an owner of Baltimore Orioles and member of the owners' player-relations committee:

Blefary Dealt to Astros

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four trades were completed at the annual baseball meeting Wednesday including one that sent Curt Blefary, former Rookie of the Year for Baltimore, to Houston.

The five-player deal, one of three made by the Astros during the day, sent pitcher Mike Cuellar to the Orioles along with minor league infielders Elijah Johnson and Enio Hernandez. Baltimore also surrendered John Mason, a minor league outfielder.

The Astros traded third baseman Bob Aspromonte to Atlanta for utility man Orlando Martinez and sent outfielder Dick Simpson to New York Yankees for relief pitcher Dooley Womack.



The Yanks also traded outfielder Andy Kosco to Los Angeles for pitcher Mike Kekich.

Blefary was Rookie of the Year in 1963 when he hit .300 with 22 home runs. Last year he slipped to .200 and 15 homers while playing catcher and the outfield.

Canadian Ski Patrol Campaigns To Clear 'Abominables' From Slopes

TORONTO (CP) — A campaign to remove the yeti from Ontario ski slopes has been mounted by the Canadian Ski Patrol System. If it works, the program may spread across the country.

Yeti is the Sherpa word for the abominable snowman, legendary monster of the Tibetan hills—and abominable I is it about sums up the way the CSPS feels about ill-prepared skiers.

So the CSPS has had posters drawn by Canadian cartoonist Ben Wicks warning "Look out for Yetis" and plans to distribute them through most of the 100 commercial ski areas in the province.

The CSPS definition of a yeti is a skier who "wears loose or floppy clothing that gets caught in ski tows; is always out of condition; never takes a ski lesson; schusses the hill colliding with skiers and trees; stops in the middle of trails; eats either too much or too little before skiing and never takes a rest when tired."

In the same category is the skier who uses dangerous equipment.

"Skiing is safe with precautions," says Harvey Lennox, an industrial advertising man who is director of ski safety for Ontario.

"We could reduce the accident rate 85 per cent if people would take a few lessons and buy good equipment, tailored to their budget. It doesn't have to be expensive."

In the last six years, ski patrol volunteers have—while on the slopes—dressed some 15,000 accident victims. The key question is "have you ever had a lesson?"

The usual answer, says Lennox, is "no."

"We have done a control study apart from a computer study done on accident reports and found that to avoid injuries a skier should first of all be in condition before going out to ski; he should take lessons, and he should invest in proper equipment with particular care in the matter of boots and bindings.

"You can rent good stuff, but make sure it's from a reputable shop and that it's fitted properly.

"Lessons cost $4 or $5 each and a beginner should be skiing reasonably well after two or three class lessons. Take a day or two off after the first couple of lessons and practise what you have learned before going back for more lessons," Lennox advises.

Lennox and the CSPS hope to get the message across with the yeti posters. So far there are six, each classifying one species of the monster:

—The long-tailed yeti, gets caught in tows. Tail resembles long,scarf or floppy clothing.

—Yetipotamus, misses his pre-season exercise and likes to get in shape on the slopes.

—Heavy-lidded or afternoon yeti, irregular feeder. Either eats no lunch or too much. Seldom rests in the afternoon except when hospitalized.

—Yeti cub, still wet behind the ears. Usually found in hospitals or on stretchers.

—The buzzard yeti, soars from an uphill position and preys on downhill skiers. Noted for unusually poor vision.

—Tortoise yeti, hibernates in a downhill position—very short life expectancy.

Belinsky's Playboy Antics Don't Deter Cardinals in Draft

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bo Belinsky enjoys surfing in Hawaii, shooting pool, and becoming engaged to beautiful women.

Now and then, when he has nothing better to do, he doesn't mind playing baseball. So why would St. Louis Cardinals, defending champions of the National League, draft such an unorthodox character?

The obvious answer seems to be that the Cardinals are worried about a lack of depth in their pitching staff. Left-hander Larry Jaster went to Montreal Expos in the expansion draft, righthander Wayne Granger was traded, and right-hander Dave Giusti was claimed by San Diego Padres in the expansion draft.

The Cardinals only have about seven established major league pitchers left, and that may not be enough in these days of pitching dominance.

Red Schoendienst, the Cardinal manager, explained why St. Louis spent $25,000 to draft Belinsky from the Houston Astros' organization.

"All the people in our scouting department felt he had the best chance. We consider him a big protection for us. He could be a spot starter or relieffer."

The comments sounded similar to those made by Houston officials when the Astros drafted the 25-year-old Belinsky two years ago. It wasn't long before Houston became fed up with the colorful left-handed pitcher.

He posted an unimpressive 3-9 record with Houston in 1967, and seemed to have only a passing interest in baseball.

When Belinsky was with California Angels he seemed more interested in chasing curves (mainly actress Mamie Van Doren's) than in throwing them.

Then he was traded to Philadelphia. But it was the same old story, Fillies, not Phillies, were his prime concern.

In the spring training at Cocoa, Fla., last year, Belinsky was at it again. He left the Astros in a huff when management denied him permission to stay out late one Saturday night on a date with a former Playboy magazine "Playmate of the Year."

The Astros finally assigned Belinsky to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League—Hawaii is his favorite fanplace.

His romance gradually ended, and Belinsky began to concentrate on baseball. He had a 9-14 record and a 2.94 earned-run average.

He also pitched the second no-hitter of his career. The first was with the Angels in 1962.

Then he did a funny thing. He decided to play winter baseball in Venezuela.

That decision was a little out of step with most of Belinsky's previous actions. And maybe the Cardinals decided that the weary-hatred southpaw had matured and was ready to settle down.

It would be rather a shame if the Cardinals were right and Bo Belinsky became a downright boring guy. He is one of the few legitimate characters left in baseball.

Perhaps it might be best for all concerned if Belinsky could concentrate enough on baseball to stay in the major leagues but still pursue his other interests vigorously enough to create the odd jookbert.

Union Not Just Expediency of Dying Church

Canadian in Biafra

Nurse Dianne North poses on the grounds of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Umuahia, Biafra. Graduate of Toronto Western Hospital and Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., she went to Nigeria in 1964 as a CUSO volunteer. She returned in 1967 on contract directly to the hospital. (CP Photo)

OTTAWA (CP) — Is union between the Anglican Church of Canada and the United Church an expedient to keep a dying church going?

This was asked Wednesday night at a public meeting called by the general commission studying union of the two churches.

"I'm not prepared to accept that the church is dying," said Dr. A. B. B. Moore, president of Victoria University, Toronto. "I think it is a live church keeping itself from dying."

Dr. Moore, co-chairman of the three-day meeting of the commission that began Wednesday, said that if union is being used as a device for survival "then we may as well forget about it."

Chairman of the public meeting attended by both Anglican and United Church lay members and clergy was Arnold D. P. Heeney, the former Canadian ambassador to the United States and now chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission.

Most Rev. William L. Wright, Archbishop of Algoma and co-chairman of the Commission meetings here, said the purpose of union is not a "striving for a pan-Protestantism" but a search toward the unity of the entire Christian church.

He said also he does not believe that "unity can be divorced from truth or holiness."

The archbishop said he is not discouraged by efforts for union because "I believe we're making progress."

The Anglican system of bishops is seen as an important factor in the progress of union talks and Archbishop Wright said he hopes there will be an impartial assessment of the office of bishop.

"The United Church has accepted some constitutional form of episcopacy . . . but I do hope and pray that there will be an impartial presentation of the office, the nature, the function of a bishop in the church of God. . . ."

Dr. Moore, who with Archbishop Wright made opening statements to the public meeting, said the goal of present negotiations is organic union.

This did not mean there was no concern with a wider union but the immediate aim was for a church that is "open to the world it seeks to serve."

The goal of union, Dr. Moore said, is a new manifestation of the church "not merely the reconstructing of a church that carries the freight of the past."

Archbishop Wright was asked about intercommunion of the Anglican and United churches and accused of waffling by one questioner at the meeting.

The archbishop said there already is limited intercommunion but it was not yet time for complete intercommunion. The Anglican Church "must not do something at the top level that will be misunderstood at the local level."

Alberta's E.C. Manning Bids Farewell To Party He Has Led for 25 Years

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning bade farewell Wednesday night to the Social Credit party he has led for 25 years with a call to respond to the challenge of "a whole new era of fundamental change."

After greeting Mr. Manning's last public address as premier with a standing ovation, the Alberta Social Credit League today turned to the task of selecting his successor.

The names of six candidates were to be placed formally in nomination at the afternoon session.

There were no unexpected additions or withdrawals when nominations closed Wednesday. The field consisted of Walter Buck, member of the legislature for Clover Bar; Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart; A. J. Hooke, minister of lands and forests; Ray Reierson, minister of education and labor; Municipal Affairs Minister Harry Strom and Highways Minister Gordon Taylor.

Tonight, in marked contrast to the quiet caucus of MLA's that chose Mr. Manning 25 years ago, Jubilee Auditorium will be the scene of organized demonstrations on behalf of the candidates before they make their campaign speeches.

Each candidate will be limited to a total of 25 minutes for his demonstration and speech.

The three-day convention ends Friday night when 1,700 voting delegates choose the new leader.

Delegates Wednesday spent the first of two days dealing with resolutions submitted by constituency organizations on a variety of topics and discussing proposed amendments to the constitution and bylaws of the Social Credit League.

At a noon-hour panel discussion, the leadership candidates exchanged views with representatives of Alberta Indians and Metis.

The evening belonged to Mr. Manning.

In an address he described as his 3,497th since taking office, he outlined the developments in technology and sociology with which his successor would have to deal.

"These new challenges are more exciting and will have a greater impact on human destiny than the physical challenge that motivated the explorers and adventurers of the past," he said.

The 60-year-old premier asked the party to choose a course that kept faith with Social Credit tradition but recognized "that loyalty to our principles and our past is valuable only if it motivates us to face, and successfully solve, the many problems of the present and future."

Anti-war Leaders Say Police Endeavored to Cause Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leader of the anti-war demonstrators who fought with authorities in the streets of Chicago during the Democratic national convention says police undercover agents tried to spur the protesters to violence.

David Dellinger, chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, Wednesday told a congressional group investigating the Chicago disorders that the police agents tried to blur the purpose of the demonstrators by urging them to use force.

Dellinger, called for a second day of testimony today before a subcommittee of the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities, also said he had appealed to the protesters not to fight even "when police brutally attacked us."

"My position has always been to avoid violence and to avoid provocation."

There was a brief flurry before the hearing actually started Wednesday when Yippie leader Jerry Rubin appeared outside the room dressed in Santa Claus suit and carrying a toy gun. He was ordered kept out by Chairman Richard Ichord (Dem. Mo.).

Rubin, who showed up at hearings last October wearing a bandoleer and war paint, told reporters his latest costume was typical of the committee, which he described as "a total circus."

Dellinger said he advocated "revolutionary change, and I use this in the form of drastic or basic rather than I should go out and kill you or you me."

As a pacifist, Dellinger said he could understand American, Vietnamese, Cuban and black patriots who feel it necessary to resort to violence "to throw off oppressive force."

Dellinger condemned the "imperialist United States for fighting a war of example in Vietnam." He also said he condemned the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia while in Chicago but said this wasn't widely publicized.

He suggested additional inquiry be made into assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and Negro leader Malcolm X.

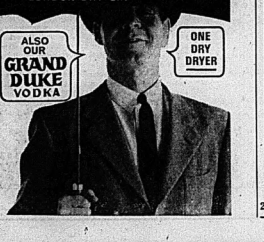
He called the Warren commission report, which said it found no plot in the slaying of President John F. Kennedy, "a snow job to try and pacify the American people."

Special Body Urged To Study Strike Ban

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a federal committee on labor-management relations has recommended creation of an independent commission to designate the services or industries in which a strike would be against the public interest.

The newspaper says the proposal is contained in a report of a four-man committee headed by Dean H. D. Woods of McGill University and due to be made public early next year.

The committee has been studying industrial relations problems for more than two years. Other committee members are John Crispo of the University of Western Ontario and Abbe Gerard Dion of Laval University.



The newspaper says the new body would be known as the public interest disputes commission and would have the power to prescribe a procedure if the parties failed to agree in a labor dispute involving an industry considered vital to public interest.

Once a strike is in progress in an industry that is essential, the government could call on the commission to advise on procedures for ending the dispute. The commission could recommend a wide range of measures from seizure of the plant to compulsory arbitration.

Decision to act on recommendations for ending such a strike would be left to Parliament and thus would be open for debate in the Commons, the newspaper says.

Labor and management, in such instances, would be required to follow special procedures—ranging from mediation to imposed settlement through arbitration—in trying to reach agreement.

Councillors Elected in Deseronto

DESERONTO — It was an "off" year for elections in Deseronto, as some officials hold their offices for two years. This year voting was to decide on three councillors, one Public Utilities Commission member, and a member of the new County Board. Morton Cummings was returned by acclamation to the P.U.C. when Percy Brooks turned down the nomination.

Elected as councillors were John A. (Jack) Layfield, heading the polls with 265 and George Lyond with 249. Both are newcomers to council. Mrs. Dorothy McCullough received 215 votes, making her the only woman councillor Deseronto has ever had, for a second two-year term.

Defeated were William Higgins, a member of this year's council, with 188 and two young men, Keith Brooks, with 165 votes, and Wayne Brant, with 148. Retaining their seats for one more year are: Mayor James W. Skinner; Reeve Donald Armitage, and councillors Edward Gordanier, Clayton Brooks and William Saunders.

Bruce Pratt received strong support from Deseronto as a member of the County School Board, with a vote of 533.

Trustees, Council Elected

TWEED — Barrie Township in northern Frontenac County, voted Monday for school trustees, but the election for municipal council was held November 30.

The advance poll gave Thomas Neal the honor of being the first reeve to achieve re-election.

Mr. Neal won by a vote of 132 over James Hill who received 116 votes. Mr. Hill was attempting a comeback, following his defeat by Mr. Neal in the year 1966.

Councillors elected at this election on Saturday were: Floyd Meeks, 147 votes; Miller Black, 131; William Wise, 114, and Harvey Brooks 126. Mr. Meeks and Mrs. Wise are former councillors, while Mr. Black and Mr. Brooks were members of the 1967-68 council.

Defeated council candidates were: Charles Good, 99; Oscar Lemke, 70. and Mrs. Eleanor Nowell, 43. Mr. Lemke was seeking re-election.

Councillor Donald Perry did not seek re-election.

Nudists Win Case

LOS ANGELES (Reuters) — The appellate department of the Los Angeles Superior Court has upheld the right of Los Angeles and Hollywood residents to walk around nude on their private property.

The three-man court ruled Wednesday that a Los Angeles County law which prohibits "exposure of private parts in the presence of two or more persons of the opposite sex" is invalid because it deals in a lawmaking field which belongs to the state.

The judges upheld a ruling by a Malibu court that 11 men and 11 women who were arrested nude on a North Hollywood property called Elysium Fields last summer, committed no offence.

Union Nationale and Liberals Split Two Quebec Byelections

QUEBEC (CP) — The governing Union Nationale party and the opposition Liberals each won a legislative assembly seat Wednesday in two byelections likely to provoke reactions in the nationalist wings of both parties.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, 43, got what Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand described as "an unquestionable vote of confidence" in Bagot, held for 22 years by the late premier Daniel Johnson.

And lawyer William Tetley, 43, received what Liberal Leader Jean Lesage called "a great victory" in Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace, formerly held by Liberal Eric Kierans, now postmaster-general.

The government's two-seat working majority in the 108-seat assembly, soon to be known as the National Assembly, remains intact. Standings are; Union Nationale 55; Liberals 49; Independent 3; vacant 1.

Despite the apparent political status quo, the byelection results could provoke internal reactions among nationalist factions of both parties.

The election of Mr. Cardinal, former dean of law at the University of Montreal, has been eagerly awaited by the handful of Union Nationale nationalists who recently revolted against Mr. Bertrand's conduct in NDG.

They successfully argued within the Union Nationale caucus that Mr. Bertrand's campaign to win English-speaking support in NDG was a futile gesture bordering on betrayal of the party's "Quebec first" line.

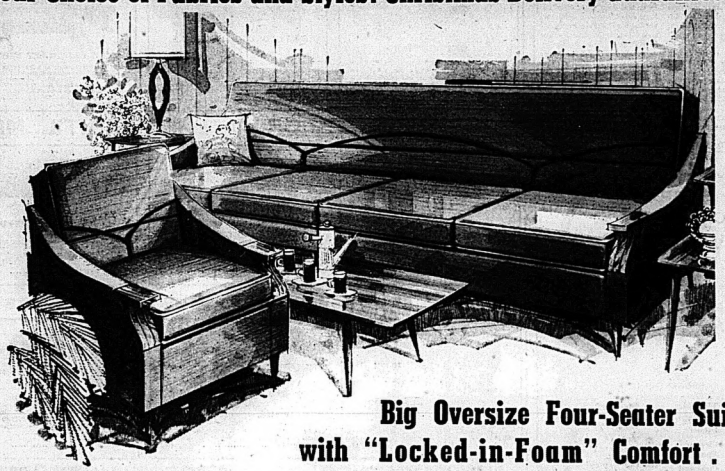
Their strength became apparent when Mr. Bertrand was forced to announce delay in linguistic legislation that would protect Quebec's English-speaking minority.

This group may eventually promote Mr. Cardinal as a contender for the party leadership, held on an interim basis by Mr. Bertrand until the party organization decides if and when a leadership convention should be held.

In NDG, Mr. Tetley attracted 16,675 votes in a two-way fight with John Lynch-Staunton, 38, an insurance executive and Montreal city councillor who gathered 9,887 votes.

This traditionally massive vote in favor of the Liberals in the riding where English-speaking voters make up approximately 75 per cent of the electorate provoked one Liberal MLA to say:

"We are still the party of the English. The vote (for Mr. Tetley) was too strong."



The comment was made by Yves Michaud, MLA for Montreal Gouin, who ranks himself as among the most nationalist of the Liberal MLAs. He felt the political situation in Quebec would be healthier if the English-speaking vote was better distributed.

In Bagot, Mr. Cardinal won with 6,520 votes. The Liberal candidate Henri Boisvert, 38, mayor of Acton Vale, received 4,400 votes. The two independent candidates mustered a combined total of 111 votes.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Tuesday evening the Belleville district council sponsored a teens training session in St. Thomas Church Hall. Approximately 30 adults attended the session.

Four discussion groups considered one of the following topics — the role of the group committee, public relations, administration levels and the role of the leader. District president John Wiebenfenk chaired the meeting and Mrs. A. J. Fort was moderator of the discussion period.

A general question period elicited much information about the scout movement. Refreshments were served afterwards by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The boy scouts have been asked to do a good turn. An appeal for gifts, to be given to retarded children at the Smiths Falls hospital, has been made by the Retarded Children's Association of Belleville.

The idea is to have scouts, cubs and friends of scouting bring in new articles to leaders at the usual meeting places. Gifts should not be of dangerous nature. All donations should be made to Mrs. John Ross, 60 Southview Ave.

At the first swimming class of the fall season, 40 boys turned out last Saturday morning at the YMCA. To assist him, chief instructor Lewis Andrews had five adults. Because more boys are expected at future outings more adults will be required.

Fathers are asked to join their sons at poolside. Fathers and sons are requested to be inside the building at 8:45 a.m.

The boy scout ladies' auxiliaries are planning a general meeting on Jan. 15 at St. Margaret-in-the-Hill Church Hall. Ninth Belleville will be the host group and the speaker will be district secretary, Mrs. A. J. Fort.

Tyendinaga Reserve

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Michael Kenneth, son of Robert Howard and Pamela Anne Deller was baptized Sunday morning in Christ Church by the chaplain, Rev. F. F. Downer.

On December 15 the choir and organist of Christ Church, Belleville, will visit Christ Church on the Tyendinaga Reserve, to take part in the service of nine lessons and carols. The readers will be local. The Guild will serve refreshments to the guest musicians before they return to Belleville for the evening service in their own church.

Mrs. Ethel Hazard has returned to her duties teaching grade one in the Eastern School, with her hand in a cast. A bone was broken in an accident three weeks before the break was diagnosed and treated.

Little Cindy Maracle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Maracle, returned late last week from hospital in Napanee where she had been treated for pneumonia.

Mrs. Anthony Maracle of the Slash Road is still a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Peruvian Has Success With New Cancer Cure

LIMA (AP) — In a bold experiment, a young Peruvian physician injected himself with cancer cells taken from his half-sister, and later gave her the cancer-fighting antibodies that his body had created.

Dr. Alfonzo Zavaleta Cruzado, 34, says he may have cured his sister, Mrs. Elis Wensell, of cancer of the uterus. The cancer apparently has disappeared, he said.

But he stressed that less than a month has passed since the experiment, and five years are required to think in terms of cure.

Similar experiments to mobilize antibodies against cancers are being carried out in the United States and elsewhere—some with encouraging results. Dr. Zavaleta's experiment differs in some respects.

He injected cancer cells into his leg. His system formed antibodies to destroy the foreign cells, much as antibodies are formed to resist bacteria, or to reject transplanted organs.

He then bled himself to obtain lymphocytes, white blood cells carrying the antibodies, and transferred them to his sister.

An associate of Dr. Zavaleta, Dr. Oscar Miro Quesada, told The Associated Press:

"It is too early to know the results of Dr. Zavaleta's technique. But this is a beginning. Now we have to wait five years to see if the cancer returns."

"I have always felt a cure for cancer would come from a crossfire between chemistry and immunology," Dr. Miro Quesada said.

"Dr. Zavaleta and I have been conducting chemical trials with hopeless cases—people with one foot in the tomb and the other on a banana peel. We have been able to keep them alive for one to 1½ years, until their cancer cells became resistant to the chemicals.

"Now Dr. Zavaleta has come up with this simple technique."

Link with Free Press Broken by Critic's Move

WINNIPEG (CP) — A family link with The Free Press since the start of the century was broken by Christopher Dafoe's move to the Vancouver Sun this week.

Mr. Dafoe is a grandson of John W. Dafoe, editor-in-chief of The Free Press from 1901 until his death in 1944.

In an editorial page column in The Free Press, Christopher Dafoe, who was with the paper 13 years, recalled that he had no doubt at the age of five that his grandfather owned the paper.

"He had a large office . . . with wall-to-wall carpeting, comfy furniture, a marble fireplace and a private toilet. He drove to work in a splendid coach drawn by a magnificent horse. The coachman was dressed in leather and wore an impressive hat. . . .

"One of the coachmen was called Victor and when I heard the family speak of Victor Sifton I concluded that the coachman and Mr. Sifton were one and the same. It was some time before I discovered that Mr. Sifton, in fact, owned the coach, the horse and The Free Press."

He added:

"The members of my family never owned The Free Press, but we have always felt that we had a certain stake in it, an emotional tie that had nothing whatever to do with proprietorship.

"My grandfather . . . worked for The Free Press, his brother Rance worked for The Free Press, my uncle Ted worked for The Free Press, my brothers Peter and John worked for The Free Press, my cousin Michael worked for The Free Press, my sister Jennifer worked for The Free Press.

". . . I understand my father once worked for The Free Press for about 10 minutes until my grandfather got wind of it and came to inform him that one son in the business was enough.

"When I depart the chain will be broken."

Mr. Dafoe is drama critic at The Sun.

Acadian Festival Ends

LAFFAYETTE, La. (CP) — The first International Acadian Festival ended here Wednesday on a note of French-language co-operation and congeniality—and as Acadian-style barbecue.

In the closing hours of the two-day festival, delegates from across Canada and Louisiana visited nearby St. Martinville, about 90 miles west of Baton Rouge, where Evangeline, the Acadian immortalized by H. W. Longfellow, is buried.

They also watched the United States premiere of Les Acadiens de la Dispersion—Scattered Acadians—made by Leonard Forest of the National Film Board in France, the Maritime Provinces and Louisiana.

Earlier, Marcel Masse, Quebec minister without portfolio, with responsibility for civil service negotiations, said meetings such as the Acadian Festival are vital if Quebec is to achieve "its proper personality."

Fernand Guindon of the Ontario riding of Stormont, represented that province.

Lafayette, a city of 60,000, is the centre of the Acadian settlement in southwestern Louisiana.

Original CBS Playhouse Drama Is Successful

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Cowen, the 23-year-old author of Saturday Adoption, feels strongly that it is unfair to give — me'ney, time, affection—and expect something in return.

In his 39-minute original drama, the second in this season's CBS Playhouse Wednesday night, he portrayed and explained this thesis in the dialogue and plot: "You give something to somebody and you want a little piece of him."

Cowen's story was built around a dissaffected 20-year-old pre-law student, who, needing some meaning in his own life, volunteers as a Saturday tutor to a boy in a slum neighborhood. Rich Meridan, from a middle-class suburban home, is assigned to Macy Slader, a bright 13-year old Negro who is encountering trouble reading.

Macy's background is the source of his unhappiness and loneliness—recollections of an out-of-work father now dead, a hard-working, ambitious mother who is determined to get better things for herself and child. And an older brother, Paul, hostile and suspicious of co-gooders, who has left his family to make his own hard way alone in a small job.

Rich had been sold by his father on becoming a lawyer and despite his personal doubts, he turned right around and sold the same idea to the little boy.

Rich's businessman father laughed off his request for money to send Macy through college. Rich was forced to act liberally and cruelly disillusion the youngster and send him, crushed, out of his life.

It was 90 minutes of little action and much talk and would have benefited by editing down to one hour.

Rick Gates played the college student. Eric Lanenville was effective as the heavy little boy.

Officer Transferred to Germany

TRENTON — An officer from the Canadian Forces Base here will relinquish his command at the base and will take up a new post as a Base Commander at Lahr, Germany.

Colonel A. J. Pudsey, currently Commanding Officer of the Maintenance and Air Development unit here, will tomorrow hand over his command to Colonel M. T. Friedl, Deputy Chief of Staff, Technical Services.

And then it will be off to Lahr, Germany, for Colonel Pudsey where he will become Base Commander of No. 1 Fighter Wing.

Colonel Pudsey is a graduate of the University of Toronto and enlisted in the RCAF in 1949 as an aeronautical engineer, and qualified as a pilot in 1951.

The 48-year-old officer was assigned to the experimental proving establishment at CFB Uplands, Ottawa, as a test pilot in 1953.

During November 1965 he was appointed deputy chief of staff for tactical aviation in mobile command, CFB St. Hubert, Quebec. In 1967 he was appointed to his present position as commanding officer of AMDU.

Colonel Pudsey, a native of Germany, graduated from the University of London in 1953. He served with the Canadian Army overseas during the Second World War, and after serving in various bases in Canada was transferred to Bonn, Germany, to be liaison officer in 1960.

Promoted to Group Captain in 1966, he was transferred to Trenton in 1967.

The transfer of command will take place at two o'clock this afternoon.

'Pension Adjustment Needed'

Superannuates Support Brief to PM

The 47 members of the Belleville Branch of the Federal Superannuates National Association are supporting a letter to the Prime Minister of Canada and each individual member of Parliament asking for "favorable action" toward "upward adjustment in pensions."

The association represents Federal Superannuated Civil Servants an dtheir widows.

"With the constantly increasing cost of living," reads the letter, "it becomes more difficult each day for people, such as our membership, to subsist on a fixed income."

"As a side light, the interest paid to the Public Service Superannuation Account for the fiscal year 1966 to 1967 was $26,626,350."

"The amount paid out in pensions for the same period was $52,807,870."

"It is shown from these figures that the interest alone was more than sufficient to pay all pensions during that year with a surplus of $35,691,-493."

According to the letter the account stood at $2,689,467,819 as of March 31, 1967. As the normal increase is now approximately $300,000,000, the account should be very close to $3 billion dollars as of March 31, 1968.

"This huge balance was made possible from equal contributions of employee and employer, plus interest paid by the employer to the account for use of monies contributed."

"It is generally recognized that the government has a responsibility to its former employees to keep the purchasing power of the pension dollar in line with increased cost of living."

In Canada, five provinces have recognized this responsibility, and have increased pensions of their former employees, the letter states.

These provinces are Alberta, British Columbia, Nova Scotia, Ontario and Saskatchewan.

"The Canadian Government to date has done nothing to alleviate the plight of its former employees.

"The majority of present Federal retired personnel will not benefit from the Canada Pension Plan, nor have they benefitted from the legislation providing old age security at a reduced age. Most of them did not receive their old age security until reaching age 70."

The letter states that bureau of statistics figures show that for the period Jan. 1, 1953 to Dec. 31, 1967, the consumer price index rose 31.2 per cent with no upward adjustment in pensions in the Federal Civil Service during that period which followed the first upward adjustment granted by legislation in 1959 effective to all pensioners who retired on or before Dec. 31, 1952.

Couple Escape Serious Injury

A Belleville couple and their three-year-old child escaped with little more than a shaking up last night when their car skidded off a snow covered county road and smashed through a wire fence.

Provincial police from Picton said Mr. and Mrs. George Hicks, 30, Howard Street, and their child were driving on the Prince Edward county road two miles west of Mt. Pelerin ville when their car left the road, crossed the ditch and crashed through the wire fence.

The only injury suffered was by Mrs. Hicks who received a bump on the head.

League Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks increased his lead in National Hockey League scoring Wednesday night by picking up two assists.

The points gave Hull 41 for the season on 16 goals and 25 assists and left him eight points ahead of runner-up Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens.

In third place with 32 points is Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings who scored the 700th goal of his regular-season NHL career Wednesday night.

Red Berenson of St. Louis Blues, credited with his 15th goal of the season Wednesday night, is fourth with 30 points.

IT WORKS
BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one clock. Pendulum clocks. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock are also gone, you have reasons are that a home somewhere in this area would love to use it.

Tightens Safety

Cameras Track BC Truck Drivers'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The truck drivers don't always smile when they find out they've been in candid camera.

But night or day, drivers from a number of Vancouver-area trucking firms may be under the surveillance of a camera in a following car that records their every move—without their knowledge.

It's part of a service operated by Trans-Continental Fleet Supervision Ltd., run by founder-manager Bill Gibbs, and the camera is the key.

In its first 36 months of operation, Trans-Continental claims it has recorded 6,132 driving violations and 2,238 defects in 3,114 photo-reports.

The firm uses a California-designed camera above the dashboard of the car that tails the trucks.

Inside the camera and superimposed on every picture taken for reports are a chronometer and odometer to record the time and mileage.

The film is air-expressed to California for processing and evaluation. Then it's back to Continental and then given to the firm concerned, along with a written report.

Mr. Gibbs, a 35 year-old former truck driver, says he did not start the company as a commercial venture and does not maintain it as one. To make ends meet he works weekends, he said in an interview.

The main point of the whole procedure, he said, is to tighten safety in commercial trucking companies.

"If we can show a driver he actually made all the mistakes we say we did, then he's bound to feel a bit foolish. No one likes the mistakes shown to them in photographs."

In one case, he said, recorded errors dropped to fewer than 50 a month from about 1,000 in three months after the camera started shadowing company trucks.

Blair Whitelock, a business agent for the Teamsters' union, said union drivers definitely respect the activities of Trans-Continental.

"It's a spy service for employers," he said.

Ed Lawson, president of the Teamsters' joint council in Vancouver, said improved safety on Kitwanga could be credited better by a strong management union safety program.

But Bill Gibbs has the support of the Automotive Association of British Columbia.

"We certainly got much money in it" said association manager S.H. Morris. "but Bill is a dedicated guy who wants to see the roads safer."

Mr. Gibbs said he founded the company because as a commercial driver he was "getting sick of the way people disregarded the law and flouted even the basics of safe driving."

"Right now I'm trying to talk MLAs and the attorney-general into making this a provincial matter."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices edged up in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The industrial index gained .39 to a record at 197.78, a fraction above its previous high recorded Tuesday.

Levy Industries rose 1¼ to 15¼, Cpr 1 to 77¼, Canadian Corporate Management 1 to 46, International Utilities ¾ to 47¾ and Imperial Oil ¾ to 61¾.

Among the heaviest traders, OSF Industries gained ½ to 24 and Abitibi ¼ to 18¼.

Dominion Stores lost ¾ to 17¼. A company official said there was no foundation to rumors of a takeover bid from another firm.

Several western oils with an interest in the uranium discovery in northern Saskatchewan announced Tuesday continued to move up in heavy trading.

Consolidated East Crest gained 15 cents to $2.65, Dynamic 5 cents to $2.06 and Perma 2 cents to $1.60. Pan American Petroleum, a small mining company which has property near the discovery area, rose 10 cents to $1.32.

Golds were strong, although the price of bullion was slightly lower on the free market. Dome rose to 17¾, Campbell Red Lake 1¾ to 34 and Dickenson 20 cents to $3.95.

Base metals, Highland-Bell lost 30 cents to $6.00 and Leitch 5 cents to $3.75.

On index, golds gained 4.41 to 160.03 and western oils 1.34 to 240.13. Base metals fell .03 to 112.47. Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,509,900 shares compared with 1,146,000 at the same time Wednesday.

The Toronto market closed Wednesday with fractional gains.

Total volume was 3,972,000, the heaviest this year, and the turnover in western oils was a record.

Oil trading was led by a group of associated companies which will benefit from the uranium discovery announced Tuesday in the Wollaston Lake area in northeast Saskatchewan.

Perma, the most active, gained seven cents to 61 cents on sales of 806,940 shares. Dynamic rose 31 cents to $2.66 and Mill City Mines cents to $2.08. Trading in all three was delayed at opening to match orders.

In industrials, Canadian Industrial Gas gained 1¼ to 24¾, Dupont Engineering 1 to 21, Sudbury's 1 to 19 and Canadian Tire A 1 to 65.

Amongst the most active, OSF Industries was up 1¼ to 23½ and Brinco ¼ to 5¾. Dominion Stores advanced ¾ to 18¼ on sales of 44,095 shares.

United Westbourne gained 1¼ to 10¼ after trading was delayed at opening to match orders. The company plans to acquire all shares in Commonwealth Petroleum Services Ltd. and Trimac Transportation Ltd., both of Calgary.

Noranda touched a record at 63¾ after shareholders approved a four-for-1 stock split. The stock closed at 63¼, up ¼.

Highland-Bell lost 20 cents to $6.20 and Leitch 25 cents to $3.80.

Golds were firm. Giant Yellowknife gained ¼ to 13¼ and Dome ¼ to 75, reflecting brisk demand for bullion on the European free market.

On index, industrials gained .10 to 187.39 and golds 2.33 to 234.50. Base metals lost .01 to 112.50 and western oils .77 to 238.99.

Gains outnumbered losses 272 to 256.

Belleville Livestock

Trade was fairly active and prices steady on most classes of livestock on Tuesday. Sale of fat steers and heifers were steady. Good cows were stronger, common and medium cows were steady. Choice veal calves were strong and medium calves were higher. Weaned pigs were higher and shoats were stronger. Good sheep ewers were strong, common and medium were steady. There is a strong demand for weaned pigs.

Following quotations: —

Sale of choice steers .25 to .28.

Good steers 25 to 26.

Good heifers .22 to .24½.

Medium .20 to .22. Common .19 to .20.

Good cows .18 to .19. Heifer cows at .16 to .17. Medium .15 to .17. Common .12 to .15.

Good heavy bologna bulls .22 to .23. Medium .20 to .21. Common .17 to .20.

Good stock calves .27 to .30.

Choice veal calves .27 to .31. Good 24 to 26. Medium .16 to .20. Common .20 to .25. Boners .16 to .20.

Just What Makes A Cold Hang On?

By Dr. Thoteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thoteson: Why can some people get over a cold in three or four days while mine lingers on for a month? I take drug store remedies, but they don't help much.

Even when I get over the runny nose, I cough up sputum for about three weeks. It is thick and yellowish in the mornings but is almost clear by the end of the day. I wheeze.

I also have a little sinus trouble. Could this sputum be from sinus drainage? Could my coughing have any relationship with being tired most of the time? — D. C.

Let's take a cold apart and see what makes it tick.

It's a virus infection (dozens and possibly even hundreds of different viruses cause colds) and the exact form of irritation can vary — nose, throat, or sometimes the eyes may be inflamed.

There is, as we say, "no specific treatment." In plain language, there is no such thing as a cold cure. Sooner or later your system overcomes the virus.

How quickly? Some folks won't take care of themselves. They ought to rest while their bodies are fighting the virus. Faulty nutrition also can be a factor. And some people, for reasons not always apparent, have that vague thing called "resistance," while others just do.

Those with weakened resistance are more likely to develop other infections once the virus has inflamed the mucous membranes. The yellow sputum is a sign that, in your case, pus-forming germs (bacteria rather than viruses) have invaded. At this stage of a cold, antibiotic treatment is indicated. The antibiotics can make quick work of bacteria, but do not affect viruses.

Sinus trouble as a part of it? Quite likely. When the cold strikes, the sinuses also become inflamed and may also become the site of bacterial secondary infections.

A constant cough uses up energy and thus may contribute to your tiredness. Just the nervous tension can play a part. But are you getting enough rest, and are you eating properly? The tiredness may also contribute to making the cough linger.

Rest.

Aspirin will ease the discomfort and to some degree alleviate inflammation.

There are common remedies which help "dry up a cold," but they don't affect the virus. They just have a drying effect. I wouldn't use one of them for more than a day or two, because the dried membranes can become brittle and crack, causing bleeding and allowing entry of other germs.

If a secondary infection (perhaps sputum or nasal discharge being the chief signs) develops, that can be treated effectively by your doctor. But you have to get rid of the 'original cold by yourself.

Dear Dr. Thoteson: We recently discovered that my husband has dystonia. He is 49. Suddenly his head started shaking. The neurologist gave him pills to help him. What is the cause? And the cure? — Mrs. J. K.

Dystonia means an alternate spasm and relaxation of certain muscle groups. The result is a bizarre twitching or contortion of whatever area is affected.

It is a rare disorder and the cause is not known for that reason cure is unpredictable.

However, it can be controlled by certain relaxant drugs.

When it occurs, it is usually at an earlier age than 49.

Note to Mrs. L. A.: Chronic ear infections are usually very difficult, but people that keep on with your present treatments which at least help to control them have my sympathy and admiration.

Expropriated Property Owners Have Acquired Bill of Rights

TORONTO (CP) — A provincial bill of rights for owners of expropriated property was given unanimous approval on second reading Wednesday in the legislature.

The bill now goes to the committee of the whole for clause-by-clause study next week in an effort to speed up its passage so that it can become law before the Christmas recess.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said early passage is important because sections of the act dealing with compensation will apply to "pending expropriations where compensation has not been settled."

The opposition first questioned a clause which gives municipal councils and school boards the power to be the reviewing authority for their own expropriations.

Pat Lawlor (NDP—Toronto Lakeshore) said the clause "emasculates" the purpose of the bill which he said is to make expropriation procedures fair to all parties.

But attorney-general defended the clause on grounds that these bodies are those most immediately responsible for their action to the local authorities.

J. E. Bullbrook (L—Sarnia) said ambiguous language in the bill could cause misinterpretation in the courts.

"We must analyse every word of this bill in committee," he said. "I am worried about the varying implications of some of the words."

The new bill outlines a wide range of reforms in expropriation procedures and a new test for compensation based on full market value of land plus five per cent and all incidental expenses.

The owner of land to be expropriated now will have the right to ask for a public inquiry, and a report must then be made to an approving authority which must be an elected person or body. In this case, the elected person takes final responsibility for any expropriation.

In other legislature business Wednesday:

—Health Minister Matthew Dymond said 4,100 cases of venereal disease were reported in the province during the first 10 months of 1967, compared with 3,940 in all of 1966. He said the number of cases rose about 15 per cent between 1966 and 1967, to 4,529 from 3,940, but that the number of cases involving persons under 19, declined to 718 in 1967 from 728 in 1966.

—Mines Minister Alan Lawrence introduced amendments to the Mining Act which will remove the limit on the number of mining claims a prospector can stake in a year and will allow him to use the claim tags he has purchased anywhere in the province. Previously the tags could be used only in the mining division in which they were issued. When approved the legislature, the amendments will become effective April 1, 1969.

—Premier John Robarts said the Ontario government has not received an invitation to an international cultural conference in Niger next February.

He was replying in the legislature to Tim Reid (L—Scarborough East) who asked whether he would include in the province's delegation "A French-speaking Canadian from Ontario."

—Prescription drug plans were made subject to the Pre-paid Hospital and Medical Services Act in the same manner as hospital and medical services plans in amendments introduced in the legislature.

The act governs companies or corporations "establishing, maintaining and operating a hospital or medical service or providing prescription drugs on a non-profit pre-payment basis."

It does not apply to insurers licensed under the Insurance Act or a pension fund or employees' mutual benefit society under the Corporations Act.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For December 6

Your birthday today: You have to make your own luck this coming year. If you apply yourself consistently, however, it will come in unbelievable million-to-one coincidences. Add activity relating to the fine arts to your life. Responsibility increases; carry it gracefully. Today's natives face prolonging dilemmas of any choice.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Possibly you cannot resume a postponed matter because a new condition has arisen. Your reaction to sudden inconvenience should be disciplined beyond your first impulse.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Upset routines generate fresh problems. Adjust to the new situation — without being sullen. Neatly round off the week with matters left over.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Quick money schemes are certain to bring losses now. Your temptations also include spending for bright surfaces rather than intrinsic values.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Impulsive changes by others could upset long-term plans. Hold your line against the demand for change for its own sake. Be patient.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): The mood is tense, wary, jittery. Avoid arguments, protect your health. You may have to cope with somebody who has never grown up until now. Hospital visits are indicated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Some incident could upset your relationships with your friends; be aware from the beginning that things are not what they at first seem to be.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Nobody with authority seems to be sure how far it extends. Take a conservative approach to business and legal matters; assume nothing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Your programs thus far have run over somebody who hasn't said much. Now he may assert your whole enterprise until you deal with him. Do not react until you have thought carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Any deal today is likely to become complicated, especially if friends are involved. Sidestep inept contracts. Take the day off if you can.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Arrange to work alone if possible. Tensions are such that it is difficult to focus them into constructive channels. You may be called upon to stabilize your environment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): You can best defend your work against criticism by not answering the commentary. Proceed on the previously agreed lines as closely as circumstances permit.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Avoid overspending and indiscretion. Instead stay on the job, do your share. Pick up interrupted chores.

Task Force Mobilized To Offset Explosion

Heat Felt Mile

By Harry Mulhall
Staff Reporter

A fiery explosion in the main trans-Canada natural gas pipeline rattled Belleville and its surrounding countryside this morning.

The detonation, at a metering station on North Sidney Street, a mile north of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway, spewed a 400-foot fireball skywards for nearly an hour.

The spectacular eruption startled householders five miles away as it roared above ground.

The station is cited in an isolated stretch of Sidney Street, about a quarter mile from the nearest house.

Property damage was confined to the station.

Luckiest personal break happened to Marcel Pilon, a truck driver for Trans-Canada Pipeline.

Pilon, 27, of Gananoque, was on the site at the time of the explosion. He escaped with slight face burns.

There was no immediate explanation for the blaze and its fiery sequel, which kept firefighters at bay until the pipeline was sealed.

The explosion occurred about 9:30 a.m.

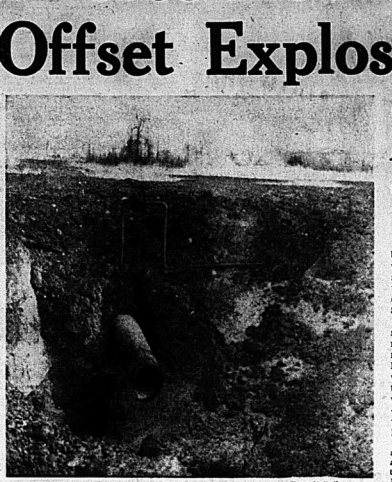
Ironically, one of the witnesses was deputy fire chief Lew Culhane.

He spotted the fiery plume two miles away from his office window at West Moira Street firehall and immediately mobilized the department.

However, the fierce heat of the gas-fed fire column left firemen and emergency workers looking on helplessly.

The heat, carried by a west wind could be felt a mile away on Highway 14.

Provincial police hastily mustered all available men to cordon off the area within a mile radius of the scene.



Traffic was rerouted off Highway 14 while police warned householders in the immediate area.

Pipeline engineers sealed the line at pumping stations in Trenton and Shannonville — then waited for the fire to burn out.

It took almost an hour before the final flames flickered out — and fire trucks from Belleville and Canadian Forces Base Trenton moved up to the smouldering site.

Foam was pumped into the crater by CFB firefighters and pipeline technicians moved in to seek causes for what

Quinte Lines Closed

A 100-man team was being rushed into Belleville today to restore gas services interrupted by this morning's pipeline explosion on Sidney Street.

Thousands of consumers — in homes, restaurants and business operations — were left without gas supplies when engineers sealed the shattered pipeline which had spewed a 400-foot fireball skyward for nearly an hour.

The lines were shut down at Trenton and Shannonville and about 5,000 consumers in the area were affected, said Jack Pearce, Belleville manager of Lakeland Natural Gas Co.

Some 100 technicians and servicemen were being assembled by Lakeland's parent company, Northern and Central Gas Corporation, to aid restoration of consumer supplies.

Workers were being called in from as far away as North Bay to man the team, said R. S. Snyder, manager of Lakeland division in Kingston.

Each man will visit 25-30 homes in the area to restart stoves and furnaces.

Mr. Snyder said there was no danger of leaking gas.

Gas regulators are equipped with a safety device which automatically shuts off supplies when pressure lowers.

Mr. Snyder said gas could start flowing through the main pipeline again early this afternoon.

However, the technicians will work through the night if necessary to restore domestic services.

Three city high schools are serviced by gas — Centennial, Moira and Quinte.

However, a high school board spokesman said the schools also had an alter-

Rebel Priest in Hiding

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Don Enzo Mazzi, rebel priest and hero to the Florentine poor, was in hiding today after being dismissed from his parish Thursday. But his parishioners held the key to the church and were setting up a revolution proposition centre next door.

Two other Florentine priests expected expulsion from their duties in the bitter dispute between Don Mazzi and his working-class flock on one side and Ermenegildo Cardinal Florit, the archbishop of Florence, on the other.

The priests were Don Sergio Cacioli, a pastor in one of Florence's poorest districts and a close associate of Don Mazzi's, and Don Paolo Gomiti, 28, Don Mazzi's assistant.

Don Mazzi was hidden in a private house while his parishioners continued to control the church of Mary of the Graces in the Isolotto district.

They scheduled meetings through Saturday night to decide what stand to take against the archbishop. In rooms adjoining the church parishioners were making posters and turning out mimeographed bulletins.

Don Mazzi had been their pastor 14 years. For the last 10 years he and his associates had been writing a children's catechism that made Cardinal Florit bristle and sent shock waves into the Vatican.

The just-published catechism depicts Christ as a revolutionary leading the poor against the privileged and wealthy. The cardinal censured the catechism and forbade his priests to use it.

Don Mazzi said the cardinal told him: "Resign or I'll fire you." The priest made no move to resign, and Thursday his dismissal was announced.

Thousands of Don Mazzi's parishioners, including many cripples, marched in silence across the Arno and massed outside the cardinal's residence, waving placards demanding that he restore Don Mazzi to them.

Stolen Car Ring Broken

TORONTO (CP) — Police arrested a fourth man Thursday in their investigation into what one spokesman called the biggest international stolen car ring uncovered in Toronto. Three arrests were made Wednesday.

The investigation into a rash of high-priced sports car thefts in the Buffalo, N.Y., area involved Toronto police, the FBI, RCMP and Ontario Provincial Police. They observed Toronto-area garages for two months.

So far 22 cars have been recovered.

Peace Talks Stall Over Procedure

PARIS (AP) — A developing struggle over procedures threaten further delay in the start of bargaining to end the Vietnam war.

In two private meetings this week, the United States and North Vietnam have agreed on the room and the languages to be used at the outset of the conference. But they are disputing whether the four delegations will sit at a square or rectangular conference table, a seemingly minor issue with major overtones.

North Vietnam's chief delegate, Xuan Thuy, told reporters at a reception Thursday night that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front want a square table. This would underline the Communist view that the Paris conference is to be a four-party affair.

They said the Americans plugged for a rectangular table, with two long sides representative of the U.S. view that the talks will be between a Communist delegation and a joint U.S.-Saigon delegation.

U.S. Ambassador Cyrus Vance and North Vietnam's Col. Ha Van Lau, who have been conducting the private sessions, were scheduled to meet again today or Saturday to tackle the table issue again.

Egyptians Say Coup 'Phoney'

CAIRO (AP) — Egyptian intelligence has uncovered a phoney plot to overthrow President Nasser which was hatched by Israel to create unrest in Egypt, a Cairo newspaper says.

The report is the latest in a series of Egyptian reports of Israeli espionage activities. Earlier this week, Nasser announced that a former prisoner-of-war released by Israel incited the recent student demonstrations in Alexandria. He said another agent was caught trying to leave the country with classified information and microfilms.

The newspaper Al Gumhuriya says various sources abroad leaked information to the Egyptians that 30 army officers, identified by name and rank, and a number of civilians were conspiring to stage a military coup against Nasser.

The newspaper says careful investigation of the alleged plot revealed that it was a hoax fabricated by the Israelis to foment unrest in the country. Names of the alleged conspirators were selected from daily obituaries in Egyptian newspapers, Al Gumhuriya says.

The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram says details of several spy cases will be made public within the next few days, but others will be kept secret to prevent the Israelis from learning how much the Egyptian government has found out.

News Briefs

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Communist party newspaper Pravda today accused the United States of planning to heighten tension in the Black Sea area by sending two destroyers through the Bosporus. The destroyers, one of them equipped with torpedo-rockets capable of carrying nuclear warheads, would sail through the Bosporus into the Black Sea Saturday and will spend five days there.

VICTORIA (CP) — J. R. Simonett, Ontario minister of energy and resources management, said Thursday that Canadians must be prepared to live with "tolerable levels" of water pollution. He said after a three-day meeting of federal and provincial officials on water problems that pollution "is part of our industrial society." Technicians could say what is safe and what is not.

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MPs stormed out of the Commons transport committee today, leaving it without a quorum after 30 chaotic minutes of arguments and motions. The government removed Chairman Gustave Blouin (L-Maisonneuve) from the committee Thursday night. Conservative MPs shouted that Mr. Blouin was removed because he was in the chair Nov. 28 when a Conservative motion to delay proposed abandonment of CNR passenger rail service in Newfoundland was passed.

The Sounds of Christmas

Suddenly, it's the season to be jolly, and many things are contributing to the festive spirit around Belleville. Like the Salvation Army. Starting this week, the Army's band is out and about each night on city streets playing Christmas carols.

Today's Chuckle

Men who are afraid of being replaced by success should get a job with the weather bureau.

Trenton Area Ready For Santa's Parade

TRENTON — The white arms of Christmas are enveloping the Trenton area as the approach of the festive season is seen in brightly lit decorations and the planning of parties and parades.

And Trenton is no exception as the Christmas spirit is beginning to be seen around every corner.

Trying to cover all the corners is the Trenton Chamber of Commerce as they lead the way in setting the decorations throughout the town.

Two 40 foot trees have been purchased by the chamber and one, brightly adorned with lights, has been placed in front of the old post office.

The other tree will be placed on top of the Toronto Dominion Bank at the corner of Dundas and Front Sts.

Rows of lights zig-zag across Dundas St. for which the chamber has spent some $600 and the electricity to keep them in an illuminated state will run upwards of $200 for the month they will be in operation.

And even a Christmas card can't compare with the scene at Senator Fraser Park where a 40-foot tree lights up the snow covered greenery.

This project is being handled by Trenton's Rotary Club and the Parks Board.

And what could well be the climax of the season for old and young alike could come tomorrow.

For at one thirty Saturday afternoon no less than 31 entries in the form of floats, majorettes and bands will take part in the annual Santa Claus parade.

The parade will feature the jolly old gent himself as the entourage leaves Centennial Park and tours the downtown area to return to the park.

Prizes for the best floats and groups in their divisions will total up to $100.

When it comes to Christmas, Trenton really gets in the spirit.

...Belleville Ready Too

They're rolling out everything but the red carpet for Santa Claus in Belleville tomorrow.

And it's likely the only reason they're without the carpet is that they can't find one long enough to line the welcome route.

Otherwise, organizers of the big annual show have found room for just about every piece of parade paraphernalia.

A dozen bands, nearly 40 floats and about 200 assorted clowns, cartoon characters and nursery-rhyme personalities will usher Santa through the streets of downtown Belleville.

Finishing touches tonight will be put to the big welcome, organized by city firemen and other volunteers.

The spectacle moves off from the Upper Bridge at 10 a.m., moves down Front Street and returns up Pinnacle Street.

Paving to Start Soon

Lightfoot Construction Ltd.— and city officials — are keeping their fingers crossed hoping for a break in the weather which will allow paving operations to get under way on the new Bay Bridge Road — CPR overpass approach ramps.

Had good weather prevailed Lightfoot was all ready Wednesday to commence paving of the south approach ramp across the northwest of Zwick's Island Park.

The contractor plans only to apply the base asphalt coat this fall with the finish coat to be delayed until next spring.

Had paving operations got under way Wednesday and were able to proceed without interruption, plans were to put the new overpass into use by December 16.

Now, however, with inclement weather intervening, it is expected the opening could be delayed a few days.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell said that application of the base asphalt coat this fall would eliminate the pot holes which could normally be expected to develop if the roadway approach ramps were left gravel surfaced for the winter months.

Conservation Authority

Study Involves Local Problems

PICTON (Staff) — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority established in Dec. of 1965 enabled the department of energy and resources management to perform a conservation study of the 200 square mile county.

Consisting of 161 pages, the report offers over 37 recommendations and deals with the land, wildlife denizens of the area, erosion problems, drainage systems, windbreaks and hundreds of other things affecting the county agriculturally and naturally.

The report also went into the local problems, general economic aspects, social aspects and local political aspects affecting land use.

In the wildlife section 11 recommendations were made to the county authority.

It was recommended that numerous dams and dikes be built: specifically that the dam at Fish Lake be restored, dikes be built to control the water level of Big Island and Huff Island marshes and that the level of water in the Consecon marsh be stabilized.

The establishment of two refuges in the county were also recommended. The report said that a refuge for Canada geese in the vicinity of Barnhart Island would prove to be a spectacular attraction to tourists.

Another refuge and sanctuary for wildfowl was recommended to be established in the area encompassing Fish Lake.

Besides aiding the present species of birds in the county to survive and multiply a recommendation was made to introduce sharp-tailed grouse in an area to be managed experimentally for game and game on Farmington soil.

Other recommendations made were for the construction of wood duck nesting boxes in six locations and that shore birds and waterfowl be viewed from a small area on the south east part of Long Point peninsula.

The authority was also told it should consult the Ontario Water Resources Commission as to the results of the 1967-68 tests being made on herbicide efficiency in the county.

The honorable J. R. Simonett, minister of the department credited MLA of Prince Edward County, Norris Whitney as being "the father of the PERCAN" and stated that if it hadn't been for the work of Mr. Whitney the authority would never have come into existence.

It was pointed out that how many of the recommendations made by the governm e n t would be carried out would depend a lot on the people with in the authority and the financial resources of the county itself.

The Ontario governm e n t does provide some assistance in many of the areas recommended for change in the conservation report.

Cold Yes---But That's Show Biz!

Christmas is a cool time for parades — but experienced majorette Valerie Smith demonstrates there's nothing to it if you're a trouper. Taking heart from her demonstrations are Beth Smith, 7, and Susan Selkirk, 5. You can see them all as part of tomorrow's Belleville Santa Claus parade.

one official termed "an explosive bonfire."

Natural gas is channelled through two pipelines in the region and recently installed and reported placed in operation about two weeks ago.

D. W. Brown, information manager for Trans - Canada Pipeline said in Toronto the explosion occurred in the new 26-inch line.

Technicians on the spot were refusing details until the arrival of a team of expert investigators.

Key witness to the eruption—Marcel Pilon — was released from Belleville General Hospital shortly after noon.

A hospital spokesman said the trucker had been given emergency treatment for burns to his ear.

Collector Finds Rare Coin

Looking through piles of old coins on the chance you come up with a rare find has long been a popular pastime, but even the most optimistic admit you have to be lucky to come up with pay dirt.

But an exception to the rule occurred this week with Morley Pascoe, 72 Wright Ave., who spotted a find without really trying.

While rolling a jar of coins collected during the past year he came across a 1922 Canadian one cent piece worth anywhere from $5 to $70 as a collector's item.

Whitney Chairs Food Committee

Norris Whitney, the member for Prince Edward-Lennox in the provincial house, has been elected chairman of the select committee on agriculture and food.

IN MEMORIAM

AYLESWORTH — In loving memory of my dear daughter and our dear little Sandra M. Aylesworth who passed away Dec. 8, 1967.
Two years have gone by very slowly
Two years we've cried and sighed
Two years you took away.
Our hearts were completely broken.
You fought so hard to stay.
But when it was you who was going,
So peacefully free from pain,
We had to let you go.
We will never forget.
Ever remembered by mother and brother Edwin.

GELSTHORPE — In loving memory of my dear father Percy Gelsthorpe who passed away Dec. 8, 1967.
Nothing can ever take away,
The love in our hearts each day,
Memories linger every day,
Remembrance never fades away.
Never forgotten by daughter Marion.

HOLOWAY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away Dec. 8, 1967.
Time goes on with many changes,
Life and sorrow for us is long,
But your memory we will cherish,
With the love that makes it yours.
Lovingly remembered by wife and family.

KNOTT — In loving memory of a dear husband, father, who passed away Dec. 6, 1966.
We look at you with a heart of gold,
We who were to us than wealth untold.
Without a farewell she fell asleep,
With only memories for us to keep.
She was a mother so very rare,
Content in her home she was there.
Lovingly remembered by wife and daughters.

Beautiful memories of one so dear,
Too dearly loved to ever forget.
How she suffered all in vain,
Willing for a call that never came.
Then God who knows all things best,
Called to her dear mother home to rest.
Sadly missed and dearly remembered by daughters Nellie, Dolly, Gladys, Phyllis, Betty and families.

MAINES — In loving memory of a dear brother Lynn Maines who passed away Dec. 8, 1967.
He didn't have time to say farewell,
Nor I to say goodbye,
He was gone before I knew,
And only God knows why.
Please God forgive a silent tear,
A silent wish that he was here,
For in God's garden now at rest,
Peacefully sleeping lies one of the best.
Ever remembered by Mom Garnet, sister-in-law Monica and family.

McLEOD — In loving memory of a dear son and brother Danny McLeod who passed away Dec. 6, 1967.
We think of you when we woke that morn
We think of the day would bring.
It brings back a day we will never forget
For the sun has gone, the clock severs,
To part with one we loved so dear,
No tears can show, no words can write,
How much we lost on that sad day.
Ever remembered by Mom and brothers Harold, Ralph, Jack, Wayne and Pete.

REMARK, Mrs. — Who died 2 years ago, Dec. 8, 1966.
Gone but not forgotten.
Ever remembered by Edna, Helen, Keith and grandchildren.

REMARK — In loving memory of a dear father who passed away Dec. 6, 1966.
There is a family that misses you,
A world finds time long since you passed away.
We think of you daily and hourly,
But that is to be true and absent.
Tears we shed are in silence,
And we breathe a sigh of regret,
For you were ours and we remember.
Though all of the world forget.
Sadly missed and always remembered by son Jud, daughter-in-law Doris and grandchildren.

RYCKMAN — In loving memory of my dear fiance Ernest Ryckman who passed away Dec. 8, 1967.
MY SPECIAL ANGEL
My love I will always be with him,
As he won't go to a world of sin,
Sometimes I'll forget
When I see him in a dream,
Of the beautiful love we shared,
Of the wonderful love,
We had as one.
Why did he leave me,
To cry in despair,
Oh God it just isn't fair,
I am heart broke,
It's hopeless I cry,
But I know he don't love you,
But God created him that way,
I often would tell you,
I'll love within my heart,
Of all the dreams, the plans and the love we had.
Of which some is gone,
I hope you will understand,
Oh dear mum, I love all with you now,
And how dearly I love you with all my heart.
Love Lynn.
Hold him dear you my love I'll be with you. God take care of him.

Two land rangers care for a group of children who are allowing mother some time for Christmas shopping. They are Tommy Haslett, six, Aline Skural, 17, Jennifer Haslett, nine months, Struan Robertson, two, Jean Anne Taylor, 16, Peter Haslett, four, and Andrew Haslett, seven.

Land Rangers to the Rescue

A group of teen age girls will be easing another of Christmas' headaches when it comes to shopping.

Many young mothers in the Belleville area have found that little children hinder or even prevent Christmas shopping.

There is no more worry.

The first Belleville Land Rangers, the oldest group of girl guides covering ages 14 to 17, will be running a baby-sitting service during the next few weeks before Christmas.

The girls, who meet every Tuesday night at St. Andrew's Church, are primarily interested in helping the community.

In that aim, the land rangers are offering a baby-sitting service to young mothers during the Christmas shopping period.

The service will work on a first come, first served basis. Mothers are advised to bring their children to St. Thomas' Parish Hall. The rangers say they can accommodate up to 60 children.

They will take care of young children on Saturdays — between now and Christmas from nine a.m. until 12 noon. There will be a small charge of 50c a family for the whole morning.

The land rangers will have a small nursery section for toddlers and older children will participate in games and crafts.

This service is open to anyone in the community.

Tender Call Planned

Madoc School to Be Improved

Bay of Quinte District High School Board decided last night to call for tenders for an estimated $2,396,542 construction and renovation project at Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc.

Debentures estimated at about $1,307,523 are expected to be issued and the remainder of the cost will be covered by provincial government grants.

At a meeting at Quinte Secondary School, the board accepted plans submitted by the architectural firm of Bojgos and Heinonen, Don Mills for a $1,725,000 addition to the school and $673,542 in furnishings and renovations to the existing building.

The present high school board will call for tenders Dec. 17 and turn the submissions over to the new Hastings County Board of Education after Jan. 1. Closing date for receipt of tenders is Feb. 1.

The new addition will accommodate 1,300 students when completed. The architects set Jan. 1970 as the target date for opening, but hope to complete the academic block by Sept. 1969.

About 320 students are now accommodated in the existing school and Madoc armories, in spaces designed to hold 676 students.

The new addition will contain a library, seven academic classrooms, four laboratories, three commercial rooms, two drafting rooms, four shops, a greenhouse and a double gym.

Belleville-Trenton Prospect

Phone Rates Expected to Rise

Phone rates in Belleville and Trenton may increase more than 10 per cent next March.

According to C. H. Buckley, Bell Canada Manager, the rate for individual residence service in Belleville and Trenton may increase from $4.65 to $5.20 per month. The new rates take effect March 1, if approved by the Canadian Transport Commission.

Business service will increase from $10.50 to $12.50 for individual line service and the monthly cost of private branch exchange trunks will jump from $15.75 to $18.75.

Proportionate increases will apply in all exchanges.

No change is proposed in the rates for long distance calls over 35 miles. Most special calls, such as person to person, will be higher.

"Since 1958 when our present rate schedules were set, the cost of living has gone up 24 per cent, and the cost of operating this business has gone up too," said Robert C. Scrivener, Bell president.

"Wages, materials, taxes and cost of capital have all soared, especially in the past three years."

"It is essential that telephone rates enable us to meet the cost of day-to-day operations and make possible the financing at reasonable cost of the necessary facilities and research," he said.

Manning Moves to City

Ontario Hydro has appointed one of its senior personnel as public relations office at its Eastern region headquarters in Belleville.

He is N. K. (Norm) Manning, an official of 17 years service with Hydro.

Mr. Manning, senior public relations officer, at Hydro's Toronto head office succeeds W. J. (Bill) Killough. Mr. Killough has been appointed supervising public relations officer at Toronto.

A graduate of University of Toronto, Mr. Manning graduated with a B. Sc. in forestry. He joined Hydro's research division in 1951, and the following year was posted to its Niagara region.

He was chief forestry instructor at Hydro's Niagara training centre during 1957-1960. He transferred into public relations in Toronto in 1960.

Mr. Manning is married with two children.

Traffic Bottleneck Cleared -- Street Paved

Belleville's biggest and longest traffic bottleneck has been cleared!

Yesterday workmen completed paving the rebuilt section of Bridge Street West, and finally it is clear sailing along a traffic route which has seen congestion of one kind or another since last spring.

The last section of paving to be completed was the Coleman and Bridge street intersection and the approach ramp to the lower bridge.

Traffic interuption along the No. 2 highway artery leading west out of the city has been a subject of loud complaints since work got under way early in the summer, but the biggest and longest traffic jams were reserved for the finale.

With the start of paving operations and the Bridge and Coleman Street intersection traffic began to really back-up during the morning and evening rush hour period.

Holdups of 15 minutes or more in getting across the downtown area were commonplace, and one woman this week complained it took her three quarters of an hour to get from Church Street to the Bay Bridge Road.

Land Sale Held Up

As a condition of its sale to the city, members of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club want assurance that club property at the corner of Queen and Dufferin Streets will continue to operate.

Club director Peter Acton told members of the city recreation-arena committee that absence of this assurance was holding up sale of the property.

The city has agreed to purchase the club property as a community centre for $4,000 but club members are not satisfied with the recreation-arena committee recommendation calling for tennis and skating programs to be maintained in the city commensurate with the financial budgets of the council and recreation-arena committee.

"The recommendation provided no assurance the operation of the club property will be continued," Mr. Acton said.

He admitted that at some date in the future it might not be feasible to continue the club program at the present location, but said club members would be unwilling to transfer title without assurance of its being continued some place in the city.

Members of the skating club and committee representatives will meet with the city solicitor to draft a suitable sale agreement.

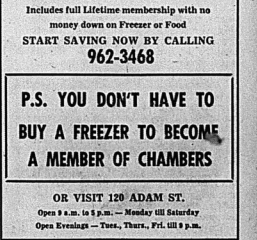
THANK YOU . . .



Now that the (Second) Battle of Hastings is over and routines are getting back to normal, I wish to thank all of you who supported me in the election and to assure those of you who did not, that I will do my best to represent you as a Separate School member on the County of Hastings Board of Education.

Since the Board is county-wide and certain local autonomy has disappeared, I am aware that a broad view point rather than a local one must be taken in the many problems to be solved in the best interests of our students. To this end I believe priorities in programs will have to be assigned, and financial controls instituted and exercised.

I congratulate you who entered the fray, thus showing your concern, but were not elected, and hope to receive your assistance in the big job ahead.

My best wishes to you for the holiday season and the New Year.

Brain Drain

The "brain drain" is a term that has far-reaching implications for many countries. For some these are more serious than others, according to the standard of living.

Canada, according to a United Nations survey, has been taking in more professional people in proportion to its population than anywhere else in the world. In 1965 for instance Canada accepted 147,000 immigrants from throughout the world, or nearly three times as many as left here for jobs in the United States.

Canada has been receiving a considerable number of trained people from other Commonwealth countries like Australia and New Zealand, not to mention Britain. But then it works both ways. New Zealand finance minister R. D. Muldoon said recently that during 1966-67 more than 2,500 trained people arrived in the country and 2,174 left. The largest adverse balance occurred with chemists, physicists, geologists and other physical scientists (70 came, but 79 went). The largest favorable balance was with biologists, veterinarians, agronomists and related scientists, 118 entering the country and only 52 leaving.

New Zealand's gravest problem in this regard is that it cannot afford to pay the kind of salaries that lure so many from its shores to countries like Canada and the United States. Australia also attracts many New Zealanders with higher wages.

Canada meanwhile, along with the United States has the material wealth and fast-moving economy that ensures a steady flow of trained people. We can count ourselves lucky, for without such professional talent this country would not have achieved the high standard of living it enjoys today.

A Long Haul

Christmas is fast approaching, with all that it means in terms of celebration — and for all the wrong reasons.

A Hamilton Spectator contributor, Hugh Buchanan, suggests the Christmas season is too long by a month and does too much damage to the bodies and minds of citizens who will never see 35 again. He puts much of the blame on a too-early Thanksgiving, meaning that preparation for Christmas begins immediately after that — and with the accompanying parties continuing right through it what he terms "the annual New Year's debauch."

Christmas is supposed to be a happy time, for family and for renewing friendships. But for many who have neither it can be the opposite. Critics are unhappy for the numerous other reasons that reflect the words of the philosopher who said "the problems of the world are the problems of the spirit." So they "celebrate," and it is by any wonder that the health of the nation at large is not what it might be? We hear for example of the increasing incidence of heart disease, and of people with psychological difficulties. The connection between the onslaught of Christmas and the physical maladies that can accrue is hot hard to detect.

Probably it will always be thus, but at the purely practical level there could be some hope of restoring some dignity and religious significance to the Christmas season. Writer Buchanan says if we don't do something to shorten it, New Year's will have to be pushed ahead a week "in order to give exhausted adults time to get their second wind."

Pop World

The Beatles, named recently as the world's outstanding vocal group for the fifth time since 1963, have come under critical scrutiny in Russia.

Young Russians dig the Beatles as much as any, even though in the absence of records they have to tape their songs from Western broadcasts. But here is an article in the Soviet ministry of culture's Sovetskaya Kultura obscuring the Beatles' art behind the usual fog of Soviet propaganda.

Communist ideologists can take nothing at face value. Thus we have critic Miss A. Mazurova saying the Beatles legend was created by politicians and the capitalist press, radio and television to provide an apolitical ideal for young persons to emulate and keep them from meaningful protest against the society in which they lived.

Who knows, there might be something in this. With the Beatles no longer galloping around the world as of old, young people are now making a lot of political noise on college campuses. Perhaps Miss Mariyanova is right.

Two Differing Philosophies

Simon Fraser University A Hotbed of Unrest

Allan Fotheringham in The Vancouver Sun

The Simon Fraser pot boils and bubbles. It would be boring if it were not so tragic. The group of "militant" faculty, hammered in this space by "moderate" faculty, naturally have their rebuttals. The conflict, they feel, is essentially between those people who really want to democratize the university — to make it the ideal academic community where all have equal say in decisions — and those traditional types who are content with the old style of university such as UBC, based on the master-student relationship. This group — "mostly immigrants and most without their graduate degrees completed" in the phrase of their critics — came to SFU because they truly believed it would be a new type of university. They believed all the propaganda. They willingly admit to being idealists — as if that were a condemnation anyway. They are mostly in "PSA" — the department of Political Science, Sociology and Anthropology, the department that naturally is concerned in the ways of changing society. There's a natural conflict here, as there is in most universities. Their critics complain that they waste too much time in campus politics, that they should be concerned instead with finishing off their academic work and acquiring their full PhD degrees. They are willing to debate until the last coffee cup is dry and the last amendment is amended, which infuriates the science professor who wants to get back to his research project in his lab.

But these professors are of the new breed. Theory is not everything. Involvement is just as important. They feel they must test the classroom theories, that they must put the lovely blackboard theories to the proof. In other words to plunge into the battle. That's why they are involved in trying to change the university structure, why they're in a mess and to change most SFU faculties into a situation where the administration does not appoint a department head: the professors themselves elect their chairman. And may change him at their will. That's democratization, that lumpish piece of jargon.

They feel the apathetic professors are surrendering to the outmoded system by their apathy; that they come out of the woodwork only when their only secure little niche is threatened.

They deny their group is predominantly American or British. (The main problem is that Canada is backward in higher education. We cannot keep our universities without imported help. We are parasites. We rely on other nation's trained people.) They point out that three years ago, at SFU's inception, the faculty balked by only two votes to establish a university without marks, without grades. Since then, the students have caught up with faculty thinking.

Now it is the students who make this demand. They consider Dr. Kenneth Strand came here for the same reason they did: that this was a new institution, without inhibiting traditions and memories, a place that would be prepared to strike out for new ground. In that sense, they concede they look upon it as "an incubator for ideas." They say they mainly backed Strand — until the police were called in. They have formed their own breakaway union of faculty. They have about 20 members. The orthodox faculty association has twice that. They don't think SFU is in danger of foundering. The point is that the two sides will never see eye-to-eye. It is two differing philosophies. Prepare for a long siege.

Red Tape Hits Dairies

Brockville Recorder and Times

From all accounts, the operators of dairies in Ontario can be expected to drown, not in milk, but in government red tape. They are being regulated to death and each week, it seems, brings new edicts either from the Ontario Milk Marketing Board or the Ontario Milk Industry Board to operate under such an oppressive regulatory system as does our dairies. Their business can no longer be said to be their own, except in name and the fact they have to pay the bills.

Local Ballot

Need More Women on Council: Housewife

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Alderman Soden's disappointment at the way the vote went in Monday's election is understandable. He worked very hard trying to get a community centre for Belleville, which obviously doesn't want one.

There are eight members of council right now who are in favor of a community centre, which is a good majority. Mr. Soden seems to think that in years to come it will be difficult to have a council with that big munity centre. He said "there will be older citizens and housewives on council in years to come." I think if we had a few more housewives on city council we would not be in the mess we seem to be in now.

Housewives on council would not have put up with little boys having to leave home as a barrier to five in the morning to play hockey; they would not have sat by and seen our girls go to other centres to play hockey because there was no ice time for them at home. Housewives on council would not have tolerated sitting on cheese boxes at that old arena to see Don Messer and other shows which played there.

What is wrong with our city fathers that they can't see what Belleville needs and go to work and get it? This community centre project should never have come to a vote, it should have been budgeted for and built years ago, which brings me back to housewives on council. Please don't tell me women can not make up their minds, because Belleville's aldermen have been hemming and hawing about many things for years. Had we had some housewives on council over the years they would have had the foresight to see that our sons and daughters would need jobs when they were through school. Thanks to our councilmen, 50 per cent of our young people have to leave home to find jobs. Yes, Mr. Soden, Belleville could do a lot worse than have some housewives on city council.

Letters to the Editor

And...an Older Voter Has His Say

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

As a long-time subscriber to your paper, I would appreciate your publishing this letter.

On the day following the civic election, a certain alderman made remarks over CJBQ which I resent very much. He indirectly inferred that old people, housewives and widows were blocking the progress of Belleville.

As an alderman elected by the people, I feel he has no right to criticize the ability of the electorate. He further states that eight aldermen in accord should handle the city's business, as I understood he did not include the Mayor, who we feel proud to have at the head of our city.

Again, he suggests that tenants should have a say in civic affairs. It is not hard to see his wisdom in this suggestion. These people would be young people, and in the event landlords raised the rent beyond the capability of their pay cheque, they could move out. On the other hand, older people could not do this as their life time savings and labor are involved in their homes, and if they were to default in payment of taxes they would lose all. This gentleman's overlooking the fact that old people and widows elected him as alderman and if the majority feel as I do, he will not be a member of city council at the expiration of the election time of this council.

Furthermore, he is not existent on $107 a month as hundreds of these old people and widows are doing today. I suggest that this man make a public apology through the media of the press or radio, or both. It would be beneficial for him to respect age and experience as it will go farther in life than shates on ice in an arena.

Luckily, five billion years is a long time, so the sun's exploding isn't one of those things we have to deal with today. It's something to keep in the back of the mind, however, for one reason or another on one of those days when everything seems to be going right.

Nigerian Civil War Bogs Down In Stalemate

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

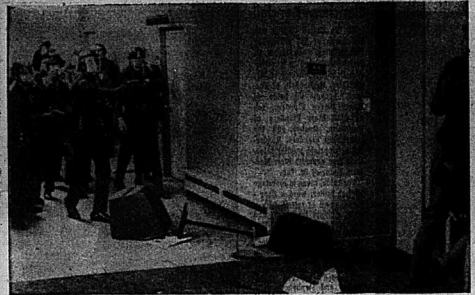
The civil war in Nigeria appears to have reached a stalemate on two fronts—the political as well as the military.

The result is an increasing view—at least reflected in London—that only the intrusion of a peacekeeping force can get and safeguard an effective ceasefire.

For a period there seemed to be a good chance the where the United Nations was too cumbersome an instrument for negotiations and peace, the Organization for African Unity might finally bring the federal and secessionist Biafran leaders to the conference table.

But as each month passes, that prospect grows more remote. British authorities who are as close to the scene as any have concluded the OAU has failed.

The war and its impact on the Commonwealth is likely to become a major issue at the prime ministers' conference in London next month. But there appears to be little likelihood that the Commonwealth leaders can do more than debate the issue unless those with influence propose a line of action which others are ready to support.



One published suggestion, raised by a London commentator, is that a strong Commonwealth force led by Canada be landed in Biafra and take up a position between the opposing armies. However, in the British view this bold intrusion could cause deep resentment on both sides and raise criticism in other quarters that the territory of a sovereign country is being breached.

Possibly a more acceptable approach, in the British view, is that both sides be persuaded to allow expansion of the small existing international observer group which has been organized to report on any suspicion of genocide. This enlarged group, perhaps 200 in number, would help convince the Biafrans that their lives would not be endangered by a ceasefire and end to hostilities.

At one time, Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon, the federal leader, had signified his readiness to accept a peacekeeping force. But there now is no assurance that he would agree, though British officials say he likely would.

In his latest statement, on Nov. 30, Gowon seemed to suggest he would like to settle the issue internally on his own terms, saying "if only the outside world will leave us alone to find an African solution to our problems."

But Gowon has invited help and obtained outside assistance for his side, including aid from Britain and the Soviet Union. Biafra also has found outside help and it appears unlikely, no matter what Gowon's conditions may be, that this outside help will fade away voluntarily.

Police Hold Students at Bay

Police Draw Guns, Fire Mace To Quell San Francisco Riot

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) — Police guarded San Francisco State College today after a day of violence in which they drew guns and fired Mace, a debilitating chemical spray, at students who stopped street cars and rolled parked cars at them.

There was, however, a slight hope that a dispute which kept the university in a state of turbulence for a month might be settled.

It came after a conference between the acting university president, Samuel Ichiye Hayakawa, and San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto.

Hayawaka, a native of Vancouver, said he would be making an announcement that "can serve as a breakthrough toward resolution of campus turmoil."

He refused to go into details but Alioto said: "Come February 1, there will be a school of ethnic studies at San Francisco State."

Negro demands are the heart of present unrest at the college and black and white militants demand a special school to include Negro studies.

The trouble Thursday started as about 80 student strikers marched into the university administration building, banging on walls, beating garbage cans and smashing up pictures of past presidents hanging on the walls.

Policemen standing guard nearby drew their guns and fired a canister of Mace.

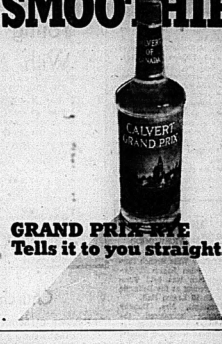
Other police then moved in as the students retreated.

As the students were driven from the campus, some rolled parked cars towards advancing policemen and also tried to derail streetcars. Others pelted police with bricks and bottles and tried to build barricades at intersections.

No serious injuries were reported in the fighting.

Police arrested 22 persons, including Negro publisher Dr. Carlton Goodlett.

Britain's Record Matches Satan's



UMUAHIA, Biafra (Reuters) — Biafra has attacked Britain's record on the question of relief for the victims of the Nigerian civil war, saying it is "worse than that of Satan himself."

Dr. Ifegwu Eke, the breakaway state's information commissioner, said in a statement Thursday:

"When he (British Prime Minister Wilson) weeps because according to him, 'Ojukwu (the Biafran leader) has not allowed daylight flights,' his tears stem not from any concern for suffering humanity in Biafra but from his inability to secure for Nigeria free movement by day of their Egyptian-piloted fighter-bombers."

The statement alleged that in the 16 months of fighting, the British Red Cross and other British contributors had given only £6,000 (about $15,000) towards relief supplies. On the other hand, the British foreign office had brought "massive political pressure" on the international commitee of the Red Cross to do nothing whatever for Biafra.

Equality Should Involve Cost

BRIGHTON — At its final meeting before the new county school board system comes into effect, East Northumberland Secondary School Board welcomed the board of governors of Loyalist College last night.

At the dinner which preceded the separate meetings of both boards, 60 representatives of municipalities in the area, as well as guests representing women's institutes the clergy, agriculture and labor were present tozether with the senior department heads of the college and board.

W. C. Down, chairman of the ENSS Board, announced that the ENSS Board had commissioned Yarko Zavi, a well known local artist, to produce a sculpture that would be presented to the Loyalist Board as the first of what it was hoped would be a permanent collection of art at the new College.

"While there has been some criticism that traditionalism is being sacrifiged for functionalism in the new County Board of Education system," said Mr. Down, "We are really moving into a wider field of community education. The family, the church and the school are still the centres of community life."

Judge J. C. Anderson, chairman of the Loyalist Board in remarking on the historic significance of the occasion said that although there had not been a community of interest within the four counties, that such gatherings did much to create such an interest.

Judge Anderson said that the trend toward regional administration was already evident in justice and education and was also being proposed for larger units of municipal government.

Judge Anderson said that the new "community colleges" had been established to achieve the desirable objective of quality of opportunity in education as stated by the minister when the legislation was introduced in 1965.

"There can however, be no real 'equality of opportunity' until some form of distance equalization allowances is provided for students living beyond a normal commuting distance."

He said that The Loyalist board was considering this question and that one way to accomplish the objective would be to permit The College to waive the tuition fee of $150 for students living in communities outside the commuting distance in various centres throughout the four-county region of Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington.

"In his remarks, Loyalist president Bradford stressed the opportunity which such an occasion presented for an exchange of views between The College and its community.

Quebec Leaders Annoyed at Use Of Young Pupils

QUEBEC (CP) — Leaders of Quebec's major political parties Thursday denounced a demonstration in front of the legislature building which involved a large number of school children.

The 3,000 demonstrators, organized to oppose a planned language-rights bill, broke 60 legislature windows with snowballs.

Spearheaded by the French-language Mouvement pour l'Integration scolaire, the marchers included a large number of students—some of them only 12 years old—who had been let off school to join the protest.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand accused teachers of creating a climate of anarchy in Quebec by "involving the pupils "who don't even know why they were brought to the legislature."

It is "disgusting that these poor children who understand nothing were conscripted" as marchers, Opposition Leader Jean Lesage said in the legislative assembly.

Rene Levesque, leader of the separatist Parti Quebecois, called it a "criminal act" to lead children of 12 and 13 into the march.

Raymond Lemieux, president of the Mouvement pour l'Integration scholaire, told reporters he was grateful to the pupils for taking part in the demonstration, which he called "an excellent lesson in living history."

The statements of the party leaders were "nauseating."

His group recently successfully sought the gradual introduction of French-only education in previously-bilingual primary schools in the Montreal suburb of St. Leonard. It would continue its pressure on Mr. Bertrand until he withdraws the proposed bill, he said.

Visibly disturbed by the day's events, Premier Bertrand said he will introduce the bill to guarantee parents the right to educate their children in French or English before the end of the session, which is to terminate at the end of next week.

Provincial police said they arrested 15 persons during the demonstration, 13 of whom were over 21.

They estimated that 90 per cent of the marchers, however, were under the age of 16.

Four Laval University students were released on $200 bail each pending preliminary hearing Feb. 10.

Meanwhile, in Montreal, a telegram signed by 12 prominent nationalists, including pioneer separatist leader Marcel Chaput, asked French President de Gaulle to help block the language bill.

The telegram said the bill "is transform into rights the unjust linguistic privileges of Anglo-Quebecers would constitute an act of betrayal of the French-Canadian nation."

"Mr. Jean-Jacques Bertrand, prime minister of Quebec, has received no mandate from the people to perpetrate this quisling act, unworthy of the inheritors of New France."

Seek Gifts For Young In Hospital

Again this year, the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children is sponsoring a collection of small gifts for patients at the Rideau Regional Hospital School in Smiths Falls.

This Hospital School has a population of over 2,000 children and adults who are retarded many of whom have very few friends or relatives to visit them or send gifts, particularly those in the older age group who have possibly been hospitalized for a long period of time.

Serving this area, several from this district, requiring institutional care, are patients there.

The deadline for these gifts is about December 15, although items would certainly be acceptable after that date. It is not necessary to wrap the items, as it is preferred that they be wrapped at the hospital for specific children and adults.

Gifts will be taken to Smiths Falls before Christmas.

Gifts may be left at 60 Southview Avenue, with Mrs. John Ross or at 598 Sidney Street, with Mrs. Alex Glover.

Last year, the project was extremely successful. It is hoped that this year will be

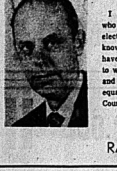
Quebec to Sell Drinks at Games

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand today introduced legislation to permit the sale of alcoholic beverages during hockey and baseball games.

Given first reading by the legislative assembly was a bill to authorize the Quebec Liquor Board to issue "amphitheatre permits" that permit sale of alcoholic beverages other than draught beer.



Mr. Bertrand said the bill would authorize sale of liquor at the Montreal Forum during Montreal Canadiens matches in the National Hockey League and at the baseball stadium where Montreal's new major league ball team will play.

New Educational Group Formed

The first public meeting of the Belleville and District Chapter 338 of the Council for Exceptional Children was held December 3, at Harry J. Clarke School.

The CEC is an international organization made up of teachers and all those interested in the education of children.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Cecelia Smith, director of the Cecelia Smith Nursery School of Toronto, representing the Canadian Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

Mrs. Smith's theme was the importance of the individual child. Interest was aroused by members of the audience participating in a classroom situation, and the reactions of the adults showed clearly how children will react when treated similarly. Her aim was to impress her listeners on the need for a sympathetic understanding of each child. The important result of this meeting was audience participation and the discussions.

Three more meetings are planned by this group for early spring. Anyone interested in becoming a member in CEC should contact Mrs. Pat Belyea, Harry J. Clarke School, Belleville, Ontario.

Couple Honored On Anniversary

On Saturday evening, November 30th, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe, R.R. 3, Stirling, were honored at a dinner given by their family in Belleville on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Following the dinner, the couple's oldest daughter, Miss Carol Sharpe, expressed the family's happiness in having so many friends and relatives present for the occasion. In speaking of her parents' wedding, she introduced the attendants of the bridal party, all of whom were present Saturday evening.

Each of the attendants spoke briefly, reminiscing about the wedding and expressing best wishes for future happiness.

Morton and Burton were married on December 4, 1943, at the bride's home at R.R. 2, Holloway, with Rev. J. F. Lane officiating.

The couple replied graciously, thanking their family for the party in their honor, and expressing their pleasure in having so many present on such a happy occasion. They were recipients of several beautiful gifts and numerous expressions of congratulations.

At the close of an enjoyable evening, light refreshments were served.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Phi Psi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi held its regular meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Irene McGinnis with Miss Beth Bird as co-hostess.

During the next two weeks the members are selling tickets on a gift certificate from Leslie's Shoe Store in the amount of $25.00. The draw is to be made on December 16th.

As in previous years, Phi Psi has chosen to make this Christmas brighter for a family in Belleville. This, as always, brings much enthusiasm from the members and also helps make our Christmas a happier one.

As a fund raising project this year we are selling Beta Sigma Phi cook books. These are beautiful books containing recipes of Beta Sigma Phi sisters from all over the world.

Following the closing ritual Miss Beth Bird conducted a very interesting and informative discussion titled "am I morally responsible". Refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess to end a very pleasant evening.

MR. AND MRS. ROGER P. FLANDERS

Flanders–Bendall

St. Ola United Church was the scene of the November 30th wedding, when Rev. E. B. Inelsby officiated as Beverley Ann Bendall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bendall, of Toronto, became the bride of Roger Pierce Flanders, son of Mrs. Mary Flanders of Cookshire, Quebec, and the late Phillip Flanders. Rendering appropriate nuptial selections was organist Mrs. Marjorie Ham, of St. Ola.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of taffeta with a wide guipure lace trim and matching train. Her headdress consisted of a basic wedding ring form, with guipure lace trim and a shoulder - length, white tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, surrounded by red baby 'mums and stephanotis.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Marie Desjardins, of Southampton, wore a street - length red velvet A-line dress with matching red new headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white and red 'mums. Bridesmaids, Miss Dalis Mansel and Mrs. Eunice Sharpe, of Toronto, both wore street - length red velvet A-line dresses with matching red bow headpieces. Each carried a bouquet of white and red 'mums.

Attending the bridegroom was Don Gilbert of Bramption. The ushers for the ceremony were Brian Bendall of Toronto and Maurice Davis of Kingston.

For the wedding reception held at St. Ola's Orange Hall, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a turquoise peau de soie dress with a matching coat and feathered turquoise hat, and black accessories. Her corsage consisted of pink roses. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom chose a brown dress, complemented by beige accessories and a contrasting corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to New York state, the bride donned a beige and brown paisley wool suit with brown accessories, complemented by a white orchid corsage.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Belleville.

Young Mother Decorates Child's Room With Mod-colored Papier Mache Birds

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto boutique is selling whimsical mod-colored papier mache mobile birds, created by a young mother who first hit on the idea as a way to decorate her child's bedroom.

The birds, whose fanciful shapes and colors reflect the wacky, sophisticated world of swinging youth, hang and swirl from delicate frames or rock to and fro on pedestals.

Janet Newsome got the idea from the real bird life fluttering around a delightful little old house she occupies in a green oasis smack in the middle of the concrete jungle of downtown Toronto.

"I've always enjoyed birds," she says. "I used to spend all my time in the bird room when I went to the Royal Winter Fair."

Mrs. Newsome is a graduate of the Ontario College of Art and used to do department store window displays.

Tied to the house by her 1½-year-old daughter Kristin., she continues to indulge her artistic flair by making the birds and selling them to a boutique in Toronto's mod district of Yorkville.

She first started making the birds to decorate Kristin's room, because she says a dull room makes a dull baby.

But when friends saw the delightful shapes swirling around the room they convinced her they would sell on the boutique market and earn her some pin money.

"I don't know who buys them," Janet says frankly. "My mother wouldn't."

But what does Kristin think of her mother's creations?

"She thinks my birds are simply delicious," says Mrs. Newsome. "She grabs them when she gets the chance and tries to eat them."

Legion News

(EX-SERVICEWOMEN)

The regular meeting of the Col. Phay Wills Branch Royal Canadian Legion Ex-Servicewomen was held Tuesday evening at the Belleville Branch 99 Legion Hall.

President, Mrs. Dorothy Barriage announced the date for the annual children's Christmas party for Sunday, December 15, with Mrs. Ina Rollins and Mrs Barriage as a special committee for the event. A gift exchange for the members will also take place at the same time.

In keeping with the Provincial Commands' change of election time to the spring, a motion was passed that Branch by-laws be ammended. Previously, officers elected in December took office in January; now with the new regulations they are installed in June, the last meeting before the summer recess and resume in an official capacity in September.

Reporting the Zone meeting held in Deseronto on Sunday, Mrs. Barriage told of the gathering that Zone Commander Earl Brant was re-elected for another term and Mrs. "Billie" Kirby is zone secretary.

The Branch will be represented at the Belleville Santa Claus parade by a color party consisting of Doreen Burney, Clara Jamieson and Janet MacDonald.

At the close of the meeting Padre Charles Savage was presented with a Legion beret by Mrs. Barriage.

Church Groups

(FRANKFORD CA GROUP)

The CA's of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle held a meeting with president Ricky Reilly welcoming everyone. The theme chorus was sung followed by prayer led by Mrs. Mary Patrick.

Song leader was Rev. James Dunlop, and after several hymns were sung, the president gave the announcements, after which Fred Wood led in prayer. The CA offering was received by Barry Reilly, while Miss D. Grant rendered a musical selection.

Later another hymn was sung and Rick Reilly introduced the film "beyond these skies," portraying the importance of personal soul winning. The service was then closed in the usual manner.

ST. JOSEPH'S C.W.L.

The St. Joseph's Parish Council of the Catholic Women's League held its monthly meeting recently in the Parish Hall.

Mrs. R. Park, convener of the fall bazaar and tea, thanked everyone for help in its success.

The president, Mrs. H. Carr-Brand announced that the December meeting would be in the form of a Christmas party. She reminded members that unwrapped gifts were to be brought to the party for distribution by the Belleville Mental Health Association to patients in nursing homes and hospitals.

The Citizenship and Immigration convener read a letter from the Civic Action Committee.

Mrs. D. Hurley introduced Father C. Gazeley who led an enthusiastic discussion on a talk by Rev. C. Curran, "The New Morality".

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. D. Dunnie.

Weekly Get-togethers Could Be at Home

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is friendly with a couple of men he works with. Their wives are not the type I would pick for friends on my own. Every Friday evening we have a set date. The six of us go out to dinner and we end up at a little cocktail lounge that has music.

The men drink beer and talk business the whole time. The wives of these two men dance with each other. I sit because I don't like to dance with a woman. I think it looks peculiar. Furthermore, men they never saw before ctit in on them on the dance floor and they rod up dancing with strangers. They say it's O.K. because their husbands are present. What do you say? — SQUARE PEG.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR PEG: I say the whole thing smells like a lost barrel of herring. Haven't you people got homes? Why sit in taverns? You need some new friends and I hope you find them soon and break up this gruesome threesome.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is 18. She graduated from high school in June and is taking a secretarial course.

Thelma has been dating a divinity student. He is 20 and shares an apartment with two other divinity students. We all like Jerome because he seems more settled than most of the young men Thelma has dated.

Last night I understood Thelma to say she and Jerome were going to a party. I woke up at 4:00 a.m. with an uneasy feeling. I drove to Jerome's house when I found Thelma is not home, so I checked her bed. It had not been slept in. I was worried sick but decided not to awaken my husband.

At 6:25 a.m. Thelma came tiptoeing into the house, carrying her shoes, I gave her a long, hard look but said nothing. My husband did not wake up and he doesn't know about this.

My question is: Do parents have a right to tell an 18-year-old girl when to be in? She does not pay room and board. We are putting her through secretarial school. She has had no curfew since high school graduation. I am opposed to a girl coming in from a date at that hour of the night. Am I wrong? — L.L.L.

DEAR L.L.L.: That "hour of the night" is not night, Lady. It's morning.

No 18-year-old girl should be allowed to stay out until dawn. Your silence was condonation.

Have a talk with Thelma. Tell her she cannot come and go as if she lived in a hotel. Midnight is plenty late for a secretarial school student (to say nothing of a divinity student.) And 2:00 a.m. is a reasonable, respectable hour for weekends.

Home Hazards for Toddlers Can Be Reduced

By DORIS CLARK

A child care worker, desperately trying to reduce the number of home hazards for little toddlers—who are prone to pop just about anything into their mouth — suggests:

(1) Keep bottles of aspirin or other tablets out of reach, preferably locked up in medicine cabinet. Never just in purse, coat pocket, or easily reached drawer.

(2) In buying toys, remember that little ones may swallow and choke on small objects; wooden heads, coins, bottle tops, pins, nuts, beads. Even the button eyes on stuffed toys are tempting — remove them!

(3) Never, and I mean never, let a child play with a plastic bag. When a child inserts his head in a plastic bag electricity is generated and the bag literally grabs onto his face. He may suffocate before he is not strong enough or clever enough to remove it.

Dear Doris: The guy I'm going with is 21, and he says that he doesn't like kissing. He says that it is nothing against me because he likes kissing me, only the idea of it is rather senseless. I don't know if you understand that but you can will you please explain the possible reasons?

It makes me feel very inadequate because I think kissing shows your appreciation for one another, although I don't go in for heavy necking.

We discuss many things freely. He is very much a gentleman and wouldn't demand anything I wouldn't give him willingly.

His view on sex is that engaged couples should have intercourse before marriage. He feels that sex is an important part of married life and if one of the partners were frigid it would ruin their marriage. — Mixed Up and Confused.

Dear Confused: Funny thing about kissing: it is more important to some people than others. In some families kissing happens every time members walk out or come in from some place. But in some, they'd think it was silly.

Perhaps you and your steady come from opposite poles when it comes to touching, kissing, caressing.

But you are both perfectly normal and I don't fear for your post-marital sex life. I don't go for that try-out idea, for two reasons: (1) Mature adult love brings with it the mutual caring that makes for physical response; and (2) it takes time, sometimes years of intimacy, to achieve the best in satisfactory physical relations.

Dear Doris: Who owns beach property immediately adjacent to the water's edge? We have a small boat and often pull ashore to picnic during the summer. On one occasion we were asked by a cottager not to picnic as we were on a private beach.

We were under the impression that a certain number of feet from the water's edge was public property. We do not wish to trespass but also do not want to be insulted. — Cottager But No Beach.

Dear Cottager: Regulations in some parts of Canada provide that on any body of water completely surrounded by land (like a lake), there is a government authority with control over the shore up to a stated number of feet from the high water line.

Many controversies rage over this business of beach trespassing and I'd suggest you go directly to the designated beach authority where you are for the answer in your case.

(Don't just muddle along. Doris knows human behavior and can help. Write to her and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Another Suggestion for Christmas Menus

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: . . I noticed that you give your Christmas recipes on request. . . May I have them please. . . J. F. W.

ANSWER: Yes I will but what do you want? I have given so far: 1968 Fruit Cake, Holiday Fruit Bars, Arkansas Travellers, Brown Sugar Shortbread, 1968 Christmas Pudding, Smooth Creamy Fudge, Broiled Bacon-Wrapped Cocktail Snacks, Thumbprint Cookies and here is another beauty.

EMPIRE BISCUITS (freezes perfectly if not iced) (approximately twenty-two 2¼ inch and twenty-two 3-inch)

1 cup (½ pound) butter
two-thirds cup (4½ oz.) granulated sugar
2 large eggs
4 cups (1 pound) unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
2 teaspoons baking powder
white satin frosting (see below)
red jelly or jam for filling variegated cake decorating sprinkles

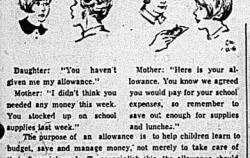
Cream together the butter and sugar until light. Beat in eggs. Sift in the unsifted flour, cream of tartar and baking powder, and mix well. Pick up dough in your hands and shape into a smooth ball between your palms. Place on floured large double sheet of wax paper, fold one-half of wax paper over dough, press down dough to flatten it to 1" thickness and chill for ½ hour in refrigerator. Remove half of dough and roll it out thinly on well-floured board with floured rolling pin to ¼" thickness. You should work rather quickly to prevent dough warming up. This is beautiful dough to handle. Cut out with 2" floured cutter and place on buttered cookie sheet about ½" apart. These cookies do not spread. Bake at 350 deg. F. for about 8 or 10 minutes. Do not brown these cookies at all. Remove from oven the minute they are baked.

Repeat rolling and cutting out with second half of chilled dough but cut these out with 2½" cutter (for variety's sake) and bake as above. Cool on cake racks. Make sandwich cookies by putting them together in pairs with red currant or raspberry jelly or jam between. Place exactly ¼ teaspoon on half of the 2" cookies in even rounds. Top cookies gently over to spread jelly or jam to edges.



Now sparingly cover tops of these sandwich cookies with—

WHITE SATIN FROSTING: In a bowl mix together 1½ cups unsifted icing sugar, 1½ teaspoons salad oil, 3 tablespoons warm water, shake of salt, ¼ teaspoons almond flavoring. As soon as you have frosted cookies sprinkle tops of some with red sugar crystals. Sprinkle some with green sugar crystals. Sprinkle some with vari-colored cake decorations (non-pareils) and remainder dot with 3 or 4 "silvers" each. Let set on cake racks.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Daughter: "You haven't given me my allowance."

Mother: "I didn't think you needed any money this week. You stocked up on school supplies last week."

Mother: "Here is your allowance. You know we agreed you would pay for your school expenses, so remember to save out enough for supplies and lunches."

The purpose of an allowance is to help children learn to budget, save and manage money, not merely to take care of their financial needs. To accomplish this, the allowance should be definite and regular.

4-H Awards Night Held

"4-H and what it can do for youth" was the theme of the keynote address at the annual Hastings County 4-H Awards night held recently at Modoc Secondary School.

Guest speaker for the event attended by approximately 400 parents, friends and club members, was Albert Taylor, president of the Junior Farmer Association of Ontario. Albert is in farming in partnership with his father near Galt.

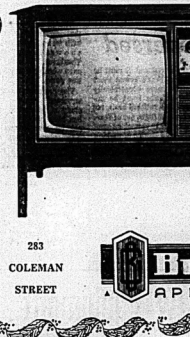
The guest speaker declared it was time farm people stood up and began creating a new image for themselves.

One way of creating this new image was through 4-H club work, he said.

One hundred and eighty county boys and girls took part in 4-H club activities during the year and completed 253 agricultural club projects. Slightly over $1,245 was paid out in prize money along with 60 individual awards for special recognition.

Seventeen clubs operated during the year with membership ranging from 11 to a high of 21.

Clubs with 100 per cent completion were the South Hastings Grain Club, the Marmora Calf Club, Hastings Swine Club, North Hastings Potato Club and the Hastings Corn Club.



John Murray and Douglas Jarrell, outstanding club members during their membership in 4-H club work, were co-valedictorians for the awards night program. Other outstanding winners were Dianne Gunning, top 4-H agricultural club girl member for the year, Robert Jarrell, top boy member, Nancy Clarke and Lyle Davis, top boy and girl novice of the year.

Five of the 4-H clubs had 100 per cent completion of projects while the over-all completion was about 80 per cent.

Douglas Farrell, president of the county 4-H Club Leaders Association, emceed the night's program with 18 club members assisting with the presentation of prize money and individual awards.

Rash of Accidents

Snow Storm Closes Highways

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Southwestern Ontario took the brunt of a major snow storm Thursday which caused several power failures, a rash of minor accidents and forced the closure of two highways.

High winds, which are expected to subside today, hindered ship traffic on Lake Erie and Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority closed navigation on the Welland Canal.

At least one traffic fatality was attributed to the storm when a woman was killed in a two-car crash at London.

Provincial police at Stratford said a 13-mile stretch on Highway 8 to Mitchell had to be closed for three hours when snow, driven by winds up to 60 miles an hour, reduced visibility to a few yards and built snow drifts up to four feet.

Police were forced to remove patrol cars from the roads. At least six cars went into ditches in the Stratford area, but no one was seriously injured.

In the Lake Simcoe area, Highway 69 between Brechin and Washago was also closed to traffic for several hours.

Orillia received about eight inches of snow and during the height of the storm two high schools and several public schools were closed early to permit students to reach home before dark.

Traffic was moving at under 10 miles an hour and police stopped patrols and advised drivers to stay off the roads.

Police at Windsor said icy road conditions resulted in a nine-car pile-up, but there were only minor injuries.

Winds up to 45 miles an hour caused a two-hour power failure in the Sarnia area and Port Franks, 30 miles northeast of Sarnia. The power was off for one hour when trees were blown into electric lines.

In Kingston, ferry service to Wolfe Island was reduced and no cars or trucks were carried.

Winds up to 55 miles an hour brought down several power lines in Mississauga, just west of Toronto, and resulted in short power failures in surrounding areas.

In Toronto, which escaped the snowfall, strong winds hindered firemen in fighting a blaze which destroyed the St. Maria Goretti Roman Catholic church and a piece of roofing was blown off the legislature building.

Two houses being transported by tractor-trailers on Highway 27 northwest of Toronto were blown off the road.

Anglican Bishop Claims...

Church Can Be 'Quite Boring'

OTTAWA (CP) — An Anglican bishop told the commission studying union between his church and the United Church of Canada Thursday that going to church can be "quite a boring experience," for some people.

Rt. Rev. S. C. Steer, Bishop of Saskatoon, asked as the commission studied a report on worship that consideration be given to the place of formal churchgoing in the Christian life.

Bishop Steer also questioned whether the mere revision of present structures of worship will meet the situation.

He said there should be less concern with liturgical procedures and more with making worship an experience that means something.

"Surely if we are to enjoy God forever we should start enjoying Him now," Bishop Steer said.

Poor attendance by young persons at services was an indication that worship, as it now is set out, has little meaning for them.

There appeared to be a consensus among commission members that traditional ecclesiastical language cannot be entirely disregarded in evolving a form of worship to meet the needs of the present world.

Very Rev. Wilfred Lockhart, a former moderator of the United Church, said the language of the earlier church should not be rejected out of hand.

He said there are persons in the church sensitive to language and their feelings should be respected.

Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, the Anglican primate, said that members of both the Anglican and United Church should not only be concerned with the union of their own churches but with the unity of all Christians.

Dr. Lockhart said there is a growing anti-clericalism in his church that is affecting union talks with the Anglicans.

"You can overemphasize one aspect of the ministry to the detriment of the other," Dr. Lockhart told the commission.

Scientific Placement

Professor Can Keep Snow off Your Driveway

GUELPH (CP) — There's this professor at the University of Guelph who can look at your driveway and tell you where the snow will pile up this winter.

And Frank Theakston can also tell you that in the future you won't have to have all that snow in your drive, or on your walk or on the street in front of your home if your house is built a certain way.

Science cannot eliminate the Canadian winter, he said in an interview Thursday, but scientific placement of buildings in relation to prevailing winds can eliminate snowdrifts.

For five years, Prof. Theakston and two assistants at the university's school of agricultural engineering have been making "laboratory snowstorms" and now have reached the point where they can predict where the snow will pile up.

How do you make a snowstorm?

Prof. Theakston uses an open channel flume with water slowly flowing through it in a slow-motion duplication of the action of wind. Scale models of buildings and landscape features such as trees are added.

Then fine sand is shaken into the flume, creating a situation that parallels an actual snowstorm. The scientists watch the snowdrift problems develop and determine how to solve them.

"We're the only scientists in the world using the flume with water and sand to study snowstorms," said Prof. Theakston. "So we're the only ones who have slowed the action down."

The professor, who teaches structural design and the study of reinforced concrete, has been called as a consultant by several architectural firms planning new developments.

"One mining company in Saskatchewan wanted us to study a proposed townsite and help place the buildings so snow wouldn't pile up.

"We've also done a townsite in Northern Ontario, a study of the University of Guelph campus and several manufacturers' sites. Then we've been called in to help design parking lots and roofs to prevent snow accumulation."

He says the shape of a building's roof has a lot to do with the amount of snow that will pile up around it. Buildings with the familiar gable roofs are bad because they cause snow to build up on the roof and fall off in front, plugging walkways, streets and yards.

Prof. Theakston predicted more use in the future of curved roofs and geodosic domes—similar to the United States pavilion at Expo 67.

He predicts future planning of entire towns and cities to eliminate snow problems, but emphasized that each location presents its own problems because of variations in landscapes.

Strictly Personal

People Must Be Dispersed

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In all the discussion and controversy about what has come to be known as the "population explosion," we have seriously neglected an equally disturbing aspect of the problem — the population implosion.

An "implosion" is a bursting inward, which is exactly what has been happening to American cities since the end of World War II. Not only has our population grown by tens of millions, but it has also shifted in the urban complexes at a rate we do not anticipate and cannot handle.

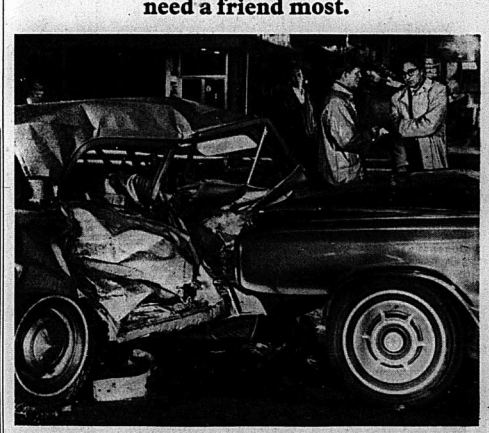
The U.S. is now, for the first time, a predominantly urban society. Some 60 per cent of the people live in or around cities, and the trend shows no slackening off. Moreover, many of these people came directly from rural areas with no experience or training for urban life.

An implosion of this magnitude increases social problems at a geometrical ration. While the population goes up arithmetically, the need for welfare and services goes up five times, or 10 times, as fast — because the cities are simply not equipped to cope with the masses of uneducated, untrained, jobless families who occupy sub - standard dwellings and subsist on welfare payments or marginal employment.

What we loosely refer to as "crime in the streets" is the result of this condition more than any other; a social more than a moral problem.

Mere density of numbers accounts largely for the disturbances we have witnessed in American cities. An increase in density, without room for expansion, builds up anxieties, tensions, frustrations and, finally, blind revolt which lashes out at everything around it. It is the community equivalent of getting "stir crazy" under crowded and oppressive prison conditions.

I am not speaking here only of blacks, but of whites as well — who feel their "territorial borders" threatened by this implosion, and who are just as much the victims of unplanned urban growth and a shockingly faulty education-al system which has failed in its basic task of producing democratic citizens who are capable of engaging in the self - correcting democratic process.



The population must not merely be reduced, it must be dispersed. Small towns must be made more economically viable; suburbs must be developed on a rational basis, not as a form of flight out of fear. The city alone cannot assume the dreadful burden of making a better life for its people; it is already buckling at the seams, fiscally as well as physically, politically, and morally.

As all history shows us, when cities crumble, the civilization collapses. A building cannot stand when its weight and density are too concentrated in one area. We need social architects more than policemen.

When you need a friend most.

Accidents happen. No one plans to have one. But they still happen. You never know when. It could be today. The accident may not be your fault. It may or may not be serious. But when it happens, you can feel like the loneliest person on earth.

That's when your insurance man is the best friend you'll ever have. Each year, Canadian car insurance companies pay close to a million claims — promptly and with a minimum of inconvenience. Your insurance people will help you with any claims which may arise — will make sure repairs are satisfactory and at a fair price.

Car insurance may not seem important — until you have an accident. When you do, you'll never have a better friend.

If you have any questions about your car insurance write All Canada Insurance Information Service, Suite 200, 170 University Ave., Toronto 1, representing the majority of competing insurance companies in Canada.

With car insurance, you never drive alone.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1968

City Police Officers Are First on Scene

"She was running down the road screaming", stated two Belleville city police who were first on the scene of this morning's pipeline blast and fire north of the city.

The two officers, Constables Ivan Nelson and Kenneth Fargey, were referring to Mrs. Martin Collins who lived in the nearest residence a scant quarter mile from the scene of the blast.

Constables Nelson and Fargey were on Sidney Street just south of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway when the blast occurred.

They immediately phoned in the alarm and then sped north along Sidney Street toward the scene of the fire now shooting flames high into the air.

The officers said they first met Mrs. Collins as she ran down the road away from her house.

Then a short distance further up the road a man was seen running from the fire.

He was pipeline worker Marcel Pilon the only person who had been directly at the scene of the blast. The entire back of his coat had been ablaze and part of his face was slightly burned. He was later taken to hospital.

The officers quoted Mr Pilon as saying that he had been about 50 feet away when the blast occurred. Fortunately he had been turned away from the blast and this is believed to have saved him from severe facial burns.

An airforce officer living in the Bird Crescent area half a mile south of the blast was quoted as saying the explosion sounded like an aircraft breaking the sound barrier.

Mrs. Collins was alone in her home when the blast occurred. Not bothering with outer clothing she ran away from the house and was met by the two police officers.

Her two children had left for school a short time previous.

Team to Probe Cause

A team of investigators were enroute to Belleville today to probe the cause of this morning's gas pipeline explosion that rocked the city's outskirts.

A pipeline engineer on the spot said resumption of gas service would await the arrival of the Trans-Canada Pipeline team.

The experts will take over from pipeline men already on the spot, who rushed to the scene immediately after the fiery eruption.

The men first on the spot would release no details on possible causes of the explosion which sent plumes of flames thundering 400 feet into the air for nearly an hour.

The pipeline men moved in as the blaze died following a fuel shutoff at Shannonville and Trenton pumping stations.

Foam and powder was sprayed on the core of the blaze — a 20-foot crater on the north corner of the Sidney Street metering station.

As the crater cooled the gasline engineers began scrutinizing the immediate vicinity.

Centre of interest was a large chunk of twisted metal which firemen said was part of the 24-inch main in which the explosion occurred.

Hydro Off in Stirling

The village of Stirling and scores of rural farmsteads were left without hydro power after today's pipeline explosion on North Sidney Street.

The eruption burned through poles carrying a high-voltage line servicing the village and rural homes between Stirling and Belleville.

A spokesman at Ontario Hydro's Eastern regional office in Belleville said it was not known how many homes were affected.

However, line crews were at work immediately the blaze was brought under control and service could be restored by 2 p.m. today.

Heat of Flames Holds Firefighters at Distance

Searing heat blocked close approach by firemen who had to wait until gas was turned off and flames died down before moving in with fire-fighting foam and powder. Fireman and gasline workers are silhouetted against flames nearly a quarter of a mile away.

City firemen douse last of flames which partially burned out gasoline truck parked on roadside 100 feet from blast site.

Firemen and gas line officials inspect section of blasted pipe which touched off this morning's gas pipeline explosion north of the city.

Highway 14 Traffic Diverted

Police Cordon Off Four Square Miles in Gas Blast Area

By ROY PEACOCK
(Staff Reporter)

As a safeguard against possible injury from any later blast, city and provincial police cordoned off a four-square-mile area around the scene of this morning's pipeline blast.

Even traffic on No. 14 highway — well over a mile east of the scene of the blast — was diverted. Cars were not allowed to go south from Sunningdale Ave. along the Sidney-Thurlow boundary line or north of Cloverleaf Drive.

The blast, occurring at approximately 9.20 was heard up to five miles away and the flames, soaring upwards of 400 feet into the air, were seen in the open country for miles.

A Cannifton resident said the blast startled him and the flames reflected against his living room window.

And the roar of the flaming escaping gas was also heard for miles. The sound was easily heard over downtown traffic. Many people mistook it for a low - flying plane.

In Sidney township, easily three miles away, one man said he was first attracted by the roaring sound.

"I looked and looked for the plane to pass and then, when the sound remained in the one place, I looked north and saw the flames.

He estimated the flames were shooting easily 800 feet into the air.

The tremendous heat from the flames prevented even firemen from approaching too near the scene until the gas was shut off at Trenton and Shannonville and the fire died down.

The heat of the flames melted snow over a big area and caused roadside ditches to run full of water.

Sidney Street, adjacent to the fire, was turned into a sea of mud.

Driven eastward by the wind, the heat from the flames could be felt easily from No. 14 highway, more than a mile away.

Belleville firemen didn't have to have the blaze located for them.

Deputy Fire Chief Leo Culhane said he happened to be looking out the north upstairs window at the Moira Street firehall when the blast occured nearly two miles away.

"The flames shot up into the air high above the trees," he said.

Image A Problem

Membership in Home and School Association Drops to 75,000

TORONTO (CP) — Membership of Ontario home and school associations has dropped to about 75,000 this year — 150,000 in peak years, but there is a group within the organization trying to reverse the downward trend.

The group is trying to rid home and school associations of their tea-party image where parents beef at teachers and do nothing but organize bake sales and raffles to raise money.

Lionel Orlikow, a researcher at the Ontario Institute for Studies in education, says the home and school's program is finding a new role for itself. To help this, he has launched a general study of community involvement in the schools and is looking closely at the association.

He says a person becomes interested in home and school usually to help in the education of his own child.

"The solution to the problem is concentrating on a number of very small committees, each working on the special problems of a few people in the school."

Then, he says, parents can take over extracurricular activities, giving teachers more time to concentrate on their profession.

Mr. Orlikow says a pre-school program where mothers spend half an hour reading to children is "preventive work, so the school doesn't have to do remedial work later on."

He says other problems are immigrants who tend to shy away from joining organizations and city groups who have turned in their charters because they feel local problems don't need help from provincial bodies.

"We have a lot of communication from school to parent, now we need a two-way thing—feedback from the community to the school.

"The federation is doing the best it can, but the parental energy all goes into the local setting. They need to be connected."

Nat's Coach Says Soviets 'Wonderful'

MOSCOW (CP) — The coach of Canada's national hockey team used words like "fantastic" and "wonderful" Thursday to describe the Soviet Union's No. 1 team, which defeated the Canadians 6-0 Wednesday night.

"I have never seen a hockey team as good as this one, I swear," Jackie McLeod said in his mid-town hotel after running the team through a one-hour mid-day practice session.

McLeod said he included the National Hockey League in his assessment.

"Individually the Russians would probably be lost against NHL players because they play together but as a team they're great. They impressed me more this year than they ever have."

Wednesday's victory over the Canadians was the third in a row for the Soviets in the final game of a four-team international round-robin tournament. The Soviets finished with a maximum six points and the championship.

The Soviet No. 2 team finished second with three points. Finland had two points and Canada was in last place with one point, gained by tying Finland 2-2 Monday.

Dirty, Too

However, McLeod said the Russians also were the dirtiest team he has ever seen. When he played against them in 1961 "they were not nearly so chippy — none of this spearing and so on you see now."

Wednesday's game left the team without the service of Gerry Pinder, one of its smallest and scrappiest members, who tangled with a massive Soviet defenceman near the end of the game. He emerged with a bleeding nose and a sprained ankle that is expected to keep out of action for at least two weeks.

McLeod said several other Canadians are bruised and sore.

A report by the Soviet news agency Tass said the Canadians had "played rather rough, seeking to reduce the pace, which did not suit them."

Tass said Pinder in particular "tried to aggravate many incidents throughout the match."

Better Shape

McLeod said the Soviet players were in much better shape than the Canadians.

Canadian amateurs cannot afford to train and play 11 months of the year as the Soviets do, he said, and even professionals wouldn't put up with that prolonged discipline.

McLeod said Canadians had not played as well in the tournament as he felt they could have but he thought the matches had been good practice and an "education" for the players.

He had particular praise for forward Steve Carlyle, just turned 18. McLeod said he was astonished at how well Carlyle played.

The Canadian and Soviet squads are scheduled to play exhibition games today and Saturday.

The Rink's the Thing

EDMONTON (CP) — Bill Hunter of Edmonton, chairman of the board of the Western Canada Hockey League, says a domed stadium with major seating capacity in Edmonton might mean a National Hockey League franchise. Hunter, owner and coach of Edmonton Oil Kings, said Wednesday night he had learned from talking to NHL owners that they would "dearly love" to have a Canadian division comprised of Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg and two or three eastern teams.

Esposito's Deuce On Brother Ties Habs

By MICHAEL BENNETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Phil Esposito may have been giving away family secrets Thursday night, but apparently none of his Boston Bruin teammates were listening.

The 208-pound centre scored two goals on his younger brother Tony to salvage a 2-2 tie for the Bruins with Montreal Canadiens and make the first full National Hockey League game for the 25-year-old goaltender a frustrating experience.

The tie for Montreal coupled with Detroit Red Wings' 4-2 win over New York left the Canadiens and the Rangers tied for first place in the Eastern Division with 32 points apiece.

Tony was called up from Houston of the Central Hockey League last week when Gump Worsley's fear of flying forced him to leave the Canadiens in Chicago while they were en route to Oakland.

He played 26 minutes against the Seals, handled six shots and let in two goals as Montreal lost 5-4. But if it hadn't have been for his big brother Thursday night, Tony would have been unbeatable.

Bobby Rousseau and Yvan Cournoyer scored for Montreal as Tony stopped 33 shots, 13 in the first period.

In Detroit, defenceman Kent Douglas scored one goal and assisted on two others as the Red Wings moved into a fifth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks at the expense of the Rangers.

Ed Hatoum, a 20-year-old rookie, Pete Stemkowski and Frank Mahovlich scored the other Detroit goals to extend the Wings' unbeaten streak to three games.

Douglas, top-scoring defenceman in the NHL with 20 points, including 18 assists, also figured in Rod Gilbert's goal for the Rangers. Gilbert's centring pass deflected in behind goaltender Roger Crozier at 17:07 of the second period off Douglas while New York had a man advantage. Defencemen Jim Neilson scored the other Ranger goal.

In the only game tonight, Philadelphia Flyers play the Seals in Oakland.

Meanwhile, the Canadiens, who have only a tie in their last two games, may be playing with emergency replacement goaltenders for a while yet.

Worsley has been ordered to take a month's rest and Rogatien Vachon is still out with an injured hand, leaving Esposito and veteran Ernie Wakely, called up from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, to handle netminding chores.

Tony was a standout on the U.S. collegiate circuit with Michigan Tech before he turned pro with Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League last season.

The Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. native played 62 games behind the last-place Canucks and finished the season with a 3.20 goals-a-gaint average.

Phil Esposito agreed with Boston coach Harry Sinden that he didn't have any qualms about scoring against his kid brother, but he also praised the gritty youngster.

"He looks to me as though he's going to make it up here," Phil said in the dressing room following the game.

"Maybe, it will be tough with Montreal with their goaltending, but he should make it with some club."

Tony said he wasn't nervous in his first full start, but added that it's a lot different up here; you have to be alert all the time or they'll kill you."

He didn't have a chance on Phil's first goal, a rebound on Ted Green's slapshot and he was partially screened on the second from about 45 feet out. The goals were his 14th and 15th of the season.

Kings Seek Goalie

Collingwood Srs. Wooing Czech

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Collingwood Kings of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series are hoping to sign goalie Jan Marek, a refugee of the recent invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The 21-year-old Czech goalie joined the Kings for a workout Thursday night and impressed team officials and 100 fans.

Jack Grier, general-manager of the Kings, said his club could use Marek if his release can be obtained from Czechoslovakia through the International Hockey Federation. The Kings are negotiating with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to obtain the goalie's release.

Marek played for Prague in the Czechoslovakia Hockey League.

Marek was given a tryout earlier this week by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. The Leafs would have first claim on him if he gets his release and turns pro.

Marek, who does not speak English, is living with friends in Collingwood.

Grier said Marek will remain with the Kings for at least a week while efforts are made to clarify his status.

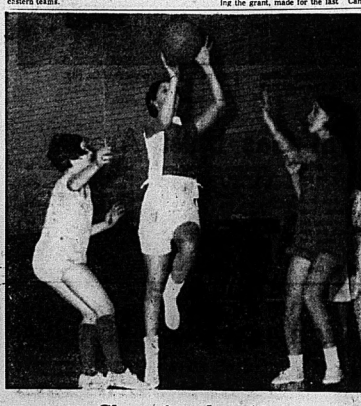
Nats' Trip to Moscow Financed by Bank Loans

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was accused Thursday night of impeding Canadian participation in international hockey competition by withholding a grant to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that would help finance Canada's national team.

Because of a delay in providing the grant, made for the last few years out of the government's sports and physical fitness fund, the CAHA has had to finance a current trip to Moscow by the national team through bank loans, Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) told the Commons.



This was placing "an unnecessary additional impediment on Canadian participation in international hockey competition."

Dinsdale said he hopes that the government will facilitate through legislative action the creation of a Canada hockey corporation to take charge of the national team effort.

Health Minister John Munro said that the government is in "wholehearted support" of the national team.

Spring Trials

Permanent Pinch Hitters to Be Tested

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Faced with a possible players' strike and dwindling attendance in major league baseball parks, the American League is changing some spring training rules and the National League will test lights in its ball parks.

That's the gist of what happened in the final full day of baseball's winter meetings.

Only a one-hour session was planned today, to discuss lowering the number of players a team can carry to 25 from 25.

The division of money for the inter-league playoffs that will be held for the first time in 1969 and the realignment of the minor leagues were put off for further talks.

The subject of the players' strike, threatened Wednesday by the Players Association if agreement on a pension-fund dispute couldn't be reached, was not discussed.

However, John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, did issue a press release disputing the association's contention that management was delaying negotiations. It ignored the association's charge that players were being pressured into signing their contracts.

American League President Joe Cronin said experimental rules would be made during the 1969 spring training season, but that they would not be used during the regular season.

Among the experiments are a permanent pinch hitter, a permanent pinch runner who could be used at any time and awarding an intentional walk automatically rather than throwing four balls.

Giles said the National League will test all its lighting systems to make sure outfields were as well lit as the infield area. This was a suggestion of the New York Mets.

Nicholls Setting Pace In District Five-Pin Roll-off

Belleville's Jim Nicholls holds the lead going into the this weekend's final two rounds of the district roll-off for the right to advance to the Ontario five-pin championships at Sudbury in April.

Nicholls has a 2710 total for ten games and holds a comfortable lead over Belleville Ed Lugtenburg, in second spot with 2506, and Doug Linn of Campbellford, who is third with 2477.

The top three, after the completion of the thirty-game qualifying round, will represent the Bay of Quinte Bowlers Association in the singles finals at Sudbury.

Mary Slaght of Brighton leads the ladies' division with 2554 for ten games. She is followed by two Trenton girls, Audrey Aziz with 2436, and Terry Thompson with 2374.

In all, ten men and nine ladies will make it to Sudbury to compete in team events.

Mo-Hawks Facing Weekend Acid Test

STAFF — The Belleville Mo-Hawks are shooting for one of six playoff berths in the eight-team OHA Senior "A" hockey loop but they must pass the acid test this weekend to enhance their playoff chances.

Tonight at the Belleville Arena the Mo-Hawks play host to third-place Galt Hornets and Sunday afternoon they travel to Barrie to take on the league-leading Flyers.

Belleville currently trails sixth-place Kingston by four points in the race for the last playoff spot. The locals have a game in hand and a four point weekend would boost their playoff chances.

Playing-coach Davey Jones said that "Wiener" Brown, who missed last Sunday's game against Orillia with a pulled muscle in his thigh, will likely play tonight. Jones will decide before game time tonight who will sit out the contest.

The Mo-Hawks have only played the Hornets once this year, winning 5-3 in Galt early in the season for their lone road win to date. "They won't be easy," Jones said, "but we beat them before and we can again if we play as well as we did in the first two periods of last Sunday's game against Orillia."

Last Sunday in Orillia, the Mo Hawks lost a tough 5-4 decision after scoring four goals in the first period and leading 4-0 at the end of two periods.

Tuesday night Belleville travels to Kingston for an important game against the Aces, the team directly above them in the standings.

The league standings are:

	G.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Senile	17	13	4	1	27
Kenilla	17	12	4	1	25

Earl Monroe poured in 26 points to lead Baltimore Bullets to a crushing 108-90 victory over Los Angeles Lakers in National Basketball Association action Thursday. In the only other game, Philadelphia 76ers beat Chicago Bulls 109-92 at Chicago. At Baltimore, the Bullets' win put them into first place, ahead of Boston, in the Eastern Division. Elgin Baylor scored 17 and Wil Chamberlain 18 for the Lakers.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — Jimmy (Sailor) Herberts, 71, a colorful National Hockey League star of four decades ago, died Thursday night in hospital after a long battle against cancer. Born in Collingwood, Ont., he turned pro in the NHL with the first Boston Bruins team in 1924 and scored 17 goals in his rookie year as a right winger. In the following season, he was the third highest scorer in the NHL — behind Nels Stewart and Cy Denneny — with 26 goals and five assists, his best year.

The streaking St. Catharines Black Hawks Thursday threatened to replace Peterborough Petes at the top of the 10-team Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series with a 6-3 win over fifth-place Hamilton Red Wings. The Hawks, collectively the highest scorers in the league with 113 goals in 22 games, edged within two points of the Petes who fell 4-2 on home ice Thursday to Ottawa 67s.

Belvederemen Steal Twinkle From Stars

Belvedere Hotel grabbed undisputed possession of second place in the Quinte Hockey League last night when they handed Aluminum Stars their first defeat, a 4-0 shellacking.

In other action Stinson's Construction jumped over Central Taxi into third place when they defeated the shorthanded Taximan 4-1.

Johnson, Skinner, Ethier and Hallam potted the Hotelmen goals, in the Stars' initial set-back.

The shorthanded Central Taxi squad opened the scoring on a goal by Terry Casselman, but were worn down by the Constructionmen who got goals from Rowland, Ray, Donard and Symons.

The standings are:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Aluminum Stars	4	1	1	9
Belvedere Hotel	3	3	0	6
Stinson's Const.	2	3	1	5
Central Taxi	1	3	2	4

Picton Sr. Girls Carry Colors

STAFF — Prince Edward Collegiate Seniors and Quinte Juniors will carry the colors of the Bay of Quinte District into the C.O.S.S.A. girls' Class "AA" basketball championships Saturday at Cobourg East Collegiate.

The Picton seniors, coached by Quinte Secondary graduate Christine Brown, compiled a season's record of 11 wins and one loss.

Pat Hart, Patti Love, Cathy Hepburn, five-foot, too-inch Heather McNally, Mary Kristalyn, Debbie McAlpine, Jane Macintosh and injured Roxanne Pearsall "man" the forward lines for Picton, while Janet Fennemore, Sue Hyatt and Margie Shields play the guard position.

Coach Brown said, "This is my first year of coaching and it's been a rewarding experience. I'm very proud of these girls they have practised almost every day all year and worked very hard."

Picton will play the Kawartha District champion at 5 p.m. with the winner advancing to the C.O.S.S.A. final at 8 p.m.

The junior Saints have captured the Bay of Quinte championship in their first year together. All the girls are Grade nine and ten students.

They compiled a perfect season's record with 12 wins and no losses. Miss C. Frost, coaching her first COSSA team said "We've got good ball-handling and good depth but I don't know what to expect at Cobourg."

Donna Brant, Gladys Stephenson, Lori Campbell, Suzanne Foster and Bonnie Shindale are the starters for the Junior Saints.

Mulroney's Still Set Pace For Gas Housers

Mulroney's remained undefeated in Gas House league play with a 4-1 victory over Wings last night while Mustangs strengthened their hold on second place with a 6-0 whitewashing of Marysville.

Mulroney's ran their winning streak to five games as Mallory, Woodcock, Ford and Casselman scored single goals. Goodfellow replied for the Wings.

Sneddon paced the Mustangs with a pair of goals and singletons went to Jury, Garvin, Holoway and Woodley.

The league standings are:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Mulroney's	5	0	0	10
Mustangs	3	1	1	7
Marysville	0	3	2	2
Wings	0	4	1	1

The Quinte Juniors will play the Kwartha District runner-up at 12.30 with the winner advancing to the junior final at 6 p.m.

A.C., Nicholson Send Girls To COSSA Meet

STAFF — Two local girls' basketball teams will vie for C.O.S.S.A. Class "A" championships on Saturday at Oshawa Catholic High School.

Albert College, Bay of Quinte champions for the second year, will be the Bay of Quinte senior representatives and Nicholson Catholic College, 26-24 playoff winners over Tweed Tuesday, the junior representatives.

Albert College seniors play at 2 p.m. against the Allenshon of the Lake Ontario District. If they win they advance to the final at 8 p.m. against the winner of the game between the Kawartha champion and the Lake Ontario District runner-up. As host the Lake Ontario District is entitled to two representatives in both the junior and senior playoffs.

Centre Margie Munroe, forwards Denise Grey and Ila Grey, and guards Maureen Edmess and Susan Burgess comprise the Albert starting five. Guard Ruth McSkimming who alternates with the two starters, Pat Lamb and Sharon Minors, a seventeen-year-old girl from Bermuda, playing her first year of basketball, will be available in reserve.

Debbie Heenan, Judi Hurst and Cheryl Mead are unable to make the trip, leaving rookie coach Judy Davidson with only seven players.

Coach Davidson said "We've only got average height, but the girls have a lot of natural talent and they play well together." "If we play as well as in the first three quarters of the playoff game against Tweed, I think we stand a chance to win the championship," she added.

Nicholson junior coach Miss Cathy Gist said "We've got a chance if the girls don't get nervous and let the crowds bother them. They were outplayed in the playoff game with Tweed and we drew 30 fouls. We do have some good ball handlers and shooters and I expect a close game."

Team captain Betty Moskaki plays centre and the forwards are Anne Skerl, Loretta Fleming, Susan Windsor, Linda Jones, Christine Walsh and Sandra Nolan. The guards are Sharon Lummiss, Bonnie Green, Barbara Barrett and Donna Barrett.

Sunday School Lesson

Word From A Lonely Island

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Life is often stranger than fiction. We all want freedom to live and work as creatively as we can. Yet some men have been the most creative when they were confined in prison, and had lots of time to think and write.

Put John Banyan in jail, and he writes "Pilgrim's Progress." Put Dietrich Bonhoeffer in a Nazi prison, and he thinks and writes deep thoughts about faith and discipleship. Paul wrote some of his greatest letters from a Roman prison. And Martin Luther King, Jr. wrote one of his greatest statements in a Birmingham jail.

During World War II, William Allen, an American missionary, was held in a Japanese concentration camp near Tokyo. In the long hours of enforced loneliness, he formed the habit of praying around the world. Each day, he would let his mind move from country to country, and would pray for the people in those countries. In this way, he helped to keep his mind active, and developed his spiritual life as well.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 8 is taken from Revelation To The Churches," Revelation 1 through 3.

In a similar way, a man exiled on a lonely island thought of churches with which he was familiar. From his lonely cell (tradition says it was a cave), he wrote a message to seven of those churches. His message was to become the last book in the Christian Bible.

His name was John. He was held by Roman authorities on a small island called Patmos off the coast of what we now call Turkey. Each year, many tourists visit this little island between Turkey and Greece to see the cave in which he is said to have been imprisoned.

One Sunday (Revelation 1: 10) John let his mind wander along a highway from city to city in Asia Minor. As he came to each city, he thought about the Christian congregation worshipping there. As he did so, he had a vision of what Christ would want to say to each congregation. He began his larger message with a brief message to each of the churches.

Two problems have always plagued the churches — false teachings and a loss of original devotion. How to deal with false doctrines, and how, to maintain a deep level of devotion and a high level of enthusiasm, these are continuing problems in churches today.

These have been problems from the very start. In almost all cases, John began his messages to the churches by complimenting the faithful for their patient endurance in the face of trials and persecution. For all seven churches faced a serious problem of some kind.

In the case of the churches in Ephesus and Pergamum, the problem was doctrines held by some who were called Nicolaitans. These may have been followers of Nicolaus, the proselyte of Antioch, mentioned in Acts 6:5. At any rate, John declared their doctrines false, and not in keeping with the Christian faith.

In the case of Smyrna, the problem was competition between the church and synagogue. (Revelation 2:9) Unfortunately, the leaders of the synagogue were not willing to grant religious liberty to their Christian neighbors. So often in history, the situation has been reversed, and Jews have been the ones persecuted. It was a happy day for America when Roger Williams granted religious liberty for all, including Jews, in his Providence Plantation. In appreciation for his historic act, one Jew, Oscar Straus, has written a biography of Roger Williams (Roger Williams, Pioneer of Religious Liberty. Oscar S. Straus, c1936)

The church of Pergamum faced the problem of trying to exist in a city that was a major seat of emperor worship. A temple stood in this city for the worship of the goddess Roma, and of the emperor Augustus. John calls it "Satan's throne." (Revelation 2: 13) Like many Christians today, some had not repudiated the sins of the world. Like Balaam who wanted to mix the ways of Moab with the ways of Israel, there were some who wanted to mix Christian faith with pagan conduct. (Revelation 2:14)

The church in Thyatira had a "cleansing" it needed to get rid of. The church in Sardis seemed to be prospering, but was spiritually poor. The church in Philadelphia had an open door of opportunity. But the church in Laodicea was a lukewarm in its devotion. (Revelation 2:20; 3:1, 8, 15)

How up-to-date this all sounds. Jesus is pictured patiently knocking at the door of every heart and church, waiting for a full welcome. Revelation 3:20) He will not force entry. William Holman Hunt has painted this scene. There is no outside latch on the door as he paints it. Each door he indicates, must be opened from within.

U.S. Claim To Water Is Denied

VICTORIA (CP) — Canada should firmly resist any United States claim to continental water resources, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, co-chairman of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, said Thursday.

In a speech to the water workshop seminar of the Canadian council of resource ministers, Dr. Keenleyside said "the idea that any other country has a moral claim on this Canadian capital resource should be firmly resisted. . . .

"Having through carelessness and avarice destroyed some part of the value of their own lakes and rivers, and having lowered the water table in large sections of their territory, some American legislators have decided that they have a moral right of access to Canadian waters.

"This would be easier and cheaper than cleaning up the mess that they have created at home."

After a thorough survey of Canada's water resource potential and her future needs, Canada could decide to sell some water to the U.S. But "we don't know now, and we will not know for a long time, to come, what our own eventual needs may be."

Text of Dr. Keenleyside's speech was released to reporters before delivery.

Union Members --$50,000 A Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can you imagine a labor organization with a union-shop contract but no minimum provisions? A union in which the members earn an average of $50,000 a year?

Most union members would blink unbelievingly at hearing of the Producers Guild of America, which recently won recognition as bargaining agent for the men who produce features movies and filmed television series. The guild has 350 members and 60 of those have joined during the last month.

The producers wield a large amount of power, creatively and financially. Probably one-third of them earn more than $100,000 a year and many are millionaires. Producers determine to a large extent how much money is spent on filmed entertainment.

A producer is the man who gathers all the elements together. He buys the story, assigns a script writer and director, oversees the budget, approves the sets and costumes and sees that the product is completed and delivered. Sometimes these functions are done in collaboration with the director, sometimes not.

Controlling such power, who would the producers want a union?

"Many of the establishment people in our guild didn't want a bargaining contract; they thought that they were part of management which they are," says Lou Greenspan, executive director of the Producers Guild.

"But many of the younger producers, particularly those in television, were looking for economic benefits that were denied to them because of their position. All other segments of the industry receive those benefits. Why should producers be penalized merely because they are part of management?"

The guild has a 10-year contract which provides pension and health-welfare plans similar to those for other film unions. No minimum wages were established.

Next in line for organizing are the producers who work for the three television networks.

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clocks were found only in cathedrals and public museums; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.
If the days of your older clock are gone, too, Intelligencer readers are that a home somewhere in this area would love to use it.

YOU MAY NOT OWN A TALKING PIANO!

But if your piano could talk, it might tell you that its first announcer was invented in Florence, Italy in 1709, and that by 1800 it had supplanted the harpsichord and clavichord. And it would tell you Mozart and Haydn were among the first composers to write for the piano. Your piano might also remind you that if you no longer play it, it should be sold through a Intelligencer Want Ad so that it could get back to work. Call 962-9171 today.

To Your Good Health

Oxygen of No Use in a Stroke

By Dr. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A person had a stroke while at my home. It was obviously a stroke, but he was not gasping for air or having any difficulty breathing.

The ambulance was on the way, but a relative who has asthma and carries oxygen in his car wanted to give him oxygen. I said no. Wait for the ambulance, but since then I have been criticized for not using it. Was I wrong? — Mrs. D. M.

No, you weren't wrong.

As long as the patient was having no breathing difficulty, there was nothing to be gained by giving him oxygen, and there could have something to lose.

In case of a stroke, there is nothing to be done except to keep the victim as quiet as possible, keep him warm if it is necessary, and wait for the ambulance. Loosening collar or tie is usually all right, but it is not necessary if he is breathing easily. Placing a pillow under the head makes sense. That's all, I think.

Trying to give oxygen in such a case accomplishes nothing except to disturb the patient — and what he needs is to be kept as quiet as possible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have varicose ulcers on my ankles. Do you have any suggestions on how to heal them and keep them healed? — E. J. R.

Such ulcers are difficult to heal because circulation in the legs is poor. The only realistic way to improve the circulation is to have the varicose veins removed.

You will find this discussed in my booklet, "How To Deal with Varicose Veins." Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy.

Ulcers may by dint of luck and considerable effort, varicose ulcers are healed — only nothing except the patient knows minor injury or for no visible reason, at all. In my opinion, the only sensible course is to have the weak veins stripped out surgically. With improved circulation and supplementary treatment, the ulcer will heal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please print something about getting a bad sunburn after taking an antibiotic. Two doctors knew nothing about it. I think it should be put in the paper as a warning. — C. E. S.

I don't think any general warning is warranted. It does not happen with all antibiotics. In my experience it occurs particularly with the tetracycline group of antibiotics and then only if the patient happens to be sensitive to it. The majority are not.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to stop smoking, but when I tried I acquired an irritating cough, dry and ticklish, at night, so we n t back to smoking which leaves me with a loose cough but persistent. I take tablets to help breathing, and phenobarbital. Please help me. I have emphysema and am depressed and irritable. — Mrs. C.

I guess I've heard everything now in the way of excuses to keep on smoking — to create a loose cough instead of a dry one.

A cough is quite likely to develop from emphysema, but to add irritation to your breathing passages, to create phlegm and a "loose" cough, is no answer at all.

With emphysema, you must stop smoking; otherwise you just make the basic condition worse and worse.

The only way I can help you is to urge that you give up smoking again and make it stick — and have your doctor prescribe medication which will loosen your dry cough until the irritated membranes can repair themselves.

Chicago Archbishop Annoyed By Tribal-type Dance at Mass

CHICAGO (Reuters) — John Cardinal Cody, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Chicago, announced Thursday a full-scale inquiry into the performance of an African tribal-type dance by a half-naked black man during a mass at a hotel here Sunday.

The dancer, bare to the waist, danced his way to an improvised altar carrying a chalice and accompanied by jungle-beat music at the mass, celebrated during a meeting of the Chicago Conference of Laymen, an unofficial organization of Roman Catholics.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. John R. Lynch, associate pastor of a Roman Catholic church on the city's South Side.

The cardinal said the mass was conducted without permission.

"I condemn the performance of a dance that was done during the mass," he said.

He said permission was not—and would not—be granted "to conduct any services not in keeping with the devotional spirit of the liturgy."

A number of priests with missionary experience defended African-type masses.

Rev. George H. Clements, an assistant pastor of a Chicago Negro ghetto parish, said an African mass would probably be welcomed by the city's black community.

King of World Dies at Age 76

NEW YORK (AP) — Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson, 76, a flamboyant religious leader who crowned himself "king of the world" and sought the United States presidency on a platform pledging a new Garden of Eden, died Wednesday in hospital.

Tomlinson, a one-time Madison Avenue advertising man, was general overseer of the 72,000-member Church of God of Queens, N.Y., an offshoot from a larger denomination of that name with headquarters in Cleveland, Tenn., but not connected with it.

With his flair for unusual antics, Bishop Tomlinson early in his ministerial career performed a marriage ceramony while he and the couple were descending by parachute from an airplane.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Dec. 7th,

Your birthday today: The coming year will see a peak in growth of your psychic powers. There is no known system for learning or forcing such talents; one meditates, prays, and becomes sufficiently whole to permit the light to come through. You will need a great deal of privacy. Learn to use it. Today's natives are of every conceivable physical type, but all have latent intuitions beyond the norm.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Again you have the opportunity to learn just where your limitations are. Moderate your desire to avoid fatigue. Give other people time to redirect themselves.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Gather your confidence and proceed, despite slippage of current schedules. Long-range goals should be kept in mind.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Your money escapes your custody — or so your spouse says. The best course is your regular weekend routine. Don't join in escapades you can't afford!

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Travel and the use of heavy equipment become hazardous. Home conditions are unsettled; squabbling improves nothing. Distinguish between straight programs and psychological games.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Gather family and neighbors around you; strengthen relationships. Tense, critical problems nobody planned arise over jobs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Decline to feel. Spitting brings less satisfaction than usual. Your stewardship of older family members or traditions may need your attention.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): The day is not difficult but takes more energy and patience than you are ready for at the moment. Bickering ruined you well-seen your challenging services.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): If you have any desperate competitor, or have unwittingly spoiled anybody's fun, you will notice the results now. Face the stress directly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Evade new burdens. Leave your money safely put away. Pursue scientific interests this afternoon or evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your schedules are superseded by the complications in the lives of those you love. Get additional advice. For every move, think twice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your associates are not sure what they want—(and are not willing to admit it). Let them resolve their own decisions. Meanwhile, go about your own affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Special caution in all financial matters is strongly urged! Accept social invitations; pursue sentimental and romantic interests.

Press Itself Is Called Threat to Freedom of Information

OTTAWA (CP) — A panel of scholars, government officials and newspaper men concluded Thursday night that the press may well be its own worst enemy because it threatens a basic human right to freedom of information.

The newspaper men—John Grace, assistant editor of the Ottawa Journal, and Claude Ryan, editor of Le Devoir of Montreal—pinpointed features of newspaper and broadcasting practice they said endangers the right to information.

"The greatest danger is not managed news, not any policy of secrecy or any law," said Mr. Grace said. "The biggest danger today is the press' own abuse of its freedom."

The abuse results from a tendency of the press to insist that it has privileges beyond the public's right to know, Mr. Grace said.

Marc Lalonde, chief press officer for Prime Minister Trudeau and chairman of the panel, agreed that : "the rights of the press to be informed are no more and no less than the public's".

Mr. Ryan suggested the dominance of business considerations in the newspaper and broadcasting industry threaten the public's right to information.

The scope and variety of available information are limited by the alienation between what he termed the intellectual and economic functions of the press.

Mr. Ryan criticized application of business principles to reporting. In the development of newspaper and broadcasting groups, he suggested, there is a mistaken tendency to consolidate reporting along with the mechanical operations and thus to limit the variety and breadth of viewpoints.

Discussion took place in a public seminar organized by St. Paul University to mark two anniversaries—the 20th year since the United Nations proclaimed freedom of information as part of its Universal Declaration of Human Rights and five years after Pope Paul VI's promulgation of a similar right.

David Dehler, professor of common law at Ottawa University, led discussion with an argument that man has the historical and philosophical right to information emanating from his duty to seek the truth and fulfill his nature.

"The right of information, as human right, gives rise to another right—freedom of the press, which is a means of giving effect to the right of information," Prof. Dehler said.

The problem in applying the free-press principle, he added, is trying to "reconcile the right of public authority with the exercise of the right to information within the nation and across the world."

A. E. Gotlieb, an expert in international law just named deputy minister in a communications department to be formed, outlined the failure to reconcile authority and press freedom in a world treaty.

He traced an abortive attempt during the last 20 years at the United Nations to draw up an agreed convention that would satisfy Western democracies, Marxist governments and new countries suspicious of a Western monopoly of the world news systems.

Mr. Grace said that even in the Canadian and United States democracies, the press has failed to establish operational principles for itself.

There is a tendency to intrude and provoke unjustifiably, Mr. Grace said. The tendency results from a belief that the press is privileged.

"That kind of fat-headedness will do the press more harm than any government would dare do," he added.

Mr. Ryan said that in forming bigger units through groups of newspapers and broadcasters, "there is a certain homogenization of human work that does not further quality."

He said that if a group of newspapers has one Ottawa reporter writing for newspapers in 10 provinces, freedom of information is limited because the variety of viewpoints is curtailed.

Mr. Ryan said there is a "danger of establishing an intellectual aristocracy, a development that would violate democracy. It is better to tolerate some mediocrity in the press than end up with uniform high quality which at the same time would limit variety, he added.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I suppose that in first class we'll be expected to dress for dinner."

Airing of Wheat Problems Said Obstacle to Sales

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs "seeking publicity" have endangered Canadian wheat markets by damaging the country's reputation for having good grain on hand, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson said in the Commons Thursday.

Continued emphasis on the problems of damp and tough grain on the Prairies has resulted in a lot of inquiries from overseas about the condition of the crop, he said.

"We will have to do a lot of work to restore the damage."

Mr. Olson said Canada has adequate supplies of dry, high-quality grain to fill all overseas commitments.

He outlined joint government-industry efforts to deal with the grain hit by cold, wet weather during the harvesting season, and paid tribute to the work of the elevator companies, the Canadian wheat board, the board of grain commissioners and the provincial agriculture departments.

But the most important factor was "the resourcefulness, ingenuity and capability of the individual farmer."

"I have a great deal of faith in the ability of a farmer to take care of his own crops. Farmers are not sitting around wringing their hands waiting for the government to do something."

He said there are more ways of dealing with damp grain than shipping it to elevators where there are dryers.

Demands for assistance to farmers with damp grain have dominated the question period in the Commons for weeks. Twice opposition MPs tried to have regular business suspended for emergency debates on the question.

As Mr. Olson fought back Thursday night, Alf Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon Biggar) and Jack Horner (PC—Crowfoot) demanded that Mr. Olson withdraw his comments about publicity-seeking.

"I believe they (opposition members) were seeking publicity and it is my right to say so," Mr. Olson replied.

Mr. Horner, an Alberta farmer, said he is well informed on how to dry grain.

Mr. Olson suggested he should have advised his leader.

Opposition Leader Stanfield had attacked government agriculture policies earlier in the day as the Commons opened study of the departments $255,000,000 spending estimates for 1968-69.

He said farm income remained static while farmers take "a brutal beating by inflation" in the price of necessary equipment and services.

Wheat exports were down, Canada's share of the world wheat market had declined while the U.S. took a larger share, machinery sales were down and farmers were holding back from new investments.

Police Consider Mass Absenteeism

TORONTO (CP) — A representative of Metropolitan Toronto policemen said Thursday they are threatening mass absenteeism and even a picket line around city hall to win a 1968 working agreement.

The Ontario Police Act bars them from striking. But Constable Sydney Brown, president of the Metropolitan Toronto Police Association, said many were threatening to book off sick — a device employed by hundreds of New York police recently but never used in Canada.

He said morale was low because the men have worked 11 months without knowing how much they are being paid this year. They started negotiations with the police commission last January on demands for 15 per cent more pay. A first class, five-year constable now earns $7,423.

Ontario Would Have Great Difficulty Imposing Its Own Tax on Capital Gains

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough told the legislature Thursday it would be "difficult if not impossible" for Ontario to impose a capital gains tax without developing its own personal income tax mechanism.

He was replying to New Democratic Party Leader Donald MacDonald, who asked whether the minister's rejection of a capital gains tax to decrease land speculation during a speech to a home builder's convention Tuesday was a statement of government policy.

Mr. McKeough repeated a three-point statement given at the conference:

"I said, first of all, that I felt . . . it would be difficult to impose a capital gains tax on land speculation or on profits from land speculation as opposed to a capital gains tax on other kinds of profits from other kinds of speculation—meaning the market or other forms of investment.

"I further point out that for competitive reasons . . . it would be difficult to impose a provincial capital gains tax in one province alone. . . ."

He added that "it would be difficult if not impossible to impose a capital gains tax on any one segment of capital gains without having a mechanism of a personal income tax."

He said government policy on the matter would be announced "in due course by the provincial treasurer."

—Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle said the federal fisheries research board is polluting small lakes in Northern Ontario in an effort to determine if a lake's aging process is reversible. He said 36 small lakes and 17 watersheds covering an average of 3 acres are affected. He said no downstream watershed will be affected. The research will take 15 to 20 years he said.

—Education Minister William Davis said graduates of Ontario's new French language high schools will be eligible for provincial student awards to pursue studies in French in Canada.

—Education Minister William Davis said Ottawa must provide help for private business schools which face bankruptcy because of provincially-sponsored adult retraining courses. He said federal legislation on adult occupational training limits federal contributions to adults enrolled in schools "approved by the government of the province in which the course is operated."

—Liberal Elmer Sopha of Sudbury invited the Ontario New Democratic Party to switch to the Liberals and form a new government after the next provincial general election.

The only real contribution the NDP has made to political life, he said, is to maintain the Conservative government in office by splitting anti-government votes between the two opposition parties, he said.

—Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle said most Ontario anglers will need only their $3 licence to catch smelt in the spring.

In answer to a question from Jack Stockes (NDP—Thunder Bay) about the 1969 Ontario fishing regulations, he said with the $3 licence anglers could use a dip net no larger than six feet square to catch smelt.

The $1 resident smelt licence permits fishermen to use a larger seine net up to 30 feet by six feet in some parts of Ontario, in March, April and May.

WARD 5
THURLOW TOWNSHIP VOTERS

My personal thanks for your support in electing me your member of the Hastings County Board of Education.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season.

Sincerely
Milford J. Waller.

Jerry Pringle (L—Fraser Valley West) criticized farmer-MPs for a pessimistic attitude to the family farm. A revolution was taking place in the agriculture industry and most farmers were happy with the situation.

What has vanished is the "chicken-on-the-manure-heap" concept of farming.

Opposition MPs plied the minister with questions about helping farmers deal with the damp grain problem.

Richard Southam (PC—Qu'Appelle-Moose Mountain) repeated his plea for cash assistance through acreage payments. Unless a big grain-drying program is started there will be a multi-million dollar loss through grain rot and mould, he warned.

Mr. Horner suggested the government purchase large stationary grain dryers and operate them in various parts of the grain country.

Gas Service Restored After 17 Chilly Hours

Repairs Go on Around-the-Clock

Working under spotlights repair gang probes the ground around gas pipeline in the round-the-clock operation following yesterday's explosion at North Sidney Street metering station. Meantime, in Belleville-Trenton area more than 150 service crews worked through the night to restore domestic fuel service to 5,000 consumers.

Extra Crew Leaves

By HARRY MULHALL
(Staff Reporter)

While hundreds of householders huddled for warmth, work crews toiled through the night restoring gas supplies along the Bay of Quinte shoreline.

Lakeland Natural Gas Company officials claimed service was restored to most of their 5,000 area consumers by 7 a.m. — 17 hours after an explosion ripped through a trans-Canada pipeline on North Sidney Street.

Lakeland mustered a 150-man task force into flying squad to cope with the emergency that left hundreds of homes heatless as temperatures outside dipped below freezing.

Lakeland and its distribution counterparts in the Northern and Central Gas Corporation complex hurriedly assembled the force immediately after the pipeline was sealed to extinguish a roaring fireball sparked by the explosion.

Men were despatched from as far away as Hamilton and Montreal to join crews flown in to Trenton from Northern Ontario.

This morning Lakeland divisional manager R. S. Snyder announced gas had been turned on in all but 200-300 homes.

Only reason why these householders were still without service was the fact mechanics could find no one home when they called during the night.

Centre of operations was Lakeland's Belleville office.

Service crews fanned out through the night in a fleet of automobiles, taxis and company trucks to restart furnaces and stoves throughout the area.

Consumers faced up to the emergency in various ways.

As temperatures dipped — the official Belleville low was 25 degrees — and homes cooled, some families sent young-er children to stay with relatives and friends.

Others with electric appliances huddled around kitchen stoves.

Many just went to bed earlier than usual, after piling on an extra supply of blankets.

The Quinte Emergency Measures Organization operated a clearing house for electric heaters.

EMO co-ordinator Angus Duffy said response to his appeal for heating appliances was immediate.

He Loves A Parade!

At 79 Harry Abbott still marches with the best of 'em. Like any old trouper he's always ready with a helping hand for the youngsters — like majorette Karen Plante.

Harry Shows Them How

So who says something like a Santa Claus parade is only for the young?

Tell that to Harry Abbott and he might just walk away.

Or rather, march off — with the same sturdy stride he showed this morning as marshal for Belleville's glittering Santa Claus parade.

At 79, Harry can march with the best of them — certainly outpace most of them.

That's why no one was surprised when Harry said he'd be where he's been ever since the event began 15 years ago — right up front.

His tall, rainrod-straight figure — made even more imposing by a uniform topped with a shako — gave no hint he was striding into his 80th year.

Who. Organized It ?

Bertrand Probes Student March

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand said Friday Quebec's department of education is investigating the role, if any, of school boards and teachers in the window-smashing march on the legislature Thursday.

He hoped to know by Monday who incited large numbers of high school students to leave classes and participate in the demonstration.

Organized in protest against a promised Union Nationale government bill guaranteeing language rights in education, the demonstration involved at its peak nearly 3,000 persons, most of them under 16.

Waving placards and chanting nationalist slogans in French, the demonstrators smashed 60 legislature windows with snowballs.

Mr. Bertrand, Opposition Leader Jean Lesage and Rene Levesque, head of the separatist Parti Quebecois, were unanimous in denouncing adult extremists responsible for the children's involvement.

Meanwhile, Quebec City's Roman Catholic teachers denied Friday they are responsible.

A statement from their association said the students themselves were "the sole organizers and the only ones responsible" for the march.

It was "unjust and dishonest" to blame the teachers.

In answer to Pierre Laporte, Liberal house leader, Mr. Bertrand said he also hopes to dents at one school were offered know by Monday whether stu-a half-way holiday if they participated in the march and threatened with discipline if they did not.

Outside reaction to the march also was unanimous in its disapproval of the children's involvement.

Italy Hit By Major Stoppages

ROME (AP) — Italian labor unions today called five major strikes to paralyze sections of the country before Christmas as three political parties prepared to join forces in a new coalition government.

Spot general strikes to demand contract and wage improvements were scheduled Dec. 9 in the Calabria region of southern Italy; Dec. 10 in Sardinia; Dec. 11 in Sicily; Dec. 12 in the Emilia and Puglia regions, and Dec. 13 in the Abruzzo and Tuscany regions.

Calgary Diehards Ask What's Your Beef ?

TORONTO (CP) — Diehard Calgary fans are still paying off Grey Cup bets, but a group of Western office workers added a new wrinkle Friday.

Employees at the British American Oil Co. in Calgary lost $400 to co-workers in Toronto when Calgary Stampeders bowed 24-21 to Ottawa Rough Riders in last Saturday's Grey Cup.

So they decided to pay off Western style and sent 1,000 pounds of prime beef to settle the debt—but they sent it on the hoof, alive and kicking.

A Black Angus steer trotted through the door of B-A's Toronto office Friday, sending secretaries into a tizzy.

The Calgarians finally admitted it was all a joke, returned the steer to its Toronto stall and announced a $400 cheque is in the mail.

Six Issues Met

Paris Peace Talk Principals Inch Towards Progress

PARIS (AP) — United States and North Vietnamese negotiators have agreed on six procedural issues for four-way peace talks, but they still can't agree on who will sit where.

U.S. officials said the six points agreed on Friday by Cyrus Vance, No. 2 man in the U.S. delegation, and his North Vietnamese counterpart, Il a Van Lau, are:

—Each group will have a speaker.

—They will meet in the same room previously used for U.S.-North Vietnamese talks at the Majestic Hotel.

—The U.S.-South Vietnamese and Communist sides each may bring 10-12 persons

—Business can be conducted in English, Vietnamese and French

—Tape recorders will be admitted

—Reporters will not be admitted.

Vance and Lau each scored points in these procedural agreements, which left some leeway for individual definition.

The Americans see the speaker arrangement as two spokesmen on each of two sides, one each for Washington, Saigon, Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

They see the conference make-up as two delegations of 10 to 12 members each, while Hanoi views it as four delegations of five to six persons each.

From the U.S. standpoint, Vance won the agreement to keep reporters out of the first rule-making meeting. The North Vietnamese said they wanted the press admitted, but the Americans felt the Communists will be more inclined to reach a reasonable compromise without the opportunity to make public statements.

The shape of the conference table, although a seemingly trivial issue, is one which the rivals feel could be translated into a bargaining advantage later on. Consequently there has been no breakthrough on this point.

The Communists want a square table, whose equal sides would fit their claim that the NLF has equal status in a four-sided conference.

"Because I like your food doesn't mean I have to recognize you!"

The United States wants two long tables each facing each other, to support its claim that the parley is composed of two sides. The U.S. and South Vietnamese do not recognize the NLF, which the Saigon government regards as an outlaw tool of Hanoi.

One possibility for a compromise though some diplomats said this would not prevent delegations from spacing themselves to appear separate.

The South Vietnamese contingent is expected to arrive here by noon Sunday, and supporters planned a gala airport rally to outdo the reception accorded the NLF group five weeks ago.

Chief U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman is due back tonight from a short Washington visit.

Weeks, maybe months, of procedural debate are expected before the peace talks get down to the real issues of a settlement. Then will begin an even slower process of trying to achieve compromise.

Ky Flies to Conference

SAIGON (Reuters) — Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky and the South Vietnamese delegation left today for Paris after a down-to-the-wire legislative wrangle over participation in the enlarged peace talks there.

Military bands gave delegation members a rousing sendoff from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport.

President Nguyen Van Thieu was on hand to shake hands with Ky, who will act as special adviser to the delegation, commuting between Paris and Saigon.

The South Vietnamese legislature today finally approved in principle participation in the peace talks.

Gas Service Restored Here After 17 Hours of Discomfort

how many people reacted to ease their neighbors' difficulties." said Mr. Duffy, who kept the voluntary service open late into the night aided by his wife.

Industrial consumers were slower to receive supplies early today.

Pressure was not up to normal operating level in the pipeline although it was expected to be restored shortly, said Mr. Snyder.

Most of the Lakeland personnel would be pulled out of the area by noon, their job accomplished, said the company official. However extra crews will be on weekend standby to handle any new service problems.

Mr. Snyder also pondered cause of the breakdown — after the explosion in one of two parallel pipelines operated by Trans Canada Pipelines.

The metering station is a cutoff point for gas supplies into Belleville.

"A break in a line right in a station, at point of delivery, is very unusual. I've never heard of one occurring before," he said "Breaks in the main line can be quickly bypassed without dislocation of service to consumers and are not unusual."

Meantime, Trans - Canada crews were still on the site today after night-long clearing and probing of a 20-foot crater marking the explosion.

A 40-foot section of pipe was despatched to the scene last night to seal the damaged line.

Provincial police said company experts were still investigating the cause of the blast.

Snowmobile Future Discussed

TWEED — John Thompson, president of the Tweed Snowmobile Club, along with Guy Hughes and Barry Hunter representing the Tweed Chamber of Commerce, attended a series of meetings at the Continental Inn, in Barrie, Ontario, recently to discuss the future of snowmobiling in Ontario.

The first meeting attended was the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs, where a detailed report of work and progress for 1967-68 was presented, and discussed.

This organization is entirely responsible for the legislation passed concerning the licencing and operation of snowmobiles in the province. Later in the meeting, an election of officers for the Federation was held.

Another meeting attended, involved individuals and organizations interested in the promotion of Winter Carnivals in Ontario, with the subsequent election of Barry Hunter of Tweed to the Board of Directors.

Known as the Ontario Winter Carnival Organizers Association, the following people make up the 1968-69 slate of officers: president, Lorne Cathwood, Pembroke; first vice-president, Donald Armstrong, Oshawa; second vice-president, Reg. Williams, Gravenhurst; treasurer, Alex Campbell, Pembroke; with directors from Tweed, Peterborough, Sudbury, Barrie, Toronto and Bowmanville. Additional persons will be named to bring the board of directors to a total of twelve.

The function of this organization will be to co-operate with each other in setting dates for Winter Carnivals and events, so that large Carnivals close to one another will not be held on the same dates.

The members will also work towards the co-operation sharing of advertising and business etc.

In addition, a good deal of discussion took place regarding prize money to be awarded to snowmobile races in different classes, as well as the approval of a point system for racing, which will be carried from race to race for the events sanctioned by this Association.

The point system mentioned above was in force only a few weeks ago by the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Drivers Association.

The delegates from Tweed felt that the meetings at Barrie were well worth while, and that valuable contacts were made with people from other communities with similar interests.

Tweed's name is now synonymous with snowmobiling in Ontario. The Tweed Snowmobile Club and the Tweed Winter Carnival Committee will endeavor through all of the organization mentioned to promote active recreational programs for family and racers alike; safe areas in which to enjoy snowmobiling; good legislation from provincial to municipal levels so that everyone can enjoy the fastest growing winter sport in Ontario.

Those interested in snowmobiling are asked to contact either John Thompson, president of the Tweed Snowmobile Club, or Barry Hunter, Tweed Chamber of Commerce.

Interested persons are also invited to attend a meeting of The Snowmobile Club to be held in Hotel Tweedsmuir, Tweed, at 8 p.m. on December 11.

Students Receive Special Training

STIRLING — G. Patton, principal of Stirling Public School has announced a new venture that has been instituted by the Ontario Provincial Police for the first time in the County of Hastings.

Mature students in grades seven and eight have been given special training in student bus patrol by the members of the Provincial Police.

Baby, It's Cold Inside!

Left without heat after yesterday's gas pipeline explosion Belleville families solved problems in various ways. Mr. and Mrs. Garth Haggerty sent their three-month-old daughter Keilty Rose along with step sister Janice to stay at home of Mrs. Maude Duncan while friends loaned antique cradle for baby's comfort.

Staff Reduction Criticized

Pudsey Hands Over Trenton Command

TRENTON — A specialist in aircraft maintenance and development leaving Trenton on a posting overseas has criticized the government for reducing its skilled tradesmen's force.

Col. A. J. Pudsey who handed over the command of CFB Trenton's Aircraft Maintenance Development Unit yesterday warned in his farewell address continuance of the "cut back" policy implemented with irresponsible would weaken the effectiveness of service aircraft and threaten the safety of crews flying them.

Col. Pudsey became commanding officer of the former RCAF 6 Repair Depot a year and a half ago at the time the depot's change to a base concept operation had just been completed.

The introduction of new scientific techniques and procedures into the aircraft maintenance field became necessary as the cost of labor increased. As a result the old expensive methods of taking apart large portions of an aircraft in order to examine the inner mechanisms were dispensed.

Further complications arose with the government's decision to decrease the number of tradesmen at the depot, according to the retiring commander. There were also lengthy delays in obtaining approval of the new role and of the establishment of personnel to man the unit, he claimed.

Command Changes

Of course, the AMDU as it became known in October 1967, took some pretty hefty cuts in personnel, said Col. Pudsey.

"It has been my experience that every time a cut in personnel takes place, the sights are levelled, first, at organizations involved in education, training, research and development and third line activities. The cessation of these functions is not normally felt immediately nor are the effects obvious to the public," he said.

IN MEMORIAM

BELCH — In loving memory of our dear parents, Sarah and George Belch who passed away in 1934 and 1942.
A wonderful picture woven in memory.
Treasured with love we gently hold.
In our hearts they are living yet
We loved them too dearly to forget.
Resting where no sadness fall.
In God's garden beautiful
Our God above will link the chain.
And we shall meet them again.
—Ever remembered by Ethel Hunter, Geo. George, Clifford and families.

WILSON — In loving memory of our husband Foster Wilson who passed away Dec. 7, 1965.
Time takes away some of the grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Grace.

BLY — yesterday — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather who passed away Dec. 7, 1967.
Though his mission is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
We have in our hearts memories,
That mean so much,
His memory is our keepsake,
With which we will never part.
God has him in His keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Nellie and family.

COLE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Sybil Cole who passed away six years ago December 8, 1962.
God put Your arms around her,
And said "Come home",
Your work on earth is suffered,
And all that was unfair.
Only a cluster of memories,
Spread by a million tears,
Nothing God had spared her,
Just a few more years.
—Fondly remembered by daughter Margaret Ann-in-law Winston and grandchildren.

CAMPBELL, Carolyn Mavis — Beloved daughter of Rose and Mavis Campbell of Tamworth, Ontario who died as result of an accident in Belleville on Dec. 7th, 1967. Aged 8 years.
—With all our love remembered Mum, Dad, David and Tommy, Wayne of Belleville and Barbara at home.

HOPKIN — In loving memory of my dear wife, Prissie, who passed away on Dec. 7, 1963.
Sweet memories of a loved one
The world's weary troubles and tears are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by husband Tom and children.

HOPKINS — In loving memory of Freda Hopkin who died Dec. 7, 1967.
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts.
—Ever remembered by mother Mrs. Lorne Ash and children Jane, Marijean and Lorne.

WANNAMAKER — In loving memory of Willis W. Wannamaker who passed away Dec. 7th, 1965.
We may not remember,
The day of the year,
To one he knew with me,
But in my heart still lives,
Lovingly remembered and missed by Ruth.

Gusting Winds Create Problem

PICTON (Staff) — Gale force winds gusting up to 50 and 60 mph buffeted Prince Edward County Thursday and Friday according to Ontario Hydro manager Dan Keeler, they caused havoc.

Winds caused extensive damage throughout the county, blowing down tree limbs, aerials, hydro lines and even hydro poles.

Hardest hit by the storm was the hydro department. "We had quite a bad night of it," said Mr. Keeler.

However by midnight Thursday Mr. Keeler said that most of the damage had been repaired except for an odd customer here and there left without power.

The only problem was that Friday morning saw the winds hitting as hard and as constantly as they did the night before.

"My men have been out all day cleaning up and repairing broken poles," said Mr. Keeler.

It was estimated that three or four miles of hydro lines came down in the constant winds.

One break in a line in the middle of the swamp along the old Belleville Road caused the hydromen quite a bit of trouble.

They couldn't get to it Thursday night so a few customers were left without power. However, yesterday the men were finally able to get out to the lines by using boats and get them repaired.

A long with the Prince Edward area both the Napanee and Bancroft areas were also hard hit by storms.

"A sleet storm in the Bancroft district has really left them in trouble," said Mr. Keeler.

Although Ontario Hydro really had a rough time of it others in the county did not run into that much of a problem.

Provincial police reported that except for a few trees down there was no outstanding damage to report and no accidents occurred because of the storm.

Neither did the Picton Public Utilities find they had much of a problem other than a few lines tangled and a couple of street lights out.

"There were three or four service calls," said the manager, "but I guess we were really quite fortunate compared to others."

Bell Telephone also fared quite well Thursday and Friday with only a few individual problems to cope with.

Again according to Bell manager Charles Buckley the big problem was "around Bancroft on Thursday. "That area," said the manager, "was isolated from the rest of the world for awhile."

Saturday morning after almost two solid days of heavy winds finds everything almost back to normal in Prince Edward County.

There is still quite a bit of cleaning up to do, a few shutters to refasten but at least all power has been restored.

Santa Visits Belleville--Best Parade Ever

With a laugh to warm the coldest crowd, Santa merrily made his way into Belleville today.

Thousands thronged the city's downtown in freezing weather to bask in the glow of the jolly gent's civic welcome.

It was the happiest, most cheerful and colorful event of the year as the old town unwound a spectacular parade before Santa's arrival.

A dozen bands, close to 40 floats and 200 assorted clowns and colorful characters livened the streets in an hour-long marchpast to salute the Christmas spirit symbolized by Santa.

Crowds began lining the parade route along Front and Pinnacle Streets nearly an hour before the parade was heralded across the Upper Bridge.

For many, the event was a happiness booster. Among the crowd was many a family which had wearily spent the night waiting for heat in their homes after yesterday's natural-gas pipeline explosion.

The parade unthawed almost every spectator into warm appreciation. Applause greeted many a float as the long procession slowly wound through the town.

For parade organizers the resonse was a heartening gesture.

Exactly one year ago — after the 1967 parade — it looked like the event, a 15-year-old civic tradition, was taking its final bow.

What seemed on the surface like flagging public enthusiasm discouraged overworked organizers into warning that the event might not be renewed.

A renewed effort this year, however, met with heartening support.

Public and private donations were readily forthcoming. One organization — Belleville Downtown Businessmen's Association alone — contributed $1,000. In all, the parade easily met its budget of $3,500.

While city firefighters began construction on many floats, outside organizations volunteered many more. Farmers loaned wagons for the mobile exhibits, dealers gave tractors to tow them through the streets.

The combined community effort today reaped its dividends with the oohs and aahs of youngsters and the applause of adults.

And, of course, there was Santa himself. His laugh was just as rich, just as cheery as ever.

Anything less would have meant the parade wasn't up to his expectations.

He can judge Belleville's reception by 15 years' experience. And by the sound of that eagerly-awaited voice he was just as excited as ever.

Six members of the Belleville City Police Department who have earned their long service medals stand before Mayor J. Russell Scott, Chief Douglas Crosbie and Judge T. Y. Wills. The recipients are deputy Harold Reid, detective John McLachlin, detective Bill Warring, constable Elmer (Pop) Minaker, inspector Ralph Blatchford and sergeant D. G. Ellis.

Policemen Receive Long Service Medals

Six out of seven eligible members of the Belleville City Police received long service police medals yesterday in a ceremony at the police station.

Receiving the medals were deputy chief Harold Reid, with 22 years, inspector Ralph Blatchford with 22 years, Detective John McLachlan with 20 years, Detective Bill Warring with 22 years, Constable Elmer Minaker with 22 years, and Sergeant D. G. Ellis with 20 years.

Not in attendance was Sgt. George Westlake with 20 years of service.

According to Chief Douglas Crosbie, the medals are awarded by the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police to all who have 20 or more years of service with police departments in Ontario.

Yesterday's recipients amounted to 160 years of police service.

The medals were presented by the Belleville Police Commission in the persons of Mayor J. Russell Scott and Judge T. Y. Wills. Judge J. C. Anderson, also on the commission had court commitments and consequently was unable to be in attendance.

Mayor Scott spoke briefly to the men in the gymnasium at the police station, thanking them for their long service to police work.

Industrial Prospects

We don't recall it all, but in one of his wartime speeches Sir Winston Churchill concluded by saying: " . . . look to the westward the land is bright."

His words could apply richly to the industrial prospects of the Quinte area just now. Not so much westerly but right here in Belleville and eastwards.

The latter is viewed as a major stimulus to the establishment of more industry in this region. It will give employment to some 1,800 workers at peak and when completed will provide power enough for an urban-industrial complex the size of Metropolitan Toronto.

These twin developments constitute big news for Belleville and the Quinte area generally. The unemployment commission project still is subject to qualifications — rental and lease conditions offered by the builder for instance — but the fact that Belleville as a location weighs favorably with the authorities in itself is significant.

After years of slow movement on the industrial scene the prospects here are suddenly brighter. Patient effort to bring about such a situation seem to be paying off.

Christmas Spirit

These early December days are a bit on the dreary side. Indeed, it was with some envy that we read in the "Looking Backwards" column of the weather 20 years ago being mild enough for golf.

There has been snow enough and we have no quarrel with that. It can be a nuisance and it can be dangerous, but is there anything to compare with its intrinsic beauty, falling gently or being driven on the wind?

Yes give us the snow, but those grey grim days without sun — we can do without them.

Yet like anything else, winter is what we make it. It is the old business of mind over matter. Today, Belleville had its Santa Claus parade and there was plenty of life there.

In other little ways too the spirit of Christmas is abroad. The corner of North Front and Moira, where an aging, empty house, once stood, is being cleaned up. A retaining wall is being erected along the river frontage and in the centre of the space that one day may become a park a Christmas tree has been placed.

When the snow is falling (or more likely, wet drizzle) and the wind is blowing there will be a sense of warmth too, and security, in the lights of the Christmas tree, at the river's edge.

Gas Explosion

Yesterday's gas pipeline explosion in Belleville had something of the elements of a wartime blast. So too was the aftermath, what with police cordoning off the immediate area and the severance of gas supplies to homes and business houses. Fortunately there was no other damage to property and the only injuries were the slight facial burns suffered by a Trans-Canada Pipeline truck driver who was on the site at the time. An idea of the extent of the explosion and its ramifications can be gauged by the fact that 100 technicians from as far away as North Bay were brought in to restore service. Meanwhile the cause of the blast is under investigation. It is the kind of incident that does not bear repetition.

What Next?

University research is getting more basic every day. For instance, Dr. A. A. Asimi of Lakehead University has been awarded a grant of $5,000 to study teenage drinking habits in northwestern Ontario. The first study of its kind, it will take in Fort Arthur, Fort William, Kenora, Fort Frances, Atikokan, Dryden, Terrace Bay and Red Rock. That teenagers drink is a fact of latter-day life. To be of broader significance, however, if any solutions are to be found, the study might better include the more recent phenomenon of drug addiction among the young.

Rigorous Routine Takes Its Toll of Minister's Health

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It may be the youngest Parliament in years, with the youngest prime minister and the youngest cabinet — but it sure is not showing on its health chart.

In business only since last September 12 when Parliament opened — which makes it just about three months old — the latest cabinet already has three heart cases: Energy Minister Joe Greene, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey and Revenue Minister Jean-Pierre Cote. Then on the Conservative side, there is Gordon Aiken of Parry Sound-Muskoka.

All young men, too: Greene, 48; Mackasey, 47; Cote, 42; Aiken, 50.

It rather confirms what Doc" P. B. Rynard, Conservative MP for Simcoe North has been saying almost since the day he arrived on Parliament Hill going on 12 years ago and took a good look around at the veterans of the House.

Even the freshmen MPs like himself, those coming to these corridors of power for the first time looked tired. And so they should, having come fresh off the eight-week-long campaign trail of the 1857 election.

But what worried the "Doc" — who since has built up perhaps the country's most exclusive medical practice, fussing over the health of his 263 fellow-MPs — was the worn and weary look of the old hands, the veterans of many elections.

There have been — and still are — other medical men in the Commons besides the "Doc."

But of them all, he is the one who worries, cares enough to take charge of the parliamentary infirmary where two trained nurses stand duty.

It didn't take "Doc" Rynard long to conclude that the problem was not the men themselves — for after all the MPs comprise a good cross-section of the Canadian community — but their job.

Unless they are hounds - for-health like MP George Hees, who still talks and walks like the Toronto Argo backfield star he was long ago, they are prisoners of the unbelievably parliamentary routine and do all the wrong things.

Happily healthy Hees breaks out of this compound-of-the-Commons long enough every day to do a 20-minute pre-lunch jog around the Hill and some 40 pre-dinner lengths on the Skyline or Chateau pools.

"Keeps you keen," he says, and quite obviously does.

And it could be one of the reasons that George Hees and Pierre Elliott Trudeau are so en rapport in the House, with a sort of mutual understanding in the good feeling of well being.

But for most of the rest of them, says "Doc" Rynard, they let the special demands and pressures of their job push them into what he calls "the wrong kind of living."

Too much starchy food. Too little exercise. Sometimes out of sheer boredom, too much whiskey. Too much sitting around in the Commons, in its committees, and perhaps in some-like-ill offices sweating over speeches or poker hands.

Then suddenly, from maybe Friday afternoon to Monday morning, a burst of physical activity, the race for the airport for the weekly flight home or the hard grind over the highway, the cramming into a few hours of a week's accumulation of personal or constituency business, and the rush back to Ottawa.

From a distance it looks like an easy life at $18,000 plus the many attractive fringe benefits.

But the price is high when it has to be paid in the tension and fatigue of long hours and late nights, the strain of travel, the heavy, fattening food, the drinks and the smokey blue haze of receptions, the physical inactivity that comes on a daily basis in health hazard from boredom and the confinement of the Commons.

At Westminster, with the cooperation of House Leader Richard Crossman, the British Heart Foundation is conducting a health quiz of Parliament — equally applicable in Ottawa — in a survey into health hazards of being an MP.

Among the questions that "Doc" Rynard says might be usefully answered by his parliamentary patients:

Do you find being an MP frustrating?

Is this leading to a feeling of fatigue, lassitude, depression, irritability?

Does your wife tolerate - enjoy - dislike (and this is a key question) your membership of the House?

On a normal working Commons day, how many drinks (counting the wine and beer at lunch) do you have?

How many packs of cigarettes per day do you smoke?

How are you spending your spare time?

The answer to those questions can be found in the health statistics which make it plain that parliamentarians are not exactly the best insurance risks.

The holiday season being what it is, the Christmas breakout from their parliamentary prison is not likely to do much to shorten the insurance odds, either, unless there are some good health resolutions for the New Year.

"Now then, Your Majesty — I'll tell you how I propose dividing up your property."

Letters to the Editor

Sunday Fair Opening

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

As I was unable to attend last week's council meeting I was unable to express my views on the question of allowing the Belleville Agricultural Society to operate the Belleville Fair on Sundays.

I had asked that a letter expressing my views be read but this request was not fulfilled. My letter to council was as follows:

"As Belleville Agricultural Society is requesting permission from city council to operate the Belleville Fair on Sunday. As far as horse racing and the midway, I cannot go along with it. In their memorandum to council they state that they would likely only use Sunday as a day for the fair in case of inclement weather. According to a few other centres who have made this same request, it just meant that they wanted to have permission to have their fair on Sunday for their own financial gain. I have no objection to the fair being open for people to see the display of the things that are on exhibition but surely we do not want Sunday to be used for betting on horse races and gambling in the midway.

I hope this council and the City of Belleville respect our Christian heritage and our Christian way of life as these events I have mentioned deteriorate the Sabbath Day and is not up-lifting to the Christian way of life.

Alderman D. G. Williams

An Open Letter To Santa

Editor,

The Intelligencer,

I'm afraid this will be a rather lengthy letter. I realize you are probably swamped with mail, but I hope this letter will take precedence as I know most of your fans would be deeply crushed and might even undergo a severe traumatic experience if you should forget them.

Mr. Trudeau would like a raise and try at the football; Mr. Benson of course, wants an accurate pair of scales to balance his budget; Mr. Greene would like a book on Do It Yourself Interior Decorating, in six easy lessons.

Please send Mr. Stanfield a crash course in how to frustrate while to the Chief, the right of succession to become King of Canada.

Dr. De Gaulle would like some peops to hold up his frate while Wilson yearns for a magic wand. Mr. Nixon also wants a magic wand but would settle for Aladdin's lamp instead. Czechoslovakia would like a muzzle for the Russian bear and South Vietnam would like a slow flight to Paris.

On the home front, Mr. Keegan would like a fog horn for those hard of hearing while the rest want ear plugs. Please rush the Mo Hawks a puck that never touches the net and Mr. Grills the U.N.

Also, dear Santa, for all Canadians, some Canadian sports without the "s". For all people send an infinite fountain of love and a drain for their selfishness.

SCROOGE.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada formally declared war on Japan 27 years ago today—in 1941—only hours after Japanese aircraft bombed the United States air and naval base at Pearl Harbor. The prompt action made Canada the first of the Western Allies to enter the state of war officially. The United States and Britain declared war Dec. 8.

1949 — Bulgaria quit the World Health Organization.

1954 — Shigeru Yoshida resigned as Japanese prime minister.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the United States Navy launched the $99,000,000 battleship Wisconsin; Chinese officials announced the fall of Changteh; Wing Cmdr. Allan Shelfoon, of Toronto, was appointed chief flying instructor at Empire Central Flying School succeeding Wing Cmdr. Watts of Westmount, Que.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the White House announced President Roosevelt proclaimed Jan. 1 a national day of prayer; the admiralty announced the loss of the destroyer Dulverton; President Roosevelt visited Iceland following a similar visit by Prime Minister Churchill en route to the Cairo conference.

An Economic Strains

Canadian Business

The most obvious and most publicized group to be hit by inflation is that on fixed income — pensioners, widows, etc. But inflation hits at industry, too. If Canada's cost of production is high relative to its competitors it must sell at a lower margin of profit. Moreover, when domestic prices are compared with those of merchandise imports, it is evident that prices in Canada have been rising more rapidly than those of imported goods. If this trend continues, along with a fixed exchange rate, it is obvious that domestic producers will lose much, if not all, of their competitive edge in the domestic market against imported goods.

Monetary Crisis

French Unions Reported Hostile to Austerity Program

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The urgent need for world monetary reform is accentuated by the delicate, unsettled situation in France, where many of the big unions seem determined to oppose government imposed austerity.

This is the crucial test for President de Gaulle. It is unlikely that his determination to maintain the parity of the franc could withstand a massive collision with the workers. If he rejects all their demands for more benefits, they can take to the streets and shatter production.

But if the French government bows to all their wishes, the resultant inflation would erode world confidence in the franc despite currency exchange restrictions which, in France, are reported to be never fully effective.

The continuing low exchange rate on the franc—and the pound as well—accompanied by the rising demand for gold reflect a widespread unfavorable and doubt even among some Frenchmen that the existing situation can be maintained.

So far, neither the French nor the British austerity programs appear to have assured the world of currency stability. French, British and other commentators agree there is an urgent need for monetary reform. There seems to be little agreement, however, on how this reform is to be shaped.

Some suggest there should be floating currency exchange rates as they do day currency prices would reflect market demand, much like the stock market. This might work in some countries but not in others.

A strong country might deliberately embark on a raiding adventure on a country less able to withstand attack.

Another suggestion is that the officially-permitted maximum fluctuation in a currency's exchange rate be widened so that currencies could decline substantially and quietly without governments having to face the political hullabaloo of being forced to devalue.

Other proposed solutions involve a higher official price for gold, a greater flow of world credit and stiff enforcement of austerity regulations for those who cannot pay their way.

To get the world to agree to changes would undoubtedly take much discussion. There seems to be general agreement nothing can be done until President-elect Richard Nixon takes office next month and gets his policies into action.

Meanwhile, the unrest and concern likely will continue.

Anglican Rector Turns Broker Obeying 'Know Thyself' Dictum

VANCOUVER (CP) — His preaching had stressed the dictum "know thyself."

And Rev. George Siegan decided at the age of 39 to practise what he preached.

He left his upper-income-bracket congregation at Winnipeg's St. George's Anglican Church in September and moved to Vancouver where he now is a trainee in a brokerage house.

Searching for the words to express his reasons for leaving the church, Mr. Siegan said that within the church he was "a lot better off" than most clergy he knew.

But during the last four years his thoughts on leaving the church grew.

"In that time I became increasingly aware of the limitations imposed on me in my role as a cleric," he said. "It seemed to stand in the way of my communicating with people."

Finally he made his decision. In a letter of resignation to his parishioners he said his preaching had emphasized the importance of "self-knowledge—and the importance of acting on that knowledge.

"I would be less than honest if I continued to operate within the restrictions I feel in my job as priest," the letter said.

He had been a minister for 14 years, and he admitted that "it is not easy for a man in his forties to make a fresh start. . . ."

Without renouncing his priesthood, he renounced his old way of life.

"Leaders in the church seem convinced that the church is like an old car that can be souped up and made to run like a new model.

"But the church has gone beyond the souping-up stage. What we need is a new vehicle."

He said he still considers himself a priest, but would like to exercise his ministry in a non-parochial way.

Mr. Siegan said he considers himself fortunate to have found the brokerage position, and admits that money fascinates him —not so much the making of it, but the manipulating of it.

"In all my 15 years in the ministry I was constantly exposed to money," he said, "but I never really understood its principle."

United Church Minister Moves His 'Pulpit' to Bowels of Mine

BRITANNIA BEACH, B.C. (CP) — Michael D. Bouiger has moved his ministry from what he describes as the restrictive confines of the United Church to the bowels of a copper mine in this British Columbia coastal community.

Mr. Bouiger, 33, said in an interview he quit the active ministry because "the church leaves the working man out of its concern." Now he labors as a miner's helper.

"A minister should be involved in his world," he said. "A minister should not be a non-involved quack, a harmless churchmouse."

Mr. Bouiger said the church too often takes a passive attitude instead of carrying its doctrine to the working people.

Recalling his four years as a United Church minister in Bella Coola, B.C., Mr. Bouiger said he was "trained as a preacher, a pastor, and a teacher."

"I found it was really expected to be an organizer, an administrator and a personnel director."

He said the main concern of his 100-member congregation was raising the $400 a month to cover his salary.

Now he is learning to operate a drill in the cramped, wet confines of the Anaconda copper mine, where he has worked for more than a year. He said carrying the ministry to the miners is much more rewarding than his ministry in Bella Coola.

"There are many, many religious people who do not go to church," he said. "I think 90 per cent of the mine workers I've talked to have never been in a church—a lot of them have never met a minister.

"These are the people that the church is not reaching."

Mr. Bouiger said the men come to him with personal problems — marital difficulties drinking, problems with a teenage son or daughter.

Buddhism Popular Amongst Students

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian-born Bishop Kenryu Takashi Tsuji, head of the Buddhist Churches of America, says Buddhism is growing immensely in popularity among North American students because it is rational and active in its approach to life.

Bishop Tsuji, 45, born in Mission City, B.C., here on a visit from his headquarters in San Francisco, said there are 200,000 Buddhists in the U.S., 17,000 in Canada.

"Buddhism is a very rational religion, it is always backed by philosophy," he said in an interview. "You use both a religious and a philosophical approach to the universe.

Sleighs Are Development Of The 19th Century

The elegant sleigh illustrated was made by Monsieur J. J. Saurin of Quebec and displayed by him in London, England at the Great Exhibition of 1851.

Sleighs have been in use in Canada since the earliest days although in the elegant form shown, sleighs are really a development of the 19th century. Snow made the early roads passable and frozen rivers provided easy bridges, so that winter was the natural time for travel in early Canada. In the summer travel was by boat. In spring and fall travel was very uncertain until the advent of the railway.

Sleighs were usually made by carriage-makers and carriage shops proliferated all over Canada. Early passenger sleighs tended to be swan-like, similar to the one shown, which has a seat for a coachman. Occasionally, sleighs like this one have a step or seat for a groom behind the main body of the sleigh.

Later in the 19th century as roads improved, sleigh travel opened up a farmer's market to a radius of about 20 miles. Two types of sleighs developed, one for quick passenger travel, the other for transporting produce. Cornelius Kreighoff illustrated both in his familiar pictures of Canadian life. Towards the end of the century sleighs became more utilitarian and much more common. Many wagon bodies could be transferred to runners for the winter. Seats could be laid across the body and a bed of straw provided some insulation from the cold.

Buffalo robes were most often used. Sleigh bells identified the owner. Charcoal heated foot-warmers, ironstone "pigs", heated bricks, and even hot roast potatoes held in the hand helped ward off the cold.

Passenger sleighs were status symbols in their day and added a certain amount of dash to country living. The majority were professionally hand decorated at the carriage works, sometimes quite elaborately.

In 1861, a good sleigh, complete with brass fittings, a jump seat for children, buttoned upholstery and steel doors cost $64 delivered anywhere in Canada to the nearest railway station. For an extra $2.75 the sleigh would be upholstered in melton cloth for warmth.

The same sleigh, if it has been kept in a drive shed, is likely to be in relatively sound condition today. In many cases it has been relegated to a garden plant-stand or appears as a Christmas decoration on lawns, in department stores, or sometimes, imaginatively, on a roof. Every store Santa Claus has one.

Sleighs sell for about their 1900 price — $64 but usually cost more than $100 to repair. The price of sleighs is sure to rise dramatically with every passing year.

UCW MEETINGS

(Unit 111 Frankford U.C.W.)

Unit 111 of the Frankford United Church Women met in Rose Lowery Hall on Thursday evening with 17 members present.

Mrs. Carman Frost opened the meeting with a reading, after which Mrs. Gordon Savage, Stewardship convener reported that $2100 had been raised in the Cobourg Presbytery for wells in India. She also gave a reading.

Several matters of business were discussed. Mrs. Milton Grills, program convener informed members that next years' Mission Study will be China. An invitation was received to a tea at the manse by Mrs. J. Weese.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Harry Bleker and Mrs. Howard Richards. The history surrounding the new postage stamp was explained. Mrs. Edna Patrick conducted the Bible study, while Mrs. Milton Grills favored with a solo.

The meeting closed after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Elmer McCarr and Mrs. Jean Mater.

Club Activities

(ROSLIN HI-TOPS)

The bi-monthly meeting of the Roslin Hi-Tops was held on December 3, 1968 at the home of Mrs. Shirley Preston, Roslin.

Mrs. June Jones was announced Queen for the month of November and Mrs. Peg Mintz was announced to be new KOPS in Waiting. General business and new business was discussed and the Tops Pledge and song were sung.

It was decided that the Christmas Party for Tops would be held at the home of Mrs. Shirley Preston on December 17 at 7.30. The meeting was adjourned and a lively discussion on weight followed.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

SPRINGBROOK WI

Mrs. George Thompson was hostess for the Women's Institute meeting at her home recently. President, Mrs. Cyril McKeown opened the meeting in the usual manner.

Mrs. W. J. Barlow dealt with the correspondence and reported the W.I. had received recognition for the $137.15 from the Institute for the Blind. Mrs. Bert McCoy gave a splendid address on Citizenship.

The next regular meeting date has been changed to December 17 at the home of Mrs. George Williams. Mrs. George Thompson was in charge of the program, and gave several humorous readings. Mrs. Ross was the auctioneer for the sale of homemade cookies.

Cool Weather Styling

These new cool weather children's stylings, all in British wool, are by Chilprufe of London. On the left, a particularly attractive three-piece in a navy velour comprising cape, trews, and jaunty cap all edged with a plain and checked wool cloth. The checked tailored coat features a plain low collar, and its matching short-sleeved dress has a checked top on a plain skirt with a patterned bentral pleat insert. The coat in the bold inch check features a stand-away neckline and a deep front zip, and the one on the right has its own built-in cape with edges trimmed in an ocelot fur fabric.

It's What's Up Top That Counts

Aquascutum designed these three coats for 1969. The flared raglan-sleeved English-wool coat with the narrow rouleau collar has a casual elegance. The boldly-checked double-breasted coat, centre, is in an Irish tweed and features slant pockets with half-belt at the back. The British wool coat with the curved yoke, right, has Magyar sleeves and is perfect for town or country.

Toronto Symphony Conductor A "Pop" Fan

TORONTO (CP) — He can't remember the names of all the groups he enjoys, but Karel Ancerl is a pop fan.

"I just cannot remember the names," says the famous Czech conductor who takes over the Toronto Symphony next September.

Ivan tells me, but I forget."

Ivan is Ancerl's 20-year-old son who introduced him to pop music in 1959.

"A lot of musicians and other people say the new pop music is terrible," says the 60-year-old maestro.

"But they said that when they heard Stravinsky for the first time. It's stupid to call this new music rubbish. It's extremely interesting and vital in the development of youth mentality."

He likes The Rolling Stones—"I feel their singing and making music is a mirror of our times"—Bob Dylan and The Beatles.

"Musically, many of these young people are very gifted. And sometimes the harmonies are most interesting . . . most uncommon."

Ivan moved to Toronto in May after living in Prague, Brussels, London, Sweden and Copenhagen. Sporting shoulder-length hair and a beard, he went to a department store looking for a job.

"They were very nice and didn't say one word about my hair. After I'd left the office they rang my father and talked to him about it."

But he got a job there as a designer, and the first time he arrived in the office in sandals and blue jeans they made him a stockman. He stayed two weeks and later got a job at a record store.

"I don't care that much about long hair," says Ivan, who has since removed most of his dark brown locks and the beard.

"But I do care about people forcing me to do something I don't want to do."

His favorite pop stars are The Rolling Stones, Van Morrison, Dylan, Ritchie Havens, Eric Burdon, Jimi Hendrix, Cream and John Mayall.

He's not overcome by The Beatles and isn't too keen on symphonies, having seen only three or four of his father's concerts.

"I don't go because you have to wear white shirts and that stuff."

International Weight Watchers Open New Headquarters

TORONTO (CP) — Anyone who can lose 100 pounds with sheer willpower deserves a medal.

That's the theory of Weight Watchers, an international organization dedicated to help fat people get thin. When one of its members trims off that much supercargo, a tiebar for a man and a pin for a woman is handed out to the successful dieter.

When they opened new headquarters here recently, they combined the ceremony with an investiture of the men and women who are their big losers.

Bernard Grossman, a motel operator from Thornhill, Ont., stands only 5 feet 4 inches, but he weighed 270 pounds when he joined the group about a year ago. Now he is down to 166 pounds.

His wife has seen the scales dip 74 pounds for her from 219.

"It was togetherness all the way," she said. "We both need to lose another 20 pounds."

A new member is weighed in and given a program of controlled eating based on dieting principles developed for the New York City board of health.

"We don't use any of the specially processed diet foods except the soft drinks occasionally," says Mrs. Grossman. "Everything has to be weighed after it is cooked to make certain we don't overeat.

1969 Swimwear A Plot to "Cover Up"

LOS ANGELES (AP) —The word from California's swimwear designers for 1969 is "head for cover!"

The trend is away from the bikini and back to the swimdress at the spring fashion show here.

The beach pyjama is "in" out,' said one swimsuit maker.

If the look in recent years was tough, the new look is decidedly feminine.

Everyone shows a blushing interpretation of the bikini with a short skirt wrapped around the brief bottom.

Cole, Catalina and Elizabeth Stewart emphasize the tunic style swimdress often worn over long Beach pyjama pants in fluid jersey. Cole also extends its one-piece suit upward, adding medallion shirt collars to some and sleeves to others.

Most suits are backless.

No One Can Predict Kin's Characteristics

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I can't resist the temptation to comment on the problem Sid was having with his bride-to-be Doris. He became upset when he learned Doris had had her nose remodeled and had kept it from him. Sid expressed his anxiety to Doris' father over lunch — saying he was concerned about what their unborn children might look like.

Your reply, "Better the kids should inherit Doris' old nose than Sid's brains," reminded me of this true story.

When I was young I remember my father asking an intelligent but homely uncle why he was going to marry a certain young lady who was extremely beautiful, but unbalanced. In fact, everyone who knew the girl said she was crazy. My uncle replied, "I want children who will be beautiful like their mother and intelligent like me."

My uncle and his wife had five children. Every one of those kids is homely like their father and crazy like their mother. — PAUL L.

DEAR PAUL: No one can predict what the genes and chromosomes will produce. For people who wish to gamble, I recommend the horse races.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A couple years ago you printed a letter from a teen-ager who asked you to help bridge the generation gap in her house. She said her parents kept harping on how things were when they were teen-agers and this only made matters worse. After all, it's a different world today and everything has changed, including the teen-agers.

Your answer was the best thing I had ever read on the subject. I cut it out and pinned it to the bulletin board in the kitchen. It helped a lot in our house.

The clipping is getting ragged and hard to read. Will you please reprint your answer? I would love to have a fresh copy to pin up. Thank you. — GLAD THERE'S AN ANN LANDERS.

DEAR GLAD: Happy to oblige. Here it is:

Attention Parents or Fellow Antiques." The one phrase that kids do not want to hear is, "When I was your age." In the first place, they don't believe you ever were.

In the second place, they couldn't care less "how it was." They are concerned with how it is. Comparisons are not only boring, they are meaningless.

Your children are growing up in a different world than the one you and I knew. They have different problems, different pressures — and different parents. Teen-agers today have it easier in some ways, but their lives are much more complicated and frustrating in other ways. One thing is certain — I'm glad I am not in high school today, I'm not at all sure I could make it.

* * *

Confidential to NEED HIM: You need him like Custer needed more Indians. Stop telling the loafer to get out of your life. He won't do it. Why should he? He's having a ball, and all for free. Get out of his.

Practice Necessary to Perfect Public Speaking

By DORIS CLARK

Next time you are asked to "thank the speaker", or "toast the bride", or "say a few words", say you will. The only way to get over being tongue-tied and silent is to practise speaking in public.

Not only that, but you've no idea what even a little practice can do for your self-confidence. A certain shy girl I know took on a church group of teen-agers and over the months of searching for the right things to say she developed an already native ability to use words well. Has become a sought-after speaker.

International Toastmistress Clubs (of which there are several across Canada), as well as public speaking classes and other group efforts, have helped many shrinking violets gain this kind of poise.

It's the first step that's the hardest . . .

Dear Doris: I am an 18-year-old wife married to a 28-year-old man. I have no children and expect none. The thing is, my husband has a very hot temper. When he gets angry, I get hit. He will become insanely jealous if I talk to one of my brother's friends. (They are younger than me by a couple of years.)

A couple of hours after he hits me he will apologize and beg for forgiveness. Since the last time he hit me I can't honestly say I forgive because I'm afraid of him. I can't help feeling that I've lost someone I really did love once.

My mother, whom we live with, has heard us fighting. I know it's hard on her. She has told me that if he hits me I'm a fool to take it and forget.

What is right? When he hurts me I feel like I could die or maybe I'm going insane.— Ashamed of Life.

Dear Ashamed: Putting up with it does nothing but bring on more temper tantrums. Much as it slays you to defy him, defy him you must. In front of mother and brother, warn him in no uncertain terms that the next time he hits you, you go to the police. And go.

You are shaping your future, one way or the other. Just don't back down and undo all the good of the warnings at the crucial time.

Dear Doris: The groom's parents are not living together but the father has another woman living with him. How do we seat his parents at the table? — Bride's Mother.

Dear Mother: Not as a pair, although for this special day it is hoped they will to all appearances bury the hatchet in the interest of their child's happiness.

They are not a part of the bride's party so will not be at the bride's table anyway. If there is a second head table for parents, clergymen and special guests, the usual seating is: groom's father beside bride's mother, groom's mother beside bride's father.

Presumably a few seats would separate them, this way which might help keep the lid on any hovering hostility.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

For Dessert - Easy Applesauce

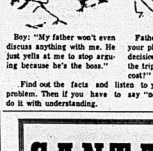
By MARY MOORE

LETTER: . . . what got me going tonight was the recipe in our local paper for the Banana Cake. I have so many of your recipes saved — do you know I just made that same cake a week ago, after saving the recipe since 1963? What a sucee cake it is — I thought you might like to know I made it with Banana baby food — two jars to be exact. I have never had a failure with your recipes. Love the way you give such explicit directions and amounts and substitutes. Apart from your recipes I have a real interest in your little asides. For one thing I had a baby boy almost exactly the same time as your daughter. (11 years ago, April) and was going through all the same experiences at that time. Keep up the good work. — Mrs. F. W. P.

ANSWER: Thank you (Note to other readers: if you want the recipe for the Banana Cake that Mrs. F. W. P. is referring to I reposted it here November 1, 1968. But if you missed and want it write to me and enclose a 6 cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents.)

QUESTION: I was given a bushel of windfall apples. Will you tell me how to make a big batch of applesauce without peeling them? I think you said once to push them through a sieve. —P. H.

ANSWER:



LARGE QUANTITY EASY APPLESAUCE

20 medium - large apples, washed and quartered
5 cups hot water
1¼ to 1½ cups sugar

If apples are windfalls trim off blemishes after they are washed and quartered. In very large kettle add water to them and cook covered ¼ hour stirring 2 or 3 times, until mushy. Turn into large strong strainer and push through until you have nothing but seeds and skins, which are discarded. While puree is hot stir in sugar until dissolved. This has a slightly pink tinge and is convenient for large families. Store in covered jars in refrigerator.

Children at Church While Mothers Work

TORONTO (CP) — To some working mothers St. Michael and All Angels Church is a godsend.

Twenty-five pupils of public school age engage in activities at the church five days a week. The program begins when public school lets out.

Rev. David Long, the church's curate, said the program was started when he learned that two women in the Anglican congregation — both separated from their husbands — needed supervision for their children from 3:30 to 6 p.m.

The church then decided to offer its facilities, and immediately won the gratitude of the working mothers in the area.

The children like the program too.

"We just used to play on the street," one freckle-faced boy said. He thought it was "neat" to be at a centre where the boys spend most of their time playing indoor hockey.

The girls like hockey too, but spend more of their time in a crafts room.

Cost of the program is $1 a week.

Females More Inattentive

VANCOUVER (CP) All of the things men say about women drivers may not be true, but if they say that, women don't pay attention — they're right.

Statistics prove it, Arlene Tate of Seattle assured a recent provincial safety conference held here.

Mrs. Tate, co-ordinator of the defensive driving program for the Seattle-King County Safety Council, said women take the family car and go shopping without a thought to the hazard.

They were probably poorly trained in the first place, learning from boy friend, husband or father and having to cope as well with the distraction of children.

One of Mrs. Tate's hopes is that one day "the prerequisite to getting your licence renewed will be correct driving, defensive driving habits."

The only woman to play a major part in the conference, Mrs. Tate became interested in defensive driving after being involved in a traffic accident in which her young daughter was killed.

The tragedy moved her to warn other women against driving hazards.

The program which she co-ordinates started as a pilot project of the National Safety Council in the United States.

The first course in Seattle was taken by a women's club; then industry and government workers became involved.

The course is eight hours long, nearly all classroom lectures.

Horrendous: Stanfield

Opposition Pledges Stiff Battle on House Rules Package

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary opposition has loudly rejected a government move to assert virtually complete control over allocating time for passage of legislation through the Commons.

Conservative Leader Stanfield labelled it "a truly horrendous proposal" shortly after it was put forward Friday. The New Democratic Party rules expert, Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), said it would make the government House leader, Donald Macdonald, "a dictator over Parliament."

The stiff opposition stand on the provision, part of a streamlining rules package, promised an extended Commons fight.

Mr. Macdonald, responsible for arranging Commons business, hoped for a "responsible" opposition attitude on the proposals.

He said debate opens Tuesday on the rules revision and that they stand as a single package. He promised the debate will be carried through to a finish.

Both the Conservatives and NDP promised to fight the time-allocation proposal.

"It is our responsibility to fight this proposal and we accept this responsibility," Mr. Stanfield said. Mr. Knowles promised a fight to isolate time-allocation and refer it to committee for reconsideration.

He said he could provisionally accept the rest of the package, advanced by an all-party procedures committee established Sept. 24. A government majority on the committee made the result a government program. Opposition parties on the committee dissented to parts of it, including the time-limit clause.

Under it, an all-party committee would meet to decide on time allocation. In the event of disagreement, the government House leader would have the right to lay down the law, subject to a parliamentary vote.

With its House majority, a government victory is automatic.

Under present rules, the government would have to resort to the rarely-used closure rule to end a legislative debate.

Mr. Knowles said it would be "an act of stupidity" for the Liberal government to resort to closure to force a vote on the time-allocation issue. He suggested closure has its place, but not on such a fundamental thing as the changing of the rules of the game.

Instead of facing the possibility of year-round sittings as it has in the past, the procedures committee proposed a yearly session extending from September or October to the following July 1 when the summer break would begin.

There would be three "semesters," one running from September to Christmas, another from January to Easter and the third from Easter to summer break.

Price Rise Quickens

OTTAWA (CP)—There is evidence that the speed with which consumer prices have been rising is quickening.

Just the opposite was the case six months ago, when the rate of climb was tapering off, if only temporarily.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Friday that November's consumer price index was 3.1 per cent higher than in November last year.

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was 157.5 last month, 156.8 in October, and 151.0 in November, 1967.

The latest 12-month climb of 4.3 per cent compares with 4.2 in October...3.8 in September, and 3.6 in August.

Higher postal rates and new car prices were mainly responsible for the latest increase. While new car prices may taper off as the model year progresses, higher postal rates are here to stay.

In consumer goods and services, Canada's price performance is at least as bad and perhaps worse than the United States.

The U.S. commerce department said this week consumer prices would be up about 3.8 per cent for all of 1968. The labor department, however, predicted a 4.5-per-cent rise in American prices.

DBS makes no prediction of trends in Canadian prices, merely reporting its findings after a survey of 30 consumer goods and services each month.

It now appears, however, that this month's prices, when they are reported next month, will be about as high as the U.S. labor department's prediction of American prices.

Wishart to Check White Power Message

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Friday he will ask police to investigate whether action can be taken against recorded "white power" messages given to persons who call a Toronto telephone number.

He was replying in the legislature to Vernon Singer (Lib—Toronto-Dovercourt), who asked whether the attorney-general was aware "of the scurrilous recorded telephone messages being given out, apparently by the National Socialist Party of Canada, to persons who call Toronto telephone number 532-4232."

Mr. Wishart said he had seen a newspaper article concerning the messages, and on receiving notice from Mr. Singer of his intention of asking the question had placed a call to the number.

"I got a message . . . I think perhaps lasting three minutes, loud urging Canada not to get involved in foreign aid but to spend our resources on our own areas," he said.

"There was a reference toward the end of the message referring to wealthy people of the Jewish race going abroad and leaving others to carry on the work here, but I doubt if it was slanderous."

The attorney-general said there might have been other messages, and he gathered from the recording that there would be a different message next week.

"I don't believe that what I heard in that particular case was slanderous."

He said that if the messages "offend our principles of freedom of speech . . . then we act."

A reporter's call to the number resulted in a message complaining that foreign aid is being paid to non-Canadian companies who let contracts to other firms to build bridges that then fall down "while the Jew boys sip down cocktails in Miami Beach."

"If you are white," the recorded male voice said, "your problems are our problems. White unite:

"Phone again for a different white power message every week."

Conversational French

Students Volunteer--and Like It

TORONTO (CP) — About 125 suburban high school students in Grades 11, 12 and 13 are chattering and joking in French, three months after volunteering for experimental discussion groups led by two exchange students from French universities.

And the two young French girls, with some ideas of their own on how the language should be taught, consider themselves non-teachers.

"I am not exactly teaching," says Simone Rieusset, 23, taking a year off from the University of Grenoble. "We are all talking to one another.

"A language is not only words. The students should understand there is a whole way of life behind it."

One Grade 11 class has shed its initial awkwardness to the degree they now joke about the topics of conversation.

"I hardly have to speak at all," Miss Rieusset says. "We are always laughing. They have a wonderful sense of humor."

Miss Rieusset began conducting conversational classes in borough of York high schools in September. She was joined in mid-October by Alice Corazza, 24, on leave from studies at the University of Poitiers.

They spend 12 hours a week in the borough's five high schools holding informal discussion groups of six or eight senior students.

"It's put a spark of life into our French program," Muriel McCuaig, York's co-ordinator of French instruction, said Friday.

"The students tell me the girls are 'young like us,' and they wish they could have done this years ago.

"We hope the program will continue next year with more than two instructors," she said. "With only two girls for the five schools we've really just made a ripple in the water."

Miss McCuaig said joining the program is voluntary, but once in it a student is expected to stay.

UN Considers Using Canadian Satellite

PARIS (CP) — Possible use of a Canadian or United States communications satellite in a UNESCO educational project for India is being considered by officials at the organization's headquarters here.

The project is part of a new-ly-planned effort to back up mass education in developing countries with modern techniques used in richer regions of the world.

It results from the most recent general conference of UNESCO—the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—during which Canadian and other delegates decided to make education for all age brackets a major theme of the agency's work in 1969-70.

Money was allotted for the Indian effort, considered a pilot project, and specialists were told to go ahead with study of such suggestions as use of the Canadian or U.S. satellite for relay of educational television programs.

The UNESCO budget of about $85,000,000 for 1969-70 is an increase of almost 20 per cent over the previous two-year period.

Canada, permanently represented by diplomat Graham McInnes, now is a member of UNESCO's 24-seat executive board, which supervises agency programs and budget administration between biennial sessions of the general conference.

The Canadian budget contribution is three per cent of the whole and at the last conference, a six-week affair ending Nov. 20, Canadian delegates played a key role.

New Brunswick OKs Right to Strike

FREDERICTON (CP) — Lt.-Gov. Wallace S. Bird gave royal assent to seven bills Friday night and prorogued the New Brunswick legislature until Jan. 14.

Major legislation dealt with collective bargaining rights for the province's 30,000 employees and preparations for implementation of the national medical care insurance plan.

The Public Service Labor Relations Act gives public employees such as teachers, nurses and civil servants, the right to strike while providing for maintenance of essential public services.

The Medical Services Payment Act gives the lieutenant-governor the power to make regulations for administration and operation of medicare. The date the act becomes effective will be declared by proclamation.

Only five bills were introduced at the beginning of the six-day fall sitting, bringing to 92 the total for the 1968 session. Two of the bills, the medical care act and one declaring Boxing Day a provincial holiday, had been held over from the spring.

Premier Louis Robichaud tabled a white paper outlining the government's policy on the status of French and English in the province.

The statement says the government will introduce legislation giving practical effect to a resolution passed last spring, declaring both French and English official languages. Use of the official language of the individual's choice would also be extended to the courts.

Opposition House Leader Richard Hatfield brought in a motion of no confidence in the 31-day Liberal government, accusing it of "incredible mismanagement."

The liberals, with one man absent and the Speaker not voting, had a two-vote margin over the 27 Conservatives in defeating the motion.

In his closing remarks Friday night, Mr. Robichaud paid tribute to ombudsman W. T. Ross Flemington, who tabled a report on his first six months in office. The premier said one "can see that he is a busy man and plays a great role for the people of New Brunswick."

Health Minister Norbert Therriault said he hopes to be able to make a definite commitment about medicare soon after a meeting next week with federal Health Minister John Munro.

He said the total cost of medicare to the province for the first year is estimated at $9,068,000. The per capita cost would be $34.62 for a total gross cost of $21,553,000.

Although the legislature was prorogued until Jan. 14, the opening likely will be postponed until the traditional time of late February.

Smith Justifies Seals' Confidence by Blanking Philly

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oakland Seals wanted Gary Smith to prove himself—and he did just that Friday night.

The 24-year-old Ottawa-born goalie, benched earlier in the season along with veteran Charlie Hodge, blocked 34 shots as Oakland blanke.' Philadelphia Flyers 4-0.

It was the first shutout of the season for Smith and the Seals and sent Oakland into second place in the National Hockey League's Western Division.

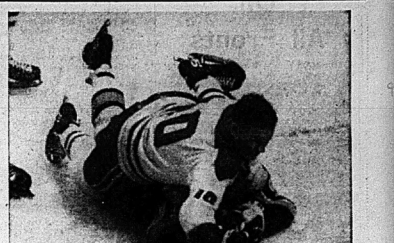
Smith, who posted a 3.19 goals against average in 21 games with the Seals last season, was benched four games ago when the Seals replaced him with Chris Worthy. He was called upon to make 11 saves in the third period to salvage the shut-out.

The win was the seventh for the Seals in 5 games and gave them a one-point edge over idle Los Angeles Kings. The third place with 18 points. St. Louis Blues lead the division with 28 points.

Defenceman Carol Vadnais scored what proved to be the winner at 7:28 of the first period. His 45-foot power-play slap shot deflected into the net off the stick of Flyer defenceman John Miszuk.

After a scoreless second period, Joe Szura, Norm Ferguson and Gary Jarrett tallied in a little more than four minutes.

It was the only NHL game Friday night.



Tonight, the battle for first place in the Eastern Division continues as New York Rangers invade fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens play at home to Chicago Black Hawks. The Rangers and Canadiens are tied for first with 32 points each.

In other games tonight, Detroit Red Wings play at Boston, Pittsburgh is at St. Louis and Minnesota visits Los Angeles.

In Sunday games, Toronto is at Pittsburgh, Detroit at New York, Boston at Chicago, St. Louis at Philadelphia and Minnesota at Oakland.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1968

Major Leagues Seek Commissioner After Baseball Bosses Fire Eckert

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The man who replaces William D. Eckert as baseball commissioner will be from inside the game. The owners are not about to repeat their "unknown soldier" adventure.

Among those mentioned to replace Eckert, dismissed Friday after a special owners' meeting, are Michael Burke, boss of New York Yankees; Joe Cronin, president of the American League and Robert Cannon, now a judge and formerly attorney for the players.

But the question is: Which member of baseball's inner circle would want the job, which is growing more difficult by the moment?

For openers, the new commissioner faces the most serious threat of players' strike in the game's history. And neither side appears to be in a mood to compromise.

And he would have to operate for an unspecified length of time while an outside research group makes a study that could lead to vast changes in the organization of the game, possibly eliminating the commissioners' job.

For the record, Eckert resigned, saying that "a baseball man can more effectively do the job." But it was clear that he had been asked to quit by owners convinced he was not what the game needed.

The 59-year-old former Air Force general seldom took a strong public stand on the problems that arose during his tenure.

And the game's attendance has declined by nearly 2,350,000 admissions in the three years he has been in office while professional football has been steadily on the rise.

Meanwhile, players and owners appear to be more anxious to make their pension fund dispute a bitter test of wills than to settle it.

Friday, for instance, the owners waved the red flag in front of the angry bull by adopting a new category for players' rosters called the temporary inactive list.

This allows a club to take an ill or non-baseball injured player off its active roster for a minimum of 21 days and suspend his salary.

Only two players may be so listed at once, but a player may be returned to the list at any time.

The rule appears to have been the result of Boston pitcher Jim Lonborg's off-season skiing accident last year when the Red Sox only paid their star pitcher's full salary after arguing the point. Lonborg didn't return to the club until late in the season.

Gordie Howe's HOCKEY

How do you explain six goals being scored in one night, like Red Berenson's performance the other week?

You don't.

How can you explain all the hat tricks by Bobby Hull?

Well I can make a stab at that.

The last time I counted Bobby had scored three or more goals in a game 22 times. Ouch! He's played in about half the number of National Hockey League games I have and it took me 22 years to come up with 16 hat tricks.

There are a couple of things I've never achieved in hockey: (1) To score an overtime goal in the playoffs, and (2) Score four goals in a game. Of course, I still have hopes for this season . . . but I'm afraid it'll be only hopes.

Bobby's had four four-goal nights going into this season and big Frank Mahovlich with our club has had two.

The best night I ever had was a six-pointer and that goes back a few seasons. It was against the New York Rangers and I had a hat trick and three assists.

But back to Bobby. Why the big number of hat tricks? Well, Bobby is an explosive player. He's got that booming slap shot and even on a night when he's doing nothing, he can still come up with a couple of goals.

And Berenson and his six goals. Well, that's something else. Syd Howe did it for the Red Wings back on February 3, 1944 and he was the only man to do it in the modern era of hockey until Berenson clicked. The night Syd did it, the Wings beat the Rangers, 12-2.

For a night like that everything must be going right. The same thing is scoring four goals. I remember Floyd Smith who is now with the Toronto Maple Leafs, scored four goals for us last season against Los Angeles and we lost the game, but Smitty was really hot that night. I think the Kings won the game, 6-4.

I'll give you an example of the difference between a good night and a bad night. The difference can sometimes be only a fraction of an inch. In November, the Red Wings took a swing to the West Coast and in the third period of our game against the Oakland Seals, Alex Delvecchio hit the goal post three times.

Instead of a hat trick all Alex had was a ringing in his ear from three loud clangs.

Rangers Have Fond Memories Of Winning Ways

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winning hockey games is getting to be but a memory for Kitchener Rangers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

The Rangers, first-place finishers in the league last year, lost 6-0 to the Niagara Falls Flyers Friday to drop Kitchener further into the cellar, nine points behind London Knights.

This season, Rangers have won three games and have watched 120 pucks enter their nets while they scored 64 goals. They have lost 16 games and tied two.

While the Rangers solidified their hold on the cellar, St. Catharines Black Hawks moved into a tie for the lead in the standings by nipping Hamilton Red Wings 3-2.

In other Friday games, Peterborough Petes lost their second game in a row as London Knights trimmed them 7-2; Montreal Junior Canadiens whipped Toronto Marlboros 9-3 and Ottawa 67s beat Oshawa Generals 7-2.

In Niagara Falls, Don Tannahill, Flyers captain, scored three goals and Ross Wedley, Phil Roberto and Doug Brindley added one each as Niagara Falls routed the Rangers.

Skiers Get Break

TORONTO (CP) — Southern Ontario skiers will get their first start of the season this weekend.

A 10-inch snowfall in the Barrie area has helped three ski locations near the Lake Simcoe community. Snow Valley reports good conditions while Mount St. Louis is good in excellent and Horseshoe Valley is listed as fair to good.

Fair conditions were reported at Orangeville Twin Hills and Collingwood Georgian Peaks while fair to good listings exist at Kimberley-Talisman and Mansfield, near Alliston and Muskoka's Rainbow Ridge.

A 10-to-12-inch fresh snowfall on a four to five-inch packed base gives Haliburton's Sir Sam's Inn the best conditions in southern Ontario.

Dancer Waits

Derby 'Win' Verdict Could Take Two Weeks

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — All of the evidence now is in the record but it may be two weeks before the jury brings in a verdict on Dancer's Image, winner of the 1968 Kentucky Derby.

The estimate was made by chairman George Egger of the Kentucky Racing Commission, which must decide whether the colt was carrying phenylbutazone in his system during the May 4 race.

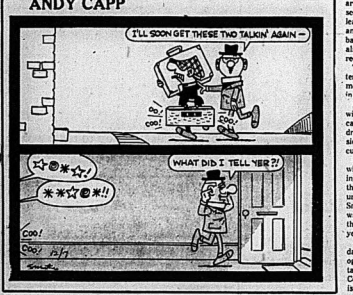
His owner, Peter Fuller, says he wasn't. But the state contends the illegal medication showed up in a post-race analysis.

The stakes are high. There is a $122,600 purse which the stewards ordered turned over to the second horse and there is at least $1,000,000 in syndication and stud fees hanging in the balance, according to Fuller. He also wants to clear his horse's record.

The commission, which listened to highly technical testimony for 14 days, also is caught in a dilemma.

If the five members disagree with Fuller, they would be indicating that someone slipped the drug to the horse. The commission then would have to find the culprit.

If the five members agree with Fuller, they would be saying—as he has contended—that the five tests run on the horse's urine by chemist Kenneth W. Smith were inconclusive or wrong. Smith has been doing this job for the state for 20 years.



His tests were supported Friday by Dr. Francis Osog, a recognized authority on phenylbutazone and a racing chemist for Colorado, where the medication is permissable.

In Kentucky, a horse with bad legs or similar afflictions can be treated with the anti-inflammatory agent providing it has disappeared from his system by the time he races.

Osog told the commission the drug could have been given from three to 30 hours before the urine sample was extracted from the horse. He said this sample would have contained 150 micrograms of phenylbutazone per millilitre of urine.

A veterinarian testifying in Fuller's behalf, who has treated 2,000 horses with phenylbutazone, said that the 150-microgram concentration possibly would have killed Dancer's Image or made him ill.

Baltimore Win Could Send Green Bay Packing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baltimore's big, bruising Colts invade Green Bay today to take on the crippled Packers in a National Football League game that could spell the end of the Packers' long title reign.

NFL champions for the last three years and two-time Super Bowl kingpins, the Packers are on the verge of being eliminated from the Central Division race.

Green Bay, with a 5-6-1 record, is one-half game behind division co-leaders Minnesota Vikings and Chicago Bears.

Elsewhere in the NFL, Chicago, whose attack has been blunted by injuries, hopes to take a step closer to the playoffs Sunday when they meet Los Angeles Rams.

Despite the fact that they have had injuries to four quarterbacks and are without star runner Gale Sayers for the rest of the season, the Bears are still tied with Minnesota Vikings for first place in the Central Division with a 6-6 record.

But they'll need more than incentive against the Rams, who are engaged in a dogfight of their own. After last week's games the Rams had a 10-1-1 mark and were one-half game behind first-place Baltimore in the Coastal Division.

In other NFL action Sunday, Cleveland Browns (9-3) will be at Washington Redskins (4-8); Minnesota at San Francisco 49ers (6-5-1) St. Louis Cardinals (7-4-1) at New York Giants (7-5); Pittsburgh Steelers (2-9-1) at Dallas Cowboys (10-2); New Orleans Saints 3-8-1) at Philadelphia Eagles (1-11); and Detroit Lions (3-7-2) at Atlanta Falcons (2-10).

The chance of a tie playoff hangs over the three contenders in the Western Division of the American Football League with Kansas City Chiefs, Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers still in the race with two games to go.

Kansas City (10-2) can knock San Diego (9-3) out of the battle in their Sunday game at San Diego. A defeat would eliminate the Chargers, who must beat both the Chiefs and Oakland in their last two games.

Mo-Hawks Suffer Galt Sting

Quick Pair in Third Period Put Damper on Seniors' Hopes

STAFF — How long does it take to kill a rally? Galt Hornets' winger Fern Belanger answered that one in 30 seconds last night, much to the dismay of Belleville Senior A Mo-Hawks and 622 home fans.

A pair of goals 30 seconds apart by Belanger broke the Mo-Hawk backs after George Godson's ninth goal of the year had narrowed the Hornet margin to 3-2 at 10.47 of the final period.

The win, Galt's eleventh against only three losses, vaulted the Hornets into second spot in the Senior A standings past idle Orillia, whose game with sixth-place Kingston Aces was postponed until Sunday.

For the Mo-Hawks, their third loss in a row made their bid for the sixth and last league playoff spot a tougher one with each subsequent tarly like the one they face in Barrie tomorrow afternoon against the second-place Flyers.

Godson's lazy backhander along the ice found its way into the Galt net off a defender's skate and brought the crowd to life after sitting through a lacklustre two periods of hockey from which the Hornets emerged with a 3-1 edge

Bill Hway's first goal of the night with five minutes left in the opening period gave the visitors first blood when he finished off a two-way passing play from Vance Millar.

The Mo-Hawk forward combination of centre Andy Teeple, and wingers Al Ferguson and John "Shaker" Baker hemmed the Hornets in during the final minute of the period without coming up with the equalizer.

Teeple's plugging was rewarded at 7.52 of the middle frame when his 30-footer beat Errol McKibbon after stealing the puck in the corner from a Galt defender, and side stepping another to get his hard, shot away.

Pete Brennan had forged a 2-0 Hornet lead less than two minutes earlier when he came up with the puck from a mass of players along the boards in Belleville's end.

Hway's second marker of the evening, after fighting his way past a Belleville defenceman, came at a low 30-footer that Mo-Hawk netminder Larry Holmes had little chance on and gave the Hornets their 3-1 bulge going into the final 20 minutes.

Belzegger's lightning strikes didn't satiate the Hornets appetites, as the visitors with only their 5-2 advantage with goals from Howie Dietrich and John Beechey to send the Mo-Hawk crowd heading for the exits early.

Holmes took the brunt of Galt's third period surge, being the target for 17 Hornet shots, and coming up with brilliant stops on Brennen, senior hockey ace Ron Herpott, and Belzeger in the final stanza.

In all, the Hornets outshot the Mo-Hawks 36-24 on the night.

A win in Barrie tomorrow would put beef in the Mo-Hawk bid to catch sixth-place Kingston when they travel to the Limestone City Tuesday night.

EDMONTON (CP) — Delegates to the Alberta Social Credit party convention here Friday were reasonably unanimous in their choice of National Hockey League clubs. Delegates were nationalistic in their thinking, giving the top two spots to the Canadian entries. Their overwhelming support went to Toronto Maple Leafs with 723 votes to 263 for Montreal Canadiens. Detroit was third with 233 Red Wing supporters followed by Chicago Black Hawks with 173, New York Rangers 121 and Boston Bruins 103.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The major league Friday approved an East-West all-star exhibition game in Los Angeles March 29 in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King. The game, to be staged in co-operation with the Southern Christian Leadership Council, has approval of the commissioner's office, but participation by the players will be voluntary. A spokesman for the commissioner said two players, Negro and white, from each club will be invited to play. Proceeds will be used to continue the work of Dr. King, the slain civil rights leader who headed the council.

OTTAWA (CP) — Rideau Carleton Raceway at Nearby Gloucester increased its mutuel take by nearly $1,000,000 in 1968, with an extra 18 days tacked on to its racing season. The track closed Nov. 30, with a take of $8,107,199 for the 88-day season. Last year the track took in $7,171,316 over a 70-day season.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A proposed $6,000,000 athletic centre for Brock University will contain an night-lane Olympic-size swimming pool, it was announced Friday. Dr. Arnold G. Lowenberger, university athletic director, told a student meeting the centre will include a gymnasium and curling and skating rinks.

NEW YORK (AP) — Wayne Zahn of Atlanta won his second Professional Bowlers Association national championship in three years Friday night. Zahn rallied from a temporary lapse late Thursday and early Friday when he temporarily relead to Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz., the defending champion of the $36,000 event. At the finish, Zahn was 441 pins ahead of Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis in second place. Zahn won 15 and lost nine of his 24 games of match play.

Trenton Hoop Staff Cautious

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
(Staff Sportswriter)
(Sixth in a Series)

TRENTON — It was a great year for football at Trenton High — the senior Tigers walked off with COSSA honors for the first time in five years — but the school's basketball coaches don't share the same enthusiasm about their prospects of their three Bay of Quinte District Class "AA" contenders.

The THS hoop situation looks foreboding, with lack of experience almost certain to plague each team in the early going of their respective "AA" schedules.

Rookie senior coach Joe DiCresce has only three holdovers from last year's squad and he says "We're not a great height but we lack depth and experience. We'll play man-to-man and zone, particularly a sliding 2-1-2. I expect B.C.I. and Quinte will be the teams to beat in the senior league this year."

The Tigers starting five will consist of guards Doug Coward and Don Parrell, forwards Les Nicholson and Wayne Miller, and centre Andy Fesar. Reserve strength will be provided by Rod Campbell, Wayne Walchuck, Jim Watson, Terry Hetherington, Dave Hallward, Jim Gibson and Duncan Rogerson.

Junior coach Terry Morden's squad is comprised of two holdovers and nine bantam graduates, and two transfer students. "We won eight games and lost two last year, but we suffered from graduation and we lack height," Morocey says.

"We'll play man-to-man and use a full-court press occasionally on defence," he added.

Junior holdovers Kendal Canuel to provide bench strength.

Bantam coach Nelson Banting has no holdovers from last year's squad which won eight and lost six. He said "We've got a lot of boys out who haven't played before, we've got some height and we'll play man-to-man this year."

Parliamentary Notebook

Lincoln Alexander in Big Demand as Public Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Normally, new members of Parliament labor in obscurity. But one new man, Lincoln Alexander, gets more attention than most cabinet ministers.

When the post-election parliamentary session opened Sept. 12, he drew the spotlight because he was the first Negro to sit in the Commons. The spotlight is still on.

Conservative headquarters say the big fellow with the football fullback's build gets so many invitations to speak, he could address some group every day somewhere in Canada.

The 46-year-old freshman MP accepts few speaking invitations. He gives Parliament and his home riding of Hamilton West priority.

"Speaking engagements are fine," he said in his office on his Commons office. "But you have to be careful. You have your own riding to look after. You have to become proficient in the House. A new member shouldn't go overboard."

Only now is he starting to feel comfortable in the most testing debating chamber in the country.

"All of a sudden the pattern starts to fit," he said. He's active on Commons committees, has delivered a few speeches and asked a few questions. He's a cautious performer, a listen-and-learn type.

He can't fully explain the impact he's made. He acknowledges that his race has something to do with it. He suggests earlier exposure at the 1967 Conservative leadership convention was another factor. He ran the voting machines.

One thing apparently leads to another. Partly because of the publicity spotlight, people write to him from all over the country with their problems.

The interest in the affable, easy-going lawyer was so great that Conservative headquarters recently sent him on a three-day western tour. College campuses. Party functions. News Conferences. Radio shoes. A Rotary Club affair.

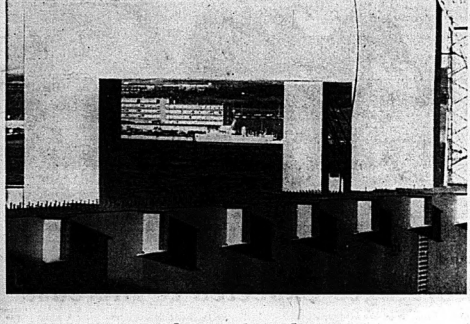
"My wife is concerned I might be biting off more than I can chew physically," Mr. Alexander said. "You can carry this thing too far."

He'll pay the tribute one expects a politician to pay for his wife's help in advancing a career. It has more meaning when he says it.

"Yvonne worked in somebody's laundry for 15 or 18 bucks a week to help put me through university," he recalls. They have a son, Keith, 18.

He returns frequently to the industrial city of Hamilton to visit his family and the predominantly middle - class riding that sent him to Parliament June 25 after a door-knocking campaign.

"When I go back there it's a real swinging time," he said. Main-streeting, more speeches, perhaps in a Baptist church. One Saturday night he attended two balls in his political rounds.



Both he and his wife are Canadian-born. His parents came to Canada from Caribbean countries. His father was a railroad porter. He had no family political environment.

His friend and mentor," John Diefenbaker, urged him to run when Mr. Diefenbaker was Conservative leader. Mr. Diefenbaker's concern for minority groups impressed him.

He wants to be known simply as the member for Hamilton West, not the Negro member. The Negro prefix is unnecessary, he said. You don't call so-and-so the Irish member or somebody else the Italian member.

Because he's the member of a minority group subject to discrimination, he plans to take up no special cause because of it.

"I want all people to know I represent everyone who has a problem," he said.

Air Watch Questioned

U.S. Accused of Provocation

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet newspaper Pravda says that a new air watch by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the Mediterranean is a "typical provocation, fraught with danger."

Vladimir Yermakov, writing in the Communist party newspaper, says the air watch is a "violation of the norms of international law which provides for freedom of navigation in open seas in peacetime."

He says that the Naples-based service of NATO "threatens the security of the Mediterranean peoples."

The accusation comes after Pravda attacked the United States for sending two destroyers from the Mediterranean into the Black Sea for a five-day cruise beginning today.

A spokesman of the U.S. Navy European headquarters said: "U.S. destroyers have in the past visited the Black Sea and we would expect this practice to continue."

He termed the venture "a routine voyage."

Since the 1967 Middle East War the Soviet Union has increased the number of its ships in the Mediterranean. It has proclaimed itself a Mediterranean power and said that the U.S. 6th Fleet threatens peace in the area.

In addition to plans to send the two destroyers into the Black Sea, the U.S. next month will stage a major military exercise in West Germany only 20 miles from the Czechoslovak border in a new show of NATO strength.

The U.S. said the military exercise, using 12,000 troops, 3,500 airmen and 96 F-4 Phantom fighter-bombers, would be staged near Grafenwoehr, in Bavaria.

U.S. Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford told NATO ministers in Brussels in November the exercise is being brought forward up "the readiness of NATO."

The forces involved were withdrawn to the U.S. from West Germany in the summer.

Observers are inclined to treat the exercise as something of a "muscle-flexing" on the part of NATO following the Aug. 20 Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

U.S. administration sources refused to attach any motives to the Black Sea manoeuvres.

But observers speculated the U.S. might be engaging in a form of flag-waving support for the Romanians, who have been at odds with Russia in the past, and more recently over the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Miss Jones: Take A Memo

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The inter-office memo has become the skirmish weapon in a skirt skirmish raging in Michigan's capital building.

It started when one disapproving committee clerk circulated a memo among her fellow female legislative employees which said:

"How short is too short?

"The right length is dictated by your size, age and intelligence. It is measured by good taste, the proper place and occasion. Honestly now, are your legs and knees so truly fetching that they must be exposed to everyone, at all times, anywhere?"

The memo added:

"Your skirt is too short if: When you sit there is nothing to tug down . . . turning around in your chair pulls it thigh-high . . . someone else has to do your filing for you."

The other side was soon heard from. A less-disapproving secretary parodied the first memo with a memo of her own.

"The right length," she asserted, "is dictated by your nationality, religion and the shape of your head."

She added:

"Your skirt is too long if: When sitting you look as though you're still standing . . . when turning in your chair it gets wound up in the swivel."

A male then jumped into the fray with a memo inquiring:

"Honestly now, is your face so truly fetching that it must be the only thing exposed to everyone, at all times, anywhere?"

In response to male meddling in this clearly feminine debate, another secretary switched the discussion to beards.

"How long," her memo inquired, "is too long?"

"The right length of beard," she said, "is dictated by your age, intelligence, and what your face looks like when clean shaven."

"It is measured by good taste, the color of your hair, and what time your five o'clock shadow appears."

"Honestly now, is your face so truly homely that it must be exposed to no one, at no time, nowhere?"

The memo added:

"Your beard is too long if: Little children cry with fear when they look at you . . . you use a hairdryer to dry your face . . . pigeons seek you out during nesting season."

Will 'Revitalize Party'

Strom Succeeds from Manning in Alberta--Second Ballot Win

EDMONTON (CP) — A soft-spoken, church-going southern Alberta rancher was elected leader of the province's ruling Social Credit party Friday night after a campaign that promised to continue premier E. C. Manning's policies with a new look.

Municipal Affairs Minister Harry Strom, 54, polled 915 votes on the second ballot compared to 606 for Highways Minister Gordon Taylor and 144 for backbencher Walter Buck.

Mr. Strom missed a first-ballot victory by only 23 votes.

Ray Reierson, minister of labor and education who ran third on the first ballot, threw his support to Mr. Taylor on the second one.

Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart, low man on the first ballot, was dropped from the contest. He put on a Strom button but declined to tell his followers how to vote.

In his acceptance speech, Mr. Strom promised "a vigorous new approach to government, a team approach, a problem solving approach."

"We now must take this opportunity of a new interest in politics to revitalize our party.

"There is still a great deal to be done. There are many individuals who are not sharing in the development of our province."

He committed his government to expand social, economic and political opportunities.

Like Mr. Manning, Mr. Strom has pictured government's role as one of encouraging individual opportunity and responsibility.

Mr. Manning said after the balloting he "couldn't be more happy" with the outcome. He said at the outset of the race he would endorse to candidate but his son, Preston, 25, wore a Strom button Thursday.

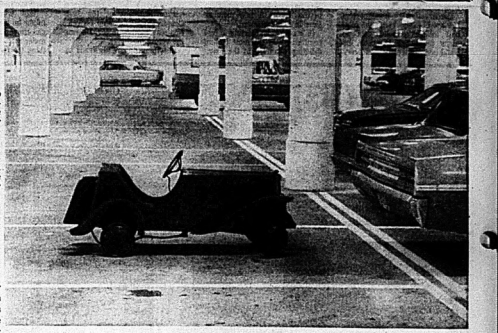
A rancher and farmer from Burdett, Alta., Mr. Strom was first elected to the legislature in 1955. He spent six years as minister of agriculture before his promotion to the municipal affairs portfolio last July.

He said he will give up that post now but kept silent on possible cabinet appointments except to say that the cabinet ministers who opposed him have indicated they "would be happy" to serve under him.

Prepare for Regional Government Robarts Urges in Aylmer Speech

AYLMER, Ont. (CP) — Every community in Ontario will be drawn into a regional government "in the near future," Premier Robarts told a service club meeting Friday.

He urged areas where regional government is not immediately planned to make preparations "for the day in the near future when this will occur."



The first of a system of regional governments will be established in Ottawa-Carleton Jan. 1, he said. The Niagara region will be next and the government will introduce legislation for this transition at the present session of the legislature.

In the Hamilton-Wentworth area, recommendations for local government will be forwarded within six to eight months while Kitchener-Waterloo legislation will come within 12 to 14 months.

Discussions are already under way in Brant, Haldimand and Norfolk counties that could lead to regional government and studies are continuing in areas east, west and north of Metropolitan Toronto.

"Regional government . . . will be established on a priority basis in those parts of Ontario where the problems of urbanization are most serious and where the necessary studies and other preparatory work is now completed."

In preparing for regional government, "many small municipalities will disappear," he said, and county boundaries will be "greatly altered or disappear altogether."

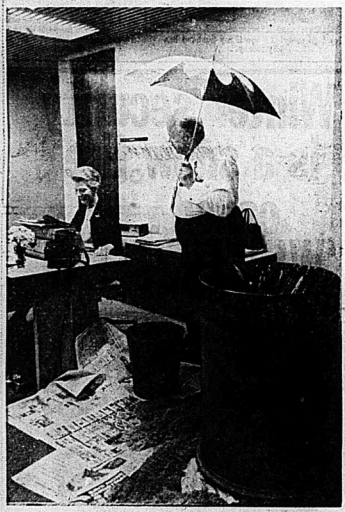
Conference Told . . .

Boards Shortchange Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial school boards are short-changing teachers by asking them to carry out curriculum reforms without first making sure they have adequate experience, training and equipment, a conference of the Ontario Educational Research Council was told Friday.

Dr. Paul Park, professor at the Althouse College of Education, London, Ont., said most teachers have just one-fifth the equipment required by the education department's curriculum guide for public schools.



"Teachers are being asked to do something they are not prepared to do or able to do within the current set up," Dr. Park said.

He said principals often are unable to assist teachers in school problems because "they have so much administrative work to do they don't get near most classrooms for months."

Teachers responsibly seek more background information and ask universities and teachers' colleges to offer courses dealing with specific classroom problems.

Dr. Park suggested teacher centres should be established in each school district, such as those in England which give courses during school hours for teachers.

Another possible solution would be to give teachers time off from school to up-date themselves in background and experience.

Record Prices Indicated

Cost of Mortgages Expected to Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Cost of mortgages in the new year could climb back to record, early-1968 prices at a time when the government is trying to figure out ways to make housing cheaper.

The indicator of future mortgage interest rates is the pace of the payoff on long-term federal government bonds. Those yields hit an all-time record rate this week of 7.07 per cent.

Maximum interest rates on mortgages issued under the National Housing Act—which tend to govern other mortgage rates in turn—are fixed quarterly by a formula related to the average yield on long-term government bonds prevailing in the previous four weeks.

Unless the bond yield slips back from its present rate during the next three weeks, NHA mortgage interest likely will be raised to at least 9¼ per cent from the current 8¾ on Jan. 1, the date for setting the next quarterly rate.

Conventional mortgages issued by trust companies and banks, which have been carrying interest of about 9 per cent since Oct. 1, would become more costly in sympathy with the NHA rates.

Maximum NHA interest rate was 9¼ per cent last spring, but fell back in the summer and fall. A year ago, the rate was 7¾ per cent.

Leitch Decides Against Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Leitch Gold Mines Ltd. said Friday it has decided not to appeal a court ruling against its claim for an estimated $2,000,000,000 base-metal mine now being operated in the Timmins, Ont., area by Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. of New York.

In a letter to shareholders, Leitch directors said their decision was based on their lawyer's advice on the limitations of the power of an appeal court to interfere with the findings of a trial judge on matters of fact.

Chief Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court delivered judgment against Leitch and its co-plaintiff, Mastodon Highland-Bell Mines Ltd. of Toronto, a week ago.

He gave Texas Gulf Sulphur title to the Kidd Creek Mine near Timmins.

Leitch had sought title to the mine or, alternatively, $450,000,000 damages, charging a breach of contract by Texas Gulf.

Stirling Personals

STIRLING — At the Senior Citizens' meeting on Thursday, Mrs. Brad Spry was honored by two of her granddaughters, Mrs. Robert Merrick and Mrs. Herbert Smith of Mount Pleasant. Mrs. G. W. Jones recently observed her 80th birthday anniversary, with relatives and friends in attendance.

Mrs. Bonnie Atkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bateman recently received the Albert College Women's Gold Medal and her Secondary Diploma at the graduation exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Melntosh spent the weekend with Miss Lois McIntosh, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vissett, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sprenglall, Cockaville, Mr. and Mrs. James Drummond and family of Downsview spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Boyce.

Convicts Build Helicopter

FOLSOM, Calif. (AP) — Two industrious Folsom Prison convicts toiled long hours in the prison machine shop on some kind of device.

A prison sergeant wondered what it was. He watched them for two months.

"And then we put the thing together to see what it looked like when it was actually assembled," said Associate Warden Jake Gunn.

It was a helicopter, Gunn said, apparently intended to carry the men over the prison walls.

The would-be flying machine had nine-foot-long blades attached to an automobile differential by some sort of "axle-type deal," Gunn said.

Confronted with the evidence, the two prisoners reportedly claimed they were "making a machine that would cut metal —some kind of jig-type deal," Gunn said. "But we couldn't visualize that at all."

YOU MAY NOT OWN A TALKING PIANO!

But if your piano could talk, it might tell you that its first answer was invented by Mozart in essence. Haiy in 1709, and that by 1800 it had supplanted the harpsichord and clavichord. And it would tell you Mozart and Haydn were among the first composers to write for the piano. Your piano could tell you, too, that if you no longer play it, it would prefer to be sold through a reputable dealer who will put it to good use. Call 962-9171 today.

Pregnancy Possible If Periods Long

By Dr. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been trying to become pregnant for nine months. I also have trouble with my menstrual cycle, and sometimes don't have a period for as long as three or four months. Is it possible to become pregnant in these irregular three-month intervals? How do you go about figuring your fertile days? — Mrs. H. U.

You make no mention of having told your doctor of this problem, and you should. Hormone treatment sometimes can normalize the cycles.

As to becoming pregnant in these intervals of several months, yes, it is possible to become pregnant, but it will be very difficult to know when your fertile days will be. (With a regular cycle, the fertile period usually falls about midway between the beginning of one cycle and the beginning of the next.)

You must understand this: your periods are governed by the rise and fall of glandular activity which is intimately related to the release of an ovum or egg from the ovary.

Pregnancy is possible in the relatively brief time during which the ovum leaves the ovary and proceeds down a Fallopian tube to the uterus. If the ovum encounters a male sperm cell and they unite, that is the beginning of pregnancy.

If the ovum is not fertilized in this manner, then some days later the glandular system causes a menstrual period — that is, the surface of the uterus is sloughed off and a fresh one appears, ready for a fertilized ovum if one appears in the next cycle.

Thus you see that, when several months pass without a period, it also follows that for some reason no ovum has been released, either not until a fairly short time before your next period does ultimately occur.

When the period occurs, it is easy to work backward and figure out just about the time when ovulation occurred. It is not so easy, with such an irregular cycle, to predict in advance when ovulation is going to occur.

The one method which might help would be to take your temperature (rectally) every day. When ovulation occurs, there is a slight rise in body temperature—about half a degree or so. It doesn't tell you in advance; it just shows it is happening.

Temperature has to be read accurately. Further, it is possible for some minor illness, fatigue, excitement, or some factor to cause a slight rise in temperature, which lends still more uncertainty.

I repeat my advice: see if your doctor can't regulate your cycle by appropriate treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor told me to cut down on fats but didn't give me a diet. Do you have a booklet on it? — B. H.

No. Can't see any need for it. Cutting down on fats means just what it says. When you eat meat, cut off any fat that you can see, and don't eat it. Don't eat fried foods. They are cooked in fat. Avoid cream soups. Or any soups containing fats.

If you eat lots of butter, cut down on it — spread it thinner don't put gobs of it on your potato or other vegetables. Pastries contain fats. Avoid them. Avoid grease or fats in cooking. If you pay attention to those items, you can cut down your fat intake very considerably.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am thinking of taking up yoga and wonder if there are any bad side effects. Please discuss your views. — J. P.

I have no views on yoga except that, as I understand it, it is a form of self-discipline and relaxation. I don't know of any harmful effects.

OFF THE RECORD — By Ed Reed

PCs Roast Minister

Newfoundland Fishing on Hook

OTTAWA (CP) — The Opposition went fishing in the Commons Friday with most lines bailed to hook federal aid for the failing Newfoundland fishing industry.

Frank Moores (PC—Bonavista-Trinity-Conception) put it this way:

"Make no mistake about it, the death of this industry is sure if the government, willfully and callously, continues to withhold the life-giving measures necessary."

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis, a Vancouver economist new to the fisheries portfolio, was piloting his department's $75,000,000 1968-69 revised estimates through the House.

He has said repeatedly there is no money in his current budget for any new programs such as those apparently being sought by the Newfoundlanders. Despite their clamor Friday, he declined to offer any specific aid.

He did propose more-orderly marketing procedures for East Coast salted fish, a major Newfoundland product. Longer-term policies were needed and this pointed to rationalization of the industry.

He cautioned against expectation that a solution can be worked out that doesn't "hurt" and spoke of the possibility that some plants will have to close down.

But he said he recognized the seriousness of the Newfoundland situation. Canada would have to retain its place in the world market for salted fish. The fresh-fish market could surely be left to private enterprise.

Part of their problem, and that of the Canadian industry, is sagging fish prices. This was compounded by discontinuance Oct. 31 of deficiency payments paid by the department to boost the return on certain fish.

Mr. Davis has said these payments will not be re-introduced. He has promised announcement early in the new year of new fisheries programs to take effect April 1, 1969—but not earlier.

Six of the seven Newfound land MPs spoke Friday. The province returned six Conservative members and one Liberal in the June 25 general election.

Walter Carter (PC—St. John's West) accused Prime Minister Trudeau of "total indifference" to the plight of East Coast fishermen.

Close to 25 per cent of Newfoundland's population would be affected by threatened processing plant shutdowns.

Mr. Moores said failure to take action now "will mean the end of an industry and the end of a way of life for tens of thousands of Canadians."

"If this end is allowed to come, the odium of it will cling to this government for all time."

He blamed the situation on the industry's failure to adapt to modern technological and marketing techniques. It once had the lead over foreign competition because of the resources on its doorstep but it stood still while the competition tried twice as hard.

"The industry needs reorganization and refinancing."

Mr. Moores said Newfoundland faced a loss of some $500,000 a month, including depreciation of facilities.

His solutions: Open-auction marketing to gain better prices for fish; merger of small processing firms to obtain the advantages of greater expertise and economies; and an end to temporary provincial programs.

James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) said the problem involves over-production, over-sold markets and "a government that doesn't give a damn."

Don Jamieson, defence production minister who represents the Newfoundland riding of Burin-Burgeo, agreed with opposition comrades of neither of the province's fishing industry.

Piecemeal programs will not solve the problem, but industry representatives cannot agree among themselves on what is needed, he said.

Jack Marshall (PC—Humber-St. Georges-St. Barbe) said Mr. Davis realizes the seriousness of the Newfoundland situation but is "being thwarted in his efforts by his superior"—an apparent reference to Prime Minister Trudeau.

John Lundrigan (PC — Gander-Twillingate) said the prime minister treats the House "as a circus" but can work up to "clowning around."

"He may kiss his way across Canada in an election campaign but he can't kiss off this problem."

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Dec. 8th,

Your birthday today: The coming year brings together commercial and financial opportunities. Earnings and savings could improve, but you must take care not to do this at the expense of your own long-range interests or those of your community. Join ventures with familiar associates prove effective. Today's natives often have productive imaginations and live in terms of rash deeds.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Go to church, then enjoy pleasant social activities. This Sunday has considerable zip to it; enjoy yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Short, trips are useful as a source of better information in your profession. You acquire new knowledge to protect your health. Take time for meditations and corrs spondence.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Go to church, gather your friends, and go pleasure seeking wherever your favorite sports and games are played. Come home early, and review the day's doings.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Improve your living quarters. Keep matters of social action. Give thought to your health. Be ready to meet interesting people whom you can learn quite a bit.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Make a dignified presentation of your faith. Work out some features of your scheduled plans; answer correspondence, invitations; share your enjoyment with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): It is a lively Sunday. Apply fresh energy to improve your daily, then line up your paper work and correspondence in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct 22): You have better going now — and more energy. Make the rounds, see what's going on in your neighborhood. Catch up on the news. Plan fun in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): If you share your efforts with institutions or hospitals, organized programs go well. Take time to plan what to do with your life in the coming few years now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Pleasure is easy enough to find, but don't neglect your church and your community. Gather information, lay out an active plan for the week's work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): When you've done your share of the communal expression of faith, sit down and line up all the odds and ends of your accounts. See just where you are and what you must do to improve matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Excitement begins early: people you have not seen lately come with new friends in tow. It's a long with the social whirl, but find time somewhere for a solitary rest, even a nap.

PISCES (Feb. 19—Mar 20): Unexpected pleasant incidents pop up in this peaceful Sunday. Plan your health program: seek better advice and more understanding. Enjoy a social evening.

For Dec. 9th,

Your birthday today: Your path through the coming year is variable, many times beyond anything you have done before. The temptation is to be lazy about your inner growth and just manipulate the circumstances you meet without deriving any spiritual message from day-to-day experience. Today's natives are often too clever and flexible for their own good.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 20): Launch a vigorous week while the getting is good. Put in a full day, then line up your paper work and correspondence in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): You are fortunate today! Deals with influential persons are favored. Home affairs, improving property, and the like are important to you at this time.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Your daily routine can become more interesting if you let the community seeks more of your time and energy. Your concentration is sharper than usual and you should use it.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Carry your own responsibilities and reap all the benefits — they may be substantial. Good advice from prominent people is available; at least show the courtesy of listening.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Gathering new information, writing about it, training people in the use of it — such are the most prominent activities. Put in every effort to advance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Confidential work is favored. Work out the details carefully and seek the exception as a basis for some profitable new angle. Best work single-handed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Surface all your personal energy and use it to advance your prospects. Bring in new friends if need be. Seek new connections make a strong pitch.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Try to improve your working conditions or your earnings. You will find others with similar ideas willing to explore with you. Labor can sit down with management today — with good results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Religious, scientific and legal matters are all slanted in your favor. Start early and get busy organizing a better career for yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Conclude your negotiations and agreements this morning. Settle into the new working pattern smoothly. Put forth a major effort so by tomorrow it will seem well already.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Teamwork is the most essential factor. Find consultants, information, whatever you need for a complete job, and make the best use of them. Settle in for a peaceful evening at home.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): There is good opportunity for achievement. Go after it. Put in the suggestions in person. Health can also be improved.

'Useless to Appease'

Campus Dissent in U.S. Producing Nation-wide Backlash

WASHINGTON (CP) — Resistance is stiffening in the United States to violent campus dissent by minorities.

There was much talk of a "new politics" among supporters of Senator Eugene McCarthy and the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy when they vied earlier this year for the Democratic party's presidential nomination.

A new trend in politics may indeed be developing. It is conceded, but it is radically different from that originally envisaged. It appears to be conservative, cautious and less tolerant, in reaction to prolonged domestic unrest and the Vietnam quagmire.

The latest episodes of campus violence have occurred at New York University, Fordham University and San Francisco State University. In San Francisco, Vancouver-born Samuel Hayakawa was insisting toughly that classes be held, despite opposition with racial overtones from some students.

"There is no place and no excuse for violence on the campus," says a stern New York Times editorial.

"College and university officials should have learned by now that it is useless and dangerous to appease or compromise with such disruptive tactics."

The Times, regarded as unwaveringly leftist by many persons at the other end of the political spectrum, made its plea for restraint after one of its women was forcibly prevented from speaking at New York University. Executive editor James Reston had his notes torn up and was unable to continue because some radical elements had intervened forcibly.

Increasingly being noted is the fact that the student dissenters and the black militants are a small minority and that he effective centre of U.S. power still rests with people who are white, middle-aged and middle-income.

President-elect Richard Nixon got 54 per cent of the vote from college-educated people who voted, a survey shows.

"Any man who thinks he can stake out a political career by appealing to young students or black militants has failed to do his political arithmetic," comments Irving Kristol, a New York editor.

In country after country, he says, "the proliferation of welfare programs is running headon into a stone wall of taxpayer resistance."

Kristol, summing up in the New York Times magazine on the post-election mood, calls the "new politics" of the kind promoted by the left a "passing and temporary phenomenon."

He is among those who foresee a different trend, "considerably less liberal, considerably less tolerant and perhaps even downright repressive."

This change in the public mood may increasingly confront radical dissenters on campus.

Faculty Support Wanes

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) — Faculty support appears to be slipping rapidly away from Acting President S. I. Hayakawa, who brought a "hard-line" administration to troubled San Francisco State College.

The Academic Senate, representing the 1,300 faculty members, Friday night condemned Hayakawa's "policy of confrontation"—using police on campus against militant student strikers —and said a permanent president should be selected quickly.

Concessions the Vancouver-born acting president offered student strikers Friday were based on a program of negotiation suggested by the Academic Senate.

The concessions were creation of a black studies program and establishment of a director of financial aid to help minority groups among the students.

About 3,500 persons—including black community leaders, churchmen and other off-campus sympathizers—loudly booed the concessions when they were announced.

The Academic Senate, by a vote of 25 to 5, passed a resolution saying: "The policy of confrontation currently pursued on this campus . . . can only lead to further violence with inevitable fatalities."

The resolution urged expedition of "the process which will lead to the choosing of a permanent president acceptable to the academic community."

In announcing the concessions, Hayakawa rejected a demand by the Black Students' Union that Negroes be admitted to the 18,000-student college regardless of qualifications starting next academic year.

The strikers demanded amnesty for all involved in the disturbances this week and the reinstatement of Black Panther George Murray, whose suspension as a part-time instructor led to the strike.

But Hayakawa promised only "due process" in dealing with these cases.

Hayakawa announced creation of a full-scale black studies department with classes starting in February and studies leading to degrees.

The department would be headed by Nathan Hare, a controversial Negro instructor.

Air Canada Employees Threaten Work to Rule

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Air Line Employees Association Friday threatened to begin a work-to-rule plan Monday unless Air Canada presents a "reasonable" contract during the weekend.

John Hayes, president of the 2,200-member association of passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators in 29 Air Canada depots, said there was no sign of a settlement in mediation hearings which opened Friday.

An effort to prevent the slowdown began with the convening of a conciliation board, under the chairmanship of Thomas C. O'Connor, a Toronto labor relations consultant.

Mr. Hayes said after the first three-hour meeting that the association and management were no closer to agreement than they were before the meeting began. He said the stumbling block was getting "this company to bargain."

"The company seems to think that we're not worth any more money so we're going to institute a work perfection program, making sure that we follow all the rules to the letter," Mr. Hayes said.

The last contract between the association and Air Canada expired July 31. Bargaining began in June and conciliation was applied for July 19 by the union. At issue are wages, working conditions, duration of the new contract and employer-transfer clauses.

Earlier this week, Mr. Hayes said the association wants an immediate but undisclosed adjustment, plus salary increases ranging from 19 to 25 per cent in a one-year contract.

Air Canada has offered a 15 per cent increase over two years. Present salaries are $325 to $350 monthly for passenger agents and $260 to $302 monthly for switchboard operators.

Last week, federal Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey ordered the conciliation board to reconvene instead of accepting the board's original report.

Mr. Hayes said the association "would have been in a position to take strike action now but the minister prevented that by failing to release the conciliation report. Therefore, we have substituted a different approach in lieu of the right to strike."

Secret List Grants Immunity To Toronto Housing Violations

TORONTO (CP) — A secret Toronto city hall list of property owners immune to zoning bylaw prosecution was uncovered Friday in connection with a ruling made by Mr. Justice Edson Haines of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Haines said the list, held by city council's building and development committee, "is open to political abuse and law enforcement is thereby tainted with potential political favoritism."

He said it allows illegal use of one building while prohibiting the same use of another building in the same area.

The judge dismissed City of Toronto efforts to prevent Magdalene Polai of Toronto from operating a rooming house in the wealthy Forest Hill district.

In his 13-page judgment, Mr. Justice Haines said the list, kept by the city clerk and unavailable to the public, was revealed to Mrs. Polai's lawyer through a court order.

The judge said the city could still prosecute Mrs. Polai for breach of the zoning bylaw in the criminal courts, but the "deferred list" would be no defence in court.

Mrs. Polai bought the house and spent $20,000 installing five self-contained suites which she rented out. The justice said evidence showed there are similar uses of other premises in the area.

Wesley J. Bailey, zoning enforcement officer, said in an interview the usual practice was to continue protection if there had been no complaint from other property owners.

"I make no recommendations," he said. "My inspectors just see if any complaints have been made."

Mr. Bailey declined to say on what grounds property owners were put on the protected list.

Ald Hugh Bruce said the protected list was designed to take care of "minor variances" to the zoning bylaw and in a number of cases was designed for temporary use only.

Regional Structuring Paramount: Marchand

REGINA (CP) — Jean Marchand, federal minister of forestry and rural development, said Friday night that if Canada is to be truly united, the large disparities between conditions of life in different parts of the country will have to be removed.

"We can't allow the economic structure of the regions to remain so different that there is severe unemployment in Eastern or Western Canada even when the expansion of demand in Central Canada is getting to inflationary proportions."

Mr. Marchand told provincial Liberals the federal government is prepared to take special action where needed to bring economic opportunities up to standard.

"Broad national policies are not enough. And it is not sufficient just to add to them a variety of area plans and agencies. There has to be a comprehensive structuring of government action to regional needs."

He said the average annual income in Newfoundland is between $800 and $900, and in Ontario it is $3,000. "Confederation itself was created to correct this regional disparity." The co-operation of all levels of society was needed.

Mr. Marchand said the basic question on language rights was to determine whether English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians could get along. "Let's try and see how we can live together."

My Sincere Thanks to all those who supported me at the polls on December 2. To all the citizens of Belleville, I extend my Best Wishes throughout the festive season and may the New Year bring you good health and much happiness.

Trapped by Fire, Three Children Die

Elmer Bonter

Mute Evidence of Tragedy

The blackened wood-burning stove (foreground) may have caused the Sunday morning fire in which three Trenton area children perished. The investigation into the circumstances resulting in the multiple fatalities is being conducted by the Ontario Fire Marshal. The charred embers and debris is all than remains of the frame dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Golloher of R. R. 4 Trenton and their family of four youngsters.

Ky and Team Arrive in Paris

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese peace negotiators hold strategy sessions today, and the Americans hoped the expanded Vietnam peace talks would start before the end of the week.

Following the exuberant arrival Sunday of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky, who led a South Vietnamese delegation pledged to peace without surrender, the Americans under Ambassador W. Averell Harriman will sit down with their Saigon counterparts to dovetail negotiating positions and tactics.

The opening date of the expanded peace talks is still in doubt pending the outcome of another diplomatic dialogue between the United States and North Vietnam.

The shape of the table for the negotiations—of symbolic importance to the South Vietnamese and their rivals, the National Liberation Front—remained at issue after a week of private U.S.-North Vietnamese exchanges had threshed out other details for the first meeting of the delegations.

The Communists demand a square table to match their argument that this will be a four-sided conference in which the Viet Cong's NLF delegation has separate, equal status with the other three.

Ky re-emphasized on his arrival the Saigon-Washington view of the parley as two sided —between the Southern allies and the Communists. He refused to even speak of the NLF, which his government regards as an outlaw group. So the United States has proposed two long tables facing each other.

Dwelling Is Razed

TRENTON — Three children lost their lives in an early morning fire that destroyed a storey and a half frame dwelling three miles west of here on No. 2 Highway yesterday.

Dead are Terry, 10, Kelly, 5, and Deenice, 2, of the George Golloher family of R. R. 4 Trenton. They were trapped in an upstairs bedroom.

The mother, Mrs. Noreen Golloher, 35, was sleeping downstairs. She was aroused by smoke and called to her oldest son Wayne, 12, to get his younger brother and two baby sisters outside. Then she made her way to safety.

Meanwhile the children's exit route was cut off by a wall of flames on the stairway to the sleeping quarters on the second level. Wayne said that before he jumped from a window, he told his younger brother to go back for their sisters and drop them to him from the window. That was the last time he saw Terry alive.

The mother and son got out of the burning building with only the clothes they were wearing. The temperature had fallen to 19 degrees. Later they treated for minor burns and were treated for minor burns and shock at the Trenton Memorial Hospital and released.

The father, who works at the Glenwing Trade, was away from home at the time of the fire. He was located by the OPP at Maple and learned of the tragedy from them.

The surviving Golloher's lost everything. A birthday Christmas present for Terry, prized by him since he received it recently, was a new bicycle the boy kept inside at night.

It was hard to recognize among the other twisted debris in the charred ruins.

The OPP detachment at Brighton received the alarm shortly after 2 a.m. Trenton firemen were called at 2.22 a.m.

Don Hendricks, who rented the former farm tenant's house to the Golloher's, said when he was notified of the fire and looked over towards the house all he saw was a red glow in the darkness. The 80 year-old structure was tinder-dry and went up like a box of matches, an observer said.

The Golloher's heated the premises with a wood stove.

The Ontario Fire Marshal's branch was called in to determine the cause of the blaze.

Coroner Dr. R. Meaher of Brighton will decide whether an inquest is necessary.

Yesterday at the Trenton Memorial hospital post mortem examinations were conducted on the bodies of the three children recovered from the ruins.

At the present time the Golloher's have been taken in by the father's brother's family, the Percy Golloher's of Young St., Brighton.

The public has already started to respond to a call for assistance for the survivors.

CARACAS (Reuters) — Rafael Caldera, a lawyer who heads the minority Social Christian party, was declared the winner of Venezuela's presidential elections Dec. 1. His margin of 31,071 by official count was less than one per cent of the 3,700,000 votes cast.

GENEVA (Reuters) — A DC-7 on a mercy flight to Biafra from the Portuguese island of Sao Tome was believed to have crashed, killing all four crew members, a spokesman for Joint Church Aid said today.

Greek Says CIA Behind Army Coup

MONTREAL (CP) — A former deputy in the Greek parliament said Sunday he is "100 per cent sure" the country's 1967 military coup was organized and financed by the United States Central Intelligence Agency.

Antonis Brillakis, a deputy for 14 years until the parliament was dissolved after last year's coup, said the CIA became worried about a swing to the left in Greek politics and helped organize the seizure of power by the military.

This has become "an open secret" during the past few months, the 46-year-old Brillakis told, about 500 members of Montreal's Greek community.

Mr. Brillakis said the CIA wishes to keep Greece within the U.S. sphere of influence because of the country's strategic value in the event of further Middle East crisis.

St. Jean Baptiste Groups Will Fight Language Bill

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Groulx, president of the Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies of Quebec, said Sunday nothing could be more illogical than legislation to protect English language rights in Quebec when the real threat is to the French-speaking majority.

Mr. Groulx told a news conference after an emergency meeting of the federation's national council that the federation has decided to assume leadership of a "common front" to oppose a proposed bill to guarantee parents the right to have their children educated in French or English.

Mr. Groulx said English-speaking Quebecers are entitled to claim government protection for their language rights but "legislation such as that outlined by Premier Bertrand would be premature, without first ensuring that the position of the French majority is strengthened by law."

Albania Gives China Naval, Missile Bases

LONDON (AP) — Albania has given China its first military foothold in Europe by agreeing to Chinese naval and missile bases on Albanian soil, the newspaper Sunday Observer reports.

The story, written by Lajos Lederer, quotes Yugoslav sources as saying a defence agreement "would allow the temporary stationing of Chinese forces in Albania and would enable China to establish naval and missile bases on the Adriatic coast."

Albania, a rebel from the Soviet bloc of East European Communist countries, is one of China's few allies.

The agreement was signed in Tirana, the Albanian capital the newspaper article says, adding:

"The Chinese describe the pact as a countermove against increased Russian threats to Albania and to China herself."

The story also says: "Peking is reported to have sent 24 frontline divisions—with ancillary troops (about 500,000 men)—to reinforce the Chinese-Soviet border. This is in response to large-scale Soviet manoeuvres recently held on the Mongolian-Chinese borders."

British government officials declined comment on the story.

Egypt Willing To Accept UN Peace-keepers

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Egypt is reported willing to accept another United Nations force to help safeguard a peace settlement with Israel, diplomatic sources at the UN report.

The sources said Egypt's delegate to the United Nations, Mohamed Awad El-Kony, included the idea in a seven-point statement he gave to Chief U.S. delegate J. R. Wiggins Thursday.

Egypt accepted a UN force after the 1956 Suez invasion, and the force prevented Egypt from closing the Gulf of Aqaba, alongside the Sinai desert, to Israeli shipping.

Egyptian President Nasser ordered the force including several hundred Canadians out in 1967 and said Israel couldn't use the gulf. Shortly afterward, Israel drove the Egyptians out of Sinai in a six-day war.

The diplomatic sources said Egypt now would accept a new UN force to supervise Israel's withdrawal from the peninsula and remain at mutually agreed places, including the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba.

French Deputies Oppose Meddling

OTTAWA (CP) — French deputies feel much the same way about interference in Canada's internal affairs as do MPs here, Ovide Laflamme L—Montmorency said Sunday after a 10-day visit to Paris.

"They feel the same way that we do here in Ottawa." Mr. Laflamme, who led a delegation of nine MPs, six of them from Quebec, said in an interview.

"They indicated to us that they share our views, that they don't want to interfere," he said of the French deputies.

The federal delegation held a "frank, warm discussion" with the French counterparts on satellite communications, trade and investment as well as the French fact.

Mr. Laflamme said he believes Canada should get together with France through an agreement on satellite development.

Poison Beans Used To Decorate Jewelry

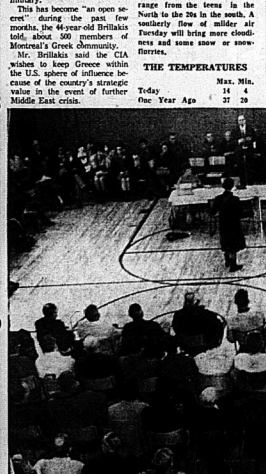
CHICAGO (AP) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. issued an urgent recall Saturday for jewelry pins decorated with beans that could cause death.

The company estimated that 300 to 400 of the pins may have been sold across the United States.

"These pins are decorated with highly poisonous jequirity beans," the company warned. "Swallowing even one bean which has been chewed or broken may cause death because of their extreme toxicity.

"Pins containing the jequirity were sold in two ornamental designs-comic faces in oblong, triangular or irregular shapes with the beans used for eyes, and flowers with beans in the centre."

The novelty costume jewelry pins ranged from one to two inches in diameter and sold for $1.



MacDonald Opposes Rise In Phone Rates

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald, leader of the Ontario NDP said in a statement today the provincial government should oppose before the Canadian transport commission an application by Bell Canada to increase its rates in Ontario and Quebec and the level of its permissible earnings.

He said he plans to raise the matter in the legislature.

Halifax Negro Jailed Five Months for Tax Debt Is Freed

HALIFAX (CP) — Liberal Leader Gerald Regan said Sunday a Negro who had been held in the Digby, N.S., jail for five months for non-payment of his poll tax has been released.

"The outrageous treatment meted out to this man ended almost immediately after his plight became publicly known," Mr. Regan said in a statement.

"I am informed that part payment of his poll tax debt was offered by a friend at the time he was arrested but the authorities demanded full payment.

"Later when construction work was available which would have enabled the man in question to earn the amount of his debt, the authorities did not release him."

He said the man has been released without any payment having been made.

The matter should not be dropped with the man's release but concrete steps should be taken to see that "such imprisonment will not again be imposed on poor people."

He also said Nova Scotia should follow the example of nearly every other part of Canada and eliminate the poll tax.

Benjamin Bleecker, 77, Prominent in Area

Benjamin Bleecker, who was killed in an accident, Saturday was prominent in the agricultural, political, religious and social life of his native township all of his life.

He was a member of Sidney township council, served as reeve for many years and was always available for any duty after he retired.

As an agriculturist he farmed for most years on the township and was a noted breeder of beef cattle. His interest went far beyond his home environment and he was known throughout the district as "Mr. Fairboard."

He became interested in the Stirling Fair Board, was elected director, then president, and served for some years. His interest then gravitated to the Belleville Fair Board and for years he was the pulse of the organization especially in the lean years

He served as director, was elected president and then became secretary and treasurer of the Board, a position he held for some years.

During these years he became active in the provincial organization of fair boards, was elected director and served a term as president of the Ontario Fairs' Association.

In all his activities with fair boards he was kind and considerate of others and made a circle of friends that endured. He was secretary of the past presidents' association.

Politically he was a staunch Liberal and took an active interest in the deliberations of the party. He served as president of the Sidney Liberal Association and also the South Hastings Liberal Association and his advice and counsel were often sought.

He offered himself as a candidate for the Legislative Assembly and although defeated, never lost the respect of his opponition.

Mr. Bleecker was treasurer of the Wawbeek Association when the provincial championships were held in this district. Besides his civic life he took an active interest in education and for 11 years was a school trustee in the township.

He was also tax collector for the township for five years.

Mr. Bleecker was active in the United Church and was secretary of the Marsh Hill United Church Trustee Board for 25 years and for 30 years he recorded the annual meeting of the Foxboro United Church congregation.

He was born in Belleville 77 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bleecker, who donated land upon which two churches stand today. He was educated in the public and high schools and Albert College and after his marriage took up farming in Sidney township.

He recently sold the homestead and built a new home.

Fraternally Mr. Bleecker was a member of Stirling Lodge AF and AM No. 69 and Minerva Chapter, No. 138 Order of the Eastern Star.

Surviving are his wife, the former Laura Evelyn Cummings, one son, Donald R. Bleecker and two daughters, Mrs. Charles (Evelyn) Murphy, Toronto, and Mrs. Gerald (Bessie) Frederick, South Pasadena, California.

Also surviving is one brother, William Bleecker of Belleville.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home at two o'clock with Rev. Abel Parsons officiating.

Interment will be in Belleview cemetery.

A special thanks to Dr. Ross, Dr. Murphy, Dr. Blanchard, 1st West, 2nd Alfred Pontier and the John R. Bush Funeral Home.—Lester and Basil Pontier.

Man Killed Instantly in Accident

A two-car collision four miles north of Belleville took the life of an RR1, Holloway man Saturday afternoon. Four other persons were admitted to Belleville General Hospital.

Benjamin Seymour Bleecker 77, was pronounced dead at the scene.

In hospital are John Wesley Graham, 81, of Wellington, driver of one vehicle, and his wife, Flossie Graham, 72.

Mr. Graham sustained a fractured skull, a fractured right clevicle and multiple abrasions and contusions. Mrs. Graham sustained a fractured clavicle and a fractured leg.

Also admitted to hospital were Albert Charles Murphy, 47, of Willowdale, driver of the second car, and his wife, Evelyn Christine Murphy, 41.

Mr. Murphy sustained facial lacerations and chest injuries and Mrs. Murphy had a fractured jaw, a fractured left arm, two fractured legs and facial lacerations.

According to OPP the Graham car was eastbound on highway 14 and the Murphy car was northbound on highway 62 when the accident occurred at an intersection.

The accident occurred at approximately 4:30 p.m.

Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $3,500.

Benjamin Bleecker, a passenger in the above car, was killed following a mishap at the intersection of highways 14 and 62 Saturday evening. The driver of the car, and his wife, Mr. Bleecker's daughter, were injured. The vehicle came to rest straddling the ditch on the east side of highway 62 just north of the intersection. Two occupants of a second car were also taken to hospital.

Snowmobile Licences Selling Like Hotcakes

Tobogganing the modern way with motorized equipment is becoming an increasingly popular winter pastime in the Quinte district.

And this is true even for residents in the Belleville area, where the right snow conditions are at the mercy of the weatherman.

But at least 225 residents of the immediate Quinte area are all set for the winter fun—they even have their skidoo licences purchased.

Licences for motorized toboggans are now a requirement by the Ontario department of transport and this applies whether or not they are operated on public roadways.

Local licence issuer George Olsen reports that 225 owners have already purchased their licences and are all set for the winter's fun.

If the vehicles are used along a public roadway both a driver's licence and public liability insurance is a requirement.

Tobogganing licences cost $4 and are for a two year period dating from Nov. 1, 1968 until October 31, 1970.

...Lakes Are Not Safe

Enthusiasts of the latest winter sport — bush—beating by mechanized snow vehicles — are being advised to play it cool as winter begins.

The caution comes from the department of lands and forests warned specifically about travel on the Quinte area's frozen northern lakes.

Such stretches of water are "normally 'not safe' until at least January" a department official warned at Tweed today.

At present, as the northern bushlands are being touched by the first below-zero cold spell of the winter, most lakes are still only covered by a thin layer of ice.

Even then, there's still a hazard.

Sub-terranean springs and streams wear away the bottom of the ice crust. Gas pockets and snow-cover heat also affect the ice layer.

"Regardless of the apparent thickness of ice, there are many factors that only the experienced winter woods traveller has any hope of assessing," warns the spokesman.

The department now has begun issuing its weekly assessment of ice safety factors for lakes in the district.

New Boards Meet Tonight

First meetings of both Hastings County Board of Education and the combined counties separate school board will be held tonight in the county building in Belleville.

Under legislation setting up the new boards, trustees must meet for the first time Dec. 9. They officially take over education in their regions Jan. 1.

Trustees of Hastings County Board of Education will meet in the county council chamber at 8 p.m. Carl Bateman, county clerk, called the meeting and will preside for the first order of business—election of a chairman and vice-chairman from among the 18 board members.

William J. Walsh, Tyendinaga township clerk will call the separate school board meeting to order and preside until the election and vice-chairman are elected.

Business meetings of both boards are expected to be brief. Both boards will officially receive the reports compiled by the interim committees set up earlier in 1968 to collect data on schools in the county.

Both meetings are open to the public.

The Bank of Nova Scotia introduces the Cheque Guarantee Card.

What's it good for?

Paying by cheque, your own personal cheque, even in places where you're a complete stranger. Cashing cheques without question, delay or embarrassment.

What's so different about this card?

1. It carries your photograph. In living colour. This is proof positive that you are who you say you are. 2. It is proof positive that The Bank of Nova Scotia guarantees payment of your cheques. Anytime. Anywhere.

It's the photograph that does it. Your Scotiabank Cheque Guarantee Card introduces you with instant face-to-face identification. So there's absolutely no risk to the person who's accepting your cheque.

Another advantage. If you should happen to write a cheque for more than you have in your account, there's an automatic line of credit built right in.

What does the card cost you?

Two dollars. And that's it. There's no cost at all to the person who's accepting your cheque.

Come into The Bank of Nova Scotia. We'll photograph you with our special colour camera.

When you get your Cheque Guarantee Card, carry it at all times. Present it whenever you write a cheque. In a store. In a restaurant. Anywhere.

No delay, no embarrassment, no questions asked.

The back of the card tells how the guarantee works.

CHEQUE GUARANTEE CONDITIONS

THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA GUARANTEES PAYMENT OF CHEQUES DRAWN ON IT AT ITS CUSTOMER WHOSE SIGNATURE AND PHOTOGRAPH APPEAR ON THE FRONT OF THIS CARD OR THE FOLLOWING CONDITIONS:

What Is 'Tolerable'

What is a tolerable level of pollution? Just now it is likely that pollution of both air and water has reached the point, in some places at least, that it can properly be regarded as "intolerable."

Thus, there is a "throwing-in-the-sponge" aspect to the statement of J. R. Simonett, Ontario minister of energy and resources management, last week that Canadians must be prepared to live with "tolerable levels" of water pollution.

The minister told a meeting of federal and provincial officials on water problems that pollution is "part of our industrial society."

Here apparently is the let-out . . . the ministerial word that gets the government off the hook. Technicians, he said, could say what is safe and what is not.

That may be so, but it does not absolve the government from taking every step within its power to reduce levels of pollution. Of course the government alone cannot achieve this. Industry bears a heavy responsibility too.

If we are to have even tolerable levels, it is going to take a concerted effort by both government and industry to come to grips with this major problem.

War Of Nerves

Russia, which for some time has been flexing its muscles in what for it is a relatively new sphere — the ocean, and the Mediterranean in particular — is now kicking up a fuss because it is getting a dose of its own "show-the-flag-and-war-of-nerves" type of medicine.

After a summer of manoeuvres during which the Soviets have been following every move of the United States 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, the communist party newspaper Pravda is now accusing the U.S. of heightening tension in the Black Sea area by sending two destroyers through the Bosphorous.

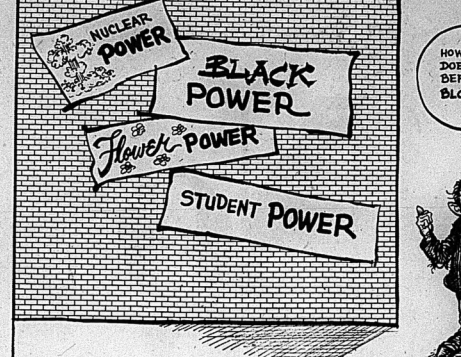
Perhaps the Americans should not stop at two destroyers, but rather send in half-a-dozen or more vessels. After all Turkey, which controls the Bosphorous, and is on friendly terms with the West, should not object. The Soviets moreover are not averse to sending their own electronically-equipped trawlers and submarines throughout the seven seas.

They should know by now that two can play at this game.

Marijuana Dangerous

There has been so much confusion in recent months over the effects of marijuana that its real dangers have become obscured.

Even members of the medical profession have said there is need for further study of the drug before more precise judgments can be made.



As for the legal aspects of marijuana, the federal government is said to be taking steps to reduce the penalties — simply because there is a consensus of opinion that smoking "pot," or "grass," as it is variously termed, is not all that dangerous.

Then along comes a 19-year-old girl with a letter to advice columnists Ann Landers and one has to revise one's opinions again. For, if there was a tendency to believe those who say marijuana is mild in its effects, this letter certainly dispels any such idea.

The letter is one that should have wide paper last week, and the writer said in part: "After a while I had trouble making simple decisions. I had to ask my older sister which dress to wear to work. I found myself asking the girl at the next desk how to spell simple words. I began putting thing off because I couldn't make up my mind about anything. I lost my appetite and couldn't sleep . . ."

It has been said often enough marijuana is not habit forming. The teenager's letter suggests the contrary. In giving up pot she experienced serious withdrawal problems. And to prove it she signed herself "Nearly Hooked."

The letter is one that should have wise circulation. Quite obviously marijuana can seriously affect the health and wellbeing of anyone using it.

A Costly Toy

Cars, Ego and Status

Edmond Boyd in the Globe and Mail

Men must derive a great ego boost from owning a smart new car. This passion for a luxurious private vehicle goes back a long way. Even in Roman times a chariot was evidence of dignity and position, as was a coach-and-four in Victorian days. Now it's the automobile. No wonder the manufacturers find it worthwhile to advertise their latest products in association with gaiety, glamor and wealth. It's a pity that so many of those who fall for the illusion actually deprive themselves of quite a bit of gaiety, glamor and wealth by buying a new car instead of using their funds some other way. However, as long as their concupiscence for the latest model automobile doesn't dig into necessities for themselves or their families, I suppose it doesn't really matter. It's good for the industry, if not for the traffic jams.

Non-ownership of a car is a higher status symbol than ownership of an old one. It automatically puts you into a higher tax bracket. This is the position I'm going to be forced into soon. I've already established that I could save $1,099 a year by going to work on a bus, renting a car for occasional long trips, and taking rabbi everywhere else. I can't see any other way out when my 1962 hunk of scrap metal refuses to go any further. But maybe that won't be for three or four years yet. I did drive my last car for 196,000 miles.

He's Got A Lot To Learn!

John Weichal in the Stratford Beacon - Herald

I've never amounted to much as a girl-watcher.

Oh, I have made some noble attempts, diligently putting my mind to the craft on numerous occasions. But the results have never been rewarding.

For one thing I'm too shy for this hobby. Girl-watching demands a great deal of a man. One must be resolute, unflinching, bold. Shyness, alas, all is out.

I find myself watching the subject's eyes, of all things, dreading the moment the watched-one finds out she is being watched. The embarrassment of being caught is too much for me.

My methods are too impractical. Peering from behind plastic ferns in restaurant lobbies usually startles subjects. Dark glasses reduce the view, especially now I'm hiding behind the sun visor in the car.

I blame this narrow and naive attitude solely on a childhood spent in a small town. There, girl-watching was not considered a wholesome pastime for any decent, young man. We were told to read a good book, or keep up with our homework.

It is an attitude I must overcome for it completely ignores one of the major facts of the art: Girls love being watched. Revealing, isn't it?

Second-hand Computers

Christian Science Monitor

Probably it was bound to happen. There now is a market, according to Business Week, in second-hand computers! Yes, these fantastic transistorized, esoteric mechanisms have joined the big parade to the second-hand salesroom, in the non-elite company of old autos, dishwashers, power lawnmowers and baby cribs.

We don't expect to see computers touted the way second-hand cars are sold, in an outdoor lot with a string of strong lights overhead.

But with third-generation — and even fourth-generation — computers coming along, it was inevitable that somebody would conclude that these earlier models had plenty of usefulness left in them. New computers, to be sure, are more efficient, and it is prestigious to have the latest model humming away in your planning and data-processing rooms. But if you're not about to launch a rocket to the moon, or a billion-dollar merger, may be that earlier model will serve your purposes admirably. We always thought most computers knew too much anyway.

Students' Decision

Vancouver Sun

Hopes for debate without bloodshed, change without violence, rest on the thinking mass of students who, while knowing better, may allow the buddy system to seduce their independent judgment. The university as they know it — under attack from top and bottom, dependent on an increasingly hostile government that may only too accurately reflect the taxpayers' opposition, the whole concept of universality threatened — would seem to be in their hands.

Chinese Torture—1968-Style

Brantford Expositor

For cold, calculated cruelty, the Chinese have had few equals throughout history. Their annals are full of instances of fiendish torture from keeping a caged prisoner sleepless to dripping water on his head till he goes mad. They are still at it. The method is different, but the effect is the same.

After 16 months of solitary house detention without charge and without trial, 30-year-old British journalist Anthony Grey Reuter's correspondent in Peking is on the brink of mental breakdown. When he was arrested the Chinese government said it was in retaliation for the imprisonment of five Chinese newspaper men found guilty of taking part in rioting in the British colony of Hong Kong.

These Chinese have been released, but Mr. Grey is still held in conditions far more severe than those they experienced. Mr. Grey has had only two visits in 16 months. They had visits from friends and relatives every month. He is alone in a room 12 feet by 12 with brief spells of exercise daily in a yard. They met their fellows every day at work and exercise. The Chinese had access to the prison library and received unlimited quantities of books and magazines from visitors. Mr. Grey is not allowed to go upstairs in his house to get any book, and is given only those titles that come to his failing memory. The Chinese had access to prison officials at all times. He has had no contact with any Chinese official.

Tax Issue

This Time The Bureaucrats Lost

Brockville Recorder and Times

We're being regulated to death in Ontario these days and not the least of worries that a businessman has today is the provincial sales taxes. But how far must the inspectors go in their search for the last ounce of gold? In any length, apparently.

Recently tax inspectors complained that a Barrie restaurant proprietor was not paying tax on the candy mints that he provided for his customers. The mints were kept in a dish beside the cash register and were there for people who had patronized the restaurant. The proprietor argued that the cost of the mints was part of his "overhead" and was included in the price of the food. And he paid tax on all meals over $1.50.

The tax people argued that one didn't have to be a customer to get mints and thus the tax on the meals didn't cover the cost of the mints. They wanted to tax the mints separately and to prove their case produced a movie to show a tax inspector entering the restaurant, looking around, and then helping himself to some mints. He didn't purchase anything. What was the owner going to do about it? They had proved their case.

Not quite. The restaurant owner intended, he said, to exercise right to the police and charge the tax man with theft. That was the last he heard of the case of the candy mints. This is but another sorry chapter in the attempt of the bureaucrats to make life as miserable as possible for those who provide them with jobs.

The United States Congress began debate on annexing Texas 124 years ago today — in 1844—20 years after English speaking Texans declared their independence and war on Mexico. The main obstacle to annexation was the residents' pro-slavery feelings. Texas became a state in 1845, seceded 15 years later and was readmitted in 1866.

1956—A TCA North Star crashed into a mountain in British Columbia.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Canadian defence headquarters announced that from the beginning of the war until Nov. 23, the Canadian Army lost 713 dead, 2,625 wounded and 195 missing. Poise Can Go With Money

John Robinson in The Hamilton Spectator

I have written about poise before but today I want to give a few hints on how to acquire some suggestions I have put into practice and found to have some merit.

1. If you dread making an entrance into a crowded room first seek out the first mirror you can, look into it, and affix into your face the haughtiest, the most supercilious, expression your head muscles can attain. Then stride purposefully into that crowded room while muttering under your breath such contemptuous phrases as "nothing but canaille here, a mere bunch of bourgeoise bums, dregs of the universe, calcium deposits inside the Tea Kettle of Life."

You will be surprised how poised, how sophisticated, how superior you will feel.

You will also be surprised at how lonely also because looking and feeling as I advise makes it difficult for you to be the life of the party. However that was not the problem you asked me to solve, was it?

2. At the appropriate moment during any party at which you happen to be present, make some rather startling statement which may impress your companions.

3. Here, however, is the best way of all to acquire poise — acquire money.

I have walked into some of the most magnificent hotels in the world and I have had a certain amount of poise because I had a certain amount of money And I have walked into flea-bags

Credit cards accomplish much the same thing in that they are like umbilical cords that run invisibly from your hip — or wherever it is you keep your wallet — to your financial mother, the bank.

Those Were The Days My Friend

Ottawa Journal

The present fashion in greeting, "Hi!" or "Oh, hi!" is about as casual and streamlined as you can get. A mini-descendant it is, by way of Hi ya!, from its grandparents "How are you?" and "How do you do?"

"Hi" seems no longer much concerned with your welfare (who listened to your answer anyway?). But it has the great asset of cheeriness.

The reducing process has always been at work. A hundred years later when Shakespeare's folk were greeting each other with "Good morrow to you, cousin" any time before noon and "(God) give you good even" anytime after noon, the latter was as often "Good den to you" or even "Godden."

Our salutations have always borne several strands in them: the good wishes ("Save you, my lady" — "And you, sir" of the first Elizabethans), the concern ("How now, lad?" or that great favorite "What news?" also Elizabethan, or "How's little Miss Sharp?" as in Thackeray), and the purely exclamatory, the cry of surprise (our "Hello!" for example, a pale descendant of the hunting cry to rally the dogs "Hallo!" or "Halloa!").

Then there was the greeting of the 1700s and early 1800s recorded by Jane Austen, that "My dear Mr. Collins" — "My dear Elizabeth," by which you not only gave evidence of your affection but revealed that you knew precisely whom you were talking to as well.

Status Symbol

Edmond Boyd in the Globe and Mail

In New Zealand I worked briefly for Dr. Barnardo, a while. They are definitely better off than Canada's northern Indians but even many of them live in tarpaper shacks. Often I would see a shiny new car parked outside such a shack. Many cheerfully did the laundry in a metal tub on the front porch. I've observed the same paradox in Louisiana.

Argentine Claim To Falklands

Scotsman, Edinburgh

If the Falkland Island were sacrificed to the ambitions of an alien military regime in Argentina, the dictator ship of Spain would step up pressure on Gibraltar. Further, the vestige of confidence that the world retains in our undertaking to end the Rhodesian rebellion would be lost. Some so-called anti-colonialist nations support Argentina's claim, but they should be told that we will apply to the Falkland Islands and Gibraltar the same principle as they (and we) demand for Rhodesia — that the interests of the people should freely decide their future.

Top Price Is $5,600

Auction Sale of 29 Schools Raises $72,000 for Board

STIRLING — A history - making auction sale of schools earned the Centre Hastings School area No. 2 board a grand total of $72,400, Saturday afternoon here.

About 500 persons crowded the gymnasium of Stirling Rawdon High School to watch or take part in the bidding for 28 schools in the Huntingdon, Hungerford and Rawdon area.

The cheapest school went for $600 and the most expensive was bought for $5,600.

The school at Deloro a two-room cement building, was purchased by Keith Brown, a car dealer in Peterborough, for $5,600.

The cheapest school, SS No. 9 in Hungerford was purchased by Alex Kerk of Don Mills for $600.

The 29 schools were purchased by 20 people and of those 29, 14 of the buyers were from Toronto or its surrounding suburbs.

The Deloro school had a reserve bid of $5,000, submitted by the Centre Hastings board. According to a board spokesman it was too good a building to go for less.

William Kelly a real estate broker from Cookstown, purchased the most schools, five in all.

According to Mr. Kelly there are "no better investments."

He purchased the first school on the slate, a two-room brick at Thomasburg, for $3,300.

Mr. Kelly also bought Moira school, for $4,000; SS No. 3 in Rawdon for $4,300, the Wellman's Corners school for $2,900 and the Rawdon SS No. 20 school for $2,700.

According to Mr. Kelly, he will sell the schools at their normal markup plus real estate fees.

He said that all the schools he bought were winterized and that the prices were reasonable.

"Some places are too dilapidated to bother", he added.

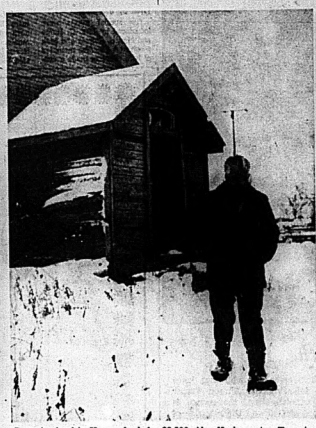
Many of the schools were purchased by men hoping to retire to them. Some were also intending to convert them into summer residences.

Josip Pelzer of Toronto bought the Ridge Road school in Rawdon for the purpose of a residence.

Mrs. Barbara Amm of Willowdale bought SS No. 4 in Rawdon as a "winter and summer retreat." The school cost her $2,700.

Two schools were purchased for reasons other than speculation or for residences.

The only Madoc school in the auction was purchased on behalf of Madoc Township by councillor Cecil Wood.



This school is to be used as a township hall and recreation centre, a use it had already partially served prior to the purchase Saturday.

The Deloro school purchase by Keith Brown was described by him as "something for the community." He would say no more.

A pair of Rawdon schools were purchased by a representative from a Toronto firm, Fenfale Investments. They paid $3,200 for the schools.

Action was fast and furious Saturday afternoon at the former Stirling-Rawdon High School as auctioneer Barton Haggerty knocked down 29 rural schools at the rate of one every four minutes. At left, Harry Bassken, Toronto, bids on a retirement residence. He got it—

Bogart school in Hungerford, for $2,500. Alex Kerk, centre, Toronto music teacher, trudges away from the house he had planned to live in permanently. After his first look at his $1,900 purchase in the 13th concession of Rawdon, he decided to renovate the school for summer use only. The Toronto trio at right, Miss Johanna Hickey, (seated) and Miss Margaret Smith and Keith Slater (on floor) lost out on the schools they came to bid on.

People Purchase Small Schools for the Funniest Reasons

By HARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

STIRLING — A school auction here Saturday afternoon saw a number of people buying schools for various reasons.

A number of persons crowded the gymnasium at Stirling Rawdon High School here to purchase a residence for retirement years.

One man even bought one for sentimental reasons and the auctioneer at the end Bart Haggerty of Huntingdon Township almost bought one for the same reason.

M. Moskoske of Toronto had his own special reason for buying three schools.

He purchased the Sulphide school in Hungerford for $1,300 the Ivanhoe school in Huntingdon for $1,200 and SS No. 7 in Rawdon for $2,600.

He explained the schools would be residences for his in-laws.

"I got a big family" he said.

Keith Brown, a former member of parliament from Peterborough, bought two schools. He purchased the Deloro school for $5,600 and the Bonarlaw school for $1,550.

The Deloro school is "something for the community."

He explained, however, that the only reason he purchased the Bonarlaw school was for sentimental reasons. He obtained all his public school education at that school.

Auctioneer Bart Haggerty of Huntingdon witnessed the sale of the school he had attended from 1913 until 1923. The school is right next door to his farm.

Mr. Haggerty explained that both of his grandfathers taught at that school and one of them was the first teacher.

"I went there as long as they could teach me anything," he said.

"I thought of buying the school myself, but my wife squelched. She said. "If you think I'm going to live in a school you're crazy."

A Toronto woman, Mrs. Joanne Soloviov, bought the SS No. 6 school in Rawdon for $1,500.

"My daughter has been wanting a place in the country," she said. Her daughter is 10 years old.

Alex Kerk of Toronto bought a school, 16 miles northeast of Stirling for $1,900. However, he purchased it sight unseen.

Upon reaching the school after the hazardous back country road journey, Mr. Kerk found that it hadn't been used for 13 years.

He came to the auction intending to buy a one - room frame school near a friend's cottage to be used for a weekend fishing retreat. He bought one for $600, the lowest price of the auction.

But, Mr. Kerk was planning another purchase, one that would take him from the busy streets of Don Mills where he is a real estate salesman and a music teacher, to reside in the country enabling him to commute between his new home and Belleville and Trenton where he would teach music.

When he took a look at the school, he decided a permanent residence was out. He explained that the school was too remote.

He did concede that with a bit of work it would make a fine summer home.

Council Session Called

Hastings county Warden Calvin White has called the final session of county council for Tuesday, Dec. 10.

Carl E. Bateman clerk treasurer and administrator reports there is little new business for the agenda and it is expected the session can be completed in the one day. The session will consist mostly of reports from the standing committees.

Four outside resolutions will be considered, including one from Kent County requesting that police force members be authorized and instructed to defend themselves in the course of their duties and to use whatever force may be necessary to carry out those duties.

The dramatic, untold story of a Canadian election!

JOURNEY TO POWER

Don Peacock

An exciting, behind-the-scenes account of Dalton Camp's challenge to John Diefenbaker... Robert Stanfield's victory as leader of the Conservative Party ... Pierre Elliott Trudeau's meteoric rise to power, and the final election outcome.

With fifteen years varied experience around Parliament Hill—including the position of Special Assistant to Lester B. Pearson—author Don Peacock was able to observe in a unique way the events leading up to the recent general election. Now in Journey to Power, he describes from the inside the transformation which occurred in Canadian politics from November, 1966 to the eventual victory of the Liberal Party under leader Pierre Trudeau. It is a book that will provide everyone with a greater awareness and understanding of the momentous events which have reshaped Canada's political directions.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

BELLEVILLE DIVISION COMMITTEE

The Division Committee for the Guides and Brownies met recently at the home of Mrs. T. R. Colden, with the Commissioner in charge. Mrs. N. F. Crone, North West Commissioner, was presented with a Green Tree pin by Mrs. Colden.

Mrs. Colden noted that there are 1,016 uniformed members of the guiding movement in the Belleville Division. Mrs. A. Bannon, Camp Advisor, gave a report on a camping meeting recently attended.

The tea convener for next year's Guide and Brownie Tea is Mrs. J. Brennan with help from Mrs. J. Farrell. The tea will be held at St. Michael's on Saturday, Feb. 8, 1969.

UCW MEETINGS

FRANKFORD UNITED CHURCH WOMEN

On Tuesday evening, December 3, 1968, a large number of members and guests enjoyed a Christmas social evening in Rose Lowery Hall. The hall was appropriately decorated for the season, completed with a table of candy and nuts sold by the CGIT girls.

The president, Mrs. J. Beach extended a warm welcome with a special invitation to attend the annual CGIT vesper service on Dec. 15 at 7.30 p.m.

The worship service opened with a Christmas carol, followed by a dialogue of the Christmas story as told by Mrs. W. Morrow, Mrs. P. Chase and Mrs. R. Reid, combined with the singing.

A variety Christmas program followed.

Rev. and Mrs. Weese were presented with a gift as an appreciation for the guidance and assistance throughout the year, for which they expressed their most heartfelt thanks. A social hour of refreshments and fellowship was later enjoyed by everyone.

A View from the Top

Members of the CGIT Choir, gathered from seven area churches, leave Eastminster United Church in Recessional following the Annual Vesper Service held Sunday evening. Featuring candlelighting, the service is designed as a dialogue representing the Word of God and the response of the people.

St. Andrew's Guild Meets

The November and December meeting of the Women's Guild was held at the church Wednesday evening. President, Mrs. V. Weir welcomed the ladies and opened the meeting. Mrs. G. McClean led in devotion.

The secretaries' report of previous meeting was read and Mrs. R. Michaud gave the treasurer's report, also a full report of bazaar receipts.

Mrs. B. Sine, convener of bazaar thanked the ladies for their support for a successful event. Mrs. Weir also added her thanks.

Regrets were brought from Mrs. W. Mantle that due to sickness and loss of members the Happy Group who have faithfully quilted every week at the church could no longer carry on.

It was decided to remember the sick and shut-ins again this year at Christmas time, also to supply treats for the children of the Sunday School. Rev. Lamb of Holloway St. Church gave a very interesting talk on Belleville Lifeline.

Mrs. A. L. Sutherland thanked Rev. Lamb for giving of his time to speak to the ladies.

The welcome group served refreshments.

Ann Landers

Reader Asks Ann To Eat Her Words

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to say a word or two to the young girl who propositioned her doctor because she wanted to learn about sex from an older man who "knows what he is doing." I was disappointed in you for not setting her straight. Surely you know that simply because a man is older doesn't mean he knows what he is doing.

ANN LANDERS

My husband is 32. We have been married 30 years. If he lives to be 100 he won't understand a woman's emotional needs or what role sex should play in married life. Don't tell me it's my fault for not teaching him. Did you ever try to teach table manners to a hog? Same thing.

Romantic love is more than technique. It is sensitivity, consideration, a desire to give as well as to receive. One might assume that a man who has been married 30 years would benefit from 30 years of experience. Not true. He may have had the same experience 3,000 times. I think you ought to eat your words, Ann Landers. — PHOENIX.

Gulp. Gulp.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on the letter about Agatha — the kooky sister-in-law who carried a gun in her purse and liked to scare people with it "for laughs." The question is, how long people going to laugh about the easy availability of guns in this country?

The current estimate of guns now in the hands of the public ranges anywhere from 90 million to 300 million, depending on who is doing the estimating.

Very few states and municipalities require that a person have a license both to purchase and to possess a gun. Most states permit people to have pistols without a licence. In some states one may have a pistol so long as he carries it openly.

Since 1900 more than 800,000 Americans have been killed by firearms, which is more than died in all our wars, going back to the Revolution. Crazy, isn't it? What can the average citizen do to get some sane and meaningful gun laws passed? — OUTRAGED.

DEAR OUTRAGED: That's a good question and one for which there seems to be no easy answer. The last Congress passed some gun legislation that was an improvement over the existing laws, but one gets the impression that Congress threw the angry constituents the smaller, possible bone in an attempt to quiet them for a while.

I suggest that We The People keep hammering away at Washington and our State and local representatives. Let them know we are not going to rest until we get sensible gun laws. For the zillionth time I repeat — we are not trying to restrict the lawful and legitimate activities of sportsmen and gun collectors; we simply want to make it illegal for anyone with the price of a gun to walk in and buy one — no questions asked.

IODE Chapters Hold Combined Meeting

A combined supper meeting of the Argyll and St. Julien Chapters of the I.O.D.E. was held in the Officers' Mess in the Armories on Wednesday. The mess was decorated for the Christmas season adding to the occasion.

The Regents of both chapters, Mrs. F. R. Allan and Mrs. K. J. Macdonald welcomed the members. The special guests for the evening were seven recent arrivals in Belleville from Czechoslovakia.

The well laden table of a great variety of food was enjoyed by everyone.

The special guests were introduced by Mrs. G. Hume and Mrs. S. Kvarda and each received a gift. The members of both chapters made a considerable contribution of linens etc. to be distributed among these families.

A doll, the gift of a member, was won by Mrs. H. McKay who held the lucky number. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing Court Whist. The winners are the following: high score, Lois Clarke and Edna Hume; second, Betty Gorsline and Chris Royal; low, Ann Watkin and Betty Vince; hidden, Laura Bishop and Olive Smith.

The Argyll Chapter held a brief meeting at the close when the Regent presented a gift to Mrs. Sakamoto who is leaving shortly to join her husband in Baggoville, Quebec. She has been a most active member and will be missed.

The members also contributed a number of gifts to be given to the Mental Health Association. A reminder was given re the Boxing Day Tea dance and the Winter Fantasy Ball.

Successful Living

Does No Education Mean No Communication?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My mother has an uncle and aunt in their 80's. They are both deaf and dumb. They have no education so we are told they can't make a will.

They have money and land. When they pass away would my mother be entitled to it? We live eight miles away so she does not look after them. A man and woman next door do that. They also take their money and put it in a bank for them.

You have to talk to them by signs with your hands. — Wondering.

Dear Wondering: A deaf mute was formerly classed with other incapable persons, but times are changing. The question to settle is whether the person who is deaf can understand the nature of what he is doing.

Does no education mean no way of communicating at all? I doubt this.

I suggest that you visit a teacher of deaf mutes, or an expert in dealing with such people. The School for the Deaf might be willing to send a counsellor to see them and decide this.

As for your mother's legal rights, we would need to know about any other relatives and closeness of relation ship. Have her visit her legal aid resource to sort this out.

Dear Doris: There is a boy in my room whom I have a liking for. The only thing is, I haven't said a word to him since school started. I can talk to other fellows in my room, but whenever he looks at me I turn red in the face and get the feeling I am inferior to him.

How can I get on talking terms with him, without exposing my feelings to him? I don't want to appear like I am chasing after him. I am afraid that if I do start to talk I'll goof. — Chicken.

Dear Chicken: Other symptoms are: paralysis of the limbs, stuttering, lightheadedness, butterflies of the stomach. Diagnosis? You have a crush on him.

Treatment? A lively program of activities which includes sociability with other boys, thus diluting the Original Virus. And let the O.V. make his own approaches. At which time the inferiority complex will be replaced by your own special brand of composed feminine wiles. Happy landing!

Christmastime Is Cherry Time

By MARY MOORE

In 1963 I gave you near Christmastime two cherry cookies. We have had to reprint these recipes time and time again to keep up with the demand for copies. I like them too for they are so Christmasy. So instead of sending out so many copies by mail I am repeating them — particularly for our young brides who are doing Christmas baking for the first time.

CHERRY FLIPS

1 cup butter
½ cup icing sugar
2 egg yolks
2 cups sifted cake flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 or 2 tsps. almond flavoring
30 cherries (drained: reserve juice for icing)
Finely chopped nuts or coconut.

Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks and beat well. Blend in flour and salt, sifted together. Add flavoring. Pinch off little pieces and press flat in palm of hand. Insert a cherry and fold and roll dough around it, forming it into a ball. Place on a greased baking sheet and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 25 min. or until golden. When cold, dip in thin icing made from 1½ cups of icing sugar and ½ cup cherry juice. Roll in nuts or coconut.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Sausages; Spiced Applesauce; Potato Pancakes; Brussels Sprouts; Sliced Lettuce with Creole Dressing; Mince Pie; Coffee.

CHERRY GLOBES

1 cup butter
½ cup icing sugar
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup finely chopped almonds (blanched)
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
3 doz. maraschino cherries, drained

Cream butter and sugar until fluffy. Add remaining ingredients, except cherries, mixing well. Flatten a small amount of dough, (about 1½ tsps. for each cookie) in palm of hand. Place a whole drained cherry on circle of dough. Cover cherry by pinching dough up and around it, then roll between hands to form a smooth ball. Bake on greased baking sheet at 325 deg. Fahr. about 25 to 30 min. While still hot, roll in fine granulated sugar.

Makes 3 dozen.

Fergy and Bob Stage Main Event

MONTREAL (CP) — Two of the strongest men in the National Hockey League—one renowned for his scoring ability and the other for his pugilistic endeavors—clashed in the eighth minute of Saturday night's game between Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens.

Black Hawks' Bobby Hull, the league's leading scorer and Canadiens' John Ferguson tangled after Hull took exception to a crosscheck.

The ensuing fist fight was a standoff on points, but Hull had to retire to the clinic to get five stitches in his nose.

Ferguson collected a major penalty for crosschecking, a major for fighting and a misconduct. Hull was handed a major for fighting.

Referee Art Skov called a total of 69 minutes in penalties in the game which also saw Serge Savard mix it up with Bill Orban and Jacques LeMaire take on Matt Ravlich. Montreal won the game 6-3.

Ferguson claimed he did not crosscheck Hull.

"I certainly didn't crosscheck him," he said in the dressing room after the game. "But who is going to believe me?

"Anyway, does Hull think that for $100,000 (a year) he's going to get off Scot free?"

Outside the Chicago dressing room, coach Billy Reay was bitter at Ferguson and said he crosschecked Hull.

"He should've been given a match penalty," he said.

In This Corner...

John Ferguson (22) of Montreal Canadiens and Bobby Hull (9) of Chicago Black Hawks show the scrapes they picked up after a first-period fight in Saturday night's National Hockey League game in Montreal. Skidding Rangers Minus Rod Gilbert

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers, who only last week were first in the National Hockey League standings, have lost three games in a row.

And they've also lost right-winger Rod Gilbert, 10th in the NHL scoring race with 27 points on nine goals and 18 assists.

Gilbert, who will be out four to six weeks with a broken left ankle and torn ligaments, was missing Sunday night when the Rangers dropped a 5-2 decision to Detroit Red Wings before a hometown crowd of 17,250.

He was hurt in Toronto Saturday night as the Rangers lost by an identical score in the Maple Leafs, dropping into second place in the Eastern Division standings.

New York was tied for first with Montreal going into weekend action, but the Canadiens edged two points ahead with a 6-3 win over Chicago Black Hawks Saturday.

In other Sunday games, Toronto beat Pittsburgh Penguins 4-1, Chicago dumped Boston 7-4, St. Louis fought to a 4-4 draw with Philadelphia and Minnesota defeated Oakland 4-1.

At New York, Gordie Howe scored two goals and assisted on two as Detroit took a 4-1 lead in the first period.

"The first 700 goals are the toughest," said Howe, who has a career total of 702 and is in second place behind Chicago's Bobby Hull in the NHL scoring race.

He said his next milestone would be 714—baseball's home run record established by the late Babe Ruth.

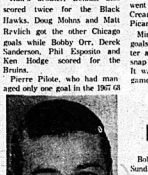
Dean Prentice, Frank Mahovlich and Garry Unger scored the other Detroit goals while Donnie Marshall and Bob Nevin replied for the Rangers.

In Chicago, Hull scored three goals for the 23rd time in his NHL career as the Black Hawks beat Boston.

His performance gave him 19 goals for the season and 44 total points for a six-point spread over Howe.

Chicago raced into a five-goal lead and then stood off a late Bruin surge. Bobby's final goal, on which Chicago goalie Dave Dryden picked up an assist, halted the Boston comeback with eight minutes left.

Hull's brother, Dennis, also scored twice for the Black Hawks. Doug Mohns and Matt Rzvlich got the other Chicago goals while Bobby Orr, Derek Sanderson, Phil Esposito and Ken Hodge scored for the Bruins.



Pierre Pilote, who had managed only one goal in the 1967-68 season and none so far this season, fired two to lead Toronto past Pittsburgh. The veteran defenseman connected on a first-period slap shot and scored again in the second as the Leafs, in fourth place in the NHL's Eastern Division, won their third straight game.

More scoring from Dave Keon were the other Toronto markers. Leo Boivin scored Pittsburgh's only goal while Tim Horton was serving a hooking penalty in the second period.

St. Louis, trailing the Western Division by 10 points over Los Angeles Kings, stretched its unbeaten string to 12 games with the tie against Philadelphia Flyers. The Blues have won five and tied seven since their last defeat, Nov. 9, at Montreal.

Forbes Kennedy's 20-footer at 12:04 of the third period gave Philadelphia the tie. Simon Nolet got two for the Flyers, and defenceman Allan Stanley scored the other. St. Louis goals went to Ab McDonald, Bill McCreary, Camille Henry and Noel Picard.

Minnesota erupted for three goals in the third period to shatter a 1-1 tie with Oakland and snap a nine-game losing streak. It was the first defeat in five games for the Seals.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Don Westbrooke, a winger for Team Genie of the International Hockey League, was wounded slightly in the arm early Sunday when a bullet smashed through a window of the team bus near Bowling Green in Wood County. Westbrooke described the wound as "just a scratch" and said he did not require medical treatment. He played in the Gems' game with Toledo Sunday night and scored three goals.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier and Oscar Bonavena have both promised a knockout in their heavyweight championship fight Tuesday night. Frazier, who broke training camp Sunday in Pleasantville, N.J., said he would "smoke out" Bonavena in about seven rounds. Undefeated in 21 pro fights, Frazier is defending his piece of the world heavyweight crown. Bonavena, from Buenos Aires, said upon breaking camp at Camden, N.J.: "I knocked him down twice before. Now I'm even stronger. I'm going to knock him out and take the title back to South America."

PORT ELIZABETH (Reuters) — Billy Casper beat Gary Player by three strokes in the fifth match of their Challenge of Champions golf series in this South African city Saturday. Casper carded a five-under-par 69 to Player's 72. Player, South African holder of the British Open title, now has a 3-2 lead in the six-match series. But if Casper squares during the six and last match in Pretoria today, the series will be decided on score aggregate. Casper so far is 13 strokes under par to the South African's 14.

MOSCOW (CP) — The coaches of two Soviet national hockey teams that have just finished giving Canada's national team a few lessons may go to Canada next year to help train the Canadian team.

Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., Canadian Amateur Hockey Association manager, said Saturday that Anatoly Tarasov, coach of the Soviet No. 1 team, and Arkady Chernishov, mentor of the No. 2 team, have offered to go over to Canada as advisers for one month next year.

Juckes said the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation had indicated it would approve the idea. The proposal still needed Canadian acceptance.

Juckes said the Russians would "show us how they train their players—differently from ours—and how they get their physical conditioning."

Juckes was interviewed just after the Soviet No. 2 team had blanked the visiting Canadians 4-0 in an exhibition game. It was the fifth match for the Canadians in Moscow and they lost all except one—a 2-2 tie with Finland last Tuesday.

The No. 2 Soviet team beat the Canadians 8-1 Friday and 5-4 the previous Sunday. The Canadians also lost 6-0 to the Soviet No. 1 team on Wednesday.

Bears Crush Ram Title Hopes While Colts Cinch Coastal Pennant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago Bears, riddled by injuries earlier in the National Football League season, rose up Sunday to terrorize Roman Gabriel and topple Los Angeles Rams 17-16, handing Baltimore Colts the Coastal Division title and keeping their own championship hopes alive.

The loss eliminated the Rams one week before their final game—against the Colts. The victory kept Chicago tied for first place with Minnesota Vikings who trimmed San Francisco 49ers 30-20 in the Central Division stretch race.

The Bears take on Green Bay Packers and the Vikings meet Philadelphia Eagles next Sunday.

Cleveland Browns nailed the Century Division crown with a 24-21 victory over Washington Redskins. St. Louis Cardinals downed New York Giants 28-21, Dallas Cowboys topped Pittsburgh Steelers 28-7, Detroit Lions beat Atlanta Falcons 24-7 and Philadelphia outscored New Orleans Saints 29-18 in other games.

The Eagles' second successive victory after 11 straight setbacks cost them the No. 1 pick —most likely Heisman Trophy winner O. J. Simpson—in the upcoming college draft.

Buffalo Bills, who bowed 35-6 to Houston Oilers Saturday for a 1-12-1 American Football League finish, inherited the top draft choice.

The Colts, eliminated Green Bay, defending NFL champs, 16-3 Saturday.

Gabriel, the Rams' gifted quarterback, was harassed by Chicago's fierce defenders and then knocked out of the game temporarily by a blind-side tackle in the second quarter.

With Gabriel on the sidelines, the Bears seized a 10-7 lead after Clarence Childs' 88-yard kickoff runback and moved ahead 17-7 following Dick Butkus' interception of a Milt Plum pass.

Then the Rams narrowed the gap on a third quarter safety and Gabriel's three-yard scoring jaunt with 2:42 left in the game.

Gabriel completed seven of 23 passes for 118 yards. His net passing yardage in the first half was zero.

Joe Kapp passed for one touchdown and ran for two more, staking Minnesota to a 27-6 lead, but the Vikings barely withstood a fourth quarter 49er rally to keep pace with the Bears at 7-6 in the Central derby.

Don Cockroft booted a tie-breaking field goal and Bill Nelsen fired a 38-yard touchdown pass to Paul Warfield in a two-minute, fourth-quarter burst that gave the Browns their Century clinching, eighth straight victory.

The Cardinals outscored the Giants behind fullback Willis Crenshaw, who rambled for 162 yards and three touchdowns, including a 66-yard gallop. But they remained 1½ games behind Cleveland with just one to play—against the Browns next Saturday at St. Louis.

Bears' Win Too Much

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Phil Handler, 60, a Chicago Bears assistant football coach since 1952, collapsed and died Sunday at his suburban Skokie home moments after watching on television the Bears' 17-16 victory over Los Angeles Rams.

Handler's personal physician said the coach had been suffering from a heart ailment for some time, and had been forbidden to attend games.

Handler had 39 consecutive National Football League seasons as a player and coach. Before coming to the Bears, he was with the former Chicago Cardinals from 1926, first as a player and then as a coach. He was head coach of the Cardinals 1943-45 and was co-head coach in 1949.

Mo-Hawks Singing Third Period Blues

League - Leading Flyers Sink Locals With 5 in Third

BARRIE (Staff) — Third-period doldrums continued to spell disaster for the Belleville Mo-Hawks yesterday when Barrie Flyers used five third-period markers for an 8-1 Senior "A" hockey win on home ice.

Belleville has surrendered 20 goals in the last three games, and of these 14 have been scored in the third period, including one in overtime. During the same span, the Mo-Hawks have tallied only twice in the third period of the games — losses to Orillia (5-4), Galt (7-2), and Barrie.

Larry Holmes in the Belleville nets turned back the Flyers in the first period, stopping 12 shots and robbing Dave Nicholdson on a screened drive from the left during a power-play at the 9.25 mark. Holmes stood out again when he stopped Ron Vermette, on a breakaway at the 18-minute mark, and in the closing seconds of the period when the Flyers were all around the Belleville net.

But, the Flyers leaders were not to be denied and opened the scoring at 4.52 of the second period when right-winger Pete Pawlenchuk drove the right side and drove a high slapshot over Holmes' shoulder into the upper-right-hand corner of the net.

Centre John McMillan scored on an identical play at the 7.50 mark to make it 2-0 and left-winger Mike Dubeau cashed in a sharp angle-shot from the left side at 16.34 to give Barrie a 3-0 lead at the end of the second period.

Right-winger Wayne McConnell, narrowed the count for Belleville at the 2.47 mark of the final period when he beat Barrie netminder Bob Saunders with a sliding shot between his legs. The play originated after Belleville broke up a Barrie rush, and was set up by George Godson and Lionel Boily.

Dave Ferguson took over for Barrie and fired the first of three goals at the 3.36 mark. The second came at the 7.29 mark and the third, at 13.24, started a three-goal Barrie outburst within 46 seconds.

Pete Landers notched the second of the three quick goals at the 13.44 mark and league-leading scorer Corby Adams rounded out the string at 14.10.

Bey Guidolin, a former NHL and Belleville MacFarland player, now the Flyers' coach said "Our boys played well in the last two periods because they're in very good shape."

"We had a three-week training camp and got the jump on the rest of the league.

Weekend Wins Keep Hornets In Striking Range

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After five weekend games, standings in the nine-team Ontario Hockey Association Senior series remain unchanged.

Barrie Flyers kept their five-point lead over Galt Hornets Sunday through a decisive 8-1 win over seventh-place Belleville Mo-Hawks. The Hornets, who have played four fewer games than the Flyers, kept pace with a 4-3 win Saturday over Orillia Terriers.

Orillia bounced back Sunday, edging Kingston Aces 3-2 after th. Aces clipped Oakville Oaks 6-1 Saturday in Kingston. In the other Sunday game, the Oaks scored six goals in the third period on home ice to bounce last-place Woodstock A's 10-5.

Carl Hadfield, younger brother of New York Ranger forward Vic Hadfield, scored four goals as the Oaks shelled the Woodstock goalie with 38 shots.

Bob Bishop counted twice with single goals going to Bob Pole, Bob Sawkins, Pete Bestlid and Charlie Cipolla.

Rookie Gary Kyte paced the A's with two goals. Gary Harmer, Dan Mahony, and Bob Tomchick scored the other Woodstock goals as the A's suffered their 14th loss in 18 starts.

At Galt Saturday, before a crowd of 1,824, third period goals by defenceman Larry Zilotto and Fern Belanger provided the Hornets with their winning margin over Orillia. Ron Hergott and John Beechey scored the other goals as Galt posted their seventh straight win. Veteran Moe Galand tallied both Orillia goals.

At Orillia Sunday, the Terriers handed Kingston Aces their 10th straight road loss. Don Fuller, Pete Speyer and Gary Milroy shared the Terriers' scoring while Ed Long collected both Kingston goals.

Orillia netminder Gerry McNamara only faced 17 shots while Mike Lovett in the Kingston goal blocked 39 of 42 Orillia shots.

The sixth-place Aces scored five of their six goals against Oakville in the third period Saturday while Convery posted two of the Kingston goals while Ed Long, Chris Seal, Rod Graham and Bob Collins added the others.

Oakville's lone goal, scored by Charlie Cipolla midway in the opening period, stood up until Long tied the score late in the second period while his team was playing a man short.

Oshawa Juniors Gain Revenge Over Morrisons

STAFF — When the Oshawa Junior B Crushmen are out for revenge, they don't fool around. The Crushmen came into Belleville Sunday to avenge their 7-3 loss suffered at the hands of the Morrison Junior B's in their last meeting, and walked off with a 17-2 shellacking of the locals in a penalty-ridden affair.

Oshawa players were assessed 16 of 25 penalties called in the contest.

Morrisons trailed all the way as Oshawa scored five goals in the first period, four in the second and eight in the third period.

The Crushmen only outshot the locals 38-33, but Belleville netminder Gig Hunt was beaten on almost half of the shots he faced.

The Morrisons' goals came late in the first period and early in the second. Dennis McCormack tallied the first Belleville goal with assists going to Ron Fuller and Al Jones. Oshawa led 5-0 at the time.

Gord Donaldson combined with Mark Acquafreddo and John McCrimmon to run the count to 5-2 at the 3.19 mark of the second period.

Oshawa came back with two goals within three minutes and never looked back. For the rarely-beaten Junior A-modelled Crushmen, the game was a point-bonanza and sweet revenge for the 6-3 setback suffered at the hands of the Morrisons in the last meeting between the teams.

John Nestle, the junior B league's third-leading scorer, picked up seven points with three goals and four assists and Henry Nowak, who was tied with Nestle in the scoring race, notched three goals and an assist.

Gary Mohan potted six points on three goals and three assists. Bill Lynd picked up six assists, Bill Prentice four goals and an assist, Dennis Ashton one goal and four assists, Tom Simpson two goals and an assist and Pete McNamee a single goal, for the powerful Crushmen

Saints Ousted

First Loss Hurts the Most

STAFF — Quinte Junior Saints girls' basketball team lost their first game of the season Saturday, but it was the one that counted.

The Saints, who coasted through their Quinte District Class "AA" loop schedule with a 12-0 record, dropped a tight 36-31 decision to Peterborough's Thomas A. Stewart Collegiate to be eliminated from Saturday's COSSA championship tournament in Cobourg. The Stewart girls went on to win the junior title.

Prince Edward Collegiate girls from Picton were ousted from the senior title-hunt with a 33-25 loss at the hands of another Peterborough team, St. Peter's.

The Picton senior girls, who finished atop the Quinte District "AA" standings with an 11-1 record, were tied with St. Peter's at half time.

The Peterborough team went on to cop senior COSSA honors.

Whitby Girls Prove Waterloo

OSHAWA (Staff) — The ball didn't bounce just right for the girls' basketball teams from Albert College and Nicholson on Saturday as both were eliminated in the first round of the COSSA Class "A" basketball championships at Oshawa Catholic High School.

Albert College seniors dropped a 34-23 decision to Dennis O'Connor High School of Whitby after trailing 16-11 at halftime.

Team captain and centre Margi Monroe was the game's high scorer with 18 points. Susan Burgess netted four points and Maureen Edens added one for the Albert seniors.

The game was close until Whitby broke it open with ten straight points midway through the third period Albert narrowed the margin somewhat, but was unable to overcome the taller Whitby squad.

Elsie Van Dyk scored 16 points for Whitby. Gertrude Kale with nine, Janice Robertson with eight, and Isabel Bardole with one rounded out the scoring for the winners.

Whitby downed host Oshawa Catholic High School in the final game to win the COSSA Senior title.

The Whitby school proved to be a double Waterloo for the Belleville entries when Dennis O'Connor junior girls dumped Nicholson 21-9 in a defensive battle. Whitby led 11-5 at the half and never trailed.

Christine Walch led Nicholson with four points and Betty Molaski added three points.

Whitby juniors lost the championship to host Oshawa Catholic High School in the junior final.

Picton Intermediates Win Weekend Pair

The Picton entry in the Intermediate "B" Lakeshore League enjoyed their weekend, coming up with a 9-5 home win over Napanee Sunday night after drubbing Wellington 9-2 on the road the previous evening.

Gary Geyer's hat trick paced the Picton crew last night, with George Jacklin adding a pair, and singles going to "Pug" Kellar, Joe Scott, Fred James, and Sam Mulholland.

Ron Vanalstine, with a pair, Don Aylsworth, John Hartwick, and Bill McNevin replied for the losing Napanee visitors.

Saturday night, Jim Guernsey led Picton to their 9-2 win in Wellington with two goals. Singles were contributed by Mike Perry, Paul McGill, George Jacklin, Fred James, Gary Geyer, Gary Hammond, and Ron Weese.

Dick Patrick and Bob Lawender put Wellington on the scoresheet.

City Midgets Snap Streak

Blake Kerr's Imperial Midgets walloped Picton 9-2 Sunday to snap their six-game winless streak and highlight a weekend in which local minor hockey teams won seven of nine games.

Kerr's Midgets and Kinsmen bantams were the only teams which lost on the weekend, the midgets bowing by a score of 6-5 Saturday and the Kinsmen 3-1 to Oshawa Saturday in the second round of the Peterborough bantam tournament.

The Kinsmen bantams downed Oakville Rangers 4-1 Saturday in the first round of the Peterborough tournament before being eliminated in the second round. Back in Belleville on Sunday the Kinsmen defeated Trenton Legion 6-1.

Food City novices scored a pair of victories, 4-3 over Gananoque Saturday, and 7-1 over Kingston Sunday, while Smith Fuels peewees downed Picton 6-2 Sunday and Western Tire juveniles blanked Amherstview 11-0.

The midgets had managed only a tie with Gananoque in six games before they humbled Picton. Ricky and Terry Meagher led the way with two goals and an assist each, while Doug James, Chuck Powell and Greg Scarlett all potted a goal and assist with Cliff Jamison and Allan Greenacre adding the other goals.

Terry Meagher with two goals and Ricky Meagher, Doug James and Gary Thompson with singles scored for the midgets against Napanee.

Kinsmen bantams downed Oakville as Danny Laporette posted two goals and Russ Herrington and Grant Goegan added single goals.

Back home on Sunday Robbie Foster and Dave Smith fired a pair of goals each and singles went to Russ Herrington and Andy Ricketts.

Food City Novices downed Napanee Saturday on goals by Lapenette, Meagher, Sudard and Hayman. On Sunday against Kingston Crawford led the way with a pair of goals and singles went to Hayman, Suddard, Coates, Walden and Meagher.

Smith Fuels peewees trampled over Picton as Scott James and Steve Kirby fired a pair of goals each and Jimmy Whelan and Peter Crawford added singletons.

Mitchell scored four goals to lead the Western Tire assault on Amherstview. Beecher, Wilson and Hopkins added two goals each and Mulvihill a single goal as Mike Gorman shut out Amherstview.

Prague Uneasy Over Summit Parley Held in Secrecy at Kiev

PRAGUE (AP) — Uneasiness was felt in Prague today over a Soviet-Czechoslovak summit meeting held in the Ukraine amid the kind of secrecy that was common before Alexander Dubcek came to power.

The weekend talks in Kiev covered "issues of common interest" including "further development of co-operation" between the two Communist parties and countries, said a vague communique issued Sunday in Moscow.

It said the talks "passed in a cordial atmosphere, in comradely and friendly spirit." The language was warmer than that used to describe Soviet-Czechoslovak meetings, but there was no mention of "complete unity of views"—the Communist phrase to describe agreement fully satisfying the Kremlin.

Most Czechoslovak officials and the local press was kept in the dark about the meeting until it was over. This was in marked contrast to nearly all other meetings which Communist party chief Dubcek and his associates held with Kremlin officials, both before and after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in August.

The extreme secrecy was a blow to Czechoslovak journalists, intellectuals, students and factory groups who have been protesting the clear curtailment of information since the invasion.

Journalists have been working to establish a dialogue with the authorities and to reopen channels of information. Two weeks ago all leading cultural unions adopted a resolution warning that despite all promises the government was returning to "a closed-door policy of secret dealings and agreements . . . without any possibility for citizens to criticize or take part."

The Soviet delegation was headed by Communist party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Some concern was felt in Prague that the progressive Dubcek was virtually isolated on his five-member delegation because the four men who accompanied him are regarded as members of a growing "centre" group that stresses accommodation to Soviet demands rather than preservation of Dubcek-era reforms.

The four were President Ludvik Svoboda, Premier Oldrich Cernik and Deputy Premiers Gustav Husak, head of the Slovak Communist party, and Lubomir Strougal, head of the embryonic Czech Communist party.

"Well, anyway, Herbert, you have to admit they have a novel sales pitch."

Pelletier Sees Growth of Tolerance Essential In Proposed Bilingual Districts in Canada

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Gerard Pelletier, secretary of state, says majority linguistic groups in proposed bilingual zones in Canada will have to be educated to create a climate where the minority "will be able to impose itself."

Mr. Pelletier told French-speaking Manitobans at the Rally for Franco-Manitoban here during the weekend that "cultural ghettos" could be formed when the bilingual zones recommended in the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism are established.

They are to be formed in areas where a minority of at least 10 per cent speaks an official language not used by the majority.

"We risk giving birth to permanent conflicts and veritable cultural ghettos if we think integration of one of Canada's two cultural majorities can be decreed without seeking to establish tolerance, co-operation and reason with the group in power in that community," Mr. Pelletier said.

The federal government proposed to set up socio-cultural education centres when the official zones were officially established by legislation.

"Cultural moderators" from these centres will work first at educating the linguistic majority to create a climate where the cultural minority "will be able to impose itself," he said.

The secretary of state also promised direct federal government aid to a Franco-Manitoban Society formed at the rally to replace the Education Association of French-speaking Manitobans.

The society would take an interest in all social and cultural matters affecting French-speaking Manitobans. The education association, on the other hand, was formed to fight for French instruction in Manitoba schools.

Newly-elected president of the Franco-Manitoban Society, Maurice Gauthier, told reporters Sunday that the continued existence of the French-speaking community in Manitoba requires the separatist agreement that French-Canadians can live only in Quebec.

Slowdown Planned

Air Canada Threatens Suspensions

TORONTO (CP) — A work-to-rule slowdown by the Canadian Airline Employees Association was scheduled to start today despite a threat by Air Canada that employees could be suspended.

Weekend mediation sessions on a new contract between the association and Air Canada broke down just before midnight Sunday and John Hayes, president of the 2,200-member group, said the association now will go ahead with the work slowdown by "strictly observing company regulations."

An Air Canada spokesman said employees in the company's 29 depots across Canada have been told that it would be illegal to start a work slowdown before the conciliation board hearings are completed.

Another meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday night in Montreal and Mr. Hayes accused the company of "stalling for time."

He said Air Canada has also threatened that any union officials carrying out what he termed as "work performance program" would be fired. He said in an interview if Air Canada "is going to carry out its dismisses union officials, his association will not sign a settlement without protection of jobs and pay to any employees disciplined.

Mr. Hayes said a protest will also be sent to Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey because "we, as a union, are not aware what could possibly be illegal in observing the company's own procedures."

Strict observation of regulations by the passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators represented by the association could mean delays in processing ticket reservations and the backing-up of flights.

J. E. Dickson, an Air Canada official, said despite the scheduled slowdown the company expects normal service to continue.

Wages, working conditions, duration of a new contract and employee transfer clauses are major items under dispute.

The last contract between the association and Air Canada expired July 31, but bargaining began in June. Last week, Mr. Hayes said the association wants salary increases ranging from 19 to 35 per cent in a one-year contract.

Air Canada has offered a 15-per-cent increase over a period of two years.

Present salaries range from $325 to $550 a month for passenger agents and from $200 to $325 a month for switchboard operators.

U.S. Rail Unions Voting on Merger

CHICAGO (AP) — Eugene V. Debs spent a lifetime preaching solidarity among the railway unions, which in turn spent the greater part of their existence competing and bickering with one another.

Now, 75 years after Debs tried to create one central rank-and-file organization, the railway workers are voting on whether to give it another, although limited, try.

More than 200,000 members of four operating unions have voted during the last month on a proposal to merge their brotherhoods into one powerful, more economical and expandable organization.

The results of the vote will be announced Tuesday in Chicago.

If the unification plan is approved it will create the United Transportation Union from these labor bodies: Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, 125,000 members; Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, 40,000; Switchmen's Union, 10,000, and the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen, 15,000.

Debs was in the forefront of the labor movement late in the 19th century. His American Railway Union, which grew to 150,000 members and rivalled the rising American Federation of Labor in size, collapsed after a strike that started in 1894 against the Pullman Palace Car Co.

The current merger plan began in January when the chiefs of the four involved unions decided to appoint a 40-man committee-10 from each union-to work on a proposed constitution for the umbrella organization.

Missing from the unity drive is the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which has bitterly battled the firemen for years in a dispute which began when firemen were removed from certain trains and engineers accepted higher pay for duties previously held by firemen. The engineers' union numbers 40,000.

PC Party 'Dead' Says Minister

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Progressive Conservative party is "dead from the eyeballs both ways as far as organization is concerned," Allan Lawrence, Ontario minister of mines, said Saturday.

Mr. Lawrence was speaking at the first convention of the newly-formed Windsor and district Progressive Conservative Council, formed to co-ordinate party organization in three local provincial ridings.

Mr. Lawrence told 60 delegates, he believes the party organization is unrepresentative of the community and is not fulfilling the necessary two-way communication between government and people.

He said party organizations should represent the different economic strata, religious groups, age groups, racial and ethnic groups.

Buoy Tender Is Sunk

WHITE CASTLE, La. (AP) — Divers today searched for bodies of 17 crew members missing since a collision with a freighter sent the U.S. Coast Guard buoy tender White Alder 75 feet to the bottom of the Mississippi River near here.

The 133-foot vessel was hit by the Nationalist Chinese freighter Helena Saturday night.

Three of the 20-man crew were plucked from the river but no trace of the others was found.

After hours of dragging operations, the White Alder was located Sunday when three large canister buoys from the vessel rose to the surface.

Operations were suspended pending the arrival of a Navy diving team.

Debris fished from the river indicated the White Alder was hit amidship as it headed down river to New Orleans.

The Helena, largely undamaged, continued 30 miles upriver to Baton Rouge where it berthed.

The coast guard declined to say more about the collision and said no interviews of the survivors would be permitted until after a hearing Tuesday.

The three men found Saturday night were clinging to a buoy in the cold water.

Doctor, 68, Works On, Nobody to Take Over

NOELVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Because his would-be replacement has not worked as an intern in Canada, Dr. George Yochem 68, may have to postpone his retirement.

Dr. Yochem, the only practising doctor between this village and Sudbury, 40 miles away, says he has thought about retiring, "but I know very well that when I leave, nobody else will come to take my place."

The new doctor was to come from France, but he will not be allowed to practise here because of the regulations set by the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

"I think it's ridiculous not to let many of these doctors practise here," Ellie Martel, New Democratic Party member of the Ontario legislature for Sudbury East said in an interview during the weekend.

"During the Second World War, these same European doctors saved Canadian lives without having to do one- or two-year internships or write exams. As experts in the same here as in Europe, I'm sure."

Reeve Joel Chartrand and Les Lalonde, chairman of commerce president, said they are preparing a submission to Ontario Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond, questioning the regulations.

Strife-torn College's Head Has Reputation as Scholar

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — S. I. Hayakawa, Vancouver-born acting president of violence-ridden San Francisco State College, has in a few days achieved a fame in sharp contrast to the quiet academic honors the world has heaped on him.

He has received thousands of letters and cards. Library shelves, including the dusty back stacks, are bare of his books, primarily on semantics. They are all loaned out.

Why did state college trustees pick Hayakawa, a 63-year-old outwardly mild scholar, to cool off the fierce campus problems?

It might have been the widely publicized speech Hayakawa made Nov. 15 at one of the faculty meetings during the stormy administration of President Robert Smith, who resigned after only five months in office.

Hayakawa was just another tenured professor entitled to speak to the big auditorium session. Bristling, he strode to the microphone in the aisle. In staccato bursts, he said:

"I wish to comment on the intellectually slovenly habit, now popular among whites as well as blacks, of denouncing as racist anyone who opposes or are critical of any Negro tactic or demand.

"If we are to call our college racist, what term do we have left for the government of Rhodesia?

"Black students are again disrupting the campus. A significant number of whites, including faculty members, condone and even defend this manoeuvre.

"In other words, there are many whites who do not apply to blacks the same standard of morality and behavior they apply to whites. If the word racist is to be used at all, it can well be applied to those who uphold this double-standard.

"There are at least 17,500 students who are waiting for us to fulfil our obligations to them. We must not let them down. We must permit no one to disrupt or dismiss our classes."

Hayakawa said he was speaking in behalf "of the silent majority of Negro students advancing themselves and their race without recourse to violence and intimidation who want to be treated as responsible human beings."

Return of Arms-running Ship Adds to Tension in Ulster

LONDON (CP) — The journey back from Canadian waters by an old ship which once ran contraband arms to Northern Ireland is reported to have taken on added meaning amid current tensions in Ulster.

The ship's "imminent arrival in Northern Ireland waters . . . is assuming a political significance that no one could have foreseen when the campaign began to save the vessel and turn it into a museum," says the Daily Telegraph.

The Clydevalley helped run arms and ammunition before the First World War to Ulster opponents of home rule for Ireland.

The vessel was later sold to Canadian interests. It spent a number of years in coastal service and finally ran aground off Newfoundland in 1965.

When news reached Northern Ireland that the 460-ton vessel was to be scrapped, a group led by S. G. Campbell of Whitehead, near Belfast, determined to save her for use as a floating museum.

The Clydevalley subsequently was bought for this purpose.

After leaving Sydney, N.S., Oct. 5 for Northern Ireland, the ship was forced by engine trouble to stop off at St. John's, Nfld., for repairs that delayed the transatlantic voyage.

Its gun-running venture occurred in 1914, with the Clydevalley sailing into Larne, Northern Ireland, carrying 50,000 rifles and 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition.

At that time, there was a crisis over the question of whether Ireland, including the North, should be given home rule and thus be separated from Britain.

Home rule, eventually to the point of complete independence, was given in later years to the southern counties of Ireland. But the North still is part of the United Kingdom.

The Telegraph says that on the Clydevalley's present "sentimental journey" the ship's ship carries no arms but there still is a crisis.

Currently at issue are questions of law and order and the leadership of the Unionist party, which governs the North.

The London paper reports that Rev. Ian Paisley and members of his Free Presbyterian Church "have come to regard the Clydevalley as their rallying point."

"They are expected to give expression to their 'patriotism' when she puts into Larne on Saturday for a ceremony of welcome," says The Telegraph.

Larne is the constituency of William Craig, minister of home affairs in the Northern Ireland cabinet of Prime Minister Terence O'Neill.

Craig has been involved in controversy surrounding the way police handled demonstrations in Londonderry and elsewhere since the start of renewed controversy over the civil rights of Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland.

He has been invited to the Saturday ceremony, says The Telegraph, "but Capt. O'Neill has not been invited."

Campbell, the organizer of the Clydevalley museum project, is quoted as denying that there is any political motive behind the undertaking.

But the paper quotes Paisley as saying of the ship:

"The last time it came in, it saved Ulster. We hope it will do so again."

Tax Reduction Deadline

FOR TENANTS AND LANDLORDS

Dec. 31

Virtually all home-owners and tenants in Ontario are entitled to benefit this year from a reduction in residential property tax.

Tenants of all eligible apartments and houses are to receive the tax reduction allowance from their landlords on or before December 31, 1968.

The landlord has received the reduction in property tax from his municipality. He or his agent is required by law to pass on the full amount of the reduction that applies to each tenant who is eligible.

A tenant who has moved during the year should advise his former landlord of his present address.

This new system was established in 1968 by the Ontario Government in order to ease the burden of municipal and school taxes. The Province, in effect, is paying part of the property taxes for each eligible house and apartment.

TAX REDUCTION NOTICE

Full information is contained in the free pamphlet "TAX REDUCTION NOTICE" which is available at your Municipal Office or by writing the Municipal Subsidies Branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs, 801 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

Thousands View Trenton's Santa Claus Parade Saturday

TRENTON — The promoters of special town events produced a Santa Claus parade on Saturday that was longer, more colorful than any previous annual pre-Christmas extravaganza credited to them.

The gala procession, according to Mayor James MacDonald who rode in one of the open cars with Prince Edward-Hastings MP George Ilsley attracted a turnout larger than other years.

For the first time the parade was routed along Front St., after crossing the No. 2 highway bridge, and returned to the marshalling area at the Centennial Park back over the old lower span.

The new route afforded more accommodation for crowds in the downtown shopping district. The local chamber of Commerce sponsors of the parade received favorable comment about the change.

Entries in the parade numbered 35 — four more than expected. Bands and musical groups represented Belleville, CFB Trenton, Colborne, Campbellford and Trenton.

Participation by the students of Loyalist College, grade 13 students of Trenton high school and pupils of Brauwa public school added a flavor of youthful exuberance to the gay mood of all those involved.

The riders of the Quinte Western Association as usual pleased the children and grown-ups with their presence.

Of course there was no one to thrill the youngsters like Santa Claus himself as he waved continuously from a replica of his sleigh and his famous reindeer.

Judged the best float in the parade was the Kiwanis entry depicting a "Jungle Book" theme. The club received $25. in cash for the effort.

The best youth group prize of $15 in cash went to the Loyalist College entry while the Trenton Rotary Club was awarded a similar sum for the winning float in the adult service group category.

The other prize winners were: CFB Trenton Sing Out group, Town of Trenton and Valerie Smith's majorettes.

Investigators Probing Cause of Explosion

Investigators still are probing the cause of Friday's natural gas pipeline explosion near Belleville that sealed off supplies to 5,000 consumers.

As yet, there was no official explanation for the detonation, a Toronto spokesman for Trans-Canada Pipelines said today.

"Our people are still investigating. They make a very detailed study of the situation and it takes considerable time," he added.

Meantime, a five-man squad of service operators were still standing by in Belleville today to solve any complaints from consumers of Lakeland Natural Gas Co — sole gas distributor in the area.

Gas supplies in the Belleville - Trenton area were fully normal by 2 p.m. Sunday — 20 hours after the explosion at a North Sidney Street metering station, Jack Pearse, Lakeland's local manager said.

The company had gas flowing to most of its customers by early Saturday morning — after mounting an operation that mobilized 150 men from as far away as Montreal and Northern Ontario.

Temperatures Reach Six Below

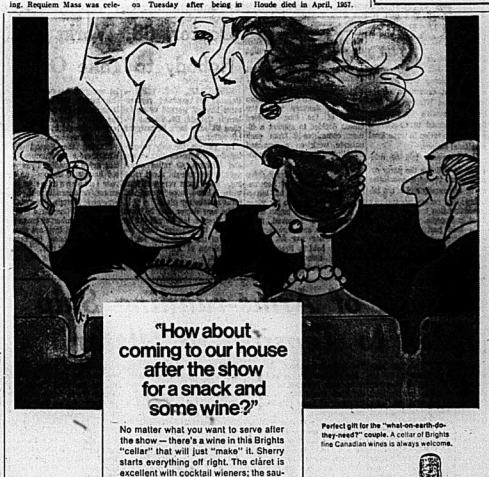
TWEED — Temperatures ranging down to a chilly six degrees below zero were registered in North Hastings last night, in what could be termed the first real touch of winter weather to strike the area this year.

At Belleville the mercury dipped to three above zero shortly after daylight this morning.

The coldest temperature recorded was at Bancroft and at Palmer Rapids both of which reported six below. At Dacre the temperature dropped to five below, at Plevna four below and at Tweed two below zero was recorded.

In keeping with the below zero temperatures, a heavy mantle of snow covers the ground in the North Hastings area with weather officials at Tweed reporting that 15.8 inches of snow has already fallen in December.

In contrast to this the ten-year average snowfall for all December is but 16.02 inches.



Tweed now has just over six inches of snow on the ground while Bancroft has 13.7 inches and Palmer Rapids 16.5 inches.

"How about coming to our house after the show for a snack and some wine?"

No matter what you want to serve after the show — there's a wine in this Brights "cellar" that will just "make" it. Sherry starts everything off right. The claret is excellent with cocktail wieners; the sauterne, chilled, for small salmon sandwiches. The port and the Mazel Tov make any cheese sing. DuBarry bubbles are for fun and laughter. Whether or not you enjoyed the show, you'll enjoy this.

"After-show" cellar:
74 Sherry: A delectable appelizer wine.
74 Port: Superb with cheese and crackers.
Manor St. Davids Sauterne: A medium dry white table wine.
Manor St. Davids Claret: An excellent dry red table wine.
Mazel Tov: A delicious dessert wine.
DuBarry Sparkling Vin Rosé: An "anytime" fun wine.

Perfect gift for the "what-on-earth-do-they-need?" couple. A cellar of Brights fine Canadian wines is always welcome.

Convict Vanishes After Joining Mounties in Church Choir

OTTAWA (CP) — A 30-year-old prisoner from the Joyceville, Ont., medium security prison ducked out a basement door Sunday after a church service in which 38 convicts and 15 Mounties, all in the red cassocks of the regular choir, sang in Christ Church Anglican Cathedral here.

The 800 seats in the graceful old cathedral were filled for the occasion, billed by the federal penitentiaries service as "a new trend in penological thinking."

The guest speaker was Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, who worked on the now-legendary bridge over the River Kwai as a Japanese prisoner during the Second World War, and the parable of the prodigal son was read. Dr. Gordon is dean of the chapel at Princeton University.

Afterwards, the 26 prisoners from Joyceville, the 12 from another medium-security prison at Leclerc, Que., and the Mounties went to the basement of the cathedral for coffee and doughnuts.

It was a cheerful, wet-eyed moment until someone did a head count and discovered that one of the Joyceville lads, who were all dressed in civies, had skipped out.

City police launched a search but refused to give the escapee's name. A spokesman for the penitentiaries service said he probably acted on impulse and it was hoped he would recall the lesson about the prodigal and turn himself in voluntarily.

The usual cries and alarms were muted. All hands hope such experiments will be repeated. And one lapse, during the Christmas season, isn't considered a collapse.

Productions Based on Sex

Movie Producers Campaign Against Misleading Advertising

ROME (AP) — Criticism of an avalanche of movies based on sex has provoked Italian producers into a campaign against misleading advertising.

Come-on titles such as Sex Without Veils are used to promote some of the films playing in neighborhood houses.

It all started when the West German blockbuster Helga took in $4,800,000 at the box office, breaking records. Thousands flocked to see a childbirth on the screen plus a description of premarital and marital relations.

Italian movie directors got the hint.

Marcello Avallone began filming Sex, This Unknown.

"I will answer the question of why a girl can be raped in a country where there is free-love," Avallone explained.

Then Franco Montemurro, another director, started A Hot Body for Hell.

Sexy Baby, Sadistically Yours and The Orgasm followed in a more daring vein.

The Producers' Association reports that more than 40 titles it has registered revolve around the subject.

At least half the films recount the first discovery of love, childbirth or marital problems. Directors claim they are dealing with the subjects with a clean, clinical approach.

Others don't agree. They surmise that the sexual binge is an extension of the dying Italian Western movie industry, which thrived on violence.

Il Tempo magazine comments:

"The Western towns on the sets were changed into clinics and matrimonial suites, and the sheriff was replaced by a sexologist or a gynecologist in a white coat."

The Vatican publication L'Osservatore Romano has lashed out at "porno-publicity," saying it is "a simple expedient to make a fast profit."

The Federation of Italian Entertainment, which includes many of the producers, has replied to the criticism by announcing a plan to police its ranks in film advertising.

Its president, Italo Gemini, commented:

"Often the publicity message does not correspondent to the content of the film. This amounts to mystification."

Feet for A Refinery

What appears at first glance to be a big city skyline is actually concrete footings for a new hydrogen plant under construction at Shell Canada's Montreal East refinery. Plant is part of a $90,000,000 modernization and expansion program which will raise capacity to 110,000 barrels of crude oil a day from 62,000 barrels.

Mixed Reactions

This two-man underwater craft called the cubmobile was tested by the Fisheries Research Board for five weeks last summer, but scientists were left with mixed emotions. They found it valuable for research, but all wanted certain design changes to assist them in their work.

NBC Presents Pinocchio

NEW YORK (AP) — Pinocchio, one of childhood's classics, underwent considerable plastic surgery in Sunday night's 90-minute Hall of Fame production on NBC.

The little puppet still had trouble with his nose, which grew each time he told a lie, and he did turn into a real boy at the end. But in between, he and his papa, the wood carver Gepetto, became involved in some new adventures and in some sly commentaries on contemporary society. And they sang some songs in the modern idiom that ranged from ballad to rock 'n' roll.

Amid one of those eye-catching and lavish Hall of Fame productions, Pinocchio was translated into a musical comedy with fantasy that, while not completely satisfying, was an interesting fattening job.

Peter Noore, leader of a pop British musical group, played the title role in a sort of floppy-idiot fashion. While his appearance may have attracted young fans of his Herman's Hermits, the role needed a young man with greater acting skill and dancing ability. Burl Ives, cast as Gepetto, had one dandy song, Too Soon, but was stuck with a role that had neither humor nor depth.

CBS, which first said it would have one mid-season replacement—The Glen Campbell Show for Daktari—has had some second thoughts. Blondie also will go after a 13-week existence. It will be replaced Jan. 16 by The Queen and I, a situation comedy starring Larry Storch and Billy de Wolfe. The story is built around an old ocean liner whose owners want to sell but whose crew wants to keep employed.

Recommended tonight: ABC, NBC, 8:9 EST, musical special with the Temptations and Diana Ross and the Supremes; The Road to Gettysburg, ABC, 9:10, reconstruction in documentary style of the Civil War battle first of the season's Saga of Western Man series.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate time.
If the days of your older clock are gone in your home, then its time a home somewhere in this area would love to use it.

YOU MAY NOT OWN A TALKING PIANO!

But if your piano could talk, it might tell you that its first answer call was directed in Belgrence, Italy in 1709, and that by 1900 it had supplanted the harpsichord and clavichord. And it might tell you Mozart and Beethoven were among the first composers to write for the piano. Your piano might also remind you that if you have neglected it, it would prefer to be sold than to continue neglected. Just Ad so that it could get back to work. Call 962-9171 today.

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate time.
If the days of your older clock are gone in your home, then its time a home somewhere in this area would love to use it.

YOU MAY NOT OWN A TALKING PIANO!

But if your piano could talk, it might tell you that its first answer call was directed in Belgrence, Italy in 1709, and that by 1900 it had supplanted the harpsichord and clavichord. And it might tell you Mozart and Beethoven were among the first composers to write for the piano. Your piano might also remind you that if you have neglected it, it would prefer to be sold than to continue neglected. Just Ad so that it could get back to work. Call 962-9171 today.

Orthodox Jews Bury Seven Torahs from Burned Synagogue

NEW YORK (AP) — "O God, pagans have defiled Your Holy Sanctuary."

With these words from the 78th Psalm, some 2,000 Orthodox Jews Sunday buried the remains of seven Torahs—or sacred scrolls—which were destroyed in a fire set by vandals in Brooklyn Nov. 27. Some of the Torahs had been saved from the Nazis during the Second World War.

The mourners gathered before the burial for a funeral service outside the Yeshiva of Eastern Parkway.

Rabbi Meilech Silber, founder of the yeshiva, or school, told the crowd to remember the words of a martyred rabbi, Chanina Ben Traydon, who was burned to death by the Romans.

Rabbi Silber said Rabbi Traydon had a sacred scroll tied around his waist and as the flames enveloped him cried out: "I see the parchment burning. I see the letters hovering in the air."

Rabbi Silber then told the crowd: "We pledge here today that the letters and words of our burned Torah scrolls . . . shall come home again."

The mourners proceeded by car to the Beth David Cemetery at Elmont, N.Y., where the Torahs, which had been placed in a coffin, were lowered into the ground by eight students from the yeshiva.

The fire at the yeshiva destroyed the library, the synagogue and scholarly books.

A Torah scroll, containing the five books of Moses—including the Ten Commandments—is composed of parchment folios, sewn together and attached to wooden holders. According to tradition, the Torah was given to Moses on Mount Sinai.

The burial took place in accordance with Orthodox ritual which provides that damaged Holy Scrolls must be buried "with dignity and honor."

Under the River -- over the Hill

Even a rain-swollen river fails to stop this cable-laying tractor as it buries some of the 30,000 miles of Zetabon-clad cable for Alberta Government Telephones. Next year another 6,000-mile segment will be installed. Cable is laid between 30 and 36 inches deep. Zebnton is a plastic-clad metal designed to provide an hermatic seal to prevent water penetration and resist corrosion.

Nixon Is Said to Have Chosen Melvin Laird as Defence Boss

NEW YORK (CP) — President-elect Richard Nixon, who has indicated he will seek early meetings with Western European leaders, has added fuel to the active rumor mill here by conferring nearly two hours with R. Sargent Shriver, ambassador to France.

Meanwhile, the Milwaukee Sentinel says a Nixon aide in Washington confirmed that Representative Melvin R. Laird, chairman of the House of Representatives Republican Conference, had agreed to become defence secretary.

"The only thing that could go wrong would be if he (Nixon) changes his mind at the last minute, and he won't," the aide was quoted as saying.

Laird was not available for comment.

Nixon aides said the 12-member cabinet, scheduled to take office in 43 days, was "basically" complete, and that all positions would be filled this week. Other sources said Nixon was still negotiating with one or more prominent Democrats.

Shriver said he flew to New York from Washington Sunday at Nixon's request to "bring him up to date about things in France."

The Democrat denied he was offered a cabinet post.

Schriver is a former director of the Peace Corps and ran President Johnson's poverty program for four years before going to Paris as ambassador seven months ago.

The two men met alone and a Nixon spokesman had no comment on the unusually lengthy discussion which followed a meeting in Washington between Shriver and State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Shriver's sudden visit to the United States added to persistent rumors of an impending overall tour by President Johnson, which might include a summit conference with Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin and a visit to Paris for talks with President Charles de Gaulle.

Diplomatic sources hinted Shriver's visit was connected with new and apparently urgent developments.

Two Major Parties Study Rumor's Italian Coalition

ROME (AP) — Leaders of Italy's Christian Democratic and Socialist parties are putting Premier-designate Mariano Rumor's blueprint for a new center-left government to crucial ratification tests.

Rumor completed his coalition program Saturday after a week of talks with party leaders. It puts emphasis on university and pension reforms to ease student and labor unrest.

The accord was ratified Sunday by the tiny Republican party, third partner in the coalition. If the leadership councils of the two larger partners pass his program today, Rumor is expected to present his cabinet to President Giuseppe Saragat Wednesday or Thursday.

Political observers said Rumor's government could be ready to face the necessary votes of confidence in Parliament by next Saturday.

In a last-ditch effort to dissuade the Socialists from entering another coalition, the Communist party newspaper L'Unita called for left-wing forces to join and block formation of the centre-left coalition.

"A new and more advanced balance of forces can be built," wrote party" Secretary Luigi Longo. He spoke of "workers, farmhands, and students" demonstrating side by side with "protest exploding everywhere." However, the Communist proposal appeared doomed.

Labor unions scheduled a series of regional strikes this week from Sicily to the Alps in quest of higher pay and better working conditions. Rome was due to be hit with a bus and tram strike.

Many university buildings were still occupied by rebelling students, and their walls bore red hammer and sickle symbols, praises to Mao Tse-tung and calls for the overthrow of the bourgeoisie. The students are demanding a large say in revising curricula, testing methods and disciplinary procedures.

In Syracuse, Sicily, the secretary of the Christian Democrats' national youth movement, Giuseppe Zanin, put his movement firmly on the side of impoverished peasants.

Zanin said: "To whomever asks where the Christian Democrat youth stand, we reply that we are not with the political bosses nor the industrialists. We are with the farmers."

The Sicilian town of Avola became a symbol for young leftists last Monday when two farmhands were killed by police during a riot.

Marines Finish off Sweep With Stiff Bunker Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines closed out their massive cordon operation south of Da Nang today with another flurry of stiff bunker fighting. At least 862 North Vietnamese soldiers were claimed killed in the 20-day campaign.

Some senior officers estimated total North Vietnamese losses may approach 1,000 when the final count is made. A number of North Vietnamese troops were taken prisoner.

Marine casualties for the entire operation, called Meade River, were 95 killed and 504 wounded.

Staff officers said preliminary intelligence indicated that major portions of four battalions of the North Vietnamese Army's 38th Regiment were trapped in the cordon following a North Vietnamese attack on the district town of Dien Ban, 15 miles south of Da Nang.

The U.S. military command also disclosed that a $2,000,000 RF-4C Phantom photo reconnaissance plane was shot down over North Vietnam but the two-man crew was rescued by helicopter.

It was the fourth American plane shot down over North Vietnam since the halt in the bombing Nov. 1 and the 919th loss over the North during the war.

Military spokesmen reported that Communist gunners shelled two district towns and eight bases Sunday night and early today, including the big Nha Trang air base 200 miles north east of Saigon and the U.S. Army headquarters complex at Long Binh, 15 miles north of the capital.

A report from Long Binh said three Americans were killed when about 15 rocket rounds slammed into the rear headquarters of a light infantry brigade and a helicopter company.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market edged up in active mid-morning trading today. Golds and base metals were slightly lower.

In industrials, BA Oil gained 1 to 48¼, Brazilian Light ¼ to 20¾, James United Steel ¼ to 20¼ and Consolidated Bathurst ½ to 22¼.

In the list of heavy traders, OSF Industries rose 1 to 26¼, Revenue Properties ¼ to 19½ and Oshawa A ¾ to 43¼.

Gains outnumbered losses by 176 to 102.

Leitch Gold Mines dropped 85 cents to $2.00 after a delay at opening to match orders, while Highland-Bell lost $.10 to $4.75.

The decline followed a statement by F. E. Hall, president of Leitch, who said there will be no appeal against the Ontario Supreme Court decision rejecting their claim to the huge ore body at the Kidd Creek mine near Timmins, Ont.

The two stocks have been tumbling since Chief Justice G. A. Gale of Ontario handed down his judgment 10 days ago.

Copperfields Mining fell 5 cents to $1.26 after reporting a sharp drop in quarterly earnings.

In oils, Home A advanced 2¾ to 39½ and Home B 2 to 39½. There has been brisk demand for the stocks recently because investors are hoping for an oil discovery on the company's Arctic property.

On index, industrials gained .33 to 197.33 and western oils .84 to 241.25. Golds fell 1.44 to 231.62 and base metals .16 to 111.79. Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,302,000 shares compared with 1,394,000 at the same time Friday.

A WORLD OF ANIMALS

The Gentle People, by Era Zistel.

In The Gentle People the author describes an appealing variety of wild creatures that have come to share her home. Among them are a collection of remarkable cats, a matriarchal goat with a gift for teaching, and a racoon who was so busy with the daily chore of washing shirts and socks that he refused to go into the wilds again.

The Incredible Journey, by Sheila Burnford.

The story of three animals who travelled home together 250 miles across the wildest part of Canada: how Luath, a young golden labrador; Tao, a Siamese cat; and Badger, an old bull terrier, set off to trek the wilderness on their soft domestic paws. All three animals were very much the part of the author's household in Canada, and it was their remarkable behaviour and understanding of each other which inspired her to write this book.

Born Free, by Joy Adamson.

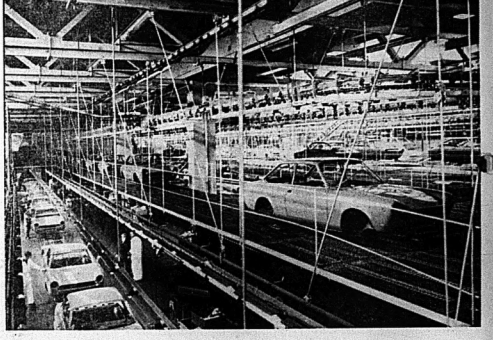
This book is one of the greatest true animal stories ever written, and unlikely to be surpassed as a record of friendship between man and beast. Elsa was a Kenya lioness and reared by Joy Adamson and her husband from a four-day-old cub. Elsa shared in all the Adamson's activities. When they shot, she retrieved; when they bathed she bathed too; when they went on safari, she rode on the roof of the Land Rover. The last stage of this unforgettable story is the most remarkable for Elsa lived a double life, mating with a wild lion and yet returning to resume her old friendly relationship with the Adamsons whenever they visited her area of the bush.

Lama, by Derek Tangye.

This is the story of Lama, a wild black cat, who took the place of Monty, hero of A Cat in the Window in the Derek and Jeannie Tangye household at their Cornish cliff-side flower farm. On Easter Sunday, a few months after Monty had died, a tremendous storm blew up from the south. The rain and gale swept in from the sea, and Lama, this, beautiful, little black cat, arrived miaowing at the door.

Rascal, by Sterling North.

A warm nostalgic story, lovingly recalls a young boy's life in a small, midwest town at the close of World War 1., a life full of the outdoors, of a motherless child's tender affection for his pets, of self-reliance and strong family ties, of the special excitement of holiday time, country fairs, and Christmas. But best of all it introduces Rascal, a little racoon, who is utterly captivating.



Mishap Causes $650 Damage

TWEED — Property damage estimated at $650 resulted to three vehicles Sunday afternoon in an accident on Highway 37 opposite White's Service Station at Thomasburg.

Provincial police said a half ton truck driven by Murray Howe of Plainfield, emerged from a sideroad and was in collision with a northbound car driven by Stanley Bullif of Ottawa. Following the impact the two cars careened onto the service station lot where they struck a parked vehicle owned by Gary Schwagger of Frankford.

TRAILERS ENCOURAGED

ENDERBY, B.C. (CP) — This Interior community offers trailer sites at $35 a month and plans to expand its trailer park. Alderman Art Lundman said, "I don't want to see it become a trailer city but I do see the need for this type of accommodation."

Painting Installations

This is a view of the modern painting installations at Fiat Works in Turin, Italy. The 10th largest company outside the United States, it was founded in 1899 by the Agnelli family. This year, Fiat expects to send nearly 500,000 cars abroad — about 3,000 to Canada. (CP Photo)

To Your Good Health

Encephalopathy Means Brain Damage

By Dr. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please comment on encephalopathy with seizures? Please include the causes, symptoms, cure and prevention.

I am a former boxer and I had it for 25 years. Some people call me punch drunk. — W. S.

The "encephalo" part means brain; the "pathy" means disease. Hence disease, or damage affecting the brain.

This can occur from infection, from intoxications (alcohol, lead poisoning, and others.) From physical injury.

It may or may not be possible afterward to discover which cause did the damage.

The brain, encased in the protection of the skull, is not easily harmed by light or moderate blows. A heavier blow is something else again. It can slam the delicate brain tissues against the skull. (Indeed, in some injury cases, a skull fracture may be preferable to suffering the same blow without fracture. The fracturing absorbs some of the energy of the blow, and to that extent reduces the amount of energy applied to hurling the brain against the skull.)

This impact of brain against the inner wall of the skull is what we know as a concussion — an injury ordinarily of temporary nature.

The pommelling that a boxer takes can cause repeated injury, perhaps none severe enough to be recognized as a "concussion," but small bleedorrhages can occur. Taken together, there is appreciable damage to the brain.

This can result in convulsive seizures, loss of balance, noises in the head, and a variety of symptoms. In the case of a boxer, we assume it is from repeated blows to the head, and we call it "punch drunk". Because balance and co-ordination may be impaired, he may be "walking on his heels".

I've seen some of these poor fellows on occasion, all alone shadow - boxing on a street corner. I've seen some others who never were in a ring, but with "wet brains" from too much booze.

It does not follow that because a man has been a boxer and has seizures that he is "punch drunk." Lead poisoning, and other such subtle, dangerous toxicity, can be the underlying cause.

There is no prevention except to avoid the damage to the brain. lead poisoning in children, for example, and treat them before the poisoning has damaged the brain too much. (That is one of the dangers of lead mixed in ancient slum housing which still has lead paint in the interior and lead crumbling plaster.)

After the damage has occurred, anticonvulsant drugs can lessen the seizures, but that is about all that can be done.

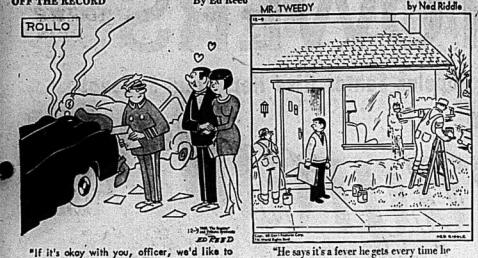
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am diabetic. My trouble is I love ice cream and eat one or two pints a day. Could this hurt me if I keep it up? I am afraid to tell my doctor. — J. P.

Depending on the severity of your diabetes and what else you eat, so much ice cream is probably bad for you not only because of the sugar in it but the total calories.



Tell your doctor. You aren't fooling him by keeping it secret; you're only fooling yourself. So tell him the truth. If your diabetes is not too severe your doctor will let you have a little ice cream. Then stick to whatever amount he says is safe.

U.S. Sends Two Destroyers Into Landlocked Black Sea

ISTANBUL (CP) — Two United States destroyers steamed into the Black Sea today despite sharp Russian protests that their mission is both illegal and provocative and violates the 1936 Montreux Convention.

The 3,500-ton destroyers Dyess and Turner, part of the U.S. 6th Fleet, passed through the Dardanelles Straits from the Mediterranean Sunday but slowed and spent the night in the Sea of Marmara.

The warships arrived at Istanbul just before dawn and stayed for two hours because of thick fog. But using radar, the destroyers entered the Bosporus at 8 a.m. (1 a.m. EST) and steamed into the Black Sea an hour later. The ships will cruise along Turkey's Black Sea coast for five days.

The Soviet government newspaper Isvestia reported Sunday that its correspondent had seen the two destroyers slip through the Bosporus "like thieves" into the landlocked Black Sea.

But the ships, by anchoring in the Sea of Marmara, abided by a provision of the Montreux Convention that bars transit of the straights after nightfall.

Turkey claims the ships violate the convention, signed by Russia, Turkey, Romania and Bulgaria, which forbids passage of warships from non-Black Sea countries with firepower greater than 205 millimetres.

The destroyers are equipped with missiles capable of delivering nuclear weapons. Turkish and American officials rejected the Soviet charges and said the ships were making a routine visit that was in conformity with the convention.

The convention allows non-Black Sea powers to send "light surface vessels" of under 30,000 tons into the Black Sea, but it forbids passage of ships of any nation at war, as the U.S. is in South Vietnam.

Most observers saw the ships' mission as a show of NATO strength in the wake of the Soviet-led Aug. 20 invasion of Czechoslovakia and a continuing Russian naval buildup in the Mediterranean.

The Russians now have about 60 warships in the Mediterranean, a sea where previously the U.S. 6th Fleet was unchallenged.

In Moscow, the Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda charged the U.S. decision to send the destroyers into the Black Sea was aimed at aggravating the Middle East situation.

Nova Scotia's Premier Pledges Rights Program

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia has pledged that his province, home for almost half of Canada's 38,000 Negro population, will set an example in human rights legislation "in these difficult times."

A weekend human rights conference here, attended by about 1,000 white and Negro delegates, was regarded by many civil rights leaders as a breakthrough.

"Black people spoke like they've never spoken before to white people," said H. A. J. Wedderburn, president of the Nova Scotia Association for the Advancement of Colored People following the conference sponsored by the provincial Human Rights Federation.

Premier Smith outlined specific changes in the Human Rights Act proposed by his government and said he would consider calling a special session of the legislature soon to deal with them.

His announcement of a white director for the provincial Human Rights Commission created an uproar.

Marvin Schiff, 31, of Toronto will head the commission which has been without a director since its inception three years ago.

Negro delegates said the appointment was another case of the Negro having to go to the white man for aid.

However, Professor Howard McCurdy of the University of Windsor (Ont.), a Negro, said Mr. Schiff, would receive the support of the black community if he consulted it before making decisions affecting Negroes.

Mr. Schiff said he would make "damned sure" that things he wanted to happen for minority groups in the province did happen "or else I resign."

Instal Wheel Cylinders When Brakes Are Lined

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes: "I'm confused and would appreciate your advisive me on the cost of a brake job. I own a two-year-old Chevrolet six which has gone about 31,000 miles. The brake linings need replacing, all the drums are slightly scored and my garage has quoted me a price of about $40 to instal new linings and repair the four drums. However, a neighbour who happens to be a good mechanic tells me it would be advisable to install kits in the four hydraulic wheel cylinders at an additional cost of around $18. Is this extra work really necessary?"

During a brake reline, the common method of deciding whether or not the wheel cylinders need attention is to inspect them for brake fluid leaks and for evidence of partial seizure of internal components. If this visual external inspection proves that all is well, the lining is frequently replaced and the vehicle goes merrily on its way with a clean bill of health. But there is a catch — no one can guarantee for sure that one or more of these wheel cylinders won't start leaking the very next day. Should this occur all the brake fluid can escape from the hydraulic system, resulting in complete and sudden brake failure and when it happens there is little or no warning.

With such an important issue as the brake system it is depressing when we realize that rather than preventive maintenance many wait for failure before overhauling the wheel cylinders. To skip the wheel cylinders and run the risk of becoming involved in a major accident is false economy. Granted, the chance of brake failure under these circumstances on a two-year-old car are only perhaps one in a hundred or less so, actually, the decision rests on whether or not a motorist considers this to be good gambling odds. While the more optimistic set may hand me as being overly cautious, I agree whole heartedly with your neighbor's recommendation to include the wheel cylinders. Incidentally, three to four months ago the linings were reglaced for the first time on my own car and new wheel cylinder kits were included.

I cannot stress too strongly the importance of adequate maintenance of the braking system and the cost involved is trivial compared to that of only a minor collision.

We can hardly blame the garagemen who are hesitant to suggest overhauling wheel cylinders that show no external defects. On occasions, when running my own shop, I was accused of over-selling when I advised the customer that this work should be done. It's up to the individual to insist that wheel cylinders be included with a reline. Remember, most brake failures stem from a faulty hydraulic system rather than worn brake linings.

NOTE: Letiers from readers with car problems are most welcome, but please include: Year and model, number of cylinders, mileage standard or automatic transmission, power equipment, brief outline of previous repairs and a self addressed envelope.

Strictly Personal

Judgment by Dress

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A man I know has made a vulgarly large sum of money the last few years by managing the estate left him by his parents; he has invested in diverse companies with startlingly successful results.

I asked him about this at lunch not long ago, and he said the whole "secret" consisted in studying the companies themselves before he made any kind of investment.

Having about as much fiscal sense as a walrus, I nodded sagely and said, "Ah, you look at the overhauling the product and study the books and then make an evaluation of both in physical and financial assets."

"Not at all," he replied. "I don't know anything about plants and processes and products — and don't much more about the books. What I do mainly is meet the chief officers, their immediate subordinates, and the younger executives coming up — and notice how they dress."

I thought I had misheard him. "Notice how they dress?" I repeated, hastily straightening my tie at the neck. "Is that your criterion for successful inventing?"

"It is these days," he said. "Maybe it wouldn't have been 20 years ago, but now I can't think of a better index to growth companies."

"How do you mean?" I asked, dolefully reflecting on my dismal 50 shares of United Shrimp Whistle, faded yellow chip stock in the Ben Franklin Stove Co., and my framed certificates of the Tucker Car first issue.

"Well," he explained, "I go on the theory that no company can make it big today — except maybe a General Motors — unless the executives are bold and innovative and at least a little ahead of their time. And I think this shows in the way they dress or are afraid to dress."

"For instance," he went on, "I visited a company last month, and all the executives wore those old-fashioned fat pants and many of them even had pens and pencils clipped to the outside breast pocket of their jackets. They looked like something out of a Sinclair Lewis novel of the 1920s, and talked like it, too. I would not put a nickel in that company, and if it can make a sizable bet that they'll be bobbed up or squeezed out soon."

"But, most business executives don't wear avant-garde clothes to the office," I protested. "Even the most progressive of them still dress fairly conservatively."

"Oh, I know that," he said. "I don't judge them by Saville Row or Carnaby Street standards — but only by the general impression they give of either swinging or slumping in their sartorial style. And believe me, in 20 years of investing I haven't found a better market index yet."

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For December 10

Your birthday today: Promotion from conventional sources is yours for the coming year in return for a consistent effort. Every little advance puts you in a better position for a later, fuller view of life alters increasingly until your biggest hindrance is your seeming impatience with the orthodoxy of your life-situation. Today's natives are often politics' losers.

ARIES (Mar 21 — Apr. 19): Serious conflict from unconscious levels sudden emerges into overt behavior. Close associates balk, oppose simple projects. Strangers back you in other ways

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): The source and nature of a letter dissent, comes as a surprise. Take a fundamental approach to all problems; consider the real core.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Marriages and partnerships fare well, wide courtships and friendly contacts are vulnerable to quibbling. Tact is at a premium.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Focus your main attention on home and health. There are diverse hazards to both which can be averted with corrective effort.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Driving becomes a risky activity for you today. Keep a weather eye open for oncoming, irresponsible drivers. Social and family confusion is temporary; hear it in silence.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Money matters are delicately balanced; speculation is not the answer. Find some way to express your feelings symbolically this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You are pulled in conflicting directions. Partnership matters improve. Avoid driving; or at least reschedule it to allow for lapses.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): You can make more money by earning than by speculation! Expect people to have problems of their own which they project on to all comers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): If you can get through this day exempt from challenge you are indeed fortunate. Startlingly good business can be achieved; at the same time nearly everybody is short tempered.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You and somebody near you are subject prone today. Take all due precautions, but do not neglect your regular work. (Be home early tonight.)

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): If you can hear above nearby disagreements, you will learn good news, which changes all long-term plans favorably. Listen carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): The wise course is the usual one of putting in a sound, full day's work without complaint. Use every break for the best rest rather than for fun.

Viet Cong Shell Dozen Centres

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops battled U.S. infantry at two points north of Saigon Monday, shelled a dozen bases and towns during the night and burned down 125 homes in the two undefended hamlets in the Central Highlands, military spokesmen reported today.

The ground fighting was along jungle routes leading toward Saigon. A total of 16 Americans and 39 insurgents were reported killed in the two encounters, and 19 Americans were wounded.

The heaviest fighting raged about 60 miles north of Saigon and only four miles from An Loc, a key provincial capital.

U.S. headquarters said several Americans were wounded in mortar and rocket attacks during the night, while Vietnamese casualties were one soldier killed and seven soldiers and two civilians wounded.

Turbotrain Hits Truck at Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — The CNR's speedy turbotrain, on a press preview run from Toronto to Montreal, suffered minor damage today when it hit a trailer-truck on a level crossing in Kingston.

A railway spokesman in Montreal said the truck driver was shaken up and a CNR employee standing nearby was hit by a piece of flying debris. Both men were taken to hospital.

The turbo, North America's first turbine-powered passenger train and its streamlined nose punched in by the impact but was not derailed or otherwise damaged.

Another turbotrain, making the westbound trip to Toronto from Montreal, stopped at the scene and all eastbound passengers were transferred to the Toronto-bound train.

The damaged eastbound turbo was to continue on to Montreal under its own power.

The truck, hit right in the centre, apparently had stalled on the crossing.

Potter Sparks Demand

Hospitalization to Cover Nursing Homes Is Asked

Welfare Review Urged by MPP

TORONTO — Dr. R. T. Potter says he is disappointed with the Ontario government's lack of attention to hospital and welfare programs indicated in the throne speech.

He told the Ontario Legislature there was an urgent need for review of such programs and he will continue to press for changes.

Dr. Potter demanded that the government seek "more efficient and economical ways of treating our sick and injured" and said Ontario Hospital Services Commission benefits for convalescent and nursing homes are one way to do this.

Members from all parties in the House later joined in support of a motion that this be done — moved by Norman Davison, NDP Hamilton Centre.

The Quinte MPP viewed a wide range of government policies and intentions yesterday as he participated in the debate on the throne speech.

Among them:

Hospitalization — The government should consider subsidization of Ontario Hospital Services Commission premiums similar to its OMSIP program. "It's ridiculous to suggest that a person who is unable to provide his own medical insurance could possibly afford to pay for hospital insurance without similar assistance."

Welfare — The government must concentrate on rehabilitating people "rather than merely supporting them. We must find ways to provide jobs to make self-supporting, responsible individuals again."

Pensions — More realism is needed to bring pensions in

Eight Perish In Fire

WEST LORNE, Ont. (CP) — Eight persons, three adults and five children died early today when fire destroyed a farm home near here 24 miles west of St. Thomas.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. David Haskell and their children Patrick, 7, Carol Ann, 6, Judy, 5, David Jr., 4, and Shirley, 1. Also killed was Joshua Vernasay, the foster father of Mrs. Haskell.

The fire was first spotted by Raymond Tebo, Provincial Police constable, who was driving along the Macdonald-Cartier freeway and notified the OPP detachment at Dutton, 10 miles east of West Lorne.

OPP Constable Robert Squire of Dutton arrived at the home at 3:40 a.m. to find the frame home engulfed in flames.

Firemen were unable to control the fire which levelled the two-storey structure with four upstairs bedrooms. Only a wood stove and a steel bed were visible among the ruins at 8:30 a.m.

Constable Squire said he saw the bodies of what appeared to be three adults in the rubble.

Police said no attempt will be made to remove the bodies until arrival of the Ontario film marshal.

Owner of the destroyed home is Alden Aldred, who lives on the same road, and employed Haskell as a farm worker. The family had been living in the house for the last 4½ years.

West Lorne is a community of 914 persons.

Early today temperatures in the area ranged at about five degrees and a light snow lay on the ground.

Russia's Military Costs Up

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union announced today a record military budget of 17,700,000,000 rubles (about $21,000,000,000) for 1969.

The new expenditure represents a rise of 1,000,000,000 rubles or six per cent over the current year.

The 1969 figure was announced to the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet parliament, by Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov.

While the 1969 appropriation is the greatest amount of money to be spent on defence in Soviet history, it represents a smaller proportion of the total budget than last year's defence figure of 18,700,000,000 rubles.

Garbuzov told the 1,517 deputies to the two-chamber parliament that the rise in military spending was aimed at increasing Soviet defence capacities.

But he did not attribute the increase to any particular area of tension or conflict.

Air Canada Slowdown Effects Won't Show Until Next Week

Sargent Shriver Likely Choice For Post at UN

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon apparently is determined to appoint a big-name Democrat as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations and a source in the Nixon camp indicated today the job would go to Sargent Shriver.

Shriver, ambassador to France, conferred with Nixon for more than two hours Sunday.

Ronald Ziegler, Nixon's press spokesman, declined to comment on the possibility that Shriver was in line for the UN job but a source close to Nixon hinted strongly that such is the case.

Today's Chuckle

sociation began working to rule early Monday and said they would maintain the slowdown until a new contract settlement with Air Canada is reached. But the tactic had little effect on the air line's 29 depots across the country.

Mr. Hayes said he did not expect immediate results, but added that the program would cause a backlog in ticket reservations which would reach its height as the Christmas travel rush begins.

The slowdown was adopted after mediation sessions between the parties broke down late Sunday night. Another meeting is scheduled for tonight in Montreal.

Service Monday was normal in most cities. There were only four delays at Montreal, lasting about 20 minutes each, early in the day, but an Air Canada spokesman said flights were operating on a regular basis later.

At Toronto, there were no delays of "any consequence" and flights from Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Halifax were reported running on schedule.

No Sign of Progress Toward Starting Talks

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong prepared for a new foray today in the Paris war of words while the opposing sides showed no sign of compromise on procedural issues delaying the start of the enlarged Vietnam peace conference.

The National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, scheduled the first news conference by a Communist delegation since the arrival Sunday of the South Vietnamese mission headed by Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Feeling of Impending Doom Mars Britain's Yule Spirit

LONDON (CP) — A feeling of impending doom threatens to mar Britain's Christmas spirit with politicans and newspapers joining in a roaring debate on the possible replacement of Prime Minister Wilson's unhappy leadership with a coalition government.

Those who know Wilson best say the tough Yorkshireman would never agree to join with Conservative leader Edward Heath in a coalition government in time of peace. And Heath is known to be just as strongly opposed to coalition, holding out for the possibility that the pressure of public opinion could precipitate a general election.

This fresh debate over Wilson's leadership and the state of the economy was unleashed by a Times editorial Monday, charging that Britain is edging towards an economic precipice and that Wilson's "disastrous" administration raises the urgent need of considering a coalition government.

Wilson's aides said he plans to uncork a fighting counterblast, either in Parliament or on television later this week.

Dispute Will Soon Leave 8,000 Ibo Tribesmen Without Food

ASABA (AP) — Eight thousand Ibo tribesmen will be without food by Friday because of a row between white International Red Cross workers and Nigerian officials.

"We will run out of food Friday," Father Hugh Conlon, an Irish priest, said Monday to Maj. T. K. Adamu, the federal commander of the Asaba sector adjoining rebel Biafran territory.

"God will provide," replied Adamu with a smile.

While both men spoke, gunfire could be heard across the Niger River. Adamu said federal troops were mopping up some Biafran secessionists after establishing a beachhead on Onitsha.

A week ago, Adamu expelled the last five International Red Cross workers from his sector after a dispute that provoked anti-white slogans in Asaba's refugee camp and accusations of spying against European relief workers.

They included an Austrian doctor and two male nurses, an American and a Norwegian.

Asaba's 8,000 residents, who rely on the International Red Cross for food, now receive none. Five hundred tons of food and medical supplies are locked in a warehouse here, but the key is 280 miles away in Lagos, held by Robert G. Koepp, a former U.S. Peace Corps member.

In the refugee camp where the dispute started, there is plenty of food. The Nigerian army provides for the 2,100 prisoners.

Father Conlon used to provide for the spiritual needs of Asaba. He now is trying to save the population, shrunk from 25,000 to 8,000 since the civil war, from starvation.

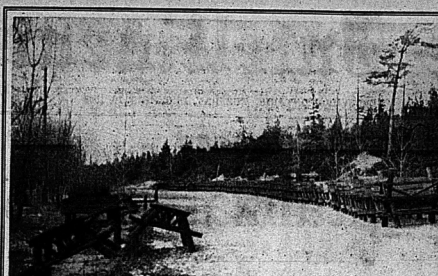
Council Endorses Motion on Grants

TRENTON — Council last night endorsed a petition which calls for a revamping of the per-capita grant system to allow all municipalities to equally benefit from the grants.

At present the population of a municipality determines just how large a per-capita grant it will receive. Trenton is currently receiving $5.25 per-capita.

The petition, originated in Windsor, Council there asked Trenton council to endorse a revision in the grant system.

The brief stated that there was "an inequity in the grant system" and added that the system now used is "no longer on a responsible basis."



Windsor is now receiving $5.75 per capita, while the more heavily populated Metro-Toronto area receives grants of $7 per-capita.

While Mayor James MacDonald agreed that every town can use more assistance he added that "the more we get the more we pay for".

The brief did not put forth a new plan for the per capita grant system but asked Trenton to endorse a change which would result in equal benefits for all communities.

The proposal will be circulated to municipalities across Ontario and then presented to the provincial government.

Too Cold to Picnic

Literally thousands of picnic tables from the provincial parks at the Outlet and the Sandbanks have been neatly stacked up for winter storage. The roads through the park are still open but they will probably be closed off with the advent of stormy weather.

Legality of Vote Not A Problem

TRENTON — The problem over the legality of the post office plebiscite which appeared on the ballot in the municipal election was cleared up today.

And with it all the barriers on the road to renovating the structure for municipal building purposes have been removed.

The ballot was believed by some to be a money question and as such only property holders should have been allowed to vote. Since both tenants and property holders voted, the argument arose that the ballot was not valid.

However, Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry explained the ballot was not a money question but "a referendum to learn the opinion of the people."

"The council will not plebiscite did not involve a definite sum of money," explained Mr. Larry, "and it did not ask the voters to authorize the spending of any amount."

He said the purpose of the plebiscite was to see what the people wanted.

"Now council will study the situation and look at the various ways they can implement the voters choice," he continued.

After these studies it is possible that the people will be faced with another ballot which will be asking for the authorization to spend an exact amount of money.

This could be used to carry out the plan council decides on for the old structure.

"With three choices on the ballot as there were," continued Mr. Larry, "this plebiscite carries no resemblance to a money question."

Mayor James MacDonald had mentioned when the problem arose, that the plebiscite was "only a simple referendum."

"The people have made their choice," said the mayor, "and we will carry out their wishes to the best of our ability."

Joint Meeting

Rotary Discusses Community Colleges

Today's post - secondary school students could expect to return twice or perhaps three times for retraining purposes because of the swiftness of educational and technological change in modern society, according to Robert J. Short, president of St. Lawrence College of Applied Arts and Technology in Kingston.

Mr. Short was discussing the role of the new community colleges in an address to a joint-meeting of the Belleville Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in the Hotel Quinte yesterday.

The meeting was the first of what the two clubs plan as an annual event.

Canada — Our Country, written originally as a centennial contribution by Rotarian Phil Huddleston was sung by Kiwanian Harold Carruthers, with Mr. Huddleston at the piano. Royalties from the song will be donated to Rotary's work among crippled children.

Noting that education comprises more than half the provincial government budget, Mr. Short said he was more concerned with taxpayers' protests than with students' protests. Taxpayers deserved a clear explanation of the programs being undertaken.

Mr. Short said that every segment of the educational spectrum had undergone profound change. Education was part of a continuing movement upward. At the end of World War I a grade 8 education was considered adequate to obtain a job. In the thirties it was Grade 10 and eventually nothing short of high school graduation.

Community colleges were helping to meet the educational needs of the day. They were doing so by involving the community in the educational process, by providing students — as in the case of St. Lawrence — with blanket memberships of the YM-YWCA, to take advantage of the special programs, and by helping students "sharpen their focus." Community colleges also aimed at instilling self-confidence in young people and helping them adapt to change.

Qualified people, said Mr. Short, were the key to profitability.

Canada, he noted, lagged 25 per cent in productivity behind the United States — mainly because of the differential in levels of education throughout the population.

"If we aspire to compete with other countries we must be prepared to match their educational progress," said Mr. Short, adding that in California 80 per cent of high school graduates went on to post-secondary education.

Labor Council Criticizes Paper

The Intelligencer was accused of discrimination last night because it refused an advertisement calling for a boycott of Proctor-Silex products.

The charge was among angered comments at a meeting of the Belleville and District Labor Council — sponsors of the advertisement.

Th reaction was spawned when president Ray Bradshaw reported the newspaper had turned down an advertisement, which listed brand names of all goods made by the strike-bound Picton manufacturer.

Although Mr. Bradshaw defended the newspaper's right to refuse advertising, his announcement evoked a flurry of irate comments from the general membership.

"We should all cancel our subscriptions to The Intelligencer," called one member.

"This is discrimination — and I hope the reporter here will make note of that, too. This is discrimination, claimed another.

"I believe they have every right to run their business as they see fit," claimed Mr. Bradshaw.

But, countered another protestor, The Intelligencer has "some kind of moral obligation. They're a public service.

"If we're paying for the advertisement, our advertisement should be accepted as well as any other business in the city of Belleville."

Later, the meeting decided to have the boycott plea printed as pamphlets and distributed throughout the city and district.

Really Cold In North

Brrrrr . . . k was cold!

That was the reaction this morning even in Belleville where the mercury registered 24 even here.

But it was a vastly different story in North Hastings.

In Dungannon township just south of Bancroft, Hastings county Warden Calvin White said the thermometer registered a cool 36 below at 7 o'clock this morning — by far the coldest of the year.

And the Tweed forestry office reported official lows of 19 below at Bancroft; and 11 below at Bancroft; and 11 below at Tweed.

In fact it was a record low for the first half of December; the previous low for the district being 11 below, set in 1964.

Trenton Expects Hardy to Return

TRENTON — Just when Eric Hardy will be returning to Trenton no one seems to know.

The Toronto based consultant who filed the controversial Hardy Report, which was a made public on Nov. 18, is expected to return to aid in the implementation of some of the recommendations.

Councillor Duncan McDonald had stated previously "the report makes suggestions which will require the services of a consultant to be carried out."

He added that "with his knowledge of the town's background Mr. Hardy would be the natural choice."

And while the subject seems to be on the mind of council no date for a future meeting has been set.

According to clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry the whole subject of re-hiring Mr. Hardy and setting a date for a meeting is still under consideration and is undergoing study by council.

It was four months ago that Mr. Hardy was commissioned to make a preliminary economic survey of Trenton.

His recommendations created more public controversy than any other such report in the history of the municipality.

Trenton was accused of illegally bonusing industry to attract it to the town. Mr. Hardy stated that all the land under the town's jurisdiction was in need of a complete reassessment.

The report became one of the major issues in the recent municipal election.

Councillor Paul Tripp defended Trenton's industrial policy as did Mayor James MacDonald when he said that "we are in a competitive situation and must offer something to attract industry."

But in spite of this some councillors feel it is probable that Mr. Hardy will be hired by the town to aid in future guidance of his recommendations.

Scrutinize Grants Closer: Bradshaw

City council should scrutinize more closely its grants and gifts to community organizations, the Belleville and District Labor Council was told last night.

Ray Bradshaw, council president, said local organizations had received $72,000 in civic funds during the last two years.

"I feel a great deal of this money is not wisely given and much of it serves to duplicate funds from other sources," he said.

Among organizations and grants quoted by Mr. Bradshaw were:

Chamber of Commerce, $11,180; YMCA, $9,500; United Community Services, $20,000; Belleville Agricultural Society, $1,550.

More local organizations should be encouraged to engage in fund-raising campaigns, said Mr. Bradshaw.

The Chamber of Commerce is one group that "should show more initiative" in this respect.

"If they have a program they should be public-spirited enough to raise their own funds." he said. "And operate that program and not run to the public funds for support."

City To Expropriate Howell Riverside Lot

The case of the refused building permit for the Howell property in the Riverside Park area of Canniffon Road is to have a sequel.

Two months ago the city refused a permit for the construction of a two-family residence on the river side lot. The grounds for the refusal were that there is no water or sewer service.

But the owners claimed that under the zoning bylaw sewer service is not required for the area and the matter was taken to the Ontario Supreme Court which ordered the permit be issued.

A permit has now been issued and the owners are ready to start excavation next week.

But the city still wants the property for park development and has decided to expropriate.

The owner has already been given notice of the intention to expropriate and the city solicitor has been authorized to prepare the necessary bylaw for next Monday's meeting of council.

Response Excellent

TRENTON — Public response to aid a family that lost everything in a fire that levelled its home and took the lives of three children has been an over whelming success and the gifts are still coming in.

It was an early Sunday morning fire that razed the home of George Golloher and family and claimed the lives of three Golloher children, Terry 10, Kelly 5, and Denice 3.

The public responded to the call for assistance Monday and by today many charitable donations have reached the home of Percy Golloher, Brighton.

Funeral

MRS. EUGENE HARKINS

The funeral for Mrs. Violet Mae Harkins was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Monday afternoon.

Rev. Robert A. Crooks conducted the service in the chapel and also said the graveside prayers in Belleville Cemetery.

On Sunday evening the members of Bethlehem White Shrine of Jerusalem No. 11 held a memorial service in the Funeral Home. Ethel Kellar, Jean Stephenson, John Church and Gertrude Ellsworth took part in the ceremony.

The bearers were Gordon and Thomas Morrison, Richard Parm, Edward Turner, John Moore and Monty McCauley.

Clarke Named Chairman of New Board

Trustees of the Hastings County Board of Education elected James Clarke by acclamation as their chairman at the first board meeting last night in county council chambers.

Mr. Clarke is chairman of Bay of Quinte District High School Board and was chairman of the interim committee formed to aid the transition to larger units of administration.

Raymond Rowe of Frankford was elected vice-chairman, also by acclamation.

Mrs. Miriam Graham and Everett Fairman were nominated for the position of chairman, but both withdrew.

Mr. Clarke told the trustees and over 70 spectators that difficult times lie ahead, and "we have our work cut out for us for the next two years."

Roy Dulmage, secretary-treasurer of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, was appointed interim secretary of the new board.

The board appointed a temporary committee to advertise on a province-wide basis for a director of education.

Dec. 20 was set as the deadline for receipt of applications, and the board will meet as a committee of the whole to interview applicants.

Trustees decided to meet in an informal closed session Dec. 27 to discuss a list of priorities. Macdonald Smith, chairman of the Belleville Public School Board, passed out a 314-page "index for immediate action" he had prepared for the trustees' consideration. Debate on the list was deferred until the Dec. 27 meeting.

The 16 trustees were sworn in by Carl Bateman, Hastings County Clerk, and the invocation was given by Rev. Laurie Sutherland.

Clarke Rollins, MPP for Hastings; Dr. R. T. Potter, MPP for Quinte; Calvin White, Warden of Hastings County and Mayor J. Russell Scott of Belleville brought greetings to the new board.

Following the meeting, members of the county board and the separate school board, with spectators from both meetings, enjoyed a reception sponsored by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Robertson Vice-chairman

E. J. Buckley Heads Separate Trustees

E. J. Buckley was elected chairman of the combined counties separate school board at its first meeting last night in the county court room.

He is chairman of the present Belleville and district separate school board and of the interim separate school committee.

Mr. Buckley won the chairmanship in a secret ballot from Neil Robertson, Trenton, also nominated for the position.

Mr. Robertson was elected vice-chairman in a contest with Ben Kroose of Trenton, also decided by secret ballot.

Between 30 and 40 spectators watched Tyendinaga township clerk William J. Walsh swear in the 14 members of the new board. Following the meeting all joined the Hastings County board for a reception given by the county.

"We are one portion of a large team of staff, parents and children," Mr. Buckley told his fellow trustees. "In concert with these people we will work with them, and for them to continue the search we began long ago for excellence in education."

One of the trustees first acts was to change the name of their board to what Mr. Buckley called — "something" briefer and more descriptive" than District 48 Hastings. Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Separate School Board.

The new name, Quinte Highlands Separate School Board, was suggested by Farrell O'Neil, an interim committee member.

"As a result of the coming regional government, the area south of Highway 7 would become the Quinte region, so our name anticipates re-organization to some extent," said Mr. Buckley.

The board decided to retain the secretary-treasurers of present boards as transfer consultants for the spring term. A transition committee, composed to two members of all existing boards, was set up to act in an advisory capacity to the new board.

A temporary committee was appointed to take charge of school insurance and choice of banks and accounts for the new board was deferred until a later date.

The next meeting of the board was set for Jan. 8.

Rev. C. E. Baker of Stoco gave the invocation at the inaugural meeting and greetings were extended by Clarke Rollins, MPP for Hastings, Dr. R. T. Potter, MPP for Quinte, Calvin White, Warden of Hastings County and Mayor J. Russell Scott of Belleville.

The Winners

James Clarke, newly elected chairman of Hastings County Board of Education, and E. J. Buckley, elected chairman of Quinte Highlands Separate School Board, congratulate each other following the inaugural meetings of their respective boards at the county building last night.

Shortt Is Administrator Of Prince Edward Board

PICTON (Staff) — Out of the six applications for the position of administrator of the new Prince Edward County Board of Education it didn't take the 14-member newly elected body long last night to hire their man.

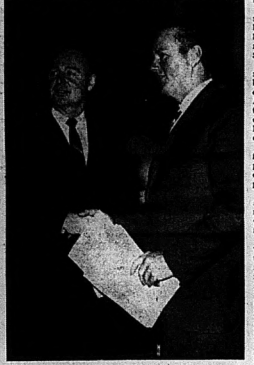
Ernest Shortt, the 50-year-old administrator at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, came highly recommended by those board members who knew and had worked with him. He was hired to fill the position.

Mr. Shortt has been administrator at PECI for almost three years.

His new position starts immediately although he will not be officially through at the high school until Jan. 31. His new salary will be $10,000 plus $2,000 expenses.

All of the applications were read to the board members by their chairman, who selected last night, Hutton Martin. After eliminating some of them, it was finally decided to call Mr. Shortt over from his home to discuss his qualifications.

A question was raised before Mr. Shortt's arrival that perhaps the advertisements calling for applicants had been placed in too small an area.



However, on meeting the new administrator, each board member when polled by the chairman said he was in favor of hiring him.

Mr. Shortt is credited with working out the budget system the school uses and board member James Plomer called it the "most efficient effective system we've ever had."

Besides his experience at PECI administrator, Mr. Shortt was promoted from a private to major in the army, worked in the Intelligence branch of the Income tax department in Ottawa, was with the RCMP and worked for the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

His new responsibilities will include all of the business in all of the schools in Prince Edward County.

Board member Ted Rutter was elected vice-chairman of the new county wide school board by the members as second in command to Chairman Hutton Martin.

New Faces-New Jobs

Ernest Shortt, hired as administrator for the new Prince Edward County Board of Education last night speaks to the newly elected chairman of the board, Hutton Martin. Mr. Shortt, formerly administrator at Picton High School, takes over his new duties on Jan. 1.

Florida Via Slides

The December meeting of Belleville Camera Club took members to far-flung centres of historical and scenic interest.

Past-president Ed Ineson teased with slide-projector and tape recorder with skill and imagination to produce a trip to Tampa and St. Petersburg, Florida. Club members were treated to underwater animal life and exotic plants in Busch Gardens, the sunken pavement of Tampa, and the aquarium at St. Petersburg beach.

Program director John Lewis conducted a colored slide tour of Upper Canada Villages and Hampshire, Sussex and Kent counties in England.

The club meets again Jan. 8 at 8 p.m. in the Kiwanis centre. New members of any age are welcome.

County Council

Voting Omissions Discussed

PICTON (Staff) — Both the town of Picton and its citizens must carry part of the responsibility for the fact "quite a few names were left off the Dec. 7 voting list."

The point was made at the last county council meeting of the year by the Reeve of Picton, Barney Hepburn.

He stated "many names were not on the voting list — they weren't even on the assessment rolls."

"And some of these people have been residents of Picton for two years and more — it's a pretty hard thing to swallow when you don't have a vote."

Although no one at yesterday's council meeting knew exactly how many names could have been on the voting list that were not, retiring Picton councillor Dr. Lionel Dockrill, who first brought the matter to public attention, said there were 400.

"There were some places in Picton where 100 names were left off the list," stated Allan Anderson. He was one of those who had to go to the clerk to get his name put on the list.

Although Mr. Hepburn stated "if the people had come to the clerk he could have put them on" the reeve also stated "if it had been done correctly they wouldn't have been left off."

"All I can say to Mr. Manley (S. G. Manley, county assessor) is that I hope he can improve his system," finished Mr. Hepburn.

Reeve George Cunningham of Ameliasburg said he felt some of the blame rested with the people themselves. "In all fairness some of the responsibility falls to the voter — he knows he could have voted."

Mr. Hepburn and other councillors agreed.

Mr. Hepburn said he felt that enumerating each citizen during the summer months before an election might be the answer.

"It's done in some communities now," he stated.

Other points of interest brought up at the council meeting yesterday were the old folks home, the Picton army camp and county unity.

George Cunningham, reeve of Ameliasburg said he hoped more could be done for the old people, especially those at the home for the aged.

"Since we spend millions on education for our young," Mr. Cunningham said he felt "it was time we did more for our old. He said he hoped something could be done before regional government came in.

Prince Edward County Warden Gordon Demorest, who is retiring from the municipal political stage, "for at least a few years," called for a more unified county effort in all areas. He said it would make county government and county progress much easier.

One regret the warden had was that no decision had been made in regard to the Picton Army Camp although there was much talk and many plans about the future of the armed forces in Picton.

He said he hoped a decision would finally be made that would be beneficial to both Picton and Prince Edward County.

'Somebody's Dragging Their Feet'

Missing ISOC Report Draws Criticism

By DONALD MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — The case of the missing ISOC report brought out some criticism and much discussion at the first meeting of the new countywide Prince Edward School Board last night.

Established by Bill 44 (new school act) to study schools, compile information and make recommendations to the new school boards, the Interim School Organization Committee of Prince Edward is one of the last in Ontario to do so.

"Somebody's been dragging their feet," said board member Douglas Cealey from Hallowell. "The report with its information should have been here tonight."

Mr. Cealey said that the information and report were necessary for the board to make decisions. He also stated that with the report, its data and the ISOC committees recommendations along with the new administrator, there would be no need of standing committees.

Four members of the new school board who met last night were on the ISOC committee established months ago to make a report. They are Reeve Clarence Harmon Montgomery, Ted Rutter and Lloyd Seeley.

Malcolm Dulmage, who ran for a position on the county board and lost, was chairman of the ISOC committee.

Mr. Cealey, in stating there should be no committees, said the board and its board members into groups, waste time and money for extra meetings and result in talking over for the second time what has been already discussed.

Nothing should be hidden from any member of the board he stated. "If it's important enough for a committee, then it's important enough for me to hear."

Opposition to Mr. Cealey's opinion came from numerous members of the new board.

Mr. Plomer said that committees were needed to dig out information and study specific questions. He was supported by board chairman Hutton Martin.

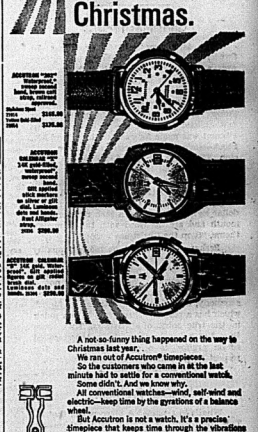
Mr. Cealey countered that the information should come from the ISOC report and the administrator, "we are a policy making body."

Mr. Cealey also said he felt all things should be discussed before all members of the board. Quoting a professor who had written on the subject of standing committees, Mr. Cealey said that committees tended to place power in the hands of a few and create the impression in some people that their only sphere of responsibility was in the area covered by their own committee.

"We are a 14-man committee," he finished.

It was decided by the board, however, to form temporary committees.

Mr. Cealey stated earlier in the evening that he had no objections to temporary committees formed for a specific purpose as long as they were dissolved immediately afterwards.



Mr. Montgomery brought up the question of "where is the ISOC report" and was told almost all of the information and recommendations briefs had gone to school inspector Hector Knight for compilation. He completed the report and will be submitted to the new board with recommendations to aid their decisions and will provide them with information on every aspect of every school in the county.

This will include salaries, transportation, facilities, space, financial and staff information.

Every second counts this Christmas.

We ran out of Accutron® timepieces.

So the customers who came in at the last minute had to settle for a conventional watch.

Some didn't. And we know why.

All conventional watches—wind, self-wind and electric—keep time by the gyrations of a balance wheel.

But Accutron is not a watch. It's a precise timepiece that keeps time through the vibrations of a tiny tuning fork. The tuning fork splits each second into 360 equal parts.

And keeps time so accurate, we guarantee monthly accuracy within 60 seconds!—which averages out to about 2 seconds a day.

Every second counts during December days. Because what happened last year could happen again.

So run in before we run out.

Vietnam Parley

Peace negotiations over Vietnam have as a main element the establishment of a coalition government once hostilities are over.

Would a coalition work? At best, that type of government is workable only in conditions of emergency, when people of differing political faiths manage for a time to put aside their partisan views for the common good. At worst, the party that is strongest quickly establishes a political hold over the population and the coalition breaks up.

This could be the danger in Vietnam where the communists all along have demonstrated political stability that a succession of South Vietnamese governments in Saigon have been unable to match.

Confirmation for such a viewpoint may be found in the statements of American military people who are close to both the fighting and the political situation.

Maj. Gen. Charles Stone, retiring commander of the U.S. 4th infantry division is an example. He said recently that while the communists still had plenty of fight, they can no longer win any major battle. The major task ahead was pacification.

He warned, however, that the basic structure of the Viet Cong must be uprooted before the U.S. effort in Vietnam is completed. "If we leave before this, we will have failed in the job we set out to do," said Gen. Stone, who is retiring after 31 years' service.

The general is right. The negotiations in the Vietnam peace talks thus far have been hard, but the United States for its part has no alternative. If the lives of young Americans and those of their allies that have been lost are to mean anything, if communist expansion in Asia is to be effectively halted, then a stable government that represents all the people of Vietnam, and not just one or other interest, must be established. As it is, an American "presence" will have to be maintained in Vietnam, as in Korea, for many years to come.

Christmas Protest!

Here is a new twist to Christmas. In Sweden — where the celebrations continue over a period of weeks — it is becoming a political pawn in the hands of the country's New Left.

They call themselves "Christmas action groups" and the target of their protest is the materialistic aspect of the festive season. An attempt was made for example to occupy NK, Stockholm's department store, and stop Christmas shopping. However, police were waiting and the occupation was a flop. Now, the demonstrators have another weapon: leaflets, which cover store windows and walls. They show Santa Claus unmasked, with dollar signs for eyes and a cash register for a mouth and are inscribed with the campaign theme, "Stop the Christmas terror."

Perhaps there might be more sympathy for such a demonstration if something more positive were offered in place of the so-called "Christmas terror." The Swedes are not a notably religious people, but they do have one ceremony, crowning of the "Queen of Light" which has a religious theme and is carried out in the true spirit of Christmas. This, more than the noises being made by the so-called action groups, is a custom worthy of the respect and attention of people everywhere.

Postal Problem

What's in a name? A place name, that is. This continent is dotted with interesting names — romantic-sounding spots like Albuquerque and Tucson in the American southwest, and in our own big northern land mass such names as Medicine Hat and Antigonish.

Belleville on the other hand may not be the most exciting of names, but it does enjoy some popularity. There is the town community of 33,000 right on the Bay of Quinte, and there are like-named cities in both Illinois and Michigan.

There may be other Belleville's but the one in Illinois accounted recently for some confusion in the mails. A Charles McAdam of Wedgewood Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan, wrote a letter to Oliver C. Joseph at 223 West Main Street, Belleville, Illinois. He mailed it in Detroit and where should it turn up but in Belleville, Ontario, and at the home of Ken Dickson of 223 West Moira Street.

Yes, these things do happen, when there are several places with the same name. Belleville, Illinois, incidentally, is across the Mississippi River from St. Louis, Missouri.

Ottawa Offbeat

Is A Franked Christmas Card Really Cricket?

By GREG CONNOLLEY

OTTAWA — The new postal rate increases will hit hard at most Canadians during the Christmas season but it won't mean a thing to some privileged citizens.

These are the parliamentarians at Ottawa who enjoy franking privileges and who can send out their Christmas cards free.

The cards went out free last year; they go gratis again this year but the hurt to ordinary Canadians is a little rougher with those postal rate hooks.

It is rather ironic that the House of Commons which debated postal increases could take a somewhat academic view of the proceedings.

No matter what happened the MPs weren't going to lose out.

Of course there are some MPs who don't use the frank for Christmas cards. The members from the big metropolitan centres like Montreal, Vancouver and Toronto find that the word gets around quickly about how they are sending out cards on the cheap.

However MPs from rural constituencies don't encounter this problem to much. They are more inclined to lavish use of the frank.

The post office on Parliament Hill handled about one million Christmas cards last year. Two thirds of these were sent out free under MPs franks.

The rest were from members who either felt it wasn't the right thing to do or that they might get some adverse publicity out of it.

The franking privilege was given to MPs to help them in their regular work as parliamentarians. It is recognized they have a great volume of correspondence and that they should have some assistance in this regard.

But many observers question whether the franking right should be extended to Christmas cards.

The despatch of Christmas cards in great numbers to supporters back in the constituency may be helpful politically but this hardly comes within the realm of legitimate public business.

Cabinet ministers of course, also have the right to send their Christmas cards through the mails for free. But it would be a new naive minister who followed this practice. He would be on page one of the newspapers in very short order.

The senators too have franking privileges but these ladies and gentlemen don't send out all that many Christmas cards. It seems that when you don't have to get re-elected, you are not all that keen on Christmas greetings.

Canadians now can send out their greeting cards for five cents if they are unsealed and they don't enclose more than five words of greeting. Otherwise, the tariff would be six cents.

The MPs of course do send more than five words of greeting and their envelopes are sealed. If they despatched another 750,000 cards this Christmas season under the frank, the government would be losing $45,000 in revenue.

Or putting it another way, taxpayers would be subsidizing their MP's Christmas mail by $45,000.

On top of that the members are supplied with House of Commons Christmas cards for free. Although, poor chaps, they have to pay for having the message printed on the card.

Many of the members are concerned about employing the frank for greeting cards. Some believe a decision should be made one way or the other that would apply to all MPs.

One man who has solved the problem in his own way is Alf Hales, a veteran Conservative from the Wellington, Ontario constituency.

Mr. Hales only uses the frank on Christmas cards sent to officials and fellow members in Ottawa. All other Christmas cards he mails — about 800 — are stamped in the regular way.

But as a practising politician Mr. Hales also sends out a Christmas letter to 25,000 homes in his constituency. He does this under bulk mailing at 24 cents per pound.

If you get a card from an MP this year take a look at the envelope and see if it is stamped or franked. As a taxpayer you can take more pleasure out of it, if a stamp was used.

International Currency Crisis

Patience Exhausted

Vancouver Sun

The signs are mounting that adult permissiveness to juvenile anarchy has just about run its course, that youth no longer is an acceptable defence for lawless campus conduct, and that the often desirable ends sought are in critical danger of being frustrated by the violent means employed.

Only the most ignorant or mischievous student radical, high on his own misused jargon, can misread this consensus.

The patience of the mature toward the immature who demand responsibility while demonstrating their irresponsibility is exhausted. The intelligent are fed up with the stupid, the competent with the incompetent, the proven with the unproven. The taxpayer is calling for a sit-down at the sit-in. The advocate of orderly change is, everywhere, backing off, distressed, disgusted, disgusted. For the most privileged youth that mankind has ever known, these are lonely days, and they will get lonelier.

Some Home Truths for the Campus Militant

Vancouver Sun

The question that must trouble the campus militant, if his awareness goes beyond his leaders' irrationality, is not where sympathy has flown, but why.

Why does a Jean Baez call university demonstrations "silly"? Why does a Jacques Barzan say that peer teaching is the only legitimate complaint of students? In ads open letter to "An Angry Young Man," in Look magazine, Leo Rosten tells why, and it is unlikely to be told any better.

Mr. Rosten— author, political scientist, editor, adviser to presidents, a university authority of enormous credentials — does not question that campus rioters are sincere.

"You are about as sincere as anyone can be," he agrees. "You are sincerely unhappy, sincerely frustrated and sincerely confused. You are also sincerely wrong about the few facts you cite and sincerely illogical in the violent conclusions you reach. Besides, what does 'sincerity' have to do with issues? Any insane asylum is full of sincere patients. Hitler was undoubtedly sincere. . ."

Has society failed the new generation?

"I say," writes Mr. Rosten, "that you are failing us — in failing to learn and respect discomforting facts: in failing to learn how to think (it is easier to complain); in using violence to shut down colleges: in shamefully denying the freedom of others to study and to teach; in barbarously slandering and abusing and shouting down those who disagree with you: in looting, stealing and defiling; in failing to see how much more complicated social problems are than you blandly assume; in acting out of an ignorance for which idealism is no excuse, and a hysteria for which youth is no defence. . ."

And Mr. Rosten is not without advice. Before trying to destroy a system, radicals might try proposing a better one. "Would you employ a plumber who rips out all the pipes in your house before he learned how to repair a leak?" he asks. ". . . would you trust your life to a surgeon. . . who never finished medical school?" Anyone, writes Mr. Rosten, can promise Utopia.

"You confuse rhetoric with reasoning," he concludes. "Assertions are not facts. Protest is no substitute for knowledge. Slogans are not solutions. Your idealism takes no brains. And when you dismiss our differences with contempt, you become contemptible."

Men May Choose the Car But Women Pick the Color

Montreal Star

At a recent seminar in Windsor, a spokesman for women graduates of universities lamented the fact it is difficult to make men realize the dangers of pollution from automobile exhaust. The answer may lie in marketing statistics. Man is addicted to his car. No matter how women may dominate other forms of purchasing, males in 75 per cent of cases make the basic decision to buy new cars.

Men are the ones who pore over glossy illustrations. They kick the tires and try to look knowledgeable about engines at this time of year in automobile showrooms. In 65 per cent of purchases men select the model but they yield to women when it comes to color. Women make 54 per cent of the decisions about color.

Men also drive more than women. Of the three million people interested in Ontario to drive cars, three-quarters are men. Dr. Ernest Dichter, the researcher on consumer motivation, says the most powerful tool for mastery which man has is the automobile. The car is a prestige stone in human life, and the first car stands out especially, in the owner's mind.

"To the average car owner, each motor trip symbolizes success," says Dr. Dichter. "The ability to start out, overcome obstacles and arrive safely at his destination gives the owner a feeling of successful achievement. Our lives are made up of these minor successes. Each trip represents dual accomplishment of car and driver." "If enjoy driving very much," said a respondent. "It is almost a pastime, a feeling of power; it gives me a sense of freedom, a sense of accomplishment."

If Dr. Dichter is right, then the problem of prying man away from his car in the interests of better environment may indeed be an almost hopeless cause.

Pollution Control Will Create Jobs for 100,000

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Tens of thousands of men and women are working at jobs that didn't exist, in industries that were unheard of, making products that were unknown 10, 20 or 30 years ago. The electronics, computer and space fields are prime examples.

There is no reason to believe that tens of thousands will not be working at jobs a few years from now that do not exist today, although no one can predict what they might be.

We do, however, have some good ideas about what fields will expand tremendously in the near future.

High school and college career counsellors attending a recent panel discussion in Chicago, sponsored by the Water and Wastewater Equipment Manufacturers Association were told that "the best of tomorrow's brains will be needed in the water-supply and pollution-control industries if the nation's economic life is going to survive, let alone grow."

The U.S. Government Water Pollution Control Administration estimates that some 111,000 more professionals, technicians and operators will be needed in the next five years in water pollution control in the United States alone.

Cost Is Problem

Lack of Adequate Teachers Major Obstacle to Bilingualism

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The cost of increased bilingual teaching and the lack of adequate teachers have been cited as major obstacles to enactment of recommendations outlined Monday in the second report of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism.

Although Ontario Education Minister William Davis declined to comment until he had examined the report, spokesmen close to the government said the province will welcome the suggestion that Ottawa be responsible for extra costs of educating minority language groups.

Ying Hope, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto school board, said the commission's recommendations were premature in view of the board's existing priorities and of the countless millions of dollars that it would cost.

But Very Rev. P. H. Johnson, chairman of the city's separate school board, said "we haven't found cost to be a deterrent so far, and I don't suppose it will be. . . ."

Phillip Lamoureux, associate director of curricula for the Alberta education department, and Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said increases in French-language instruction would add to the shortage of qualified teachers.

This opinion was echoed in Vancouver by Sadie Boyles, in charge of training French teachers at University of British Columbia.

The problem couldn't be solved by importing French teachers from Quebec because that province also is short of qualified teachers in many subjects, she said.

Dr. Lawrence Bongie, head of UBC's French department, agreed French instruction in Grade 1 is a desirable goal. But it was impractical now because of the teacher shortage. He suggested starting with higher grades and working down.

French instruction begins at Grade 8 in most B.C. schools.

In Ottawa, Davidson Dunton, president of Carleton University and co-chairman on the royal commission, said extra costs involved in providing minority schools would be "marginal". The children going to them would need education facilities and services anyway, he said.

The report, tabled in Ottawa Monday, suggested all Canadian children be required to study French in school, starting at the earliest possible age.

It also proposed establishing a complete public school system covering primary and secondary schools for large French-speaking minorities in non-French provinces.

The report specifically recommended minority schools be set up in areas designated as bilingual districts and "that the minority groups' mother tongue be the normal language of instruction in the schools.

Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand refused to comment on the report before reading it. But before it had been tabled, he announced a royal commission would explore into the situation of the French language as working language in Quebec."

Mr. Bertrand said the Quebec commission, to report in 12 months, will recommend measures to guarantee "the linguistic rights of the majority as well as the protection of rights of the minority" and "full development and use of the French language in all sectors of activity in Quebec. . ."

New Brunswick Premier Louis Robichaud said he believed the report would be accepted by the majority "provided it is voluntary."

He said that the province already has taken steps to adopt recommendations of the commission's first report and that more legislation probably will be introduced during the spring legislature session.

Ashland Savoie, president of the University of Moncton, said that university officials would co-operate with federal officials on a proposal to make the Moncton Teachers' College a training centre for French teachers in the Atlantic Provinces.

Dr. Harold Nason, Nova Scotia's deputy minister of education, said the department is preparing to introduce a pilot project of bilingual education but is waiting for official designation of bilingual districts from Ottawa.

Adelard Savoie, president of the University of Moncton, said that university officials would co-operate with federal officials on a proposal to make the Moncton Teachers' College a training centre for French teachers in the Atlantic Provinces.

Dr. Harold Nason, Nova Scotia's deputy minister of education, said the department is preparing to introduce a pilot project of bilingual education but is waiting for official designation of bilingual districts from Ottawa.

His said that present legislation leaves the decision of choosing the language of instruction up to the individual school boards.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island both have passed legislation making French and English official working languages of the provincial assemblies.

Meanwhile, Alberta Premier Ernest Manning said he prefers legislation such as that passed in the province earlier this year which permits use of French as a language of instruction for up to 50 per cent of the class day if a school board requests it.

Roger Matte, president of the French-Canadian Association of Alberta, said the report "leaves no indication that the general needs of the French-speaking population of the province will be satisfied.

Premier Bennett said he approved extended teaching of French, but would not support which, if any, of the recommendations his government would try to implement.

Education Minister Donald Brothers said an experiment in the French-speaking community of Maillardville, near Vancouver, in which French was introduced in kindergarten and Grades 1 to 3, will be assessed in several years to see if it should be extended to other grades.

In Saskatchewan, certain schools may give 75 per cent of their instruction in French to Grade 1 students, decreasing proportionately until Grades 10 to 12 where there is a 40 per cent ceiling on French language instruction.

Manitoba students may be taught in French for up to half the school day. The legislation was passed in 1965, ending a 50-year ban on French instruction in the province.

Ottawa Is Urged to Help Foot Bilingual Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government was told Monday it will have to play a bigger role in the financing of education to ensure equal opportunities for French-speaking children outside Quebec.

The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism recommends in its second report, tabled in the Commons Monday, that Ottawa take the unprecedented step of subsidizing certain public schools.

These public minority schools should be set up in bilingual districts to enable children to be educated in either of the country's official languages all-the way from kindergarten to the end of the high school, the commission says.

This proposal, if accepted, would mean a system of French-speaking schools in every district in the English-speaking provinces where French-speaking people account for at least 10 per cent of the total population.

In Quebec, the English-speaking minority has had its own schools since Confederation.

The broadest recommendation in the commission's second report is that all children in Canadian schools be required to study the second official language.

This instruction would, in most cases, be insufficient or inadequate to make the child fully bilingual but, if he wanted or needed to be bilingual as an adult, he would have a foundation on which to build.

Nearly all of the 46 recommendations in the report could be implemented only by the provinces, which have exclusive authority over education.

However, the commission says the federal government shares the objective of a suitable education for children in the minority language group, and "has special reasons for having this education provided as soon as possible."

While the basic costs of education must remain a provincial responsibility, "it is reasonable to expect that the federal government should reimburse the provincial government for the extra costs involved" in providing minority schools.

The commission proposes that Ottawa pay grants to each province based on the number of students attending minority schools, and that the grant be 10 per cent of the average cost of educating a child in the province concerned.

No federal intervention is involved, the commission insists.

"There will be no supervision of provincial education by federal authorities," it says. "It will be no strings attached to the grant received by provincial governments."

The commission's second report follows by almost exactly a year the first report, which dealt with the Canadian language situation in general and proposed the creation of bilingual districts. There now is legislation before Parliament to create these districts.

Co-chairmen of the 10-member commission are Davidson Dunton, 56, president of Carleton University, Ottawa and Jean-Louis Gagnon 52, Montreal journalist and broadcaster. Mr. Gagnon, a member of the commission since its inception in 1963, succeeded the late Andre Laurendeau, former editor of the Montreal daily newspaper Le Devoir, as co-chairman this year.

The federal government is also advised to provide financial assistance for teacher-training institutions for the minority schools.

The commission insists that teachers for the minority schools need to be trained in separate institutions from the majority school teachers in order to have the right cultural and language environment.

But the teachers in minority schools should have the same academic qualifications as those in the majority schools, the commission says.

It is proposed that the Moncton Teachers' College train all teachers needed for French-speaking schools in the Atlantic provinces, and that a similar institution be established in Western Canada. The necessary facilities already exist to provide teachers for the English-speaking minority in Quebec and the French-speaking minority in Ontario.

On the broader question of bilingual opportunities for all children in all schools, the commission finds it impossible to recommend a uniform age for beginning exposure to the second language.

"Because of the different linguistic milieux, the lack of teachers, and the need to develop programs, it is not possible to make a specific recommendation at this time. None the less, the desirability of an early beginning must be stressed."

But the commission recommends, "as a desirable objective," the introduction of French in Grade 1 in English-speaking schools and of English in Grade 3 in French-speaking schools.

It says the provinces should gradually lower the beginning ages for their second-language programs until they reach the proposed levels.

The reason for suggesting an earlier introduction of French in English schools, the Mr. Gagnon told a news conference, is that French-speaking children have a greater opportunity to learn English in the general North American environment that the English have to learn French.

Let's Take Off Gloves

Woman's Association Suggested to 'Keep Eye' On Council

Formation of a women's electors' association with members attending city council meetings to observe how council handles the people's business was recommended at last night's meeting of the Belleville Women's Progressive Conservative Association.

Advocate of the electors' association was Mrs. Dorothy Howell, past president of the local women's political organization, who said she, for one, was not happy with many facets of city council and the manner in which it deals with the people's business and spends their money.

Such a women's electors' association should take in all interested women in the community regardless of their political affiliations, Mrs. Howell said.

"It is well known that women's strength should not be under-estimated," Mrs. Howell said. "I think it is about time that women took off their gloves to elect the best possible aldermen — whether male or female.

"We must take a good hard look at candidates because in 1969 they will be there for three whole years."

Mrs. Howell in her talk to association members made a strong exception to the remarks of Ald. Robin Jeffrey a few weeks ago when at a Women's Liberal Association meeting she accused women of lack of involvement in political affairs.

Ald. Jeffrey said that women were not willing to become involved if it changed their routine of life and that women are not deeply concerned with all facets that make up our society.

Mrs. Howell claimed that the alderman's remarks did not apply to the Belleville PC Women's Association, members of which she said had been a strong political and community force for many years.

"We are well aware that politics is not a dirty business, because it is through politics that we ensure our programs for health, welfare, education, pensions, roads, the arts, and grants for the recreation of young and old."

However, Mrs. Howell felt it took a "special kind" of woman to be a political candidate or a member of parliament.

"A woman has to have a much thicker hide than a man to be in the political kitchen and there are not many who can stand the heat of that kitchen."

"There are very few women like our Jean Wadds or Senator Josie Quart. . ."

She quoted Senator Quart in saying that women can get a lot further with promoting their aims and objectives and fielding candidates with the use of honey rather than vinegar.

"The prime prerequisite in the political arena is first of all to choose the best candidate — and we in this area have been selective and successful in choosing dedicated candidates — and then our association can be a force in having good communications with our elected representatives to pass along the will and the needs of the people of the community."

Last night's association meeting attended by approximately 75 members, was the annual Christmas dinner party.

At the meeting approximately 150 dolls, dressed by members as their community Yuletide project, were turned over to Fire Chief Ted Poste for distribution to the city's needy children.

Expressing appreciation for the dolls, Chief Poste said that firemen now distribute more than 1,000 Christmas parcels each year.

"We could never do it without the co-operation of the Progressive Conservative women, the Kiwanis club and generous minded citizens," he said.
